Major Watt was introduced by Rt. Wor. Bro. Morgan Brown.

Old Books At Church Sold For $21,280

LONDON, March 30—(Reuters)—Books which gathered the dust of years stored over the porch of a village church were sold Thursday for £7,600 ($21,280) at a London auction.

Everyone in the village of Shipdham (population 1,272) knew the books were in the cache above the church porch, but no one wanted to read them. They were too old.

But they were collectors' items, including such rare examples of early English printing as "a true discourse of the present estate of Virginia till the 18 of June, 1614," written by R. Mamor, secretary of the Virginia colony, and telling the story of Princess Pocahontas' marriage to an Englishman.

There were also rare first editions of Milton and a book anticipating a journey to the moon, published in 1684.

The money from the sale will be used for church repairs and to buy some more—but modern — books for the church library.

Oshawa Central Beats Regiopolis

KINGSTON, March 30 (CP)—Oshawa Central became the first finalist to enter B section in the first day of the high school basketball three-day tournament here Thursday night, defeating Kingston's Regiopolis College 63-51.

Kingston Collegiate entered a section finals with a 58-24 victory over Ottawa Nepeans. The Nepeans earlier in the day defeated Belleville Collegiate 37-35 and Kingston downed Niagara Falls 51-45.

In B section play Thursday Kingston Regiopolis defeated Ottawa School of Commerce 27-23 and Oshawa edged Renfrew 61-60.

In C section Port Hope defeated Almonte 38-34 in a scrambly game. Prescott pasted Picton 30-21. Albert College scored an easy 41-22 victory over Athens and Oshawa Central edged Brockville 33-22.

Regiopolis College almost blew their first game in section B before going ahead to a 27-23 victory over Ottawa School of Commerce.

In the Oshawa Renfrew game, Mozewski, Oshawa forward, scored 34 points, highest individual score so far in the tournament. Mozewsky also scored the winning field goal.

In the Kingston-Niagara Falls game two Kingston players were ejected for five personal fouls and two others had four fouls called against them.

40 Scouts Take Leaders' Course

Forty scouts from Bancroft, Bridgenorth, Buckhorn, Lakefield, Paudash Lake and Peterborough attended a day-and-a-half patrol leaders' course at St. John's Anglican Church Thursday and today. Directed by Fred Ford, local assistant district commissioner, and Arthur Jackson of Trenton, field commissioner, the boys were taught methods of instruction.

On Thursday night the course opened with a lecture on methods of conducting patrol and troop meetings. After a demonstration of instruction and games, the group held a camp-fire which consisted of a sing-song and a story. Mr. Jackson spoke on civil defence, emphasizing the need of scout training.

Today the morning sessions included lectures on signalling, on the relation between the patrol and troop, and how to estimate distances, thicknesses and depths. A demonstration of the court of honor was held showing how all the troop activities are discussed.

The Rev. Walter Gilling of St. Luke's Anglican Church addressed the scouts during the afternoon on the scout law and promise. Classes were held previously on the compass and week-end camping. The last lesson was on the boy scout and the church.

A banquet will close the course this evening.

Lower Volume Of Traffic In 1950 On CPR

MONTREAL, March 30—(CP)—W. A. Mather, president of the Canadian Pacific Railways Company, today reported a lower volume of traffic last year than in 1949 but highest net earnings since 1944.

In his report prepared for the annual meeting May 2, Mr. Mather said net income for dividends and surplus was $44,000,000 against $26,000,000 in 1949. This was $3.32 a share against $1.93.

Higher earnings resulted from higher freight rates. These partly corrected the "serious" difference in increase of rates and costs which developed progressively since 1945.

If wages and material costs had not risen after the freight increase granted by the Board of Transport Commissioners the increase would have given earnings "on the so-called requirements basis laid down by the board," he said.

The company sought further relief from these increases by applying for an immediate five-percent increase with certain exceptions and restrictions.

Gross Earnings Up

Gross earnings were $378,576,688, up $15,000,000 over 1949. Freight revenue accounted for about $14,000,000 of this, entirely from higher freight rates.

Freight tonnage dropped 2,500,000tons to 53,900,000, mostly early in the year. In the latter half, except in August when the strike occurred, almost every commodity increased.

Net earnings totalled $38,020,357 an increase in the ratio of net to gross earnings from 5.7 per cent to 10 per cent.

Working expenses were $341,000,000, down $2,000,000. Maintenance dropped about $5,900,000 split almost equally between the maintenance of way and structures and maintenance of equipment.

Net income was $47,867,011 after fixed charges but before dividends. "Other income" totalled $23,200,000, down $400,000.

Ocean and coastal steamships earned $3,100,000 up $862,000, partly helped by the return of the Atlantic Fleet flagship Empress of Scotland.

Increased operating costs and lower revenues at all resort and most city hotels caused a drop of $738,000 in earnings.

Communications boosted net earnings by $365,000, mostly from higher commercial telegraph rates and greater volume of traffic.

Canadian Pacific Airlines showed a profit of $203,000 against 1949's net loss of $113,000. Gross revenues from operations in Canada were up 9.9 per cent.

Dollar Advances

MONTREAL, March 30—(CP)—The American dollar today opened at 4 31-32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, up 1-32 from Thursday's close. That is, it took $1.04 31-32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.94, up 3-16.

STILL GROWING

Ontario's population reached 4,512,000 in 1950, an increase of nearly 13 per cent in five years.

Judy Holliday and Ferrer Academy Award Winners

HOLLYWOOD, March 30 (AP)—Judy Holliday, the junk dealer's squeaky-voiced babe in "Born Yesterday," won the Academy Award Thursday night from two veteran actresses, Gloria Swanson and Bette Davis.

Jose Ferrer was given the top male Oscar for his swaggering performance as the benosed "Cyrano de Bergerac." For the first time in the history of the motion picture academy, neither winner was present. Both Miss Holliday and Ferrer are in New York.

Statuettes for the best supporting roles in 1950 were bestowed on Josephine Hull, the fluttering sister in "Harvey," and George Sanders, acid-tongued critic of "All About Eve."

"All About Eve" captured honors for the best film of 1950, winning five other awards as well. Its writer-director, Joseph L. Mankiewicz, walked off the platform with two Oscars, duplicating his feat of last year with "A Letter to Three Wives."

Stunning Victory

It was a stunning victory for Miss Holliday. In her second important picture, the shapley New Yorker captured the honors away from the highly-touted performances of Miss Swanson in "Sunset Boulevard" and Miss Davis in "All About Eve."

Ferrer, another newcomer to films, spoke his acceptance from a New York party: "This means more to me than an honor to an actor. I consider it a vote of confidence and an act of faith, and believe me, I'll not let you down."

Ferrer had thrown the party and invited both Miss Holliday and Miss Swanson.

Miss Holliday broke into sobs and could only say: "I'm beside myself with excitement."

For Miss Hull, it was the climax of a theatrical career that began in 1902. The 66-year-old actress won the warmest applause from the 2,800 spectators at the Pantages Theatre.

Moved To Tears

Sanders, usually stoical, was moved to tears by his award. He made no acceptance speech, merely grabbing his Oscar and rushing off stage.

There were other notable highlights:

Darry F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox's executive producer, won the Irving Thalberg Memorial Award for outstanding movie achievement for the third time—more than any other individual.

And Gordon Hollingshead, Warner Bros. shorts producer, won his 12th Oscar since the derby was inaugurated, for his one-reel short, "Grandad of Races."

Other awards:

Foreign-language film — "The Walls of Malapaga," Alfredo Guarini, producer (Italy).

Special—Actor George Murphy, for travelling 35,000 miles as a goodwill ambassador for the industry last year.

Special—Louis B. Mayer, seven times president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, for more than 35 years of outstanding contribution to the industry.

Scoring of a musical picture—"Annie Get Your Gun," Adolph Deutsch and Roger Edens.

Best music score — "Sunset Boulevard," Franz Waxman.

Best song — "Mona Liso," by Mack David, Al Hoffman, and Jerry Livingston, from "Captain Carey, USA."

Five Cars Derailed On Express

Passengers Shaken Up As Montreal Train Runs Into Trouble

ARLINGTON, Vt., March 31. (CP)—Five passenger cars of a Montreal-bound Rutland Railroad Express left a rain-washed track south of here early today, and one woman was injured.

An estimated 40 other passengers on the Troy-Montreal sleeper were severely shaken up, according to Frank Hall, proprietor of a diner at the scene.

The injured woman was not identified immediately. Her injuries were reported not severe.

At Rutland, Vt., a railroad official said the train is known as the Mt. Royal—and that is the train aboard which Mrs. Freda Linton Alexander, former National Film Board secretary who figured in Canada's Russian spy probe, left New York Friday night.

Mrs. Alexander, and her 21 month-old daughter, Deborah, were being deported from the United States. The 35-year-old Canadian is being deported for falsely claiming United States citizenship and concealing her former membership in the Communist party.

Plough Into Mud

The sleeper, along with two others, which Mrs. Linton boarded in New York were scheduled to be attached to the Rutland train at Troy. The wreck occurred about two hours after the train left that point.

The cars ploughed through the mud beside the track, and the marshy land was believed to have prevented more serious results. Two cars tipped almost over. The other three remained upright. Only the engine and the baggage car stayed on the track.

Clayton Hulett, station agent at Arlington, said he understood that the track had begun to sink in the marsh, and as the train started over it a coupling broke.

Barnes Park Wins

LINCOLN, England, March 31. (Reuters)—Barnes Park today won the Lincolnshire handicap, first big race of the English flat-racing season. Newton Heath was second with Streatley third over the one-mile course. The first three were all outsiders at 33 to 1, 40 to 1 and 66 to 1 respectively. The French favorite, Astromonte, owned by the Comte De Chambure, never challenged.

Say Anti-Reds Parachuted Into Albania

BELGRADE, March 31—(AP)—Marshal Tito's official Yugoslav newspaper, Borba, reported today that armed groups of anti-Communist Albanians from Italy are being parachuted into their Russian-dominated homeland and are fighting there.

An article in Borba by Tito's former information minister, Vladimir Dedijer, said that Albanian opponents of the present regime in Tirana, "by enjoying Italian hospitality," have been dropping leaflets denouncing the government from airplanes over Albania during the last month.

The article said:

"These planes were met by anti-aircraft guns and government police did not allow citizens to go out of their houses until all leaflets were collected. Armed groups are being parachuted into Albania and they are fighting there."

Doesn't Give Source

Dedijer did not disclose the source of his information, nor did he say what type of planes or of what nationality were being used to drop leaflets or parachute troops.

Dedijer attacked the "reactionary emigrants" from Albania now living in Italy.

He said "The government of the USSR would welcome with open hands the mad desires of the Albanian feudalists and other hothead" for a war.

"An attack on Albania would be for the USSR a God-sent opportunity as an excuse for Soviet aggressive policy on a broad front, particularly when one bears in mind how much the USSR has lost of its prestige as a peace-loving country from the time the government of the USSR started to conduct an aggressive policy toward Yugoslavia."

U.S. Tanks Make Raid Across 38th

Two Columns Stage Daring Drive To Hamper Chinese

TOKYO, March 31. (AP) — Two American tank columns stabbed across the Communist Korean border today in a daring challenge to a Chinese offensive buildup.

One column struck across the 38th Parallel north of Uijongbu on the Western front and then pulled back before dusk.

The other thrust into the Redlands north of the Chungpyong reservoir on the Central front.

Both ran into fire fights.

The armed force north of Uijongbu fought off a red anti-tank gun, mortar and hand grenade attack. It stayed 3½ hours in Red territory.

The initial thrust carried half a mile inside the Communist north on the main road out of captured Uijongbu, north of Seoul.

It is an extension of the leap-frog gain Allied forces made a week ago with a drop of parachute forces who quickly enveloped Uijongbu and pushed on toward 38 against stiffening resistance.

Under the terms laid down by U.S. Defence Secretary Marshall earlie this week, the tank thrust into Communist Korea must be a tactical effort and not the opening wedge of a full fledged offensive.

7 Miles From 38th

(Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, reported Friday the Canadian troops advanced another 2½ miles to a position seven miles south of 38.)

The first American tank whipped across the old border between North and South Korea at 10:21 a.m. (8:21 p.m. EST Friday), heading toward the Hantan River.

For their part, the Reds slashed back Friday on a front about 40 miles east of where the U.S. tanks crossed 38 and today were holding positions a mile short of Chunchon. That town, now in American hands, is regarded as a logical jump-off point for an offensive by either side.

The Reds showed more muscle in the air and on the ground as portents of a spring drive they are reported mounting in unprecedented force.

In the air Friday, 80 American jets and Russian-made MIG-15 jets tangled in what was described as history's biggest jet battle. It was just south of the Yalu River border of Manchuria.

Urges Co-operation In Slashing High Defence Cost

NEW YORK, March 31. (CP)—The Canadian Government Friday night placed before the US public a major four-point program for even greater defence co-operation, including a "frontal attack" on the staggering costs of the tools of war. It included the St. Lawrence Seaway, a lot more US war orders for Canada and a campaign to sell democratic aims to the world. Defence Minister Claxton, in explaining it, said defence equipment costs now are so enormous that the western powers can't get "what we know we need without going on an all-out war economy." In a speech at a dinner given in his honor, he didn't suggest that the two countries go on an all-out war economy. But he did call on the US to join Canada in a drive to slash equipment costs to make more effective the partial mobilization now functioning in both countries.

Mr. Claxton has spoken frequently in the past of the enormity of equipment costs. One fighter plane, for instance, can cost $500,000. His words Friday night, however, were placed in a more sombre and far-reaching perspective than ever before.

He said Canadian-U.S. defence co-operation has gone far. There was complete agreement "on doctrine, planes and preparations for the joint defence of North America." Overall co-ordination was unsurpassed elsewhere. But it should go further and this was the way Canada felt it should go:

1. The St. Lawrence waterways development "should be proceeded with as an urgently needed defence measure." All Canada, he said, now knows it "is urgently needed."

2. Canadian hopes for further industrial defence co-operation, a statement he coupled with prodding for more U.S. war orders in Canada. He said the U.S. has been lagging far behind Canada in reciprocal placing of such orders.

3. "The armed forces and industry combined must make a frontal attack on the cost of defence equipment. This has become so costly that neither we nor our

Serious Floods In Quebec And Prairies

By The Canadian Press.

The RCAF today will drop 4,000 pounds of explosive on an ice jam in the South Saskatchewan River, one of many on a spring rampage across Canada.

The aerial assault on a massive ice jam on the river is designed to ease floods threatening the 16,000 residents of Medicine Hat.

Ice and water has been piling up behind the jam, situated five miles east of the city, since Thursday. RCAF Mustang fighters from Rivers, Man., dropped 500-pounders on the jam Friday without success. One 1,000-pound bomb is scheduled to be used today.

Quebec and Ontario also reported flood conditions as the spring runoff and steady rain sent rivers and creeks spilling over their banks.

Village Flooded

At Chateauguay, Que., the ice-choked Chateauguay river went on a rampage Friday, flooding most of the buildings in the village of 700 residents situated 20 miles southwest of Montreal.

Some villagers were evacuated to higher ground, from their water-front homes, accessible only by boat. Some low-lying buildings were inundated to the second floor.

The flood is said by old-timers to be the worst in memory. Power and communication lines were hampered.

Other towns and cities in the St. Lawrence river valley are worried about a possible recurrence of the recent floods which hit Longeuil, across the river from Montreal.

Fed by an all-day rain Friday and by melting snows, rivers across Ontario are rising, causing minor floods in some areas and threatening others.

The Hall's flat district at Brampton, 20 miles west of Toronto, is one of the hardest hit. Water today covered the flats to a depth of three feet. Flooding also was reported at Highland Creek and Pickering, about 20 miles east of Toronto.

Nova Scotia Calls Election For April 26

CHARLOTTETOWN, March 31 (CP)—Premier J. Walter Jones of Prince Edward Island today announced a provincial general election would be held April 26.

When the Legislature prorogued Friday, there was no word on the possibility of a general election which had been widely suggested when the session opened several weeks ago.

The announcement was made today by Premier Jones whose party was returned to power in the last general election Dec. 11, 1947. He had 24 supporters in the 30-seat House. The remaining seats were held by Progressive Conservatives under a new party leader—R. R. Bell.

The makeup of the PEI Legislature is unique in Canada. Fifteen members are elected as councillors and 15 as assemblymen. Each electoral district in the province has two representatives — a councillor and an assemblyman. A property holder can vote for both but a non-property holder can only vote for the assemblyman candidates.

Political sources described today's announcement as "a snap election" and noted the unusually short notice between announcement and election—26 days.

The legislature prorogued Friday on a controversial note with the passing of legislation giving municipalities power to impose rent control.

Truck Hits Tree Driver Killed

MADOC, March 31 — Clayton Short, 25, of RR 1, Severn River, was instantly killed Friday when a gravel truck he was driving crashed into a tree on Highway No. 62 at Eldorado.

The truck was loaded with gravel. Short was driving north, when he lost control and crashed off the side of the road. His body was pinned in the cab, and it took an hour before it could be pried from the wreckage.

Parts of the truck, and some of the gravel were precipitated against the home of Charles McCann, about 10 feet away, causing extensive damage.

The truck was totally wrecked.

Short, an employee of Ellin's Construction Co., was a member of a gang working near Eldorado. He was to have been married this fall. Cpl. Jack Hatch and Cons. W. H. Gould of the OPP investigated.

Legislature Committee Named For Crime Inquiry

TORONTO, March 31. (CP)—The Ontario Legislature's crime-law investigation committee was drawn up and given its marching orders Friday by Attorney-General Porter, committee chairman. Mr. Porter made a few changes in the original orders announced on Tuesday. An inquiry into the operation of provincial penal laws was added to the agenda, together with investigation of criminal court and police force operation.

But its main purpose is still to devise means to combat large-scale gambling, prevent a "beachhead" of big gambing syndicates from the United States, and reach a working agreement with Federal officials on control of communications facilities "in which one does not give the crooks all the leeway" in transmitting racing and other gambling information.

Committee membership represents varied interests. There will be three lawyers—Mr. Porter, CCF Leader E. B. Jolliffe, and W. J. Grumett (CCF-Cochrane North). Two farmers—C. E. Janes (PC-Lambton Eeast) and O. F. Villeneuve (PC-Glengarry)—are members.

Others are an Anglican clergyman A. W. Downer (PC-Dufferin-Simcoe and a coal dealer and former mayor, William Houck (L-Niagara Falls).

Haven't Set Date

Date of their first meeting, after the session ends, has not yet been set. The committee will have broad powers to summon witnesses and documentary evidence, and can hold witnesses in contempt of court if they give false answers.

The legislature on Monday begins what is scheduled to be the last few days of the present session. Prorogation is expected to come Thursday, and possibly Wednesday.

Main items of business remaining—all of them scheduled to come up Monday—are the budget debate, the government's last list of estimates—for the lands and forest department, and two important bills—rent control and amendments to the election laws.

It is expected nearly all of the house business will be cleared away by Wednesday, with Thursday left for closing formalities—including Royal assent by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson to bills passed this session.

The legislature, in a brief afternoon sitting, dealt with the hospitals tax on amusements.

The committee of the whole approved the bill, which Mr. Frost said would levy a tax on all liquor lounge entertainment apart from background music. The tax, which also applies to theatres and sports admissions, will be reduced from 15 to 12½ per cent.

The premier said the present bill clarifies what entertainment in liquor lounges shall be taxed, by a levy on drinks and food sold.

Paris Strikes Break Out Anew

PARIS, March 31 (AP)—The Paris subway and bus strike went on today after new disagreement on a wage raise.

Strike leaders talked with Premier Henri Queuille Friday night and said then they would issue a back-to-work order.

This morning, however, the strike committee, which includes representatives of both Communist and non-Communist unions, said there were new disagreements. They promised the strikers "would continue to fight."

The strike has been going on for two weeks. An estimated 25,000 to 30,000 strikers are still out. Authorities claimed, however, that about one-third of the normal subway schedule is running and that about half of today's normal traffic would be carried.

Union leaders agreed on general terms of a settlement in talks with the premier. It called for increases from $6.50 to $9.40 in a basic monthly pay of from $51 to $76.

5 Weeks Of War Then Sent Home

VANCOUVER, March 31 (CP)—Pte. Tom Downie, "deported—sort of" from the Korean war, returned to Canada Friday to wait until he's of regulation age to shoulder a gun in battle.

The 18-year-old Winnipeg youth arrived by air along with nine Korean war injured.

"No, I'm not wounded," he told reporters. "I'm being deported—sort of."

Tom was in the front line for five weeks as part of a Bren gun crew until his regimental sergeant major informed him army headquarters had heard he was under age.

"They pulled me out of the line right then—six days ago—and told me I'd have to wait in Canada until I reach 19, legal combat age."

The big day—his 19th birthday—comes June 21 and Tom added: "You can bet all your money I'll get back in the line just as soon as they'll let me."

Both women live in nearby Coniston. Their husbands were passengers in the bus which was in a collision with a CPR Transcontinental passenger train. In addition to the nine killed, 30 persons were injured in the crash.

In their joint action, the women claim negligence by the defendants.

"McDonald is a brother of Mickey McDonald," Detective Jack Muir said tonight.

Police said a fourth man is still sought.

Big 4 Try To Settle Difficulties At Lunch

American delegate Philip Jessup was host to Ernest Davies of Britain, Alexandre Parobi of France, and Andrei Gromyko of Russia.

The lunch was held at the Paris apartment of Charles Bohlen, former American minister in Paris and "stand in" for Jessup at the deputies' conference.

Russia sprang a fresh surprise on the conference Friday by calling for discussion by the Big Four Foreign Ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and Western rearmament and the Balkan and Italian treaties.

Make Last-Minute Effort To Heal US Tariff Breach

TORQUAY, England, March 31 (Reuters).—The United States and Britain made last-minute efforts here today to heal a breach which has developed between them over tariff charges.

American and British negotiators have been at work here for six months within the international tariff conference, which is due to end tonight.

They reached deadlock over the question of imperial preference, under which Britain and Commonwealth countries write most-favored-nation clauses into their trade agreements.

The United States delegates, it was authoritatively learned, insisted that Britain should relax some of her imperial advantages.

Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, hurried from London to Torquay this week to make Britain's position clear.

Britain, he was understood to have told the Americans, would insist on preserving imperial preferences and the trading unity of the commonwealth despite a United States offer to reduce tariffs in exchange for relaxation of empire benefits.

While Britain was in favor of easing world trade by removing as many barriers as possible, she maintained that Commonwealth guarantees could not be sacrificed.

Board of Trade officials denied New York reports that the Anglo-American talks had broken down completely.

Race Results Stolen From AP

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 31 (AP). — Attorney - General Richard Ervin said Friday he has "almost conclusive proof" that continental press service is stealing race results either from The Associated Press or Triangle Publications wires or from an AP member newspaper.

He said he assumes the AP is observing the racing commission regulation prohibiting transmission of race results until 20 minutes after the race is over.

The regulation, put into effect Feb. 19, applies to all races except the last race of any day and a Saturday feature race. The rule is intended to hamper bookmakers in getting the quick results they must have to carry on their business of accepting illegal bets.

A check made of its wires by The Associated Press last year showed no evidence of wire-tapping.

Ervin said he had sent an assistant to Reno, Nevada, where book-making is legal, to check up on the times at which racing information is received by people who subscribe to continental press service.

POW's In China Send Letters

WASHINGTON, March 31 — (AP)—A dribble of letters from American captives has spurred new United States efforts to lift the curtain on the fate of the unknown number of men in Communist prison camps in Asia.

Only 111 American service men are officially listed prisoner-of-war of the Communists. Nothing is known of their whereabouts and no neutral agency has been permitted by the Chinese or North Korean authorities to report on how they are being cared for.

Some 9,430 Americans currently are listed as missing in action in Korea.

In recent weeks a few American families have been getting letters from their missing men somewhere in Asia. The letters, received through different channels, give no indication to U.S. military officials that the Chinese and Korean Reds have established any pattern or over-all policy.

At the same time, Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep., Wis.) announced he and Senator Charles Tobey (Rep., N.H.) would introduce a resolution within a week to extend the life of the committee until next Jan. 15.

They must take "active measures together to promote general understanding of their common aims and appreciation of their joint efforts as the essential foundation for our work together over what may be a long hard pull" lasting a generation.

Mr. Claxton spoke after being presented an award by the American Arbitration Association for his services in promoting friendship between Canada and the U.S.

He predicted that "this business we are on of building up our sternth to resist aggression will probably succeed" but the measure of its success "will be the continuation of the strain."

Industrial Co-operation

Canada wanted, too, more industrail co-operation. She sought "a rough balancing" of defence orders between the two countries and this sort of arrangement was "begining, but just beginning, to work out."

Canada wanted to produce for herself and others what she could produce economically. She wanted to buy those things she couldn't produce economically, including tanks and heavy motor vehicles.

In the last nine months of 1950, the U.S. placed orders for $17,000-000 worth of arms in Canada. Canada placed $159,000,000 worth or orders in the U.S. and her expenditures on arms there in the new fiscal year of 1951-52 would probably hit $300,000,000.

Canada, under her three-year $5,000,000,000 military program, would spend "a good many hundreds of millions of dollars" in the U.S. "We hope to see increased U.S. expenditures in Canada."

The two countries must decrease the unit cost of defence equipment. The soaring rise of equipment costs had to be lived with to be imagined. A large part was unavoidable but "on the other hand there is no field in which to such a degree the search for the perfect prevents the good."

"I am always asking our people if a five per cent increase in performance justifies a 50 per cent increase in cost. This is a job which can only be tackled by the armed forces making full use of the knowledge of industry."

Mr. Claxton said the free world must steer a difficult course between the extremes of a preventive war and a false sense of security.

County Council Estimates $30,328 Less Than 1950 Tax Rate 4.24 Mills Lower

To meet its 1951 commitments the Peterborough county council must raise $180,183.28, a figure $30,328 less than last year. The levy will be 14.424 mills, 4.24 mills less than last year. However it is on an equalized assessment that has risen from $11,093,493 in 1950 to $12,300,477 in 1951. This means that a mill now raises $12,300 rather than $11,093. At the statutory meeting in January the clerk, Mrs. J. A. Spurway, was able to announce a current surplus of $16,954. This accounts, in part, for the reduction in the estimates. Last year county council had to budget for a deficit that amounted to $35,964. It was the largest estimate in the history of Peterborough county.

The large and unexpected item of expense this year is the grant of $23,508.15 to the two city hospitals.

Civic received $10,207 to wipe out the 1950 deficit incurred by indigent county patients, and a further $8,520 to wipe out the deficit on other county patients.

St. Joseph's received no grant to reduce the cost of treating county patients generally, but there was a grant of $5,751 to wipe out the deficit incurred by county indigents for the last two years.

Cut Road Estimate

The estimate on roads has been reduced from $72,424 to $67,259. An extra $600 will be spent on bridges.

Here is a summary of the estimates:

Hospital grants $23,508.15, 1.911 mills; roads $67,258.98, six mills; bridges $6,150.24, .5 mills; Civic Hospital debenture $10,051.99, .817 mills; Chemong causeway $7,-464.50, .606 mills; and general $56,470.32, 4.59 mills. The addition of $9,279.10 for education (not calculated on the mill rate) brings the budget total to $180,183.28, with the 14.424 mill rate.

One item of interest is reforestation. Council this year expects revenue to equal disbursements. Both are set at $8,000.

John McColl, chairman of reforestation, informed council that more than 100,000 board feet (log measure) were cut in the 4,500 acre property this winter. He said he has received several offers but a deal for the sawing of the logs into lumber and ultimate sale of that lumber has not yet been completed.

He predicted a substantial profit on the operation. Eating into this profit will be an outlay for the construction of at least one road in the property to facilitate future logging operations. It is also considered a necessity so equipment can be moved in case of forest fire.

Reeve W. E. Griffith, Belmont-Methuen, remained skeptical as to any profit resulting from the operations. He backed it up with a five-to-one bet of $25 against $5. But there were no takers.

Council put $8,000 in the estimates for both receipts and disbursements.

FLYING SAUCER? — These mysterious remains of a rice-paper balloon were termed a flying saucer by workers who saw it flying about 300 feet over Burnaby, a Vancouver suburb. Alex Young examines the object after it crashed into a tree.

Two Men Smash Parked Car

A parked car was badly smashed by two men who were seen running away from the scene to their own car near the corner of Wolfe and Reid Sts. about 9 p.m. Friday night.

The damaged car was owned by Carl Johnson, 84½ Hunter St. W., who had parked it on north side of Wolfe St. near Reid St.

The two men smashed the windshield, the gas line was torn apart, the glass in the right front door smashed and the accelerator bent.

Johnson reported that the night of March 20 or 21 damage was also done to his car. The glass in the dashboard was broken, the accelerator bent and wires pulled out of their connections.

Patrol Sergeant Gordon Trennum and Edward Niziol investigated.

Band Goes On Air

Three half-hour programs by Peterborough Citizens Band will be presented by CHEX beginning Tuesday, April 3 from 10.30 p.m. to 11, and on the two following Tuesdays at the same hour. Tapes were cut for this broadcast in the Ashburnham town hall last Tuesday night. That is where they practice. The acoustics are probably not helpful for best effects, but it is hoped that these half concerts will sound well by radio.

GOOD WISHES FROM COUNCIL

Peterborough county councillors Friday afternoon instructed the clerk to send their good wishes, along with some flowers, to Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, who is ill in Civic Hospital. The motion was by Deputy-Reeve Dave McIntyre of Otonabee, and seconded by Reeve W. E. Griffiths of Belmont-Methuen.

Australians To Elect Senate, House In Double Vote

By LOUIS L. LECK

SYDNEY, Australia, March 31 (CP)—Australians go to the polls April 28 for the second federal election in 16 months.

It is only the second time since the Australian commonwealth was formed 50 years ago that a double dissolution has taken place, calling for election of an entire new Senate as well as a new House of Representatives.

The term of the government and House of Representatives is three years. Unlike Canada, the Senate in Australia is an elective body, and ordinarily one-half of the Senate is elected every three years, members having a six-year term.

Senate Election Too

The double dissolution which Prime Minister R. G. Menzies obtained from Governor-General William J. McKell means that all 60 Senate seats must be filled along with a new house of 123 seats. The 30 senators elected with highest majorities will hold their seats for six years, but the other 30 seats go before the voter again three years hence.

The last double dissolution was in 1914 after a Labor majority in the Senate rejected a bill introduced by the then Prime Minister Joseph Cook. In the election that followed Labor was victorious and Australia a few months later entered the First World War. Some observers see significance in the fact that the second double dissolution comes at a time when international tension is again at a high level.

Chambers Deadlocked

The last election in December, 1949, gave Prime Minister Menzies and his Liberal-Country party coalition a majority in the House, but Labor retained control of the Senate which at that election was enlarged from 36 to 60 seats. These were the results:

House of Representatives—Liberals, 55; Country party, 19; Labor, 47.

(Liberals and Country party combined totalled 74. Two additional territorial members, one Labor and one Independent, vote only on matters affecting the commonwealth territories they represent.)

Senate—Labor, 34; Government, 26; Total, 60.

Many Clashes

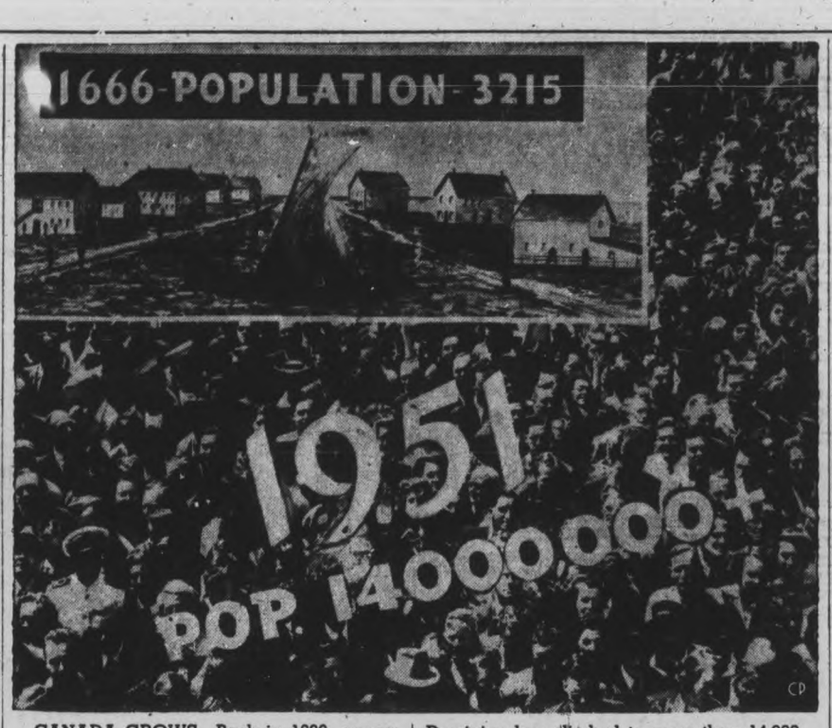
The new parliament had barely opened before the government clashed with the Labor-dominated Senate, and disagreements have broken out ever since.

The Senate withdrew its opposition only at the 11th hour on three major government measures, to outlaw the Communist party, to give child allowances for the first or only child, and to institute compulsory military training for home defence.

But on a fourth government measure the Senate was adamant against the government. This was a banking bill to place the Commonwealth Bank under control of a board. The Senate's refusal to pass the banking bill was the prime minister's official reason for the double dissolution.

Communist Issue

The conflict between the parties goes deeper than that, however. Mr. Menzies sought the election because the Labor party had decided to fight pending legislation to give the courts more power to deal with unions defying the processes of arbitration.



The Australian High Court declared the government's act to outlaw the Communist party was invalid, and the government intends taking this matter to the Privy Council in London. It was the foundation stone of the government's economic and defence policy.

When the High Court ruled the act beyond the powers of the federal parliament, the government decided to introduce legislation aimed at disciplining Communist-controlled unions.

Feared Threat

Labor saw in this proposed legislation a threat to cherished union principles, and announced that it would oppose it to the point of a double dissolution. Parliament was dissolved March 19.

Mr. Menzies now is asking for a majority in both chambers to implement government policy, which is to bring Communists under control and push on with defence preparations. The government has blamed Communist control of unions for under-production and sky-rocketing prices, and has said Communist bosses were sabotaging the defence policy. The Labor party led by Joseph Chifley, who recently recovered from a severe illness, bases it campaign on the need to cure inflation.

CANADA GROWS—Back in 1666, census takers didn't have much trouble counting the people in Canada. There were only 3,215. Since that first census the population of the Dominion has climbed to more than 14,000,000. This year it will take five times as many census takers as there were people in 1666 to count Canada's present population. (See story on Page 19, Col. 1).

For Parents Only

Some Homework Hints

By NANCY CLEAVER

"It is not the pupils who make the homework problem but parents!" a teacher said recently.

"An antagonistic attitude to all homework on the part of mother or dad, is very quickly reflected in the child's work. Children, in the matter of homework, and other things too, certainly "take their home to school with them!"

Another teacher who was listening said quietly, "some parents are honestly doubtful of the value of homework—but since some of it is necessary for the older scholars, it might as well be done willingly and well."

At this point a mother expressed her views, "The catch is getting Junior to do it himself! He comes from school with envious reports of the praise Philip gets from the teacher for his neat, correct answers to all the homework questions — Junior says Philip's dad does his homework for him, and that little Blank girl's mother always works out her arithmetic problems for her! Goodness knows, I have enough to do without taking on a public school evening course! Teachers should see to it that it is the scholars' own work and then the parents won't be nagged by their children for 'just a little help with my homework.'"

"Perhaps some teachers are poor detectives" another mother said with a little laugh, "but I do think a teacher should make a guess at how long it would take an average pupil to do one evening's homework, and keep the amount assigned within a reasonable limit. Many children take music lessons or have other valuable hobbies. They should do a few home chores—and they do need a little time to play! They should be in the fresh air after being indoors so many hours on a school day."

How often the pros and cons of homework have been discussed! There is something to be said for the convictions of both teachers and parents in this conversation—the doing of homework unfortunately, is a most contentious subject. It is a battle ground in far too many homes. What are some practical, useful suggestions to parents on homework hints?

If your child has homework which his teacher has given to his class, don't make it harder for him by pouring scorn on homework or criticising the teacher. Why be anxious for a perfect record from your child in his school marks?

Accept homework as a job to be done, regularly without fuss. This piece of work, if done well by the pupil "on his own," will help him in habits of concentration and self-discipline. It will also add to his knowledge and grasp of his school work.

Provide a place for your child to study, if possible a table and chair in a room by himself. See that he is comfortable and that the lighting is good. The family living room often has a radio on and other interesting interruptions happen there. Neither does the kitchen table, if people are coming in and out, provide the quiet atmosphere for academic work.

Help your child to budget his hours out of school wisely. Have a set time when he agrees to begin homework each evening. A definite other substitute time between four o'clock and supper is necessary on the special occasions when this evening schedule is broken into.

Many boarding school students have "study hours" begun and ended by a bell. This is an easy way to remind a youngster that homework time has come. Boarding schools also usually provide a simple "snack" at bed time of crackers and cheese or some other light refreshment. This is a jolly session! Mother or dad should take a few minutes to be sociable with a boy or girl at home at "snack time" after homework is done, just before "sleep time."

Have a casual attitude to your child's homework. Remind him it is his job, not yours. (You have your own evening tasks to see to.) Be very sparing in your assistance. School subjects are taught so differently now from what they were when parents were young. Chances are your help will only confuse your youngster as well as tend to make him a "leaner!"

Young Engineers Build Model Of Lift Lock

First year engineers at the University of British Columbia built a miniature Peterborough lift lock as their contribution for the Engineers Ball held there recently. In the fall the students wrote to the local office of the Trent canal department and received plans of the lift lock. From these the model was built.

The first obstacle was finding the right type of motors (mechanical power for the raising and lowering the locks had to be used). They wanted slow speed reversible motors which would operate the lifts and finally used two motors arranged to work automatically. One motor would start at the time the lock reached the top of its travel.

The largest problem was making the meeting point between the lock and the canal watertight and also making the gates work to open and shut sufficiently for a boat to get in and out.

To do this the engineers had the surface of the lock overhang, then placed rubber along the contact surface. This they reported did the job sufficiently well to keep out the water.

The gates were made of sheet tin. The hinges were made in the tin by cutting the bottom in little stripes inserting small rods, then bending the tin over and soldering it. The gates were made waterproof by lining the canal and gate with sheet rubber.

The lights were the ingenious part of the system. They were of glass rods (stolen from the chemistry lab) with a bubble in the end. This was filled with cellophane and light was directed up from underneath. The stem was painted dark. The engineers explain that the effect was good.

"We had a good time making this model and while we did not win the prize, the number of people who thought we should have was a most gratifying consolation," the engineers wrote to the Trent Canal office.

9 War Injured At Vancouver

VANCOUVER, March 31 (CP)—Nine Korean war injured arrived Friday, the largest group of Canadian soldiers to be flown home from the battle zone since the special brigade went into action.

The soldiers were taken to Shaughnessy military hospital after a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane landed them at International Airport.

An army spokesman said the soldiers were pulled from the battle line because of injuries or sickness. Cases ranged from frostbite and arthritis to gunshot wounds.

All were described as "walking cases."

Sgt. Alban Corlin of Montreal, evacuated because of wounds received during the Second World War, summed up Korea as "grim country and bitterly cold."

From Shaughnessy, the men will be flown to hospitals near their homes.

Returned were:

S. Sgt. Ralph Ferris, Winnipeg and Calgary, Pte. George Kolba, Winnipeg, Pte. Leonard T. Rivard, Portage La Prairie, Man., L. Cpl. James Selman, Calgary, Cpl. Jack Hine, Regina, Pte. Larry Wilson, Hamilton, Pte. Morris Piche, Ottawa, Sgt. Alban Corlin, Montreal and Pte. William Keyes, Toronto.

Kingston Tax Rate Set At 47.25 Mills

KINGSTON, March 31—(CP)—A tax rate of 47.25 mills was set Friday when co... session, adopted the budge... 1951.

The rate is up 9.45 mills over last year, reflecting increase wages and greater municipal services.

Weeks of work by the finance committee of city council pared the budget from an original jump of 12 mills.

Demands of education, including substantial salary increases, were the principal factor in the city's heavy tax impost this year. The rate required to meet these demands is 20.60 mills Last year it was 15.74 mills.

Say Uranium Stocks Latest Racket

BUFFALO, NY, March 31 — (CP). — The Buffalo Better Business Bureau states that "it is old-fashioned now to be selling gold or oil stocks by mail from Canada," and adds that "uranium stocks" now is the thing.

In substantiation the bureau cites one company which was known as a gold-mining firm until last December, but which now is sending circulars to Buffalo business men urging them to get in on the ground floor of a big uranium development in Ontario.

The bureau adds that the Ontario Department of Mines reports that in the area mentioned by this firm "no commercial deposit of uranium has been proved as yet."

Township Postpones Capital Expenditures

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Reeve Nelson Boylen of suburban North York township said Friday that the municipality would have to postpone capital expenditures until the money market develops a firmer tone.

He said North York is having difficulty marketing debentures to finance the building of new schols in the rapidly-growing municipality.

Credit restrictions imposed by the chartered banks have brought an end to cheap borrowings by most municipal governments, municipal officials said.

CHATHAM, March 31 (CP) — Growers and vendors of the market held a protest meeting Friday night over the proposed raise in space rentals announced by the City Council Finance Committee earlier this week. Growers claimed the proposed rates for Chatham were the highest in Ontario.

Farm Prices Drop

WASHINGTON, March 31 — (AP). — A drop of nearly one per cent in the average prices of farm products during the last month was reported Friday by the government. It was the first break in a rising trend that had sent farm prices up 25 per cent since the outbreak of the war in Korea.

Cat Problem

VANCOUVER—(CP)—A total of 4,825 cats were destroyed by the Humane Society here last year but the society's greatest problem is still stray cats. An official told the annual meeting the SPCA that the waterfront and downtown areas are "full" of them.

Flavelle Gives Fund Report

TORONTO, March 31 (CP). — Sir Ellsworth Flavelle, former head of the United Emergency Fund for Britain, Friday submitted to the public trustee for Ontario a financial statement on operations of the now-defunct fund. He said he visited the trustee, Armand Racine, on the advice of Premier Frost, who announced Thursday that provincial authorities will investigate the parcel-sending fund's operations.

Sir Ellsworth said the fund had assisted in sending $1,000,000 worth of food and clothing to Britain.

E. B. Jolliffe, CCF Opposition Leader in the Ontario Legislature, said Thursday in the Legislature that the fund was reported to have sent only $880 worth of food parcels overseas from $593,000 raised by subscription.

Stock-Piling

Warehouses from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico are bulging with stores. Retailers have stock-piled anything they can lay their hands on, from refrigerators to prams. Wholesalers have built up huge inventories of anything non-perishable. Manufacturers have stock-piled the raw materials that go into their products—that is, as much as they can. But the biggest stock-piler of all is the U.S. Government. Merchants have laid in vast quantities of goods in anticipation of increasingly rising prices and bigger profits. Manufacturers are trying desperately to get enough goods in to keep their wheels turning when war department orders and priorities reduce the availability of the goods. Washington is stock-piling to prepare against possible war. Never on this continent have inventories been so heavy.

* * *

This stock-piling has had a heavy effect on prices. It has created an artificial scarcity. When the goods are withdrawn from circulation they are of course not available to consumers. So eager has everyone been to lay in supplies that almost any asking price will be paid. A notable example is rubber.

* * *

The 1949-50 rubber crop was sold at Singapore at an average price of 13¼ pence a pound. The estimated estate cost of production was 7½ d., so this price left room for almost 100 per cent. profit. Then the U.S.A., Russia and almost every other country tried to increase their buying. About half the 1950-51 crop has been sold for 19½ d. a pound. The rest may go at exorbitant present prices which have recently touched 6 s. 2 d. a pound. Yet the 1949-50 price on 1,395,000 pounds, which brought almost a hundred per cent. gross profit, was 13¼ d. The reason for the increase is not rising costs of production. Plantation wages have risen by only 24 per cent. Prices have risen by 500 per cent. The reason is that the rubber companies know they can get almost any price they want to ask, from Russia, if not from the U.S.A. The U.S.A. will not be outbid.

* * *

The U.S.A. has three million tons of sulphur in stock, but has put quotas on shipments abroad. She has stock-piled cotton and at the same time cut Britain's allocation from 5¾ million to 3½ million bales. She intends to build a 350 million pound stock-pile of wool, which amounts to two-thirds of the world's main exportable surpluses. The price of wool has gone up in Canada. Will it rise higher? We need only look across the border for the answer.

* * *

If a well-founded suspicion of peace in Korea and agreement among the four powers in Paris should hit the bulging warehouses on this continent, their walls may crack and the goods pour out. But if this does not happen, and fair distribution on a western world basis is not made at set prices, more goods will be taken from circulation and prices will continue to rise.

A New Way Of Telling Time

A few days ago we heard for the first time of a substance called "radioactive carbon 14"; it is, it appears, an accurate clock by means of which very large spans of time may be measured, and it is going to give mankind an accurate insight into history which has hitherto been lacking.

For the benefit of those among our readers who understand such things (we do not) we explain that radioactive carbon 14 is produced in the atmosphere as cosmic rays pour in from outer space and transmute the nitrogen of which our air is largely composed. Radioactive carbon 14 has a half-life of 5,568 years, which means that in that time half its atoms will change to something else. Thus, if a piece of charcoal is found, the activity of the carbon in it can be measured, and the age of the charcoal determined.

Of what use is this information? Well, charcoal or carbon of some sort can usually be found with human remains, however old the latter may be. If you find the skeleton of a very early dweller on the earth, and the remains of his fire, you can measure the carbon in the ashes, and learn how long ago the man lived.

Already some valuable discoveries have been made by this method. It has long been believed that the last Ice Age was about 20,000 years ago; we can now say with accuracy that it was 12,000 years ago. We know that the oldest human relics to be found on this continent date from 9,000 years ago. We know for certain that the Eskimos are not the ancestors of the North American Indians, and are, in fact, a comparatively young race. Radioactive carbon 14 will be a great boon to archaeologists.

The discovery of this substance and of this use of it as a measure of great periods of time is the work of Drs. W. F. Libby and J. R. Arnold, both nuclear physicists at the University of Chicago. Their discovery is one of the most interesting by-products of nuclear physics that we have yet heard of, and it will be invaluable to students of the early history of mankind.

"No Annihilation Without Representation"

The chief western European countries are fearfully opposed to war, in contrast with the United States (and to a lesser extent Canada) which is opposed to war but does not fear it in its loins. Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Holland have all felt the effects of war on their own soils. The United States has not had a war at home since 1861, the Civil War. Americans have not even a grandfather memory of what war on their own soil is like. In the two last great wars they fielded armies, spent billions on armament and suffered soldier casualties. But living by the shadow of war is an entirely different matter from living in the midst of it.

This difference in point of view has widened the Atlantic in the last year. To Europeans the United States seems to be war-mongering. To Americans Europeans seem to be peace-mongering, pussy-footing to Communism. Western Europeans do not like the MacArthurism in the States. Britons know that leading Americans have openly stated that in their considerations of world strategy, Britain is an American aircraft carrier, expendable if necessary. Western Europeans know that if war comes they face the prospect of annihilation. Not all the pomp of Washington greeting President Auriol of France this week will reduce France's hostility to war.

Having this attitude, Western Europe looks askance at strong-headed Uncle Sam with his fists out. And when Uncle Sam moves, Western Europe is in the ring, too, for the United States is, for better or worse, the West's inescapable protagonist. When it acts with MacArthurian independence of consultation, Western Europe is fearfully disturbed. The British mood was expressed by Professor Arnold Toynbee who recently returned from a visit to the United States with this slogan: "No Annihilation without Representation."

Rub Sir John With Vaseline?

The very handsome statue of Sir John A. Macdonald in Kingston is being cleaned at last. Some years ago it had become dirty, and the bronze in which it is cast had acquired patches of green, scaly growth. An unhappy inspiration on the part of local authorities caused it to be painted an excrementitious shade of brown, and for years Sir John looked like a rather cheap Easter bunny. This was intolerable, for the statue is a good one, and a fitting memorial to a great statesman; it is also an ornament to the beautiful old city of Kingston, though not when daubed with brown paint. But now the statue is being cleaned by sandblasting, and it will emerge a creamy white.

What then? That creamy white will not last forever, and without care Sir John will be dirty and scaly again in a few years.

May we offer a suggestion to the city of Kingston? When the statue is cleaned, have it rubbed carefully all over with vaseline. This protects the metal against the weather, but in the course of time it will encourage the metal to darken to the shade which the best bronze objects acquire — a deep, rich brown, with a darkness almost approximating to black in the shaded portions. The coating of vaseline should not be thick; it should be a smear only; but it should be renewed every six months.

This is what is done with bronzes in museums which have had to be scoured, for one reason or another; the objects are vaselined and put on the roof for a year or so.

So treated, the statue of Sir John will again be worthy of one of our country's great men.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A British scientist thinks that it may be possible to evolve a rubber brain. That would be a welcome change from the rigid, or poured concrete brain so common now.

Mr. Attlee is reported to be in hospital for treatment of an incipient ulcer. And for years thoughtful Mr. Churchill has been trying to get Clem to take things more quietly.

Comment on the wheat deal fiasco, from the Calgary Herald: "This deal was achieved by two governments which had invaded the precincts of private trade and insisted that they knew better than private citizens how trade should be conducted; the result is plain for all to see; we hope that the farmers and the farm organizations will perceive the moral." All that they will perceive, we'll bet, is that they are getting $65,000,000 to keep their mouths shut, and that whatever happens to the taxpayers, they will not be permitted to lose.

Diary of a Sedentary Man

by
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Spent the whole day in writing letters. Of course, this is over-statement; I do not suppose I actually spent more than four hours bent over my desk; but it took me a long time to think of what I meant to say in the letters, and everything I tried to do during the day was poisoned by the knowledge that the letters had to be written. When at last they were finished and dropped in the post-box I was so sick of letters that I shall not write any more for some months.... Every now and then somebody with more time than he knows how to employ bewails the fact that letter-writing is a lost art. By this he means that personal letters, running to many pages, are uncommon today. But I have, in my time, rummaged through hundreds of such eighteenth and nineteenth century letters, and for one that was good, twenty were pretentious twaddle. I will hear nothing in praise of letters for at least six months.

✧ ✧ ✧

MONDAY: Everybody seems to be greatly concerned about the price of milk, and it struck me today that I might solve my personal problem by keeping a cow. I know quite a lot about cows; as a boy I was on good, though not intimate, terms with several cows. In fact, one of my earliest recollections is of a cow wiping its nose on my sleeve at a picnic; it was a catarrhal cow, and made a strong impression upon me. I would probably keep my cow in my cellar, which is warm and which affords, in the laundry tubs, a passable substitute for a meadow stream. I would spread some straw, and let the cow roam loose; a man who knows a lot about cows told me recently that cows give most milk when they are free, and when they are not expected to sleep on cold concrete; they like to snuggle their udders in clean straw, and in return for such consideration they work up a nice percentage of cream. In summer, the cow could graze on my lawn. I cannot see why this is not completely practical. I would give the cow a daily cod-liver oil pill, to ward off TB; I would use the horns she shed each spring to make striking and individual drinking-cups; I would call her Marchbanks Towers Sweetbreath I, I would love her and she would save me money.

✧ ✧ ✧

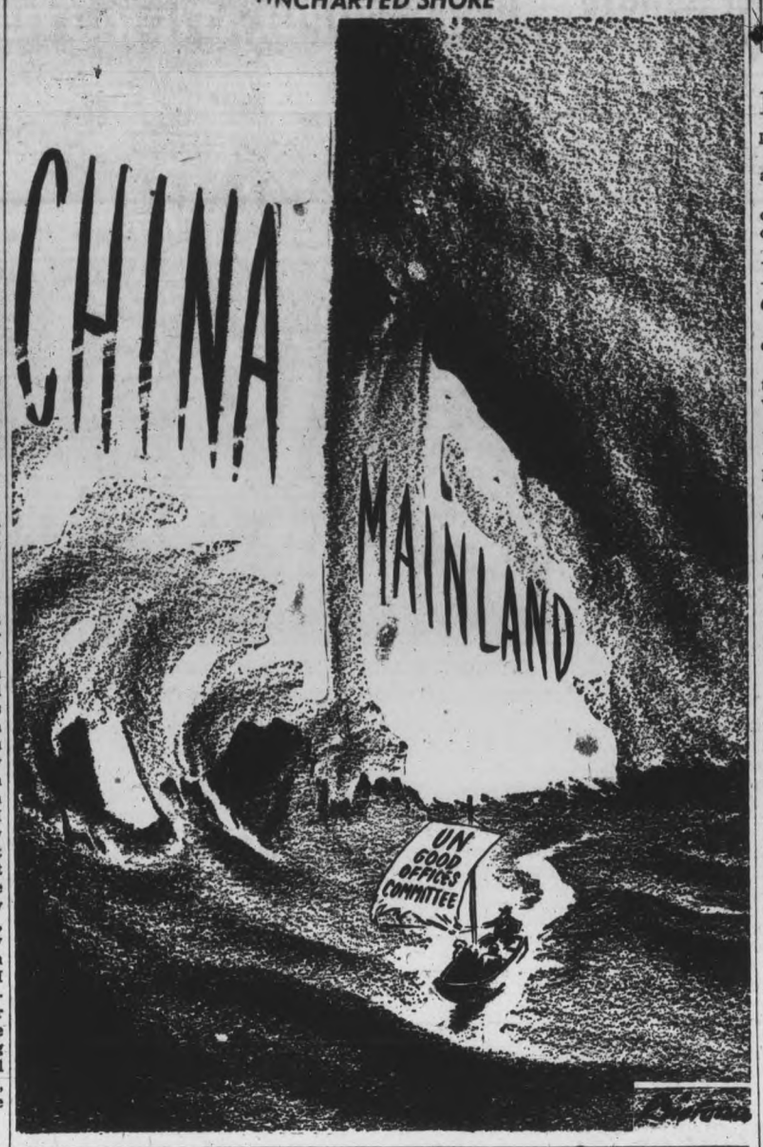
TUESDAY: Walking home from my work this evening I passed a group of children who were busy, as children so often are, in taunting and torturing one of their number. "Teddy's got a gurr-ul! Teddy's got a gurr-ul!" they screamed, while Teddy, who appeared to be about six, denied the charge with a remarkable command of blasphemy and obscenity. I pondered upon this scene for some time. Why is it considered disgraceful for little boys to play with little girls, though a little girl who can get herself accepted in a gang of little boys gains prestige by doing so? The equality of the sexes, about which there is so much futile blather in the adult world, is unheard of among the young. Women's suffrage, and equal-pay-for-equal-work would never have come into being if children had had any say in the matter. I toyed with the idea of going back to the children and saying: "My pretty dears, the fact that Teddy has a girl shows that he is more mature than the rest of you; do you not know that girls will grow up to be the equals, in all respects, of men? Don't you know that girls will sit on the juries which will condemn you to hang, which, if I may judge by your language, is the fate to which you will all come?" But I was rather busy, and went home instead.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: Was talking today to a female child of my acquaintance, and observed that she kept one hand behind her back, and wore an expression of deep guilt which expressed itself not only in her face, but in her knees, which happened to be bare. I let her think that I noticed nothing for a while, and then I demanded to see what it was that she was hiding. It proved to be a repulsive little book relating the adventures of somebody called Mandrake the Magician, and a girl with a crown and a big bust who was either Mandrake's beloved or his employer—I could not make out which. Great was the child's astonishment when I gave the book back to her after a brief examination. But I am convinced that children have to read a certain amount of rubbish, just as they have to eat a certain amount of unwholesome penny candy. As a child my favourite secret reading was a pulp magazine called "Weird Tales." In autobiographies people often boast that they read nothing in childhood save the Bible, Pilgrim's Progress and Robinson Crusoe; the first is a lively work, full of racy bits as well as edification, but the latter two I have always found unreadable. Good taste cannot be formed by reading only what is first-rate.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: I grieve over my pipes. Every now and then one of them reaches a stage of perfection; it tastes sweet and full, and burns beautifully from top to bottom. While this lasts I am a happy smoker. But after a week of good behaviour it becomes erratic once again. I have several pipes, but I have never been able to arrange things so that one of them smokes perfectly while the others are out of temper. I suppose there are clever smokers who dominate their pipes, and know what to do to restore them to good condition, but in this, as in so many things, I am skilless, luckless and hopeless.



✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: I wish I were not so fond of pictures. I do not, of course, mean great works of art; I mean caricatures, neat little prints, odd little engravings, and the like. I have a passion for these things, and whenever I buy one or acquire one in some way or another I rush off to the framer's and have it framed. Then the question arises—what do I do with it? The wall space which I have at my disposal is pretty well filled; I have pictures standing on the mantel of my workroom; unless I fasten pictures to the ceiling or hang them on the backs of chairs I shall have to begin weeding out my collection. Nature meant me to be the keeper of a curiosity shop, I think. I have a passion for little bits of things, for odds and ends, for objects which tremble on that borderline which divides bijouterie from junk. This is a failing which I share with the late President Roosevelt, but he had a more capacious house than mine. It is a weakness which makes me the butt of my artistic friends, many of whom are devoted to the modern, extremely sanitary style of decoration. They will not believe that I like odds and ends, and that pieces of curious rubbish inspire me, but such is truly the case.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: To the movies to see "King Solomon's Mines," which I enjoyed hugely, for not only was it a first-rate adventure film, but it also engaged the talents of Miss Deborah Kerr, whose beauty was exploited with a good deal of intelligence and good taste. But, as always at such films, I was saddened by the thought that I am not an adventurous man myself, and that my sedentary life is all that I am fit for. If crafty native tribesmen were to wall me into an underground cave, I don't suppose for a minute that I would dare to escape by swimming in darkness down an underground river. In the first place, I can't swim. In the second place, I am afraid of the dark. In such a pickle I would undoubtedly die a long and unpleasant death. Nor would I be any good at travelling for days over a sun-scorched desert, even in the company of Deborah Kerr; I visit the water-hole in my office at least once every hour, frightening the natives with my thirsty roars and splashings; if I miss an hour I show sign of galloping mummification. And as for sleeping in a tree—again in the company of Miss Kerr— I must decline. I am a poor thing, and I know it.

Letters To The Editor

QUICK AND TWO-EDGED

Sir: In response to your invitation to write regarding the Bible Message published in your paper, we would like to commend the Examiner on the inclusion of this part of your publication, as we believe the Word of God to be quick and more powerful than any two-edged sword. In these days when the wisdom of the scriptures is so badly needed to stem the tides of lust and greed so prevalent in personal as well as national thinking, it would seem wrong to eliminate any opportunity of keeping the Word of God before men.

As I write this note there is within my sight a Bible portion cut from your paper and posted in a public place which was put there before your editorial on this subject. It is therefore evidence that somebody has read and put to good use one of your Bible portions.

We would like also to commend you on the choice of extracts used in the Bible Message. From time to time as we have read them we have found them to be very suitably selected for general need.

Therefore the C.B.M.C. of Peterborough wish to encourage you in the continuation of this very valuable portion of your paper.

Yours sincerely,
PAUL J. COLLET
Sec., Christian Business Men's Committee

TAKES PLACE OF BIBLE

Sir: Regarding your editorial, Do you read the Bible Message, I have meant to write at different times to tell you, we need it, all of us. Have read it always, as soon as I come to the editorial page, it is the first to be read, I am afraid I do not read my Bible, as I find the "Daily Bible Message" seems to take its place, the pieces selected seem often suitable to the day we are going through. I wonder if they are selected to each week or day, there was a period it was left out of the Examiner, six months or a year, and we missed it, and was very glad to see it back again. Also this year's Saturday column, Marchbanks Diary, I have the last copy of the book, did not like last year's, also like Alpha's column.

Sincerely,
INTERESTED READER

L'IL ABNER FOR THE JUDAS BAG

Sir: Does anyone read the Bible Message? Yes, many people read the interesting portion which is printed regularly in the Examiner. You state if nobody reads it the space can be used for more popular matter. Yes, I agree, but can you print a more beneficial article? I have read your paper for over 25 years and have seldom missed the Bible Message. Don't feed our youth inferior nourishment. No we go to a doctor to find what is the best food to feed babies. Why? To have them good healthy children, sure; very interested that they are fed the best. Then why ask the question, does anybody read the Bible Message? The best obtainable reading. The Bible reading might be read by more readers if it was placed on the front page, nicely headed and a border around it.

Put the word of God out in front, do not push it off to one side. Be far better to omit some murder or crime story. You have enough of that. Let our youth read the Bible Message instead of printing "L'il Abner," and a few other improper language, and ugly faces which are poison to their undeveloped minds. But I suppose there is more in the "Judas Bag" printing that. Did you read or look at the Toronto papers after Easter? If you did you saw many nice looking humans dressed for church. Why? You know why. Still the back section contained regular comics. If it had not been Easter, the paper would have been full just the same with probably crime. Yes, by all means never think of not having room for "The Bible Message."

You litle know just whom you might bless by this all important literature. We take medicine by drops, and by teaspoons, be sure and take some beneficial medicine from the Great Physician.

"TIMOTHY"

LIKES TO KNOW MANY VIEWPOINTS

Sir: In your editorial last night you ask the question: does anyone read your Bible Message. At this house we do and our wish would be that you continue it. We approve of the way you select portions of different chapters. Personally I am interested in your reports of Little Theatre, Editorials, History of Peterborough, some of your comics. The society column receives the least attention of any by me; my better half looks after that. So there you are, everyone served with their own interests.

While I am on this subject, I sometimes wonder why you do not report lectures by Mr. Easton, British Israel meetings, as well as others. Whether I agree with their views or not I read everything from the local church reports to that of a Jewish Rabbi. I like to hear different viewpoints. No doubt as an editor you have a good reason for not reporting all meetings; perhaps it is impossible to do so. Just my curiosity so don't take my question too seriously. So there you are and Good Luck.

Yours truly,
R. OSWALD GIFFS
Campbellcroft.

A LAMP TO OUR FEET

Sir: I am glad of your invitation to write you regarding the Bible Message which you print on the editorial page. I for one do wish you would continue to print it for it is a real living message from God's Holy Word, to His people of today. And is so urgently needed in our time of trouble and perplexity. I am sure there are many people who read the message in the Examiner, who would not bother to take the Bible up and read its pages for themselves, for His Word is a lamp to our feet, and a light to our path. I am glad to say I am one of the many who read the Bible Message in your valuable paper, the Evening Examiner. Thank you for the space, Mr. Editor.

I am sincerely,
ALBERT POWERS

MAY FIND COMFORT IN A VERSE

Sir: In your issue of the Peterborough Examiner on March 26th you asked if anyone reads the Bible Message. I do! And I'm sure there are many who do, also someone in trouble may find comfort in a verse they would never have read had it not been before them in a daily paper. Yes, I do hope it will be possible for you to continue the Bible Message as we need God's comforting words so much in these troublesome times.

I would like to take this opportunity to let you know how much I do enjoy the Examiner and the editorials especially.

Yours truly,
MAUDE FINNIE

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God....

When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory.

Put on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, long-suffering; forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any: even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye.

And above all all these things put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness. (Col. 3: 1, 4, 12-14.)

School Summer Holidays In 70's 4 Weeks; Kawarthas Take On Cottage Popularity

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

The 1871 Act "to improve the Common and Grammar Schools" specified that all Common Schools should be renamed Public Schools with fees not to exceed 20 cents a month. Every child 7-12 years old had the right to education for at least four months a year. Each county was to have a school inspector, and each city and town the same. Grammar schools were renamed high schools, to which children were to be admitted after passing entrance examinations set by the board of examiners: the county or town school inspectors, the chairman of the high school board, and the high school headmaster. A high school with four or more masters and at least 60 male pupils studying Latin or Greek might be designated a collegiate institute. Summer vacations were set for public schools July 15 to Aug. 15, for high schools July 1 to Aug. 15. An 1877 act divided the school year into two terms: Jan. 3 to July 7, and Aug. 18 to Dec. 23, and made the summer vacation seven weeks in urban, 40 days in rural schools; in 1880 rural trustees were allowed to cut the summer holidays to four weeks if they wished.

According to educational reports for 1871 and 1880-1, children 5-16 years in Peterborough county (excluding incorporated towns) fell from 7,601 to 5,753; total attendance fell from 6,890 to 5,589, with average atendance up from 40 to 43 per cent. Haliburton county appeared in the 1880-1 report, with school population 1,580, total attendance 1,430, average attendance 35 per cent. Victoria school-age children rose from 8,908 to 10,014, total attendance from 8,375 to 9,939, average attendance down from 60 to 40 per cent.

Peterborough in 1871 had 94 public schools, two high schools and six others, a total of 102 schools, while Victoria had 111 public, three high and one other school, a total of 115; there are no comparable figures for 1881, but the district total including Haliburton was up considerably, and they were better schools. As the 1871 report stated: "Commodious brick and frame schoolhouses are replacing the miserable log hovels." In 1880 the cost-per-pupil of public school was $6.00 in Peterborough, $6.42 in Haliburton and $5.97 in Victoria.

Teachers' Associations

After the 1877 Act, teachers' associations were set up in the various inspectorates, holding two conventions yearly to discuss mutual problems. For example, the East Victoria T.A. held conventions at Bobcaygeon and Lindsay in 1880. In 1880 the inspectors were: Peterborough County, J. C. Brown, salary $1,225 a year; Haliburton, C. D. Curry, $405 a year; East Victoria, J. K. Knight, $671 a year; West Victoria, R. Reazin $1,273 a year. There was a county model school at Lindsay with 12 teachers, but none at Peterborough. Entrance examinations were held in December, 1879, and June, 1880, at Peterborough (where 138 tried and 65 passed), Omemee (where 55 tried and 43 passed, Norwood (63 tried and 22 passed), Lindsay (180 tried and 71 passed), and Oakwood (96 tried and 38 passed).

That year in Peterborough County 62 candidates were examined for third-class teaching certificates and 28 succeeded; in Victoria 117 were examined and 32 succeeded. To win higher certificates, in 1880 two (men) students from Peterborough went to Toronto Normal School and none from Victoria, while to Ottawa Normal School went six from Peterborough (two men, three girls), and seven from Victoria (four men, three girls).

By 1880, attendance at high schools was free to all residents. Attendances varied:

	1871		1881
				Av. 1st	Av. 2nd
	Tl.	Av.	Tl.	T'm	T'm
Peterb. C.I.	231	112	218	141	114
Lindsay H.S.	55	30	162	99	97
Omemee H.S.	78	41	78	44	31
Norwood H.S.	52	26	49	40	28
Oakwood H.S	40	12	65	41	32

In these schools two-thirds of students were in the classics course, preparing for university entrance.

The 1871 report did not give details about the separate schools but by 1880 there were four in Peterborough County, with three teachers, total attendance 152, average attendance 75; in Victoria there was one one-teacher school with total attendance 47, average attendance 20.

In 1880 when Mechanics' Institutes were transferred from the Agriculture to the Education Department, there were only 3 in the district at Peterborough, Lindsay and Norwood, given grants of $400, $400 and $100 respectively. The Peterborough Institute will be mentioned later. The Norwood Institute, incorporated 1872, by 1880 had 57 members paying a fee $1 per year, with 783 volumes (2/5 fiction), 3 magazines and 4 periodicals. The Lindsay Institute, incorporated 1879, had the next year 118 members, fee $2 yearly, with 673 volumes (¼ fiction), 15 newspapers, 12 magazines and 8 periodicals; in the year, 1709 volumes had been loaned (⅓ fiction).

Tourists and Cottagers: Since early days, travellers had been coming to the Kawarthas to pause a few days and pass on their way, returning home to Britain usually to write a travel-book on their experiences. In the 60s the first "tourists" began coming into the district to spend a few summer weeks in a waterfront hotel on the lakes and rivers between Scugog, Rice, Stony and Balsam Lakes — fishing, boating and canoeing, swimming, hiking, or simply enjoying nature. By the 1870s, most such hotels (in the slack summer season between invasions of lumbermen) were advertising, as did the Bobcaygeon Forest House in 1878: "First-class accommodation for sportsmen & tourists—boats, guides, etc." There were a few American tourists on Rice Lake, but as yet no mention of any coming farther north; most of the Kawartha tourists of the '70s were from the Lake Ontario strand between Cobourg and Toronto. In spring and fall the men came back, usually without families, to shoot wild ducks and geese on feeding-grounds such as Rice and Scugog Lakes, and in late autumn enthusiastic hunters were back for deer and bear around the northern lakes.

Even 80 years ago, both the government and nature-lovers were beginning to worry about the rapid decline in district wild life. In Jan., 1875 the Peterborough Game and Fish Protective Society was organized to campaign for conservation and rebuilding of Kawartha natural resources, including game and fish. Two years later as a result of their work, the Ontario government put 5,000,000 whitefish and salmon fry into northern Kawartha Lakes; a few of these survived in Stony Lake and were caught years later, but the rest were soon killed by sawdust and other water pollution. In 1879 Peterborough Council stopped millowners putting sawdust into the Otonabee River.

Summer Camps

Parallel to the movement of tourists into waterfront hotels each summer, local people in the towns began going each summer to camp on nearby lakes and rivers with their families. As towns grew larger, streets barer, and living conditions more comfortable, the increase in steamer excursions and water sports after 1850 showed "holidaying on the water" to be more popular and fashionable. In the '50s and '60s Lakefield people began spending holidays on the shores and islands of Katchewano, Clear and Stony Lakes; Peterborough people were summering along the Otonabee and on Rice and Chemong Lakes; Peterborough people were Lindsay people were camping on Scugog River and Scugog and Sturgeon Lakes. Others of less hardy constitution rusticated in comfort amid cool breezes at hotels in Young's Point, Mt. Julian, Burleigh Falls, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon, etc.

Lakeshore Holidayers

The Peterborough shoemaker, C. Lane, built a log cabin on Clear Lake in the 1840s at Lane's Point beyond Young's Point, on land later owned by Frank Ayotte. C. Fuller had a cottage nearby at Sandy Point in the 1860-70s, later owned by R. B. Rogers of Ashburnham. On Stony Lake, Sgt.-Major Wm. McCracken of the 18th Royal Irish Regiment settled on a Dummer grant in 1832, extending down to the lake, and built a cabin on the shore; descendants still summer in their cottage on this lot. There were many campers on Stony Lake in the 1860s. The late T. H. G. Denne when a boy used to go with his uncle David Denne to camp on Juniper Island.

Wm. Brownscombe and family camped on the Lake every year, and his son Felix, born in 1863, always claimed that he was on Stony Lake every year until his death in 1946; they went by train to Lakefield and loaded their food and equipment into five or six punts, rowing up the lakes to their camp on the bay behind Hurricane Point between Juniper Islar. dand Burleigh. J. H. Yelland started going with his father Wm. Yelland the wagon-maker, in 1868 when 9 years old; they drove to Young's Point and proceeded by canoe, skiff or punt to Lone Tree Island near Eel's Creek on Stony Lake. Later they travelled up by steamer. Mr. Yelland, incidentally, still goes to Stony Lake every year. One of the first cottages on the Mt. Julian shore was built by Dr. Alex Bell of Lakefield soon after 1870.

On Chemong Lake, Thomas Ward in 1822 received 400 acres on the shore east of the Communication Road, in the corner of which Bridgenorth village was established, and James Mann received the broken lot on the shore north of this. West of the road, 300 acres was given to William, John and Ben Stapleton, while southward on the shore lot 9, con. 5, 365 acres extending to the shore, was Clergy Reserve land later bought by Francis Montgomery; F. and J. Montgomery are still on this land in 1870, but later sold the north half on the shore to John Black, who had lot 8 con. 5. In 1870 C. E. McIlmoyle owned the lakefront land originally given to Ward, and the lots just east and northeast of Bridgenorth belonged to Aaron and Peter Nicholls. Bridgenorth lakefront was owned by S. and W. B. Kelly.

About 1870 John Pope, Bridgenorth hotelkeeper, built a cottage and boathouse on an island near Chemong Park; in the Denne Historical Picture Collection is a photograph "Chemong Park about 1875 with Pope's boathouse and clubhouse on the island afterwards Hopwood's cottage." A few years later the Chemong Boat Club built a clubhouse on a small island nearby, and a pavilion on the point of land later washed away. Alex Elliott of Peterborough bought land nearby from William Udy of Bridgenorth and Francis Montgomery, and built a number of cottages; three or four of these were in Udy's Field, of which one was sold to the Stricklands of Peterborough. Henry Denne's first cottage was built about 1877-78, and a little later David Hatton, Peterborough barrister, built a cottage on the edge of Kelly's Woods near the present stone gates; Mr. Hatton, later magistrate, acquired much property in Chemong Park afterwards.

Louis Fobert in 1879 took over the Bridgenorth (Chemong) Hotel. He also operated a stagebus which ran twice daily in summer between Chemong and Peterborough. According to Mrs. F. D. Kerr, who travelled in it as a girl, it had seats along the sides and was drawn by four horses, and the journey seemed long over the high hills. However, the road was vastly improved since 1833 when Thomas Need took a full day to make the trip by wagon. Chemong Park after 1880 became Peterborough's summer recreation centre, and dozens of cottages were erected along the shore.

The ballyhoo and shouting about all the spectacular sights at the big sportsmen's shows has quieted down to a mere whisper once again. But there was one small item, a matter of several hundred pamphlets handed out, of extreme interest to the Kawarthas. It totally escaped the notice of sharp-eyed observers.

Canada's finest, the Kawartha Water Ski School, will open at Viamede on Stony Lake on July 1st. It will be under direction of Norma Mackintosh Gordon of Bobcaygeon, twice Canadian Women's Champion and present title holder. Her brother, Gus Mackintosh, former Canadian Men's Champ, will assist her.

Norma started a small kindergarten school at 'Caygeon last year and succeeded in developing and training two present Canadian Junior Champs. They are Altamae Thomas, and Carol Ann Duthie.

I visited Norma in January and at that time she was busy getting ready to attend the New York Boat Show. Besides looking after her two charming kiddies in a large 11-room house, she handles the sales and bookkeeping of her husband's boat-building factory. And the auditor was there that day to complicate matters further. She suggested certain hints about teaching water skiing but made no statements. Her winter plans finally came to light this week.

After the New York show, Norma slipped down to Cyprus Gardens, Florida, and limbered up with the champs, and then disappeared to the Bahamas, where American Men's Champion Bruce Parker was instructing instructors at Nassau. Old Orchard farmers, Nancy and John Stuart, were at the West Indies Canadian colony, and Jack had his speedboat shipped down to "do the drag" for Norma.

Her Stony Lake school will offer instruction and practice on all types of skiing—slaiom, trick riding and jumping. Ski shows for regattas and aquatic events may be arranged for. Hotel owners Mrs. Ianson and son Bill are to be congratulated in arranging this new summer attraction at their hotel.

Original ownership of Stony Lake cottages often passes unnoticed. However, it will be of interest to many campers to know that Mrs. Alice Sanerson has disposed of her cottage at Boschink, between Upper and Lower Stony. Insurancemen Sackville of Peterborough are the purchasers. It is of personal interest to me—having spent many years across the channel from it — to learn that the Sackvilles, aside from trueing the building up, will leave it in its original state. Proper respect to pay to an established landmark.

Easter strollers were negligible last weekend, but there's no accounting for those who have drunk deep of the tea-coloured Kawarthas all their lives. Old timer Gerry Wood tells me he got the itch to get out on the water and drove his kicker from Burleigh to Juniper. Asked it was a bit on the cool side, Gerry shrugged and said, "There were no flies, anyway."

Until a good soaker of a warm rain comes there will be no smelt fishing down at "the Front." There was a run at Cobourg's Factory Creek on Thursday night,—too muddy, too rough, no luck. Rainbows are running too. BEWARE. While you are sweating around home awaiting your first try, why not rig up a sealed-beam car light and storage battery. Placed on the shore, it has a flashlight or bonfire beat all hollow.

Second Sportsmen's Show Afoot

Great plans afoot for Peterborough's second annual Sportsmen's Show. Execs of the PFGA have already sold considerable display for the big event on May 3, 4, and 5. I understand two large tents are to be erected at the entrance end of the Civic Arena to accommodate exhibits, and members are busy street-selling 12,500 lucky draw prize tickets—boat and motor, bicycle and fishing gear are the prizes. In addition to this, look to the heavens around the opening of the show and watch for showers of tickets to be dropped by air. Lucky number stubs will entitle lucky catchers to other valuable prizes.

Some of the attractions: PCVS students will demonstrate square dancing. Stan McBride and Al Blondin will demonstrate weight-lighting — o-o-o-ops! Bait casting school in pool and mongrel dog show. It's going to be quite a thing, all in all.

If you are a dog fancier, and whether you own a foxhound or not, it will be well worth your while to go see the foxhound field trials on Sunday, tomorrow. The meet starts at 8 a.m., four miles east of the city at the Five-Corner corners on the Warsaw Road. Will run all day. Kawartha Kennel Club posters will guide you on your way. More than 100 members are expected to be present with their pooches.

The McCrackens of McCracken's Landing Latch-String Out From Sgt.-Major's Day

By RICHARD F. CHOATE

(Ed. Note: This is the first of two instalments of Mr. Choate's article.)

Bob McCracken, of McCracken's Landing, Stony Lake, was a personality—and something more. He was an institution.

Son of Hamilton ("Hammie") McCracken, he was the third of his line to own and occupy the Dummer shore demesne.

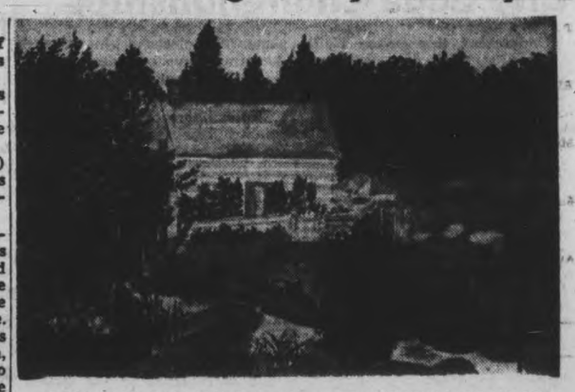
"William Robert" he was baptismally and officially. But as is commonly the case, the rigid nomenclature of Church and State claimed scant attention to the pulsing immediacies of real life. "Bob" he remained, or sometimes more intimately in the local idiom, "Red Bob." So he was known to the circle of his friends—a circle that constantly widened through the years of the Landing's transition, a period in which a stony, tangled path through the cedars to the water's edge became a gateway through which poured summer sojourners from all parts of the continent.

It was thus that the rugged personalities of the McCrackens took on increasingly an institutional aspect. Through the years, the McCracken latchstring was always out to the necessitous visitor who came to seek homegrown food supplies; a meal; or shelter; or a boat, or even directional guidance in the days when district maps were all but unknown.

In the early 1830's when Sergt.-Major William McCracken, the first of the family line, came to North Dummer the resurveys necessary to the placing of new settlers were just being completed. William McCracken was a native of Londonderry, Ireland. His wife, the former Susan Thompson, was born at Newry, Ireland. Service of 21 years in India with the British Army had won for the husband a grant of land in Canada.

After the customary six weeks' trip on a sailing vessel, the McCrackens arrived at Cobourg from Liverpool in 1832. Stout hearts and sound physiques were necessary for the undertaking of the wilderness journey of upwards of 50 miles to Stony Lake over the crudest of trail-roads and makeshift bridges. Such roads as there were to North Dummer had been cut rather hastily to permit the influx in 1831 of English immigrants, some of them pensioners, in accordance with the plans of Captain Rubidge. Provision for the settlement had admittedly been inadequate and a good many of the newcomers, as well as some of a party from Scotland who arrived in 1832, are said to have left. Some of the pensioners were accused of shiftlessness and Dummer settlement affairs about this time gave rise to cleavages of opinion.

William McCracken's army service grant gave him possession of a property fronting on Stony Lake and stretching about a mile on each side of the site of the present Landing.



Descriptions of the Stony Lake of the 1830's, most of them fragmentary, have been passed along in brief witten records but mainly in oral tradition. Mrs. Susanna Moodie writes in "Roughing It in the Bush" of her first glimpse of Stony Lake proper after a canoe trip up Clear Lake in 1835:

"Oh, what a magnificent scene of wild and lonely grandeur burst upon us as we swept around the little peninsula and the whole majesty of Stony Lake broke upon us at once, another lake of the Thousand Islands in miniature, and in the heart of the wilderness."

Oft retold have been the stories of how people of the time could pass afoot, in places over fallen trees, from McCracken's Landing to Juniper Island. It was even said that cattle could walk across. Looking at the present expanse of water, through which steamers have plied for years, the observer of today may find acceptance of the earlier stories a rather heavy strain on his credulity. Nevertheless, a little examination of the basic terrain confirms the measurable correctness of the traditional description.

Drowned Land

Stony Lake water levels fluctuated violently in the earlier years before public controlling works and reservoirs were established. Doubtless in the drier seasons of the year recession of the water made possible the land passage from some points on the Dummer shore to what was later Sheriff Hall's island or Juniper.

ORIGINAL HOMESTEAD OF THE FIRST McCRACKEN of McCracken's Landing, Stony Lake, Sergeant-Major William McCracken of the 18th Royal Irish. The log house was built in 1832. The picture is taken from an old water-colour by Mrs. Jeannie Bennett of Otonabee, a relation of the Sergeant-Major's wife.

WILLIAM ROBERT McCRACKEN, grandson of Sergeant-Major McCracken and known to many old timers of the district for his hospitality and service. He was born May 6th, 1850, and died in June, 1919.

Rocky shoals of varying shapes abound in the area close about and to the east of little "Emerald Isle" (once Gemmell's), which even in recent years have poked their heads well above the water surface. One such has been known as the "Chocolate Drop." In the area of what was called the "Third Line Creek" (near the Sheriff Hall island) stumps and broken tree trunks tell the story of "drowned lands." In the relatively recent past (let us say the early part of the last century) the channels thereabout doubtless were alternately dry and flooded according to the season. The fluctuations of that time, however, tell us little about the vast recession after the glacial age.

In the drowned lands and "duckponds" on the Dummer side of Boschink Narrows we find similar conditions. Hence we are driven to no hypothesis of a miraculous parting of the waters, as in the Red Sea crossing, to explain the legends of the cows walking over a land bridge without benefit of waders.

Surveyors' records throw interesting light on the helpful social services rendered by the McCrackens who had come to live on a rocky frontier at a time when frontiers were rolling back rapidly. The founding of a family home with a stable way of life was of inestimable benefit in the hinterland of a sparsely-settled township. (Dummer in 1835 had only 693 people).

Especially helpful to an understanding of the life and times of the pioneers are the field notes of Thomas Dennehy, a public land surveyor, made in 1840 and 1843, which passed into the possession of the late John Pierce, who with his son, Mr. John G. Pierce, the present Peterborough surveyor, contributed so notably to the work of their profession in both Western and Eastern Canada (especially in the Ontario-Manitoba boundary survey).

Surveyor's Log Book

Dennehy's "log-book" tells of visits to the Dummer shore area with a Mr Legallais in the early '40's, accompanied by Patrick Young of Young's Point. On November 12, 1840, he called at Gilchrist's Bay, a few miles from McCracken's, where the present writer's grandfather, Thomas Choate, had been engaged in 1837 with a force of some 25 or 30 men, in blasting out the Indian River channel to increase the flow of water to the mills he had been building at Warsaw.

Dennehy records that when he took the levels there the "water was low in Stony Lake in consequence of the Buckhorn dam being about finished." But, he adds, "the water is commencing to rise again to its wonted level; and it must be remembered that Young's dam (at Young's Point) which they are raising and is nearly finished will raise the level of Stony Lake to be at least two feet higher than White Lake. Hence 11 cubic feet of water will flow constantly with considerable velocity."

On May 21, 1843, while Dennehy was paddling up Clear Lake with Patrick Young, they found that their canoe was leaking hazardously, and was low in the water. They determined to go on to McCracken's (Lot 29, Con. 3, Dummer). The shore home, as usual, was equal to the emergency, for as Dennehy adds, "Got gum from him (McCracken) and fixed our canoe: was ready about five o'clock evening to go: it looked like rain, so we stopped there that night: it rained." The incident illustrates the variety of the demands made upon the hospitality and resourcefulness of the McCrackens and of the friendly services given to travellers whether they came by land or by water in quest of a haven from the elements.

In the morning, Dennehy continues, he "got off a skiff at McCracken's and another boy to go along and went to Peninsular Falls" (Burleigh). There he examined the sites for bridges. Through heavy rain he went back to McCracken's where he lodged again oevrnight. The next morning the lake was rough and "we had enough to do to get across in our little canoe." Proceeding to Boschink, the surveyor pushed up into Burleigh, visiting the Eel's and Jack's Creek area before returning to Peterborough.

The Grunt and Groan Boys

Rassling and Hockey At The Gardens

By BON VIVANT

I'm still far from convinced that wrestling, as shown each Thursday evening, at Maple Leaf Gardens isn't largely a staged spectacle. A large proportion of the audience, apparently does not agree with this view, judging from their reactions to the skullduggery of the Lee Hennings and other bad men of the ring.

I visited the Maple Leaf Gardens last week to watch Yukon Eric, a barrel-chested reputed lumberjack from Alaska, try conclusions with a tall, willowy gent, of matinee idol lineaments, billed as Lord Athol Layton, from Surrey, England. Athol may very well be a Lord for all I know, picking up a few fast bucks to keep the ancestral estates intact, by swapping holds with the grunt-and-groan boys.

Yukon Eric, like most rasslers, has a fine appreciation of the theatrical. He enters the ring attired in plaid shirt, blue-jeans, and high boots. Shirt and boots are discarded, of course, before the mayhem begins. Lord Athol, on the other hand, is the subdued type. He swaggers into the ring in a red velvet robe, with a white yoke reaching to his waist; the white I suspect is used to fool the paying customers into thinking it is ermine, the badge of royalty.

Full Indian Headdress

Another colorful figure at present laying his opponents flat with the "Indian death hold" is Chief Suni War Cloud. The Chief appears in a red blanket, and full Indian feathered headdress reaching to his ankles. He does a war dance, from the dressing room to the ring, and before coming to grips drops to his knees and has a private word with the Indian gods of victory.

After he has been properly mistreated by his opponent, the Chief gives a war-whoop, goes into his dance, and even the dullest customer knows that the good fella is going to triumph over the bad fella by means of the Indian death hold. This, so far as I can observe, harks back to the days when the Chief was a pretzel bender, as the bad fella is the living likeness of a pretzel by the time Suni War Cloud has finished with him.

This week's bout between War Cloud, who is popular with the fans, and Whipper Billy Watson, a Toronto rassling hero, is going to tear the loyalties of the devotees to shreds.

What I like about wrestling, even supposing it is, as I suspect, rigged to a greater or less degree, is the fanciful names the boys have for their clinching holds. Watson has the "Canuck Commando," War Cloud the "Indian Death Hold," Timmy Gohegan, the Irish strong man, has his "Irish Sleeper," and Yukon Eric the "Kodiak Krunch." They are all effective and I should guess more or less painful.

I must take in the Watson-War Cloud imbroglio, it sounds like an event on which $2 could be well expended.

Hockey Without Hewitt's Help

Having been intrigued by the rapid fire reporting of Foster Hewitt each Saturday evening when the Maple Leafs perform for the cash customers, I squandered some of my hard earned siller last Saturday to personally supervise the Leafs as they handed out a 4 to 1 defeat to the Boston boys. I can't claim to be a devotee of hockey, professional or otherwise, and was a little bored by the whole performance.

I will confess I did sit up and take notice when Max Bentley was on the ice. He is the old school type of player. Stick handling, skating ability, and a nice change of pace are his weapons, and after watching the other players put on a shinny match, the performance of Bentley is a welcome relief.

There was a time when I took in hockey matches and enjoyed them. However, they weren't professional matches and all the players on the local team were known to the audience personally. They might not be NHL material, but they were the best the town provided and two forward lines were the maximum any town could dig up. Not infrequently the defence men played the full sixty minutes, and didn't seem much the worse for their efforts after the game was over.

The Big Time Stuff

In present day professional hockey, and in the brand of professional amateur hockey which gets notice in the big time; the players change so often and there are so many of them that you can't tell who is doing what to whom. They change on the fly, on nearly every whistle, and whenever the director of their efforts sees a soft spot for one of his specialists.

I've come to the conclusion it is far more fun, and much more exciting, to listen to the broadcast than to see the actual game. The one fight which took place on Saturday was a dull affair. Except for the concentration of players in one spot, indicating something unusual, you couldn't tell whether they were scrapping or waltzing. Hewitt makes a turn-up like this sound as though he was giving an eye-witness description of the boys of the PPCLI taking a particularly difficult hill on the Korean front.

Having contributed $3.75 to the coffers of the Leafs I now expect them to earn their individual shares of my money by going on to take the Stanley Cup. This I rather expect they will do, even though I'm not a hockey expert, and any prognostications of Major Hoople to the contrary.

I know that a conscious artist is always right. I say "conscious", rather than "sincere", for there is something humiliating about the latter term. A true artist cannot be sincere. The imaginary, the false, if you please, used to create an illusion, is mankind's one great superiority over the animals, and, when he undertakes to create a work of art, the artist's one point of superiority over the rest of mankind. Anyone who rests his claim on so-called spontaneity alone, is merely babbling.—Maurice Ravel, 1937 (Mes Souvenirs d'Enfant Paresseux).

MUTTON HASHED IN THE STYLE OF VENISON

Take three pints of stock gravy, put it into a saucepan, and let them boil; then add a gill of port wine, some cayenne pepper and salt, some flour to thicken, and a little bit of butter; cut the mutton into slices and put it in, and let it simmer, for four or five minutes; do not let it boil, or the meat will become hard; make a nice puff paste, roll it out, then cut into diamonds and fry them in boiling fat; then dish the hash, placing the sippets of puff paste as a border round the dish. Serve with currant jelly.

To improve hashes, a well-seasoned gravy may be prepared by stewing bones, gristles, and trimmings, well seasoned with pepper, salt, and onions.

"Shall I cut this loin of mutton saddlewise?" said a gentleman. "No," said one of his guests, "cut it bridlewise, for then I may chance to get a bit in my mouth."

Neill's and Lindsay Win City Cage Championships

Undefeated this season Neills became girls' senior basketball city champions Friday night at the YWCA. They trimmed the Nurses for the second time in the past week 48-27 to take the championship series by 33 points, 99-66. They won the first game 51-39.

Lindsay Merchants (Grads), thanks to a spirited drive in the second quarter of Friday night's game won the girls' intermediate city championship from Blacks. The Merchants pulled through with a 25-21 win in the other game of the doubleheader to win the round by 53-48, winning last week 287-27.

Stitches Required

The Nurses required help from the doctors as they also took a physical beating. Anita Davis crashed headon with a Neills player and had three stitches to close a gash in her forehead. Leading the team in scoring this year, the Nurses missed her 10 to 15 points. Others received twisted knees and bruises.

Neills through points by Marg Freeman, Joan Dunk and Polly Stewart took a two-point lead at the quarter 8-6. They broke loose with fast-breaking plays in the second with Dot Callan, Grace Poast, Wilma Byers, Dunk and Stewart dropping in nine points to the Nurses' three by Joan Smith and Bev Pringle. The half ended 17-9.

Neills came through in championship style in the third to place the championship on their shoulders. They waltzed through with 17 points, eight by Dot Callan and the others by Dunk, Byers and Stewart. The Nurses replied with seven by Joan Plunkett, Bev Pringle and Mary Jane Collins.

Both teams opened up in the fourth with the Neills again outscoring the Nurses 14-11 with Joan Dunk flipping in nine points. The Nurses scoring was well divided between Joan Plunkett, Bev Pringle, Barbara Deyell, Fae Jones, and Jean Bell.

Joan Dunk's 15 points gave her the game scoring honors over teammates Dot Callan with 11 and Polly Stewart with 10.

Close Throughout Again

The score indicates the closeness of play in the intermediate game. The closechecking slowed the game down considerably and many jump-balls were called, mixed with numerous fouls.

Three foul shots and a basket allowed Blacks to keep close to the Lindsay Merchants in the first quarter. Shirley Alger and Marg Owens dropped in six points for Lindsay to give them the lead 6-5. The 12 points score by Shirley Alger, Marg Owens and Isobel Green for the Merchants in the second without a reply from Blacks gave them the championship. Their height combined with a fast break and poor checking by Blacks allowed them to pile up the points.

Blacks returned in the second half with a complete reversal of form and forced the Merchants throughout. They outplayed, outchecked and outscored Lindsay in the third quarter with Carol Ferguson, Rosie McInroy and Marg McIlvena adding up seven points to Lindsay's five by Marg Owens and Shirley Alger. The Blacks kept up the pace in the fourth quarter but the over-anxious girls were off the mark in their shooting. The Merchants were definitely off in shooting and only scored one basket, that by Shirley Meath. The nine points for Blacks went to Mary Knox, Rosie McInroy and Reta Naylor.

Shirley Alger led the scoring with 11 points and Marg Owens with 10.

TOMMY O'TOOLE, above, who will team up with Fred Atkins against Whipper Watson and Pat Flanagan next Tuesday at the Brock Arena. Tag team wrestling goes over big with the fans and this bout is a natural, featuring four of the best grapplers in the game. Lee Henning tackles Timothy Geohagen in the semi-final and Pierre LaSalle meets Abe Zvonkin in the opener.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

The 34th annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association to be held at London April 6 and 7 will deal with a heavy business agenda, Vern Clark, acting OBA secretary said Friday night.

The agenda includes a number of constitutional and by-law amendments in addition to election of officers.

Nominations for officers and executives are: for president, Fred Young, Chippawa, and W. F. Nickle, Stratford; first vice-president: Garrett F. Frankland, Toronto; James Millman, London; Harry Argent, St. Catharines. Secretary and treasurer are to be appointed by incoming executive.

Your Host, the high-priced race horse who was condemned to die, will be spared for further treatments in an attempt to save his life.

Owner William Goetz Friday night revealed that he has yielded to the offer of representatives of Lloyd's of London, the insurance company which has the policy on the horse.

Under the agreement, Goetz will accept the $250,000 insurance and the company will take charge of the four-year-old thoroughbred.

Your Host broke the ulna bone—a leg bone just below the trunk—in a fall during the running of the $50,000 San Pasqual Handicap at Santa Anita last Jan. 13.

Jack Kramer and Richard Gonzales each came up with his fourth victory without a setback Friday night in the $10,000 Philadelphia inquirer world professional tennis round-robin tournament.

The two meet today for the championship. Last year Gonzales upset Kramer in the finals.

Big Bill Tilden, one-time tennis king, is scheduled to make a farewell exhibition tour.

Lyttelton Rogers, former Irish amateur champion and active in professional tennis for 10 years, said Friday he has signed Tilden, now 58, for a" final swing around the country."

Rogers said the tour will start April 7 at Palm Springs, Calif., and will take in several Canadian cities.

World pocket billiard champion Willie Moscon won two more matches Friday to finish an easy first in the Ralph Greenleaf memorial tournament with a record of only one defeat in 12 starts.

The Havertown, Pa. cue star defeated Irving Crane, Binghamton, N. Y., 125-3 and disposed of George Chenier, Canadian titlist from Toronto, 125-42.

Chenier's record of eight victories against four losses gave him second place.

At New Glasgow, N. S., New York Rangers of the NHL opened their 15-day Maritime tour Friday night with a 12-5 victory over a Pictou county all-star team. Rangers lover-patted their way to a 12-1 lead by the end of the second period and then exchanged goalie and defences with the stars.

A Ball School Planned For May 11-12

A combined baseball and softball school for coaches and umpires will be conducted in Peterborough on May 11-12, Alex Sinclair, recreation director announced today. This school is sponsored by the Peterborough Recreation Commission and the Community Programs branch of the Department of Education.

Already across Ontario eight districts have applied for the school. Peterborough's application and acceptance makes nine. The objective of the school is to aid the coaches of minor league teams to develop better teaching methods and techniques. For this reason the programs branch uses those men who know the game and are able to teach it to others.

B. G. Lowes, advisor of physical recreation, said that it is taken for granted that the coaches who attend, have baseball or softball background. Through the medium of film strips, movies, demonstrations and discussions, the branch tries to leave with the participants some teaching technique that will enable them to do a more effective job.

First Session

The opening session on the evening of May 11 will have topics covering: the role of the coach and the umpire in promoting and developing baseball and softball as wholesome recreational activities for people; how the coach and umpire can co-operate to improve baseball and softball; some common rules that are misinterpreted by players and coaches.

The second session is divided into two sections for the coaches and umpires. The coaches' class is three films, the first on throwing, catching and hitting; the second on catching, throwing and fielding; and the third on hitting, base-runnng and pitching. At the same time, the umpires hold periods on deportment, positional coverage of play and conduct of a game, and rules interpretation. A third class for umpires will be held if necessary.

The final session of the school is on coaching aids and strategy. A demonstration of drills that will increase effectiveness of teaching fundamentals will be held first, followed by coaching strategy on the cut-off play, cover-up positions, bunting, stealing, pitch out, and intentional pass. The registration fee will be 50 cents.

Goderich Tramples Lindsay, Wins Crown

GODERICH, March 31 (CP)—The younger generation of hockey players must be made of stern stuff if the Goderich Pee Wees, the new Ontario champions, are any criterion. The local kids played their fifth game in three days and won them all.

With Billy Smith pacing the attack with four tallies they downed Lindsay 8-4 in a sudden death championship game.

Underdogs throughout the young Canada week tournament the locals turned back the favorites time and time again.

With the Ontario crown went the D. D. Mooney Trophy which was presented by Mrs. Mooney.

See Ski Jumping

LONDON, March 31 (Renters)—A crowd of 15,000 flocked to see a ski-jumping competition here Friday night, where there is neither snow nor mountains to ski on. It was held in a London park. An imported team of 32 Norwegian skiers did the jumping. A boat load of crated snow had been imported from Norway, and spread over a huge steel slide.

THE LOWDOWN—Mameluke takes time out in his stall in Kentucky to nibble on a carrot and tell Trainer Sylvester Veitch about his chances in the Derby, May 5. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's colt got in his preliminary preparation for the Run for the Roses at Hialeah.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Alas, since April 1 is Sunday, we can't open up today with a juicy whopper — an April Fool joke. So we'll mention the merry matmen instead. Another team wrestling match headlines next Tuesday's card here having the good guys, Pat Flanagan and Whipper Watson, in against the villainous Tommy O'Toole and Fred Atkins. The latter is a very tough baby (not a clumsy ox like Talun was) and he might well swing the balance in favor of his side. Lee Henning faces Timothy Geohagen in the semi-final, while Pierre LaSalle goes against Abe Zvonkin in the prelim. Thus we have a program featuring the Irish, Australian, French, Polish and Canucks. Sounds like a large evening.

Probably the last event of the season at Civic Arena, ere the ice comes out, will be Monday eve when the Trojan Athletic Club puts on its annual carnival. Costumed skating at 7.30, a broomball game between the executive and the juves (with probably a Santa Claus playing goal) at eight, and a big moccasin dance — little ones may be used, too — at nine. Lots of prizes and the admish is low, so drop around and have fun, at the same time helping this club raise funds to promote sports among the younger boys. Ice carnivals are always colorful and gay affairs.

PMHA Appreciated It

Prexy Les Mountey of the PMHA told us yesterday his association was most appreciative of those who aided in making the minor night a success. Red Creighton and the oldtimers he lined up for that interesting game; Len Symonds and the juniors; the Arena officials; the referees; Hal Cotton, and others. A fair-sized sum was raised to promote minor hockey here next winter, and everyone on deck night before last enjoyed the show. A good juvenile final — complete with free-for-all — some exciting races, and the oldtimers' game. A fitting windup to hockey here for this semester.

* * * * * *

Wonder how many feet there are from the Arena dressing rooms to the timers' box? Each game we travelled that distance and return, three times, and there were quite a few games we covered. Let's see now — 5,280 feet to the mile.. Hm.. Well, anyway, we've travelled our lost ice mile for this season shortly before the goloshes wore out. It is perhaps appropriate that our last game of the season had us covering the oldtime Petes. When we started sports writing, chaps like Jim Ellis, Jack Gardner, Archie Weir, Red Creighton and some more were in junior ranks. Others like Bun Kingdon, Les Burton, Drake Jopling and so on were still playing school hockey. Quite a few years back eh? They all had fine puck careers over a long span and most of 'em have hung up the skates. But it was nice to see them together again.

Thinks Redmen Better

Scribe Carver of Belleville bemoans the Redmen's loss in group playoffs to Nylons and says the better team did not win the final game. It was certainly a close fit for Kingston, at that. There was much grumbling over sale of ducats in the big new Limestone City arena, and Mike Rodden licks his pencil and writes: "Throughout a long campaign officials of clubs often gaze in consternation at financial returns and wonder if hockey has lost its thrilling appeal. But comes playoff time and the rush for pasteboards becomes congested. Tickets that couldn't have been given away are then as precious as gold, and everybody who ever knew anybody of influence begins to tap the strings. Generally, the most disgruntled among disappointed fans are those who are strangers to the various managements. It is all very sad." Yes, and 'twas ever thus.

Congratulations to Neill's seniors and Lindsay intermediates on capturing girls' city basketball championships last night in the YW. Neill's trimmed Nurses 48-27 to take the series 99-66, while Lindsay edged Black's 25-21 to win out 53-48 in a tight sawoff. Junior girls settle their crown next week. The PCVS boys didn't go to Kingston for the week-end tourney. St. Peter's and PCVS midgets tangle at eight p.m. Monday and four p.m. Tuesday in a two-game series, the winner going into the OABA midget tournament next Saturday at the Collegiate here. It looks like Toronto Adam Becks will play the local victor at three Saturday aft, with St. Mary's (from near London) meeting St. Kitts at 4.30. The final will be at night, and mayhap a consolation, too.

Believes Stage Has Had Real Revival

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 31 (AP) Thomas Mitchell, back in Hollywood after an extensive stage tour with "Death of a Salesman," says there's hope for the stage after all.

The living theatre, long the "fabulous invalid" of the show world, has been counted out on many occasions. First, movies came along to threaten the legit. Then radio. Now television.

But somehow the theatre has managed to survive, and Mitchell predicts it will continue to do so.

"Oh, it won't be anything like it was in the past," he remarked on the set of "Skid Row." "I can remember when there were 45 theatres in New York. Those days won't return. But there will always be an audience for what are called hit shows."

"This economic pinch in the theatre has been a good thing. It has weeded out the run-of-the-mill shows that have no reason to exist anyway. After all, there are only about two shows every season that amount to anything—four, if they count the musicals.

"These shows will continue to do business on the road. The others? Well, they're just junk. I should know. I've appeared in enough of them myself."

Successful Salesman

Mitchell said he found full houses and knowing audiences wherever he toured with "Salesman."

"There are no 'sticks' anymore," he said. "In this age of rapid communication, audiences are just as hep in Iowa as they are in Manhattan."

BIG BASIN

The Mississippi and Missouri rivers drain a vast area of 1,250,000 square miles.

Cage Player On 1st Team Dies In East

STELLARTON, N. S., March 31 (CP).—The Rev. Finlay G. MacDonald, a member of the first basketball team in the world, died at his home Thursday. He was 81.

Born at Sunny Brae, N. S., in 1870, he became interested in YMCA work and studied at Springfield, Mass. It was while in Springfield that he became a member of the pioneer basket squad.

"As I remember it," he told reporters some time ago, "we were playing football for Springfield College against other teams in the state."

"We were leaving the field after the first game of the season when the coach—that was Dr. James Naismith, another Canadian—said we needed a game that we could play inside during the winter.

"Somebody was carrying the goal posts in and he said 'bring that goal over and I'll hold it here.' Then he put a pail up on one of the posts. Another post was put at the other end of the gymnasium and somebody's hat was stuck up on it.

"We chose sides—there were nine a side then—and we played the first game, trying to throw that same football into the pail and hats.

"Of course we went into it pell mell and it was the strongest team that came out on top."

After the first or second game peach baskets were substituted for the pail and hat and there were rules added to tone down the style of play.

Wings Gunning For 1st Win Over Montreal

MONTREAL, March 31 (CP). —Detroit Red Wings and their entourage hit Montreal Friday night, paused briefly and then headed for Granby, Que., where they will stay until it's time for them to tangle with Montreal Canadiens at the Forum tonight.

The Wings now are trailing the Montrealers by two straight games in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series. The Wings, however, don't appear unduly worried.

"McNeil has been as hot as a pistol in the first two games," said general manager Jack Adams in the brief stop-over here. "He'll have to stay that way if Canadiens are going to beat us and I don't think he can. Nobody could."

The Red Wings are in good shape, with the exception of Marcel Pronovost, fast-skating rookie rearguard, who had stitches taken in his nose following a collision with Syl McNabney. But Pronovost will play tonight.

Canadians meanwhile remained over in Detroit and are expected here some time today.

On Injured List

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion is the only Canadien on the injured list. He was elbowed by Gaye Stewart in Thursday night's game and may be suffering from a broken nose.

Geoffrion arrived here Friday night, as coach Dick Irvin wanted to have X-rays taken to determine the extent of his injury. It is believed Geoffrion will line up with his mates.

Elmer Lach, who has a bad ankle, has only been able to play in spots, and Billy Reay has been filling in for him between Maurice Richard and Bert Olmstead.

The pressure now is definitely on the Wings, and Canadiens are sitting pretty. They have the first two games in the bag and the next two are being played on their home ice, generally an advantage.

Leafs Tougher Bruins Expect

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Boston Bruins expect to contend with an improved team of Toronto Maple Leafs tonight. And they'll be ready for anything.

That's how Weston Adams, Bruins president, sizes up the outlook for the second game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final. The Bruins, fourth-place finishers in the National Hockey League's scheduled season, stole a march on the second-place Leafs with a 2-0 victory in the opener.

"We know that every game is different," says Adams. "We were lucky in catching the Leafs off balance in the first one. We threw the first punch and it was a winner.

"And we know that the Leafs will be better for the second game. Our whole squad knows that—and I think we'll be ready for them."

Each team will be short a regular left wing. Vic Lynn, former Leaf who plagued his old team mates with a vigorous game Wednesday night, is the Boston absentee. He aggravated an old leg injury.

Jack Carson Heads Belleville Ball Group

BELLEVILLE, March 31 — At a meeting Thursday night Jack Carson was elected president of the newly formed Belleville Baseball Association, an association formed for the purpose of fostering senior and minor baseball in Belleville.

Orliffe Lloyd was named vice-president. Drury Denyes will serve as treasurer, and Roy Robinson secretary. Directors include Paul Haggis, Bill Warren, Charlie Mott, "Mac" Robb, Claude D. Tice, Stan Hagerman, J. N. Yanover, Murray Davis and Don Thomas.

The association will enter a team in the Central Ontario Senior Baseball League.

A committee composed of Bill Lockyer, Vic Picknell, Frank Grandame and Walter Bent was named to supervise minor baseball.

Monarchs Blank Tigers To Clinch OHA Series

By The Canadian Press.

The Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs are the first team ever to wear championship laurels in the Ontario Hockey Association major league.

Their 2-0 blanking of Hamilton Tigers Friday night in Toronto won them the best-of-seven final series with a 4-1 game margin and the right to meet the winner of the round-robin final in the Western Canada major league.

At stake is the Alexander Cup, up for competition for the first time among Canada's five top loops.

It was Toronto's night in junior A ranks of the OHA Friday night, too, as Marlboros lowered the boom on St. Catharines Teepees on Teepees' home grounds.

Before the biggest St. Catharines crowd of the season—almost 4,000 — Marlies beat the home town boys 7-3 and took the best-of-five semi-final 3-1. They now square off with Barrie Flyers in Barrie Monday night for the opener of a best-of-seven final.

Goalie Stars

Monarchs' big man of the night was their lanky goalie, Phil Hughes, who scored his second shut-out of the season when he beat off all Tiger attacks without a miss. Both were against Tigers in this series.

The only goals in the affair came in the dying minutes of the middle stanza, the first off the stick of Dusty Blair and the second by Willie Marshall, up from junior ranks for the series.

A note of humor stole into the junior tiff when St. Catharines' Pierre Pilotte tangled with Marlies' Ron Hurst and Hurst was thumbed off for charging. Pilotte, who understands little English, thought he also was in hot water and followed Hurst to the box. Officials were almost ready to start the game again before they noticed the mournful French Canadian and rushed to his rescue.

Eric Nesterenko and Earl Balfour scored twice for Marlboros, Bill McFarlane, Ron Hurst and Parker MacDonald accounting for the other Toronto tallies. Jim Robertson, Pilotte and Buddy Boone were the Teepees' marksmen.

Want To Raise Standards For Magistrates

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP) — The Ontario section of the Canadian Bar Association called upon the provincial government Friday to raise the standards of appointment of local magistrates in Ontario.

The annual meeting adopted a resolution which also urged that the government provide "closer scrutiny during tenure of local magistrate."

There was no debate but bar officials said it was not intended as criticism of magistrates now in office. Rather, it was a criticism of a system which burdens magistrates with too much work.

Earlier, E. L. Haines, K.C., Toronto lawyer, told the meeting that sanitary conditions in some Canadian courts would not "even rate a 4-F rating in a tourist camp." Ninety per cent of police courts generally were in "dirty, dingy rooms."

Say Rita Hayworth Plans Separation

NEW YORK, March 31—(AP)—The New York Post, in a story by Columnist Earl Wilson, said Friday that Rita Hayworth is considering a separation from Prince Aly Khan.

The former film star and her two daughters are due to arrive Monday on the liner Degrasse.

The Post said news of differences between the couple had been trickling back.

Merrill Muttart Purchase Lumber Firms

Prominent Canadian lumberman, Merrill Muttart, took over the Armstrong Lumber Limited this week. The sale to Mr. Muttart included both branches of the company, the Peterborough and the Port Hope yards. These lumber yards will be affiliated with the lumber branches already owned by Mr. Muttart at Brantford and Paris.

Large extension plans are nearing completion for the Peterborough branch, Mr. Muttart intends to build additional factory space, an office and showroom at the local site on Highway 28, just beyond the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

The plans for the new mill have been completed and the actual construction work is expected to begin soon.

For the past five years the Armstrong Lumber Ltd. has supplied the local district with lumber and building supplies. The company grew rapidly under the direction of the late Gordon Armstrong, former alderman, who died suddenly a year ago. With the extension work planned, the company also plans to extend the service to cover all building supplies.

George Lancaster will be general manager of the Peterborough and Port Hope yards. For five years he has been closely associated with the Armstrong Lumber Ltd. Mr. Lancaster has 17 years experience in the lumber business.

Four Unionists Resign Council

TORONTO, March 31 (CP). — Four men resigned Friday from the Canadian Advisory Council of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO-CCL), charging that recent changes have placed too much control in the hands of the administration.

The move was the latest in a jurisdictional dispute which reached its climax earlier this month when Sam Baron was dismissed as Canadian director of the union by International President Emil Rieve.

The four resigning council members were Jack Robinson of Hamilton, Lea Tessier of Cornwall, George Watson of London, Ont., and Richard Gorman, representing the Maritimes. Their districts represent about 85 per cent of the union's Canadian membership of 20,000.

Representatives of the dissident faction will meet today in a national conference to discuss Baron's dismissal. The Canadian Congress of Labor announced on Thursday that it will send executive secretary Norman Dowd to the meeting as its spokesman.

Baron charged following his dismissal that he had been ousted for supporting George Baldanzi, executive vice-president of the union, when Rieve attempted unsuccessfully to oust Baldanzi at an international convention last year.

Harold Daoust, Baron's successor as Canadian director, has described today's meeting as a "rump" conference.

Ferrer Award Slap At Critics

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP)—Jose Ferrer said Friday that his winning of a Hollywood Oscar for 1950's top film performance by an actor was a direct slap at those trying to smear him as a Communist.

Ferrer, who was voted filmdom's most-prized award for his acting in "Cyrano de Bergerac," heard of his triumph in a small Spanish night club.

Piped in on a radio hookup, Ferrer told listeners he considered his victory "an act of faith and a vote of confidence."

As the celebration in the roaring night spot wore on, he explained what he meant.

"This is a direct rebuke to the people who tried maliciously to affect the voting by things that are (a) beside the point and (b) untrue," he said.

The actor, who is under subpoena to appear before the House of Representatives Un-American Activities Committee April 25 in its investigation of Communist influences in Hollywood, was asked whether he was alluding to political references. He said he was.

Cayuga On Way Home Reaches Pearl Harbor

PEARL HARBOR, March 31—(AP)—The Canadian destroyer Cayuga arrived here Thursday after nearly eight months' service in the Korean war theatre. The vessel leaves today for Canada and reassignment.

The Cayuga led an Allied destroyer force to Chinnampo, western Korea port, last December to assist in the evacuation of 7,000 United Nations troops during the withdrawal from North Korea.

Havelock Members Will Hear Missionary

HAVELOCK, March 31. — A special missionary service will be held in the Havelock United Church on Sunday evening when the Rev. Elda S. Daniels, B.A., a returned missionary from Korea will be the guest speaker. Miss Daniels was connected with the EWHA Woman's University, Tai Hyun Dong, Sudaimoon Ku, Seoul, Korea.

Miss Daniels will appear in native Korean costume and will dress two members of the Mission Band in Korean costume to illustrate her message. The service will be conducted by members of the WMS and Evening Auxiliary.

Following the service a fellowship period of singing and greeting will be held in the Sunday school auditorium.

But there remained formidable obstacles in the path of complete settlement of the two-year argument, which has been punctuated by strikes.

Three other operating railroad unions, conductors, firemen and engineers promptly announced they declined to go along with the trainmen.

Trainmen president W. Park Kennedy asked exclusion of one basic point from arbitration. That is the issue of how much money trainmen would be paid for coupling air hoses when they are called upon to do this work. He said this should be a matter for negotiation between the union and individual railroads.

Ask Manitoba Legislature Members To Approve Indirect Sales Tax Up To 3 Per Cent

By The Canadian Press

The Prince Edward Island legislature prorogued Friday to become the second provincial house completing its 1951 legislative program.

The Quebec legislature ended its session before Easter.

Final act of the P.E.I. legislature was to approve legislation giving to municipalities the power to impose rent controls after May 31, one month from the date the federal government is due to quit the rental field.

Meanwhile members of the Newfoundland legislature were told that their island province is "staggering into bankruptcy."

Pointing to a $10,000,000 deficit for 1949-50, Peter J. Cashin (Ind.—Ferryland) said that within two years "the people of Newfoundland will be fairly well off and the government will be bankrupt."

The chamber later adjourned until April 9 to allow members to aid in fishermen's meetings.

To Bring Down Budget

At Fredericton, Provincial-treasurer J. G. Boucher of New Brunswick gave notice he will bring down his budget next Tuesday.

The Nova Scotia legislature, headed for prorogation next week, spent a quiet day yesterday discussing welfare department estimates.

Manitoba Plans

At Winnipeg, Attorney-General C. Rhodes Smith gave notice that members will be asked Monday to concur in a federal scheme to allow provinces to levy indirect sales taxes of up to three per cent. Implementation of the scheme requires the legislature's approval of a constitutional amendment. At present the provinces may levy only direct taxes. Continued rent control was assured, as well, after April 30 when the federal government vacates that field.

At Edmonton members from all sides of the Alberta legislature joined in criticizing Arthur Wray (Ind-SC—Banff-Cochrane) after he voiced opposition to Canada's rearmament program and association with United Nations fighting forces.

Charge He's Communist

Economic Affairs Minister A. J. Hook called Mr. Wray a "rank Communist." Others attacking Mr. Wray's stand included Premier E. C. Manning, Liberal Leader Harper Prowse and C.C.F. Leader Elmer Roper.

Saskatchewan's 1951-52 estimates were approved. In the coming fiscal year, the government will spend $57,977,850 on revenue account and $15,031,550 on capital account.

Health department estimates occupied the legislature for all of the eight hour sitting.

At Victoria, Lands Minister E. T. Kenney told the House that aluminum Company of Canada is already spending $500,000 a week in British Columbia on its $550,000,000 development.

He estimated the company would pay $28,000,000 to the province in taxes during 25 years of construction and would pay $7,500,000 a year when under full operation.

Puppet S[illegible] Used To Teach School Subjects

YORKTON, Sask. — (CP) — Puppet shows are being used in Yorkton schools to teach social studies, hygiene, drama and literature.

Teachers report that the idea is received enthusiastically by students of all ages.

At a recent teachers' meeting, Miss B. McClure and her Grade II students of Victoria school worked string puppets to demonstrate the fairy story of Goldilocks and the Three Bears.

Grade IV Simpson school pupils of Miss P. Summers used glove puppets to act out an Indian legend.

Miss M. Gould of the collegiate staff, who this year is teaching the play Julius Caesar with the aid of puppets, told the meeting that Egypt probably was the first home of puppets.

Crudest Puppets Best

Some puppets seen in modern theatres, Miss Gould said, are from three to five feet in height and have to be moved by iron rods. She said that for school use an important point to bear in mind is that the crudest puppets are usually most effective.

Children enjoy making the heads and the costumes. The former are made of papier-mache (torn up and soaked newspaper), sawdust or rags, the latter being as satisfactory as any because you can use pins on them easily. Steel-wool, cotton-batting and ravelled-out rope or yarn make realistic hair, Miss Gould said.

Gift From Singer Jenny Lind Basis For Children's Home

By TIM DICKSON.

TORONTO, March 31 (CP). — A gift from singer Jenny Lind led to establishment of the Protestant Children's Homes, which now provides a foster home service for between 250 and 300 Toronto children.

The organization, celebrating its 100th anniversary the first week in April, dug into its files for a glimpse at the circumstances surrounding its beginnings in Toronto's early days as a city.

In 1851 the Swedish Nightingale sang here and the warmth of her reception prompted her to donate the proceeds of one of her concerts to city charities. Two hundred pounds was offered for a new building for the Orphans' Home, then a struggling venture in a downtown dwelling, provided that citizens matched that amount with donations within 10 days.

Given Shelter

The money was raised and in the new building orphans and other children whose parents were unable or unfit to care for them found the shelter and attention that had been largely lacking after the old village neighborliness gave place to the impersonality of a young city.

With moves to larger and better quarters, the organization carried on a residential program for orphans and operated a girls' residence until 1926, when it changed over to finding and supervising foster boarding homes for children.

Kept Close To Home

It looks after Toronto children up to 16 years, placing them temporarily with families within a 35-mile radius of the city. The children with whom it is concerned are those whose special needs cannot be made in their own family circle and for whom a substitute home is desirable.

Among such children of all ages are those whose mothers are ill, deserted or dead, those whose physical condition requires a particular type of care and emotionally disturbed children who are under psychiatric guidance and for whom foster-home care is requested as part of the treatment.

"We no longer speak of underprivileged, destitute or delinquent children in categories as they did 100 years ago," says Nora Lea, executive director.

Operating Budget

With an operating budget of roughly $200,000 a year, contributed in part from the Toronto Community Chest, the home pays foster parents out-of-pocket expenses averaging $28 to $30 a month, depending on the age and condition of the child to whom they open their hearts and home.

Couples who have had happy experiences in acting as foster parents tell their friends who are interested in looking after a child for a few months. Most offers of homes come from this group. In some cases, the foster parents are found through advertisements. Always, the organization interviews applicants and considers their home atmosphere before sending out a child.

It has no authority to handle adoptions, which are arranged by the Children's Aid Society.

Marmora Guild Honors Rector

MARMORA, March 31—(ENS) Presided over by Mrs. R. G. Winters, the March meeting of St. Paul's WA was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. Hewitt, the attendance being somewhat smaller than usual. Canon J. M. Brownlie led the special Litany and offered prayer.

The secretary, Mrs. Frank Leal, read the report of the diocesan board meeting held in Kingston in March.

The branch placed on record its pleasure in the parish being honored by the appointment of the rector as canon of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, and the sincere hope was expressed that Canon Brownlie might long continue his work in the church that he has served so faithfully.

Canon Brownlie replied feelingly to this gesture.

Mrs. R. G. Winters offered her home for the April meeting. The study on "Islam" was continued under the leadership of the rector. The meeting closed with prayer and benediction. Refreshments were served.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION: I am 20 years old and have been married since last fall. My husband's mother is very kind and comes over to help me learn to bake. My husband brought home some packages of yeast when we read your recipe for Hot Cross Buns and he helped me make them and they were wonderful. He took some to his mothers' and she said so too. She makes her own bread. I can't tell you how much you help me. I never miss reading your column.

If you use hamburg yourself would you tell me your recipe for meat balls? The kind you make for spaghetti with meat balls?

Anna

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are very lucky girl Anna to have such a fine helpful husband—and mother-in-law. I will try to do my share to help you learn to be the best cook in your town. Thanks for such a letter. It warmed the cookies of my heart.

Meat Balls

Two pounds ground lean beef, 2 eggs, 1 cup dry breadcrumbs, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 clove of garlic chopped so fine it looks like powder, 1 cup juice. Mix these ingredients together with the hands in a large bowl. Form into balls about 2 inches in diameter. Fry in 3 or 4 tablespoons fat. In this fat you may gently fry 1 finely chopped onion before you fry the meat balls. When browned on all sides add canned tomatoes and let simmer, covered, 1 hour. Serve on hot boiled spakhetti, then sprinkle with grated cheese.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I have been watching your column for some time hoping to get a recipe for sauce for a shrimp cocktail. Last week you mentioned shrimp but no sauce. The recipe I would like is used at the Hotel —— and has tomatoes in some form in it.

Your column is a great deal of help to me; though I have been cooking for some years apparently I still have a great deal to learn.

I especially like your versatility and your way of going into details, which is unusual in an ordinary recipe.

Would you enclose a calories chart in your answer? Mrs. M. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I have sent the calorie chart.

Thank you for your pleasant compliments. My ego needed a lift today.

I have tasted that very cocktail sauce you mention. I can't vouch for this one I am giving you being a duplicate but it is good.

Cocktail Sauce (for shrimp, etc.)

Two-thirds cup best quality catsup, 3 tablespoons chili sauce, 2 tablespoons bottled horseradish, 3 tablespoons lemon juice and if desired a dash of Angostura bitters and a shake of tabasco. Mix well and chill.

What's Right

It is necessary for you to correct your school age child in front of his friends.

WRONG: Bawl him out, if you feel he deserves it, or if you are sufficiently annoyed.

RIGHT: Be as firm as you like, but be courteous or you will embarrass and shame him in front of his friends.

DOROTHY DIX

Middle-Age Marriage Way To Avert Loneliness

You are young now. And pretty. And popular. What will you be when you are 40? When you are 50? When you are 60? How will you look then? Will you still be charming? Will people seek your society, or avoid you as they would the plague?

Dorothy Dix

When the average woman faces these questions she begins counting her calories and grabs her hat and rushes to the nearest beauty shop, for the feminine sex has a simple and childlike faith in the power of diet and cosmetics to preserve their attractions and keep them persona grata to their fellow creatures. Alas and alack however, a lipstick is a broken reed on which to lean in one's journey down the years; there comes a time when the rouge pot fails, and not all the facials in the world will wipe out the lines that living has made. Then indeed a woman is lost who has not provided against age and acquired other charms to take the place of those which Time has robbed her.

When we are young we are even as God made us, but when we are middle-aged and elderly we are what we have made ourselves. Almost all young girls are attractive, but it takes a lot of work and intelligence and being perpetually on the job for a woman to keep herself charming. That is a stark fact thatt oo many women ignore. The line of fascinations that made her a belle at 20 make her a bore at 40 She has to be continually adding to her stock of attractions and changing her merchandise if she wants to keep her public.

We've All Seen It Happen

All of us have had illuminating experience along these lines. We have met, after a lapse of many years, some friend of school days who has always stood out in our memories as an adored ideal. She was so beautiful, so gay, so vivacious, the life of every party. She took the prizes at school. She was the best dancer. She was voted the most popular girl. She was tops in everything.

But when we saw her in later life what a shock! What a change! Her beauty was gone. Her slimness lost in fat. Her gay laugh silenced. All that had made her so attractive as a girl wiped out as if it had never been, and in its stead a stolid, commonplace, dull and peevish woman who had lost the charms of youth and had not replaced them with the greater charms of maturity.

And who has not seen the opposite of this happen, and a girl who was an ugly duckling in her youth turn into a swan in later life? I often think of a girl I knew who was big, overgrown and clumsy, with no beauty to boast of and so self-conscious and timid it made her seem dull. At school she was always passed over. The boys never dated her and even her own family were half-ashamed of her and kept her in the background.

But by the time she was middle-aged, Cinderella had come out of the kitchen and into the drawing room, where she reigned like a queen. She who had been homely as a young girl was beautiful with her crown of snow-white hair. She had acquired poise and dignity and learned how to dress. She had read and studied until she was the most interesting of companions and had literally made herself into the kind of woman she wanted to be.

Start Working On It

So can we all to a great extent, and it is worthwhile when we are sweet-and-20 to begin considering what we want to be at hard-and-50 and start to do something about it. True, we cannot stop the clock and set it back. We can work no miracle that can keep us young and beautiful, but we can keep ourselves easy on the eyes by refusing to become mountains of fat or bags of bones and by wearing pretty clothes and learning how to do our hair.

Each woman of us decides for herself whether at middle-age she will be beloved by her family, adored by her friends, welcomed wherever she goes, or whether she will be one of the women whom everyone fears and dreads and dodges whenever possible. For when we are middle-aged people are not attracted to us by our complexions or our brilliance. They love us for our sweetness, for our unselfishness, for our tenderness and consideration of others.

Every woman decides for herself when she is young whether she will be peevish and fretful, or a good sport when she is old. She decides whether she will be one of the fascinating conversationalists that every man hopes to draw as a dinner partner, or a tiresome bore whose only topic is her major operation. She decides whether she will be the only woman to her husband, or whether he will be seeking the Other Woman. And she decides whether her children will look upon Mother as a combined angel and oracle, or a pest. Which do you want to be?

Dutch Youth

farm in 1909. But he died in 1916 and his three sons—Chester was 13—carried on the farm.

Later the two brothers left the farm to buy other farms and Chester stayed. As he prospered he bought two other farms until he had a total of 350 acres.

His Dutch helper came to the farm in August of 1949. The young Hollander could speak no English not even enough to be able to tell train officials where he was going.

Now Can Speak English

But in the year and a half since, Fetze has learned English remarkably well. He speaks with very little accent and has a wide vocabulary.

He acquired his vocabulary by reading everything he could get his hands on. There isn't a book in the Hamilton home he hasn't read.

In Holland he worked on a farm but work in Canada has been quite different for him. There was no sap run for instance, but Fetze has learned quickly to adapt himself to Canadian farming.

Mr. Hamilton said he is a good worker and he is so impressed with him that he is also hiring Fetze's brother who is now on his way over from Holland.

For Mr. Hamilton his round-the-season work is much the same old story. There have been some changes. About six years ago, he bought the pails which he painted yellow on one side and orange on the other.

Why Pails Painted

When a pail is emptied, it is turned around so that the opposite color shows. That way he can tell at a glance what pails have been emptied and which have not.

At one time he sold his syrup for $1.60 a gallon. This year he is selling it for $4.50 a gallon. Most of it is sold to customers he has in Peterborough and Lakefield.

He has been delivering syrup to some of his customers every year for 25 years. Until this spring he shipped syrup every year to a customer in Vancouver. The high point arrived one year when he shipped syrup to a son of a Peterborough man who was in Buenos Aires in Orgentina. He keeps about four gallons for his own use.

And what does the syrup taste like this year- It's declicious.

Obituary

MELVILLE MILLAR

Melville Millar, Young's Point, died suddenly today in Civic Hospital on his 68th birthday.

He was born in Smith township, the son of David Millar and Mary Pearce, and lived in the township all his life except for three years he spent in Douro.

Most of his life he farmed. In later years he did general work in Young's Point. He received his education at SS 6, Smith township and was a member of St. Aiden's Anglican Church in Young's Point.

Mr. Millar is survived by his wife, the former Alma Hatton, four daughters, Mrs. Elmer Tighe (Berniece), Peterborough; Mrs. Jack Andrews (Janet), Norwood; and Shirley at home; five sons, Orville of Smith township, Arnold of Lakefield, and Donald, William and James of Peterborough; three sisters, Miss Jessie Millar, Miss Annie Millar, and Miss Ethel Millar, all of Smith township; three brothers, Zack, of Smith township; David of Lakefield, and Hilliard of Toronto; and six grandchildren.

The body is resting at the Hendren Funeral Home in Lakefield. The funeral service will be held in the funeral home Monday at 2 p.m., Canon F. J. Fife of St. Aiden's Church officiating. Interment will be in Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

Pipe Loosened From Heater

The gas which killed three people in their Donegal St. home may not have come directly from the furnace as at first thought. Two bachelor brothers, Joseph and William Hagerman and their sister Mrs. Mary Cowie were found dead Thursday night.

Patrol Sergeant Claire McGillen took furnace man Mel Turner and Tommy Chapman to inspect the furnace and try to find the cause of the gas.

They found that a pipe leading from a jacket heater which sits beside the furnace had pulled away from the furnace pipe leading to the chimney pipe.

They also found that cement from the base of the fire box in the heater had been reduced to mere powder. Dirt in around the register in the rear bedroom used by Mrs. Cowie showed that gas had been escaping into the room before the night of the accident.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said he believed gas had also escaped from the damper flap which did not close tightly when shut off by the automatic controls working from a thermostat. He warned householders to inspect their damper and draft chains and pulleys to make sure they worked smoothly and fitted tightly as they should.

County Council

Anti-Butter Resolution

The whole business was triggered off after an anti-butter resolution was read from the secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers Association.

The resolution says: "That owing to the disastrous results to the dairy industry by the continued use of margarine, that the said meeting, after due discussion, take the necessary action and request all the county councils and districts in this province to refrain from giving any grants to any institution within its jurisdiction that makes use of margarine in any form."

Endorsation was sought from the Peterborough county council.

Council moved to receive the communication.

Reeve James Gifford, Ennismore, who has more than a nodding association with the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers Association, conceded that the Beachville local of the Association, which initiated the resolution, "may or may not be too well informed."

Resolution "Unfortunate"

After branding it "unfortunate," he passed on to the Examiner editorial.

"I would think that before anyone would write an article like this they would have investigated it further. Butter has restrictions as to moisture etc. while these same restrictions don't apply to margarine."

"It is in the interest of not only the producer of dairy products but also the consumer that they don't have to deal with a large amount of margarine."

Reeve Gifford said the purpose of the newspaper was to furnish information to city and country dwellers and help promote harmony between them.

"As part of the rural community I think we should have some explanation . . . this rotten thing was thrown out by somebody not too well informed."

After a general denunciation of the editorial the council decided to register a protest with the Examiner "that an instrument of city and county informaion would stoop to such remarks as are in the editorial of March 29."

Burglars Enter 2 City Garages

Two garages, Irwin-Godson and Williamson Bros. both on George St. were broken into Friday night, but as far as could be seen this morning, nothing was taken.

Constables Louis Rodreque and Jack Wilson checking businesses in the outlaying districts found a window on the north side of the Williamson garage broken and a west door insecure.

The dials had been knocked off a wall safe and a larger floor safe, but neither had been cracked open.

Detective William Aggas, who investigated both breakins reported that the garage owners could find nothing missing.

When employees went to work this morning at the Irwin-Godson garage they found someone had broken in. A small piece of glass had been knocked out a window on the south side of the building. A pair of pliers that was substituting for a bolt had been slipped out of place to let the thief in.

Drawers in a desk in an office in the garage section of the building had been opened, but nothing taken apparently. A door leading into the parts department was smashed.

Patrol Sergeant Claire McGillen and Constable Edward Patterson carried out a preliminary investigation. Both garages handle cars produced by the same company.

ANCIENT COLLEGE

The "Fourth Form Room" at historic Harrow School in England dates from 1608.

Rotary Club

accomplishments in that physical rescue of children only through the gratitude of their parents as on occasions they acknowledged the club's samaritan intervention.

The Rotary Camp for boys was chiefly inspired by Claude Rogers. It was acquired and developed on the east side of Clear Lake, was conducted for years, and latterly has been under lease to the Y's Men's Club at a nominal rental of one dollar a year.

Tribute To John Seels

Mr. Roy also wrote into the record of his booklet the splendid contribution to Rotary by the late John Seels. As perennial chairman of its carnival committee, the club's treasury received more than $25,000 to help cover the cost of Rotary's expenditure in community benefactions. Mr. Seels joined the club in 1921 and had a perfect membership record for ten years.

That faithfulness in attendance continued three years more. Illness at length forced Mr. Seels to resign in 1937.

These are only brief references to the good works Rotary has to its credit in the 3 0years of its bright record in Peterborough. Other engagements were the Student Loan Fund, begun in July 1923, as recommended by the late Dr. H. R. H. Kenner; Christmas baskets distributed at first under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Harold Young; receiving and aid-aiding war guest families from Britain. On that aid alone, the club disbursed $3,175 in five years.

Dignity Chasing

Fellowship has always been a means and an end in Rotary, and probably its finest reward. Its ideals and objectives have inspired and fused association into abiding friendships. Original program planning was designed to cultivate goodwill and good humor, and to bring out human qualities from beneath natural and acquired layers of personal dignity.

Rotary realized no doubt that it was seeking in membership men of diverse social types and inclinations along the psychologic range from extrovert to introvert With the latter it was a problem to break through shells of reserve, and the help of fun and the spotlight was directed toward them as frequently as to their opposites, eager fellows usually described as the life of the party.

In the early days the Sergeant At Arms had a merry time of it, especially in the levy of fines and in singling out members to face the assembly in one way or another.

The fining prank was one of the forms of fun and good natured amusement. The Sgt. at Arms had considerable latitude at first, and offences might be real or fictitious. Late comers were liable to mulcting; too loud a tie might be frowned upon and the tin collection pan would be thrust in front of the victim. Sitting two meetings in the same place might incur a penalty. This was a fun, rather than a fund raising practice.

The "Flower" Song

Those were also the days of "The Little Prairie Flower", and it is understood that Ross Dobbin, Sergeant At Arms for Monday, intends to revive it for the occasion.

Everybody was required to stand for the singing of the Flower Song, and to go into the dance,—or else.

For men like John Crane, bank manager, and Reg Turner, Rollie Denne, that was right up their alley. They revelled in such stunts. Even Alex Mowat, School Inspector, and Simon Armstrong, City Clerk, both men of quiet and reserve, went along with the fun. But, there were several manufacturers in the charter list who balked at such sportive intrusion on their dignity, and quit, at least so it used to be said.

However, the gay and festive spirit helped make better Rotarians in so far as it attracted to the top their innate human qualities.

The verse of the song was:
"I'm a little prairie flower,
Growing wilder every hour;
Nobody seems to cultivate me
For I'm as wild as I can be".

In the singing they had to hold the index finger of the right hand over the head, and do a dance pivot. It was incongruous, but that's the essence of a lot of fun.

V. J. McElderry Speaker

Chris Graham is going to be chairman of part of the Monday program, sharing it with Hugh Waddell, and the speaker will be V. J. McElderry.

It is reported that Ross Dobbin as Sgt. At Arms, is going to blow the dust of the Flower, and that should lay them in the aisles as it used to. However, this present generation of Rotarians has become imunized to such prankishness in the program, and probably it may lack some of the ludicrous effect of the original performances.

After such sessions of singing and fining, these same Rotarians were the men whose programs turned at once to such kindly and helpful acts as caring for crippled children, taking boys in kindly hand, appointing barkers for the summer carnival show.

The first executive board, replacing the provisional organizing committee, was:

Pres.—Fred L. Roy.
Vice-Pres.—John Crane.
Sec.—V. J. McElderry.
Treas.—Frank Linton.
Sgt.-At-Arms—Chris. Graham.

Present officers are:

W. G. Haultain Aged 89 Dies In Regina

Born in Peterborough 89 years ago, Wilmot Gordon Haultain died in a Regina hospital last Sunday. He was a brother of the late Sir Frederick Haultain, former Chief Justice of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Haultain left Peterborough in 1880 and took up homsteading in Manitoba. He later worked with an engineering party that helped lay out the course of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and assisted in its construction. He then turned to ranching until 1893, when he entered a Regina law firm and was called to the bar. He joined the land titles office in Regina in 1901, and then went to the Yukon office. He returned to Regina, and in 1923 became master of titles for Saskatchewan.

He leaves a sister, Miss Clara Haultain, and niece, Helen, both of Montreal.

Two military brothers Haultain came to Peterborough from India almost a century ago, probably in the late 1850's. They were Lieut.-Colonel Frederick W. Haultain and Major-General Francis M. Haultain, both of whom died here and are buried in Little Lake cemetery.

Fred W. Haultain died on Dec. 9, 1882, and Francis M. Haultain on April 3, 1900. There were children to both families.

Sir Frederick Haultain, Wilmot and their sister, Miss Clara Haultain, were of the Col. Fred W. Haultain branch; and Arnold Haultain, who was secretary to Goldwin Smith, and Dr. Charles Haultain who was a medical doctor with the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, were of the Major-General Haultain branch.

Prominent in City

Records indicate that both these men were immediately accepted in Peterborough, and became prominent in local affairs.

Lt.-Col. F. W. Haultain was elected to the Legislative Assembly of Ontario for the Trent division in 1861, defeating

Jewish History Interwoven With That Of Neighbors

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD

The great events of the New Testament are familiar to readers of the four Gospels and the Book of the Acts. But I doubt whether there is any equal knowledge or understanding of the history of the Jewish people as it is recorded in the Old Testament, and especially of the backgrounds of that history in the whole environment of Israel in successive stages.

It must always be remembered that in early times the tribes of Israel were surrounded by, or in contact with, idolatrous, and often hostile, tribes. And in later times the small country of Palestine, with its relatively small number of people, was situated between great and powerful empires of that ancient world.

The history of the Jewish people is interwoven with that of these surrounding empires, with accounts of dangers, wars, invasions, destruction, exile, and tragedies to individuals and to the whole society of which they formed a part.

It has occurred to me I might further the wise and intelligent use of the Bible by submitting my own brief outline of the eras and major events recorded in the Old Testament.

The Bible begins, as we all know, with the story of Creation. A devout and great teacher, under whom I studied years ago, called this a "poem of Creation." Much futile controversy might well have been avoided if the beautiful story of the successive stages of creation and the bringing of order out of formlessness and chaos had been thus read. Too many readers have been guilty of hard literalism and efforts to bring it into conflict or agreement, with "science."

What is distinctive about the Genesis story is its assertion of a Creator: "In the beginning God . . ." The writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews says: "Every house is builded by some man; but He that built all things is God." That is firm and logical truth. The ancient Hebrew writers, aware of their power to create things, likened themselves to God, declaring that God made man in His own image.

It is when one compares the Genesis story of Creation with some of the legends and literatures of other peoples that one appreciates the clarity and religious beauty of the Hebrew conception of the Creator, and man sharing the creative power and the life of God.

Jesus expressed this doctrine in its very highest form when He said, "My father worketh hitherto, and I work" (John 5:17); and Paul was expressing not only a Christian fact, but the very essence of His Hebrew heritage, when he wrote of himself and his fellow Christians as "workers together with God" (II Corinthians 6:1).

But the theme of Creation and the Creator is too vast for a passing word. I suggest that my readers turn to the first chapter of John's Gospel.

THE PREACHER at George Street United Church on Sunday will be the Rev. Frederick J. Horwood B.A., Mus. Doc., L.T.C.L., A.T.C.M., of Toronto. Dr. Horwood began his ministry in the Rice Lake district, so in coming to Peterborough he is returning to his old Conference Dr. Horwood is now Professor of Music at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto. Members of "Key-Clubs" from the Maritimes, Ontario and Quebec, here for their annual convention, will attend the morning service together with a number of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club.

County Council Is Critical Of Editorial In Examiner

Peterborough county council took time out in the closing minutes of its two-day session Friday to level a blast of criticism at an Examiner editorial. The editorial, "The Boot On The Other Leg," ribbed the agricultural committee of the Legislature for "its laughable crusade to save Ontario from margarine."

A control law making it impossible for any advertisement for margarine to state or imply that it was related to any dairy product, was advocated by the agricultural committee. And the editorial pointed out that, although margarine contains a good deal of milk, advertisements for it would not be able to show, say, a dairy scene.

The editorial suggested that the margarine manufacturers might reply in kind by associating butter with the less aesthetic aspects of the barnyard.

Cautioned the editorialist: "Agriculturalists and dairy producers would do well to remember that Ontario is now primarily a province of town dwellers and factory and office workers. Such people might well prefer to eat a product from a factory instead of the product of that mysterious, remote and possibly insanitary place, a farm."

That tore it as far as the county councillors were concerned.

Read to Council

After the editorial was read to a tense and serious council, comments such as "hitting below the belt," and "ill-informed criticism," were heard.

"I'm not accusing the margarine interests of being behind this" said one unidentified councillor reassuringly.

Deputy-Reeve Dave McIntyre, Otonabee, said: "That last statement would make you think it would be better not to eat farm produce at all. I'd like to see council go on record as demanding an explanation."

"Possibly that is the explanation," said Reeve Willard G. Waterman, North Monaghan, "they want to stir up a little more interest in the newspaper."

He added that Dr. Harold Worton, food and dairy inspector, checks closely on farm sanitation. "We even have screen doors and awnings," he said.

"A reader certainly wouldn't get a good impression of the farm from that editorial," agreed

Rotary Club Formed 30 Years Ago

Only 6 Men Living Of 25 Members On The Charter List

By HARRY THEOBALD

Peterborough Rotary Club is celebrating its 30th birthday Monday.

Its original members received their club charter on April 1, 1921. It was Number 900 in the extending sequence of Rotary's establishment.

Of the twenty-five Peterborough men who were present at that luncheon as a fully organized unit, only six are living today. They are: Robert Abbott, Chris G. Graham, Gordon S. Matthews, J. W. McDermid, V. J. McElderry, K.C., and Claude H. Rogers.

First Service Club

Rotary was the first service club in Peterborough. It was sponsored by the Belleville Club, and emerged in the spring of thirty years ago after canvass meetings during March. William Doyle, of Belleville, represented District Governor Harry Stanton, of Toronto, in that phase of the muster of men whose spirit accepted the ideals of Rotary not only in fellowship but also in the desire to contribute to the well being of their community.

The members of the organizing committee were: Frank Linton, John Crane, R. M. Glover, Fred L. Roy and C. G. Graham. The latter is their sole survivor, but the club they brought into being was never stronger in its membership and in its programs of undertakings and achievements than it is today.

The late Fred Roy wrote an outline of the development of Peterborough Rotary including one comment which probably expressed the general doubt of citizens as the new service club took shape. That paragraph may be quoted: "An interesting conversation between a prominent local citizen, John Hampden Burnham, M.P. and barrister, with the organizing chairman as follows: 'What is this new thing Rotary? Don't you think there are enough organizations to run the city without creating any more? How long do you think Rotary will live?'

"The Rotarian's reply was: 'Well, this is a question I cannot answer, but I can say that Rotary will outlive both you and me.'"

Record of Good Deeds

That prediction has more than justified the confidence that gave it utterance. Moreover, it was never the intention or the desire of Rotary to "run the city." Its works have all been within the category of good deeds, most of them golden deeds, and some of them dimmed in memory by the years, and others gently shuffled into the background by new enterpises recommended by community need and club opportunity.

In those first months, Rotary in Peterborough was only finding its feet and its capabilities. Someone suggested that there were undernourished children here and there in the schools who would be helped by supplying them with milk during their school periods. So, that was done, largely through the supervision of George A. Gillespie.

"Big Brother" Work

Rotarians became concerned about reports of delinquent boys. Mr. McElderry and Adjutant Wallace Buntin of the Salvation Army were delegated to leadership in interviewing local police authorities, and in taking under Rotary's wing boys who were guided into good citizenship and are now adults.

Care of crippled children became one of the finest projects of Peterborough Rotary. Its first committee was W. R. Brevfogle, E. B. Fowler and Dr. N. D. Buchanan.

Dr. Buchanan, Dr. A. Moir and the late Dr. A. W. McPherson, as Rotarians, devoted a great deal of time to under-privileged children. Fred Roy's tribute to them was: "They gave monumental service in pioneering crippled children's work in Peterborough. For ten years, from 1924 to 1934, the club spent $3.152 on the activity alone." And it was anonymous work. The public heard of Rotary

PLAN X-RAY

An x-ray of the industrial workers in Peterborough will be conducted by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association during the last two weeks in April it was announced today. Plans are already well under way and it is the hope of the executive that part of the rural population will also be surveyed during the visit of the van to Peterborough.

TURN DOWN GRANTS

Financial grants to the Norwood Fair and the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association were turned down Friday afternoon by the Peterborough county council. G. A. Brethen of the Norwood Fair board addressed council Thursday asking financial help in view of the commercial fertilizer project planned for this year. The council also voted "no action" on the request for $100 by the Fish and Game Protective Association.

PENSION PLAN

Decision on a pension plan to cover county employees was deferred Friday for a couple of weeks at least. County councillors want to study a tentative plan drawn up by Ed Humpage, chartered accountant. The council is already on record as approving the idea of a pension plan in principle. A special meeting to reach a decision on details will likely be called by Warden Peter Pearson in

Wanted Car Found At Frankford

Bank Thugs' Ford Thought Abandoned At Trent Village

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31.—(ENS)—A car believed to be the one used by the men who robbed the Colborne branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, was found by Provincial Police of No. 9 District on Friday morning, abandoned on a back road about four miles northeast of the town of Frankford.

While the auto bore different licence plates than the one used in the hold-up, police believe it is the car that somehow has escaped their roadblocks and patrols.

Police have believed, ever since the search started, that the wanted vehicle was still in the district, due to the fact that patrols and roadblocks in the area were set up within a few minutes after the robbery. Tuesday's find gave them added hope of reaching the men wanted in the affair.

The car, a late model black Ford, is being dusted for fingerprints. The plates it bore at the time of the hold-up were 198F1, which were reported stolen off a 1939 model car in Toronto earlier.

Dutch Youth Soon Learns Art of Making Maple Syrup

Through the misty damp maple woods glimpses of a dull unpainted shack could be seen, its roof smudged out by clouds of steam swirling up into the quiet air. Pails painted yellow on one side and orange on the other hanging from the sides of the trees spotted the woods about the steaming shack.

Outside the air was hushed. Inside a fire was crackling. Clouds of steam were rising from what looked at first glance like a giant sized bath tub. A light sweetish odor hung over the bubbling bath tub.

Chester Hamilton was making maple syrup in the middle of his 30 acres of sugar bush on his 350-acre farm in Dummer township about four miles north of Warsaw.

The sap run began two weeks ago, but then the temperature skidded for several days to about 20 degrees and cut off the flow. Wednesday, spring returned and the sap began to run again.

But the run this year has not been as fast as some other years, although the amount collected will come up to about the yearly average.

250 Gallons Of Syrup

The average yield for Mr. Hamilton, who has about 2,100 pails on about 1500 hard maples, is about 250 gallons. Mr. Hamilton, who the rest of the year runs his large mixed farm, is a mild-mannered pleasant man who watches over the syrup, making operation carefully through bifocal horn rimmed glasses.

Helping him were his regular Dutch handyman Fetze Steiginga and a neighbor, Allen Dunford. It was a wet afternoon with rain sprinkling down. The three men were staying inside the shack and making syrup from the sap nearly filling the 700-gallon tank on a platform at the rear of a building higher than the evaporator. A large chunk of ice that had formed from the sap kept it from going sour.

A pipe led from the tank to the evaporator and flowed in at a controlled rate. The top of the evaporator consists of a giant pan, 18 feet by five feet, divided into three sections and several subsections.

As the sap is heated and water begins to evaporate from it as it boils, it moves down toward the back of the evaporator through slits in the sub-section partitions and through syphon pipes between the three main sections. When it reaches the last trough, it is almost ready to be tapped off as finished syrup into large pails. It is a continuing process.

Old Iron Kettle

It's a far cry from the days of large iron boiling kettles over an open fire which were heated until one batch was done, emptied and filled with sap again for another batch.

Underneath the large pan that is the top of the evporator, is a huge oven. From time to time, the oven doors are opened and one of the men stokes the fire with wood. Cedar is best, said Mr. Hamilton, but his hired man was sick last fall and didn't get time to cut cedar. Mr. Hamilton was substituting hemlock slabs.

Cedar, he explained, developed a quick heat and burned with a long flame which reached down to the chimney under the whole 18-foot pan and heated it all.

Mr. Hamilton has been making syrup each year for many years. His father bought the original

Ask For Officer Settle Dispute

Civic hospital employees, members of the National Organization of Civic, Utility and Electrical Workers (CCL), have asked the Board of Governors to co-operate with them in requesting a conciliation officer to mediate their dispute over collective bargaining.

The union claims 90 of 120 eligible workers in the Civic Hospital staff, including kitchen and laundry help, ward aides, male and female cleaners, male orderlies, cafeteria help and maintenance men.

After consideration the executive committee of the Board had previously decided not to enter into negotiations with the union. The committee said it was willing however to meet with a committee of the employees to consider mutual problems.

The Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL), which claims to represent some 5,000 workers in Peterborough, has already publicly backed the stand of the hospital employees.

Through their national officer, T. F. Stevenson, the employees have asked that the dispute be placed before Labor Minister Charles Daley.

Dog Control By-Law To Be Enforced Now

Commencing Friday, March 30th, the City by-law which makes it an offence for dog owners to permit their pets to run at large will be enforced. Arrangements have been made for the Inspector of the Humane Society to assist fully the City Police in enforcing the by-law. The Inspector will commence his special duties at once. The other section of the by-law requiring all dogs to be tagged will be enforced also. Tags must be obtained at the Police Station.

High Level Lighting Brings Cheeriness to Dining Room

While high level lighting is not an important factor when building, it is essential that the room be bright and cheery and free from glaring light bulbs. Nothing will add more to the enjoyment of a meal or the decoration of this room than ample, pleasant lighting.

There are several methods of lighting the dining room correctly. A popular one is the five or six light candle fixture suspended over the table. When using this type of fixture be sure that all the lamp blubs are shaded so as to direct the light downward and not into the faces of those seated at the table. Wall brackets are a pleasing background and are desirable if properly shaded.

The dining room is also adaptable to colored lighting effects and there are fixtures especially designed to produce amber, moonlight or other desired light effects. White, or colored fluorescent lamps installed in plaster, metal or glass covers around the room make possible many interesting effects.

The Kitchen

Follow this recipe for a well lighted kitchen:

The first ingredients is a control ceiling fixture, usually a single enclosed unit of the diffusing type. This unit is practical if equipped with enough wattage, which, with the help of light colored walls and ceilings, give a soft pleasing light and practically eliminate all shadows.

The kitchen should have plenty of light everywhere. Fixtures should be so placed that the housewife, regardless of where she is standing, is never working in her own shadows. This is unavoidable when there is but one ceiling fixture, since she stands at the various work centres in the kitchen with back to the light. Therefore the second ingredient is to provide local light over the range, sink and working areas.

In modern kitchens, lamp bulbs or tubes are recessed in the ceiling over the sink and range and covered by diffusing panels of glass or plastic. Fluorescent lamps are ideally suited for installation over the range or sink, or under the kitchen cabinets to illuminate the work table.

It is important to have plenty of convenient outlets throughout the kitchen. Do not place these outlets in the baseboard. Install outlets on the wall about four feet from the floor or, more conveniently, on the wall right over the work table top.

Bedrooms

Every woman likes to change the arrangement of her funiture frequently. Too often, however, funiture arrangements are limited by the lighting fixtures, especially if the room is lighted only by wall brackets. Therefore, every bedroom should have a central ceiling fixture.

There are many pleasing types of fixtures which fit well into the bedroom. For the easy chair provide a bridge or table lamp, or one of the new low floor lamps. If reading in bed is popular, be sure there is adequate light. Most bed lamps are hopelessly imadequate. Try placing end table lamps on a table alongside the bed, or a semi-indirect lamp or fixture on the wall just over the bed head to light the printed page with an even shadowless light.

The Bathroom

The most important mirror in the house is in the bathroom, for it is here that hubby usually attempts to shave. Attempts? Yes, only attempts if the light is one in number and over the mirror as has been the practice in the past.

Remember, you are not interested in lighting the mirror, but the face in front of it. When the face is evenly and well lighted, the result is a clear, sharp, reflection back in the mirror. To best accomplish this, use two fixtures, one on each side of the mirror. Brackets with bare bulbs should never be used. All bulbs or tubes concealed by diffusing glass bowls or shades are preferable. However, fluorescent lamps without shades are permissable.

The ideal lighting of bathroom mirrors is accomplished by framing the mirror on the top and two sides with built-in panels concealng the lights behind the frosted glass or plastic or some other efficient diffusing material.

Unless the bathroom is exceedingly small, it should also have a ceiling fixture, with the light source hidden and controlled from a wall switch just inside the door. If a central lighting unit has been omitted the mirror lights should be similarly switched.

All of the foregoing covers the major rooms of a house but there are many other important spots where right lighting is essential.

Some sort of night light, either a wall lamp or table lamp using a small wattage bulb is a necessity in the child's room. A low wattage lamp in the baseboard under the bed will enable you to see your way about the room without disturbing the child.

The Basement

The basement, like the attic, is often neglected and does not receive the lighting it deserves. If it is just the furnace and storage room, good lighting is needed at the furnace and to find your way around. Basements without adequate lighting account for too many of the accidents in a home —especially the stairs. A glareless light placed at the foot of the stairs or at some place where all of the steps are well lighted should be controlled by separate switches at the top and bottom.

A GRACEFUL 18TH CENTURY dining suite is shown in the above picture. Chairs are finished with bright striped seat upholstery, and the long buffet is credenza styled with brass drawer pulls.

Tips On Painting Speeds Jobs Around House

There are few jobs about the house that give a person the satisfaction that painting does.

Fresh white trim on a house, a shining new verandah floor, or just a freshened-up kitchen chair do wonders for the home—outside or in.

But unless the painter has some idea of how to do the job, he can drench himself in paint and have only a sloppy looking job for all his work.

The first thing to be careful about is to make sure you use all the paint you have in the can. In other words, stir up the paint when you first open the can with a strong wooden paddle, at least an inch wide and with a square end. Pour off most of the liquid on top anr stir the pigments thoroughly scraping the pigment from the bottom of the can. Then pour back the liquid gradually, stirring as you go.

Need Priming Coat.

You should make sure you use a good priming coat on surfaces. There are many suitable primers on the market. Unless you have a good prime coat on, your finishing coat won't amount to much. Be sure, before you start, that you have removed all loose, scaly paint with a scraper and sanded the wood smooth. After priming the surface, putty the cracks and nail holes. This will prevent the oil of the paint being absorbed into the wood.

The thinner you use should not be the same for both exterior and interior work. For an outdoor job, thin the paint with equal parts of boiled linseed oil and turpentine. For paint to be used inside, the thinner should be turpentine.

Your care will all come to nought if you don't use a good brush. And once you have a good brush, take care of it. Never let paint dry in the brush. If you haven't completed the work, suspend the brush in a can containing a mixture of half raw linseed oil and half turpentine.

Do not stand the brush in the can. This will only bend the bristles. When you are through painting, clean all the paint out of the brush with turpentine, wash it thoroughly in soap and warm water, and allow to dry.

To make sure the paint sticks where you brush it on rather than flowing into ridges on smooth, glossy surfaces, sand the surface to be painted first.

A dirty surface caked with wax or grease can wreak havoc on paint. You should be sure of the surface you are painting, whether old floors, cement or linoleum, be sure the wax and grease is removed by washing off thoroughly with turpentine or a good floor cleaner. And don't start to paint before the surface is dry.

There are many other little pointers, such as putting on two thin coats rather than one heavy coat, that you may know already. Or you will pick them up as you go along. In either case have fun, and give some of the credit to the paint.

APPLYING ENAMEL

Paint undersides of articles first, then work from top to bottom. When finishing an article in two colors, allow one color to dry before applying the other. Enamel should be applied evenly, but not 'flooded" on. Long, light parallel strokes will give best results.

Correct Working Heights Eliminate Needless Effort

Correct working heights play a very important part in the kitchen. Work areas too high or too low can spoil even the most efficiently planned kitchen. The three work centres of your kitchen will be only as efficient as they reduce reaching, stooping, lifting and walking.

To estimate the best working height for you as an individual, let some one with a measuring tape held you to take your ktchen measurements. For stand-up jobs requiring muscular action, stand erect and at ease, with feet slghtly apart and arms down at your sides. Raise your forearms from the elbows until the palms of your hands rest on a table height you could mix food on without stooping. The distance from the floor to your hands will be the working height for your mixing centre.

Many housewives prefer this height for the base of the sink basin, too. This will be 32 to 36 inches. If you have drainboards to a 6-inch sink, this brings them up to 38 inches. If the sink is 8 inches deep, the drainboards will be up to 40 inches.

Varies Between 32 and 36 Inches

Your arm reach from side to side will be about 48 inches, without off-balance stretching or stooping. The last shelf up that you can use with a finger grip will be about 72 inches from the floor. You will reach down easily to about 28 inches from the floor. Keep counters within 24 inches from front to back for easy reaching, cleaning and working space.

A good standing or sitting posture requires toe space at floor level. This is about 3 to 4 inches. Manufactured equipment that is 36 inches high will be all right for the jobs requiring wrist action.

For stting down jobs, sit at ease in a comfortable chair with a back support. Have your feet flat on the floor and arms down at the side. Raise your forearms from the elbows until the are parallel with the floor. The distance up from the floor to your wrist is the height for your lapboard. It is also a good work counter height for your junior cooks. The heights will be 25 to 30 inches. Keep these same measurements in mind for work-counter extenders.

Where To Put Kitchen Windows

When planning the kitchen of your new home, be sure to locate windows where they will not interfere with plans of the wall cabinets. The jamb of the window should be at least 16 inches from a connecting wall to make room for installation of wall cabinets on adjacent walls.

Most home-owners prefer having the window located above the kitchen sink. Another window, located near the mixing centre or dining area, will provide additional light and ventilation. Supplementing windows with a ventilating fan will improve the circulation of air and carry off fumes and odors.

Placing two windows in the corner is a good way to use a space that is unsatisfactory for cabinets since it is difficult of access. It is pleasant, moreover, to work at a counter under corner windows. The kitchen stool can be placed under the counter when not in use. A sink across the corner is another excellent way to use the wall space under corner windows.

REPAIRING FURNITURE

Many a battered old piece of furniture only needs minor repairs and a coat of gleaming paint to restore it to full use. Loose screws can be tightened by filling the holes with plastic wood, then replacing the screw. Loose rungs can be reset with glue—force the rung back into the hole, and wipe off surplus adhesive. Ask your hardwarde dealer about new quick-repair devices.

Mosquito and Fly Season Require Check on Screens

Let's check each screen carefully. Go from room to room. Every tiny hole should be given immediate attention. For the very small breaks a needle and thread will do. Try to follow the regular line of the wires. Don't use too much thread or you will make an unattractive black spot.

For the large holes you can buy a kit of prepared patches. They usualy come in packages of five in assorted sizes from one inch up to two and one-half inches with edges frayed ready for application.

Try to get patches which will match your screens, black enamel, galvanized or copper. If you have a piece of matching screen cloth, make your own patches. Cut a piece about one-half inch larger all around than the hole. Fray the edges, push the wire through the unbroken screen, bend back the prongs. If you are using copper or bronze patches, varnish the frayed edges to prevent oxidation.

Protect Rusting Screens

Screen which show rust stains call for paint. Do not use a brush, it will clog the mesh. A piece of deep piled carpeting tacked to a wood block, covers much quicker and leaves no excess paint. Brush before beginning to paint. Use a good quality paint. Most people prefer black, but if you have galvanized screens you might like to use white paint. It gives almost complete privacy. During the daytime light is reflected so strongly that it is impossible to see into the house.

Bronze and copper screens should be given an annual cleaning. Scrub carefully with soap and water or wipe with benzine. Rinse, dry and give them a coat of top quality marine or spar varnish. This should be thinned half and half with turpentine. The addition of a small amount of burnt umber or chrome green, will help the metal to withstand the actinic rays of the sun.

This treatment is an absolute necessity. Neglected screens will cause metallic stains on siding and window-sills. This green discoloration is not only decidedly unattractive but almost impossible to remove.

Some screens which have been bulged by pressure can be pulled back into place by removing the moulding and retacking. This will not work for copper screens. Copper is a soft metal with very little elasticity. Once stretched, it stays that way and will have to be replaced.

Use Old Frame

Get some new screen cloth and try rescreening the old frames yourself.

Lay the old frame on some large flat surface. Remove the half-round moulding and take off the old screen. Save this for smaller windows or for patches. Place two boards about an inch thick under top and bottom of the frame. Using "C" clamps draw the frame down to the table along the unraised sides. This will produce a slight bow. Now then cut the screen cloth about an inch larger all round than that opening. Make sure that the wires are straight along the edges.

Tack the screening securly to the top then to the bottom of the frame. Pull the wire fairly taut as you go. Use regular four-ounce carpet tacks or double-headed tacks.

When the two ends are tacked release the clamps and the screen will pull tight. Now tack the remaining two sides and cover the edges with moulding. Trim off any excess which may extend beyond the outer edge of the half round. If the frames are old, handle them carefully. Bowing them with clamps may crack the old wood, making it necessary to replace at least one side.

If yours are factory-made frames you may discover that they have been put together differently. The screen cloth was inserted into a narrow groove in the frame and anchored with a slender wood splint. You may be able to repair them yourself by tacking the screen just as you did in the case of the home-made frame, but many of the screens must be returned to the manufacturer for reconditioning.

YOUTH ALSO SERVES—Grateful youngsters of Chunchon Korea, carry ammunition for tired 1st Cavalry Division troops as they approach the city. The boys wanted to show their joy at seeing UN soldiers again.

To Widen Room

Want to make a narrow room look wider? Wall-to-wall draperies will help you achieve the illusion. Or try a large mirror panel on one of the long walls to carry the eye beyond the limits of the room.

If you have a pair of windows at the narrow end of the room, drape the two as one to create the effect of a single wide window. Then place your largest pieces horizontal to the narrow side of the room.

Paper Boats

VANCOUVER (CP) — Instead of burning his old newspapers, Charles Saunders builds boats with them. Laminated paper impregnated with glue is pasted on a wooden frame to produce lightweight boats about the size of a canoe.

Dark Walls Add WarmthToRoom

Are you planning to redecorate your home or do over a certain room in a way that is entirely new? Try the effect of dark walls for background, with white or bright color accents.

Rich earth browns, deep blues, and soft, dark greens are favorite color choices for this new idea in decor.

These create room settings that are fresh in feeling, restful, inviting, and livable.

Start with a tone that is deep and mellow—not drab or dull. Use a medium light color for contrast—perhaps in your carpet—then add a dash of white or bright color for accent.

Dark walls are right for any room—from a front hallway that's friendly as a handshake, and right on through the house for a smartly sophisticated or casually informal living room or den, to the most restful bedroom, imaginable.

Modern Furniture Designed With Eye to Livability

1951 furniture is made to be lived with, designed with the average modern family in mind. It is furniture to be enjoyed not merely admired to be used as well as seen.

Fabrics that are soil-resistant, or created of the new woven plastics for quick cleaning with a damp cloth, take into account children's sticky fingers as well as the tired hubby who forgets to take off his shoes when he puts his weary feet on the sofa!

Easy upkeep is the keynote of furniture styles that make life a song for the busy housewife who manages her home without the help of servants, pursues a hobby or career, and engages in civic and social activities.

Lighter weight furniture that is easy to move about on cleaning day is characteristic of the new trend. So are slip cvers, replacing upholstery, to be moved for quick trips to the laundry.

There is more dual-purpose furniture than ever before to accommodate every need of the average family without cluttering the typical small home with nonessential, seldom-used pieces.

Ottomans and tables conceal spacious storage compartments. Chests and cabinets double as desks and buffets.

The large cocktail table in the living room may swivel up to dining table height at meal-time.

Laundry-easy cotton rugs, and plastic curtains that need no ironing and can be cleaned with a damp cloth fit in with the new trend toward the house that keeps itself, and frees the modern housewife from many of her most irksome chores.

Wallboard Looks Like Wood-Grain

For outdoorsy people who like knotty pine or for the sophisticate who wants a modern wood panel effect on walls, gypsum board manufacturers have produced an economical answer to their problem.

This wallboard panelling provides all the advantages of regular wallboard—fire protection, economy, fast easy application for new building or remodelling. Lacquer applied at the factories protects it against ordinary wear.

Where surface would receive frequent washing or unusual wear, it could be further protected with white shellac, then waxed for a dull finish or varnished for a gloss.

Good Materials For Plumbing Give Durability

It's safe to say that the kitchen and bathroom in your new or remodelled house will be the last word in gleaming smartness. That is as it should be—but what about the plumbing behind those smart new fixtures.

Real efficiency does not stop at the fixtures and their arrangement. The hidden piping and fittings must be properly designed and well made of non-corrosive materials. For haven't most of us, at one time or another, been surprised to find in some otherwise artistically impressive kitchen the imprint of rusty water; and probably you have detected on towels or fixtures similar evidences or rusty water in an otherwise irreproachable bathroom. And perhaps, it even has been necessary to postpone dishwashing, laundering or a bath until cold water could be heated on the range, simply because the water as it came from the hot water tap was brown with rust—too dirty for either china, clothes or complexion! So, obviously, in view of such inconvenience is merely a matter of perfection of appearance and arrangement.

Then, isn't it good logic to have a plumbing installation of non-corrosive pipe that will provide freedom from rusty water and its attendant replacements and repairs? There can be this freedom if the piping system is of non-corrosive brass or copper and the hot-water storage tank also is of rust-proof material.

Small Extra Cost

And the cost? While the initial cost is somewhat higher, you must remember that what your money is buying is not simply equipment, but service, based on the number of years that equipment will give you without additional cost of repairs. Modern design has necessitated piping systems being less accessible; and that points to the importance of selecting materials which, once installed, will be trouble-proof, and not requiring replacements in the walls, with accompanying expensive redecorating.

Apart from that, much of the initial cost of any plumbing system goes for labor; and labor cost is high, whether permanent or nonpermanent materials are used—another good argument in favour of rustless equipment! Copper tubing is so pliable that it can be installed easily and quickly, thus actually tending to lessen expenditures on labor.

Soldered Fittings

The soldered fittings used with copper tubing have been so designed that the tube telescopes into the fitting, forming a double wall of additional strength at the joint. Solder is applied by the use of the law of capilliary attraction, and the joint is made with a very thin layer of solder, which becomes the strongest part of the line. The cuttings are so carefully machined and held to such close tolerance that the distance between the inner wall of the fitting and the outer wall of the tube remains constantly at a capilliary distance. This capilliary distance has been carefully worked out by all the manufacturers so that the solder can be inserted at the bottom of the fitting. Gravity plays no part whatsoever in the making of this joint, and just as perfect a joint will result as though the solder were fed from the top.

Soldered Joints Stand Strain

There are many advantages in a properly made solder or brazed joint. Soldered joints are considered the best by a number of industries involving refrigeration and air-conditioning where a break would have such serious consequences. It has also been adopted for use in the construction of naval cruisers, because it will withstand the shock of vibration of the firing of broadsides without leaking. A further example of the durability and dependability of solder joints is the fact that it is the only type of rigid joint that will withstand the vibration of airplanes.

Equally important to piping is a sound, rust-free hot-water storage tank. Add to this copper heating coils in the hot-water heater, with brass fittings and copper pipe and you have an unbeatable combination for trouble-free service.

Long Life Bronze Screening

Today, when a home or cottage is to be screened, the wise owner is on the lookout for equipment that provides long and satisfactory wear, with the very minimum of expense for maintenance. Bronze screening, by reason of its rustlessness practically obviates future expenditure—barring some unusual accident: hence the slightly higher initial cost over ordinary rustable screening is soon absorbed.

Rusting and broken window and door screens cause more than their share of nuisance, for screen wire is necessarily light and unless made of strong, rust-proof material, soon rusts and breaks when exposed to the weather. Besides the advantage of durability, the beautiful gold color of bronze screening adds much to the appearance of any house. This golden color gradually changes to a soft neutral shade over a period of years.

HISTORIC COUNCIL

CARVED AND TEXTURED leaf designs are among the popular carpet patterns for today. The girl in the picture ABOVE is matching drape and upholstery fabrics against the bright floor covering.

Must Choose Rugs Carefully To Complete Room Colors

HOME fashions

Rugs play a major role in the decorating scheme of the home, and must be chosen carefully to complement draperies, lamps, pictures and wallpaper. Chances are you'll want a plain color or textured effect (a rug that will go with modern or period furniture)....maybe wall-to-wall carpeting or just a room-size rug.

It may take a little while before you find the exact kind of carpet you have your heart set on....but when you do find it you'll want to know what you are paying for. So here are a few "quality guides" to follow in selecting a rug:

Examine for Strength and Body

In comparing rugs, remember that each small square on the back of a rug represents one tuft. As long as tufts are of the same thickness, close tufts usually mean a denser pile. Check if the pile is made entirely of wool.

Grasping the rug in your hand you can usually tell whether what you feel is real strength and body or just stiffness. Wool that is somewhat soft and fine will tend to crush and mat and wear off rapidly.....while stiff wools will break more readily. Rug manufacturers try to select and blend wools to give the stiffness and resilience for longest wear. While pile made of worsted yarn (longer wool fibre) will wear longer than woollen pile, most rugs made today have woollen pile.

Give Them Proper Care

As shampooing will often bring about a noticeable color change in pastels, be sure your color-fast guarantee includes sunlight, dry cleaning and shampooing.

Old rugs and new ones, too, will stay better looking if given the right care. All types of rugs should be vacuumed at least once a week. Rugs that receive especially hard wear need daily cleaning as dirt and grit collecting in the pile will grind together, cutting the fibre. Dirt wears our rugs faster than anything else. Vacuuming is also your best safeguard against moths.

Don't be alarmed when a new carpet or rug "fluffs" for a short time when it is first used. This is because the short fibres left in the pile when the yarn is cut gradually work loose. When a tuft protrudes....don't try to pull it out....clip it flush with sharp scissors.

In the past it was generally considered necessary to take even the very best rugs outside periodically and beat them mightily until no more dust came out. What a beating the fibres took. Now we know that beating cuts the fibres and loosens the pile of the rugs. Hanging them over the clothes line isn't good for them either....if a rug is to be aired better to place it on a dry, flat grass-covered area, right side down if it is in sunlight.

Rugs can be shampooed at home....or better still sent out for professional cleaning. New rugs won't need shampooing for at least a year, sometimes two. If a commercial cleaner is to be used at home, follow the directions on the container very carefully.

Always guard against too much moisture when shampooing rugs, as it will weaken the fibre and may shrink the rug. Dry the rug as quickly as possible and then brush it out well. Most hard-twist or frieze construction rugs should not be washed, as the moisture will likely remove the twist. Let the rug's label be your guide.

Good Precipitation Brings Optimistic Note For Crops

By The Canadian Press

Better-than-average precipitation over the Prairie grain belt during fall and winter months provides an optimistic note for talk about crop prospects among Western farmers.

Statistics prepared by the meteorological division of the Department of Transport for the seven-month period ending Feb. 28 show that over-all moisture conditions are above normal in two of the Prairie provinces. Alberta's average increase over normal amounted to 15 per cent. In Saskatchewan it was 12 per cent while Manitoba showed a deficiency of one per cent.

Heavy snowstorms in mid-March blanketed many Western districts boosting grain-growers' hopes another notch.

Southern Alberta made the best showing in the seven-month period with a 36-per-cent increase over normal. Southeastern Saskatchewan was next in line with an excess of 19 per cent. Only two area—Eastern Manitoba and Central Alberta — recorded deficiencies and they were slight.

Monthly Review

August rainfall was below normal in most areas with deficiencies ranging from 20 to 30 per cent in Northern Saskatchewan, Southern Alberta and Eastern Manitoba. Northern Alberta, Southwestern Saskatchewan and Western Manitoba records were on the right side of the ledger.

All sections were short on rainfall in September except in Eastern Manitoba where moisture was reported 35 per cent. above average. Central Alberta registered a deficiency of 70 per cent. and the loss ranged from 40 to 55 per cent. in Northern and Southern Alberta and Northern and Southwestern Saskatchewan.

Rain and snow in October and November changed the picture. Virtually all sections reported heavy precipitation with twice the normal amount registered in Southern Alberta in both months. Excesses of 100 per cent. over normal occurred in October in Northern Saskatchewan and in Northern Alberta during November.

Winter snowfall for December, January and February was well above average in Alberta and Saskatchewan. It was about normal in Western Manitoba, but the eastern part of the province showed a deficiency of 25 per cent.

Following are the statistics by districts, showing the actual and normal precipitation and the percentage of increase or decrease from August to February inclusive:

Canada Developed Census Plan 300 Years Ago, Next One In June

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, March 31 —(CP)— When Canada launches the 1951 census in June she will be striving to maintain a world leadership in census-taking captured almost 300 years ago.

Then, in 1666 an obscure little French colony hacking her way out of the wilderness, she lay stately claim to the title of the first country to take a name-by-name census in modern times.

How she got that title is a story that goes back centuries before, when grapevine whispering that a census was coming brought fear lest kings were on the march again searching for new tax sources and wealth.

Nowadays, of course, this fear is dispelled by the fact that all information given to the census-taker is secret. It can be used for no other purpose than for the compilation of national and regional statistical facts. No man can be sued; no man can be taxed on the information he gives. He can, however, be hauled into court if he refuses to give it.

Feared Census

But for centuries before, fear always walked with the census. In ancient times, the census provided the source by which kings increased their wealth and raised conscripted armies. Babylon took a census in 3,800 B.C.; China had a census in 3,000 B.C.; Rome had census-takers in 600 B.C.

But it took William the Conqueror of England to almost put an end to them forever. His survey, in 1086, known as the "doomsday book," was for the express purpose of finding out the value of every estate in England and the taxes owing to the royal treasury.

So dim a view did the people of England take of the "doomsday book" that for centuries no censuses were taken again. It laid the foundation for such trembling that even in 1753 the statement was made in Britain's parliament that to take a census might be a prelude to "some great public misfortune or epidemical distemper."

In the new world, censuses began springing up in the 16th century. But they were not on a name-by-name basis until Canada, then called New France, stepped into the picture.

First Modern Census

"The census of 1666," says census officials, "was the first modern census on a name-by-name basis, taken for a fixed date by a personal canvass, showing age, sex, place of residence, occupation and conjugal condition of each person."

These officials add:

"When it is recalled that in Europe and America the first modern censuses date from the 18th century, the taking of the census of the colony of New France was a remarkable innovation."

Incidentally, the population then showed a total of 3,215 inhabitants, infinitesimal compared with Canada's present-day 14,000,000.

Canada, once advanced on the road, kept moving more and more into the census field. Main judicial purpose of the modern census is to establish political representation by population and to enable a redistribution bill to be passed in parliament.

But the census has more uses than that. It is the yardstick by which industry and governments measure the actual growth of the nation, its people and its resources.

New Techniques

Canada, ever since she took the world lead in census-taking, has tried to maintain that lead through the years. In 1951, she expects to open up new techniques for other countries.

Round the world this year many nations are doing just what Canada is doing—counting their people and their possessions. Canada, however, is using newly-designed electronic machines for tabulations.

If the machines are a success, other nations likely will adopt them, and once again Canada will have leaped to census leadership.

DRAPES ARE USEFUL to break the monotony of long walls or to conceal unused doors. Here, they are used to cover an entrance foyer no longer in use. With plain curtains, they provide a dramatic effect.

Redecorating Room Presents Many Large Hazards

HOME fashions

Anyone who has ever decorated or re-decorated a room knows that things are seldom what they seem in those lovely mental pictures you have beforehand, in your mind's eye.

Either the startling yellow chintz you've dreamed of using as a foil for chocolate brown walls doesn't exist or else it's $12.50 a yard. Or the deep mustard wallpaper that seemed, in your mind's eye, to be the perfect, dramatic note for the ceiling looks, when you actually see it, all wrong beside the particular shade of brown you thought would be right for the walls. And again, the turquoise in slip-covers that you thought was going to enliven the scheme and give it sparkle, simply takes on a bleak and wistful hue, pale and overpowered.

Any or all of these things can happen so easily that it's a stout-hearted amateur indeed who can tackle the problems of color scheme and pattern planning without at least a few qualms.

Avoid Disasters

You can, to a large extent, avoid disasters in decorating by thorough, practical planning before you so much as set up a stepladder, or drag a bucket out of the basement.

And thorough, practical planning is more, unfortunately, than lolling by the fireplace, painting mental pictures of lovely yellow chintz that will harmonize with lovely chocolate brown wallpaper that will harmonize with lovely, mustard ceiling paper.

Practical planning means plodding through stores— burrowing through the chintzes, collecting swatches by the dozen of anything and everything you think might be useful. It means thumbing through wallpaper sample books, picking one here, another there, always keeping your main scheme in mind — trying to see each as the background for the room you have planned.

It means all this and spending an evening, or a week of evenings, pouring over the combinations, and discarding them one by one, until you find the one you feel will suit your room best.

This is practical planning — and though it is a bit of a chore, it is worth the effort. For when you are through you can be reasonably sure that what you have chosen will look as you expect it to look. What's more, you will be entirely sure that all the materials you need are available when you need them.

Warm Color Right for Room With Northern Exposure

When using color for the purpose of home decorating, there are certain general truths and principles that it will be wise to heed under ordinary circumstances, although occasions arise now and then when some special reason warrants our setting them aside.

One of the simplest as well as most useful principles to observe is to avoid putting a predominant quantity of either a cool color or a dull color in a room with a cold or northern exposure, where the light is cold, less intense, and oftentimes less in quantity than in a room with a warm exposure and a warm glowing light.

The reverse of the principle also deserves equal heed — to avoid using a predominant quantity of a warm or advancing color in a room with a warm exposure. With too much warm color in a warm or southern exposure and an abundance of strong light, the effect is likely to be too intense and oppressive.

Warm colors have a tendency to diminish the apparent size of a room in which they predominate. This is more particularly true of red, or of colors in whise composition the red elements predominates, than it is of yellow, or of colors in whose composition yellow predominates.

Red and Yellow

It is also more especially true of the deeper tones of red and yellow, or of the deeper red and yllow derivatives, than it is of the lighter tones. It is one of the attributes of red that it particularly creates a sense of fullness, richness and warmh

Yellow, on the other hand, while not deficient in warmth or richness, seems to diffuse and increase light. This strong radiant quality is more noticeable in the lighter tones, so that a small room can often stand a really light yellow without any appreciable loss of apparent size.

"Cool" Colors

Cool colors and the lighter tones of colors that are not too insistently warm in their composition tend to increase the apparent size of a room in which they predominate in quantity.

Although white and black are not to be accounted as truly colors, they nevertheless have great significance in our dealing with color. While in juxtaposition with color heightens its effect and intensifies its brilliance by raising its key. Black, on the other hand, modifies the effect of color and reduces brilliance by lowering the key. White and black are universal harmonizers.

Incidentally it is worth pointing out that a pure white wall is really white only in the highlights; elsewhere through the many different reflections it picks up, it displays a variety of colors.

In the composition of a color scheme for a room it is necessary to have some one prevailing or predominating color if the composition is to have any coherence or continuity. If there is no prevailing coolr the composition will lack balance and be like a person of two minds, like a weathervane in a variable wind, or like a ship without a rudder. As a compensation it will get nowhere and will convey only an impression of unconvincing vagueness.

In other words, there must be a color base or foundation on which to build and about which to incorporate the articulate features.

Good Color Combinations

The following list is one you can follow with safety in the selection of good color combinations:

Orchid combines with flesh pink, white, and grey; or pale rose, gold, and ivory.

Dahlia combines with shell pink, grey, and black; or mauve, blue-green, and violet-black.

Persian blue combines with pale rose, gold, and tan; or jonquil-yellow, and sage-green.

Chinese blue combines with gold, black, and vermillion; or gold, grey-green, and black.

Indigo blue combines with yellow, black, and ivory; or gold, porcelain-blue, and white.

Hyacinth blue combines with flesh pink, mauve, and grey; or leaf-green, pale rose, and white.

Wedgwood blue combines with pale yellow, grey, and ivory; or grey, black, and orange.

Salmon combines with powder blue, ivory, and black; or ivory, black, and indigo.

When the room is finished in a reflecting color, the atmosphere becomes bright and cheerful, and the additional light relieves the eye-strain caused by poor visability. If a room is insufficiently lighted, the possibility of paint and wallpaper colors as well as other means of illumination should be investigated.

Several colors can increase the volume of light in a room. They also aid materially in dissipating or softening shadows through their reflecting qualities.

There is a wide variation in the effectiveness of wall and ceiling surfaces as light reflectors. Color is the first factor, cleanliness the second, and texture the third.

Sensitive Cows

PONTYPOOL, Wales—(CP)—A farmer, owner of a sensitive herd of cows, sued a nearby cottager for enlarging a window facing the farm. "My cows see their reflection and charge the window," he explained. The window will be cut down from three feet square to 18 inches square.

Predict Decrease In Cost Of Modern Floor Covering

Despite skyrocketing costs of raw materials, home-makers will see greater values in floor coverings during 1951. Technical advances in the industry make possible the weaving of rugs and carpets at a cost believed impossible a few years ago.

New carved type and textured carpets in the medium price range will delight the average shopper. Emphasis will be placed on high style carpet retailing between $8 and $11 per square yard.

In medium-priced carved carpets, graceful leaf designs for both informal and traditional furnishings will prove most popular. The use of heavy 3-ply yarns in combination with 2-ply monesque yarns create a pile depth and texture usually associated with more expensive carpeting. Predominating colors will be grey, green, rose, and beige to harmonize with all decorating schemes.

New 18th century florals with a modern flair are proving exceptionally popular wherever shown. One combines gray and beige for a contemporary background while another unusual effect is achieved with a jet black ground with panels in grey and top colors in keeping with today's home fashions.

While grey, green, rose and beige lead the carpeting color parade, they are closely followed by chocolate brown and deep forest green.

In the high fashion field, a trend to the muted colors is discernible. Ceramic blue is assuming new importance because of its subtlety for today's informal decor as well as its quality of refinement for more traditional periods.

SLYHAM, Suffolk, England — (CP).—Dairymen here complain housewives use empty milk bottles for shampoos and as rolling pins and vases instead of returning them.

Color Can Alter Home As Hat Does A Woman

Color is temperamental. It can change the character of a house as much as a hat can alter the personality of a woman. Unlike the purchase of a new hat, however, there's no exchanging a paint job if the results aren't admired. Here are a few facts about color you'll want to study carefully before determining the colors you'll use.

While there's nothing particularly complicated or very technical about color selection for the house, there does exist a need for understanding of a few basic principles. First, keep in mind that different colors create different feelings—green is quiet and restful, red is warm, and yellow is gay and sunny. Blue lends a cold and dignified note. Purple is austere and formal.

Blends and Accents

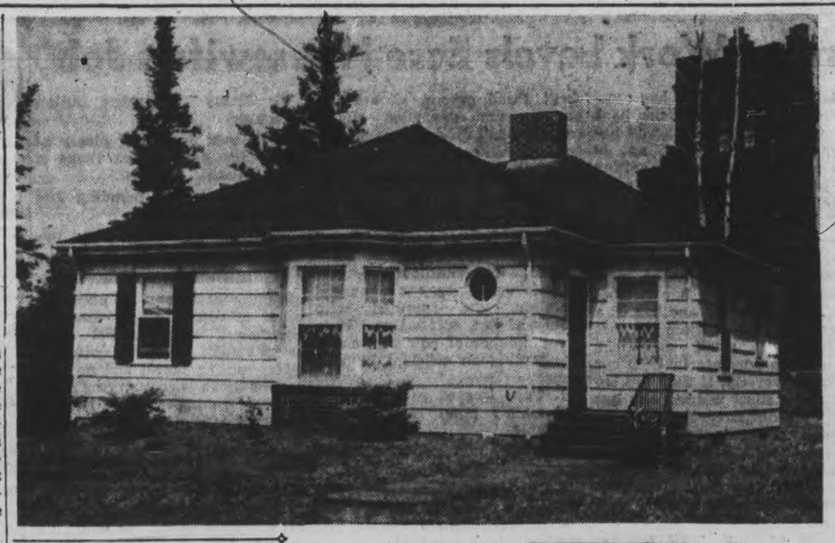
Color may be used in contrast, blend or accent. Contrasting colors are opposites, tones of opposing values but yet which do not clash—such as a blue green and a red brown. Blending colors are the eye-pleasing, restful combination such as a light green and a dark green, or a cream and yellow. The accents are striking color touches used sparingly but boldly to introduce an individual or different color note into some special house detail. Examples might be a turquoise door, a flame-red shutter or chrome yellow terrace pottery.

When planning your overall color scheme, it is advisable to bear in mind that there are at least a dozen good opportunities for using color in addition to the roof—the doors, shutters, sidewalks, masonry, trim, windows sash, flower boxes, doorstops, awnings, outdoor funiture, breezeway or ferrace, etc. Somewhere in the scheme of some points of sharp contrast. One rule to keep in mind always is that the charm of a light-color house is set off by darker trims and the dark house is brightened by light touches.

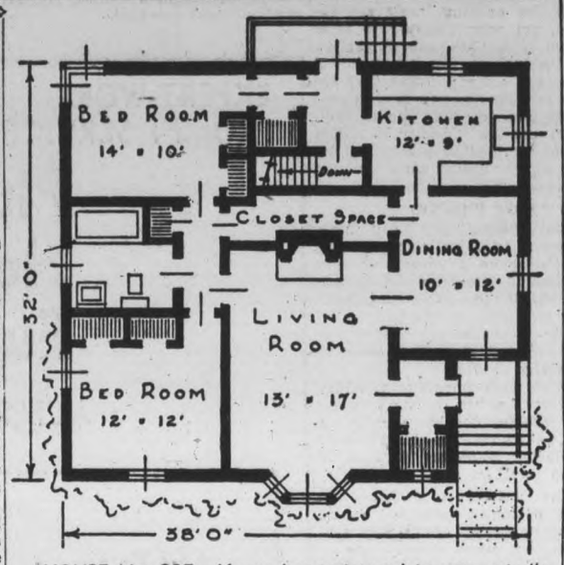
Use Light Colors

Light colors for the walls are more generally used in the warmer climates with cool, light colors for the roof. One of the main reasons for this, of course, is that light colors reflect rather than absorb the heat. Greens, blues and silver greys are cool colors that make a house appear more comfortable and restful to the eye.

In our own colder climate the tendency is more towards the use of warmer colors. Yellows, creams and tans are good. Here, too, darker roof colors are more successful with warm browns, rich reds as bright accent tones.



Colors should be chosen to emphasize the points of a house that are attractive and subdue those less pleasing to the eye. Remember that contrasting colors will bring features out in importance —soft blending colors will tend to conceal them.



Informal or Dignified?

Color helps a house to express feeling. Bright, gay colors give an informal and inviting appearance while dark, rich colors seem to suggest dignity. Color also has the ability to shrink or stretch the apparent size of a house. White is expansive—dark colors tend to restrict. Blue recedes—red comes forward.

If you want to make a house appear reserved and formal, color areas should generally be kept unbroken. This is achieved by using blending rather than colors that contrast or accent.

Always consider the setting and orientation of your home when choosing a color scheme. No one house should clash with those adjacent to it and all should blend with the general feeling of the street. If your house perches high on a hill so that the roof is projected against the blue of the sky, a warm red will set it off admirably. Where the house on a knoll or hill is tall, the choice of blue or black as a roof color is good.

HOUSE No. 295—If you have pictured in your mind's eye a "little white house at the end of the lane," here is something to make you sit up and take notice. By virtue of appearance and plan it is worthy of special notice. You don't forget a beauty like this! Each room is small but adequate in size for furniture and livability. The location of the two bedrooms and bath as a private section of the house is good. Twin closets in each bedroom will appeal to most prospective homebuilders. Central position of the bathroom makes it easily accessible from every room in the house. Expert planning went into the kitchen, as is shown. Prize room of all, however, is the living-room with its big fireplace and bay window. Unfortunately its location makes it a traffic artery. For further information regarding plans, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay Street, Toronto.

Unglamorous Asphalt Widely Used In Homes

Much of the glamor of the modern home is based on one of the most unglamorous materials — asphalt.

Its resistance to water, which caused it to be used 5,000 years ago in sealing temple paths in ancient Mesopotamia and in preserving the mummies of Egyptian kings, has won asphalt numerous uses in American homes.

It forms the base of membraning paints to seal the outside of basements and foundations. In emulsions it waterproofs the basement floors. In paints it rustl proofs the screens, roof gutters and downspouts. It is used in caulking and weather proofing.

The widest use of asphalt today is in roofing. Although flammable in itself, its use in composition shingles has won the approval of the Underwriters' Laboratories through surfacing of mineral granules in varities of colors.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the cost change in asphalt roofing materials has been one of the lowest in the construction field. The wholesale price of asphalt strip shingles is listed at about 6 per cent above the 1926 level.

BASEMENT WALLS

If the basement walls of concrete, tile or brick have been previously calcimined or whitewashed, this layer must be removed ni order to apply paint. Give the walls a thorough brushing before painting. Ceilings, furnace pipes, rafters and other wooden members in the basement can be coated.

Find Storage Space Hidden In Home

A careful appraisal of your house, whether new or old, will reveal many unsuspected places which might be utilized for storing those odds and ends that inevitably result from today's manner of living.

Homes, like butter, canned goods and sugar, have to be stretched these days. Instead of adding on a new bedroom, putting in another bathroom or adding a garage many of us have to make our present space do for whatever emergency may arise.

That means, for one thing, that you'll have to find new places for storage. There are probably several idle spaces in your home that could be put to work. How about under the stairs? If yours is a two storey house with basement you'll have at least two under-the-stairway possibilities. The main floor area can be used for clothing storage by merely putting rods and hangers in it...or it can be used for linen storage by installing shelves. The basement space under the stairs, closed in and fitted with shelves, will hold your Victory-garden canning efforts...or it can be the resting place for screens and storm doors.

Ceiling as Storage Space

Ever use the ceiling as storage space? In the basement, for example, you can use it to store the screens and storm windows. Make a simple frame rack, large enough to hold the screens you need, and attach it to the cellar joists. Such a rack keeps the screens away from the floor and up in the relatively dry air of the ceiling. Your first floor closet crowded? No place for shoes? Use the basement ceiling again. Cut a hole in the floor of your closet, then build a box between the joists thus exposed. Cover the hole with hinged cover and there's your shoe storage, out of sight, and from under foot. In any crowded room a ceiling shelf or cabinet, like those installed over sink in the kitchen will save your precious floor space but give you equally precious storage space.

Turned Into An Asset

Plumbing sometimes takes odd turns and cuts up otherwise neat wall spacs. You can turn this liability into an asset. Build a wooden covering around the pipe and above or at the side of it provide a cabinet for shelves for storing odds and ends...it it's in the basement you can store paint and brushes here, in a bathroom you can store toilet articles or linens. If you plan your space right, no one need ever know your cabinet or shelving resulted from necessity.

Those ungainly jogs in the foundation can be turned to good use, too. Depending on their size they can be converted into a laundry centre, a storage for home-canned vegetables, for screens and storm windows, for old magazines you want to keep. But we don't mean that these should be just thrown into the space...we mean that they should be planned into the space. Cellar floors are often damp, so the first requirement is to get things up and off the floor. Shelving will do the trick in most cases, but some articles call for further protection. Simple cabinet, with fibre-board doors either hinged or sliding are easily made and are worth the time and effort it takes to make them.

Passive Accomplices

RED DEER, ALTA.— (CP) — Magistrate James Smith in court here criticized older people who stand by and do nothing to prevent "foolish youths" breaking the law. Two youths were fined for stealing wheels and tires from a stranded car but the magistrate said older bystanders who made no protest were "passive accomplices."

Floors Will Give Longer Wear With Good Care

Floors have been increasing in decorative importance for many years. Nowadays they're not just something underfoot, never noticed except when the yobviously require attention. They'll give you greater satisfaction and longer wear if you keep them in the best of condition at all times.

Concrete basement floors are subject to ruts and cracks, and as a result are not only hazardous but dirt catchers of the worst sort. Especially if you are planning to paint your concrete floor, these ridges and pitted places must be filled in. Shallow holes and depressions can be quickly repaired by a ready-mixed plastic patching material which dries in from two to 12 hours, depending upon the thickness. Clean the area first with a wire brush, then scratch in the patches with a trowel, ring it to the level you want, and smooth it off.

For deeper cracks, dig out all loose concrete with cold chisel or similar tool. Go over area to be patched with a wire brush, then wash out the crack with water. Apply a bonding coat of one of the non-shrinking concrete floor patching compounds. Place small amount in area to be patched. Thin down with a little water and scrub into area with old. stiff-bristle broom. Then fill space with another layer of mixture and work it into the surface. Level and finish with steel trowel.

For a big lift to the dull-looking off-white cement floor, consider a rich burgundy paint job, a deep green, or a black brightened with red border.

Just one word of warning—when painting cement be certain that the paint you use is specially prepared for use on plaster and cement or you may find your work ruined by the burning chemical action of lime in the mortar.

Require Little Attention

Lineoleum floors generally require very little attention if kept waxed and polished. However, should area become loosened, it should be recemented immediately. Use an adhesive recommended by the linoleum manufacturer. If the loose spot is near a seam, lift up the edge and wipe the area underneath with a cloth or brush to remove loose matter. Then cut a piece of cardboard with a saw-toothed edge and use it to trowel the paste onto the floor. Replace the linoleum and weight down the spot evenly with a book or heavy object. Allow to dry for three or four hours.

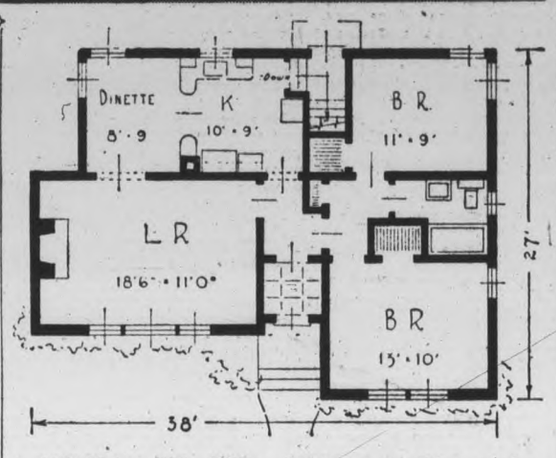
If a blister or loose spot shows up in the centre of the floor, the linoleum should be cut around a design. Proceed as above.

Touching Up Spots

Perhaps your wood floor has merely become worn in spots, due to the wearing off of varnish. There's a "mop-on" type of varnish specially prepared just to touch up these spots.

Volumes have been written about the care and upkeep of floors but one fact applies to all types of flooring. They are all improved by careful waxing and never helped by a soap and water bath. Most of the newer floor polishes clean as they polish, building up a protective coating which takes the wear and saves the surface. Don't bog down on the idea that wax is limited to use on wood alone. Tile, linoleum, terrazzo, brick and cement are all aided by the soft but brilliant luster which only wax can give. Whether you select the old reliable paste waxes or one of the easy to apply self polishing types just remember to apply it carefully and often.

When laying a new wood floor lay the boards a hairline crack apart as a precaution against cracking and swelling. This allows room for expansion and improves the appearance of the floor by defining the outline of each board.



All types of flooring should be laid over a smooth solid foundation. Sound proofing felt is a wise investment and should be laid over the sub flooring.

Old, badly-worn wooden floors can be sanded and refinished, or replaced with linoleum or composition.

Old floor boards should be examined, and worn or broken pieces cut out and replaced. Squeaky or worn-down stair treads are an annoyance which can be eliminated at very little cost.

GOOD LOCATION

The Recollets founded a mission in 1620 on the Nipisiquit River in New Brunswick, celebrated for fine salmon.

HOUSE No. 610—With a full basement this cosy clapboard cottage contains about 16,500 cubic feet. The plan reveals a room layout of unusual merit, with convenience one of the chief features. Notice, too, that the bedrooms and "living" area of the house are well separated. Closets are adequate, and the size and number of windows make it a cheerful place to live in. The exterior appearance is enhanced by the deep red of the roof and shutters. Awnings are maroon and white. For further information, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay Street, Toronto.

CRACKED PLASTER

Chip away any loose plaster in cracks and holes with a chisel, making sure that the cracks are wider at the bottom than at the surface. Soak the lath and the plaster edges with water, then fill to within ⅛-inch of the surface with plaster filler. When the patch is dry, wet it again and fill to surface level using a trowel or wide-bladed putty knife. When the patch is hard and dry, sandpaper it smooth and paint.

Proper Work Levels Ease Housewife's Job

Many a woman who has complained about kinks in her back and who "always felt tired" has eventually found relief, not in pills and nostrums but in getting her plumber to adjust the levels of her sinks and wash tubs.

Obviously, different persons require different working levels. And, if the working levels of the various plumbing fixtures in a house are right for one person, they are wrong for another of a different height. If these surfaces are too low for a tall woman, she has to stoop uncomfortably to her work. Conversely, if they are too high for a short woman, she has to lift the dishes or clothes awkwardly and with strain. Yet, if the variation from correct height is not extreme, many persons will suffer for years without realizing what is causing the trouble.

If the existing levels are too low, get your plumber to raise them. If they are too high, get him to lower them. But if, and this is the case in many homes, they are too low for one person who uses them and too high for another, then get the plumber to adjust them for the tall person and let the shorter person use a low step or stool when working.

Survey the Plumbing

But before you call your plumber to adjust your working levels, make a survey of your household plumbing and heating so that, if there are other adjustments needed, he can do them all at the same time and so save precious hours of skilled labor so urgently needed.

With replacements of plumbing fixtures rather difficult every householder should exercise a little extra care in helping to keep enameled plumbing fixtures in good condition.

The first rule to remember is that enameled surfaces should never be scraped or cut. Such surfaces are made of the same materials as glass, whether white or colored, and should be treated the same as though they were glass. Scratches will not only mar the surface, they will invite acids to cut deeper and eventually eat away the enameled surface itself. Always think of your enameled surfaces as you do of your teeth. One little cavity, such as caused by a scratch, chip or gouge, can lead to real trouble. The point is that the surface not the "below the surface" is resistant.

When preparing vegetables, don't shred greens, slice fruits, etc., on the enameled drainboards. Don't drag or scrape pots, pans or dishes.

Then There's the Laundry

Your home should have a modern laundry, laid out and equipped for efficiency, located and furnished for dryness, well-lighted, well-ventilated, cheerfully decorated, easy to clean and maintain, and supplied with plenty of hot, soft water. Here are a number of points to check in planning an efficient laundry room:

1. Tubs located so that waste and supply pipes are readily available.
2. Sorting tables or bins located near entrance door or chute.
3. Other equipment arranged in order of use to save steps.
4. Natural light available, and artificial light provided.
5. Plenty of electric outlets available.
6. Indoor drying or plenty of space for pulling out racks if drier is used.
7. Cabinets for mending and laundering supplies.

The laundry should be immediately accessible to drying yard, kitchen, telephone. Pieces of equipment should be placed in order of use. Minimum-essential equipment will include: two-compartment tub with swinging, water-mixing faucet and no surface or finish to rust; drying racks or lines; ironing facilities. Next in order of importance and as you can afford them will come: washer, storage cabinets, ironer, drier—and finally, toward perfection, sorting tables and bins, additional storage space, hot plate, siphon pump for emptying washer and receptacles, clock, ventilating fans, and extra tubs.

Tubs should be installed at correct height, and corners and rims should be rounded so that dirt won't accumulate and corners will not tear clothing or cause personal injury. Swinging-spout faucets with hose connections will distribute water to tubs and washer without bucket-lifting.

Traverse Type Of Draperies Continue In Popularity

Since draw draperies were introduced several years ago by style-wise interior decorators, they have met with enthusiastic response by home beautifiers. Until recently, they were, for the most part, custom-made and priced accordingly; something to be wished for but not permitted by moderate decorating budgets.

Fulfilling the desire for added window interest, ready-made traverse draperies are now priced so practically everyone can afford them. They can be purchased in any length and in multiple widths, making them flexible enough to suit almost any window problem. Tops are French pleated or shirred. Most popular fabrics are rayon and cotton shantung in jade, gray, chartreuse, rose beige, gold and egg shell.

Casement fabrics will be seen in a wider range, and homemakers can choose from gossamer thin, spongy or heavy materials. Metallics will be featured in handsome accent treatments of unusual yarns like jute. Colorful prints and dark backgrounds will be more popular than ever, especially for provincial prints.

New fabrics for side draperies are away from pebble weaves and into failles, cotton warp spiral cloths and shantungs. Outstanding patterns include scenics with deer and other country subjects, tropicals, new stripes, and Chinese motifs.

Something new in glass curtains is a group of marquisette and organdy panels with chintz or gingham trim.

Whether ready-made or made-at-home, draperies and curtains for 1951 are gay, colorful, and show more imagination in fabric design than ever before.

HOUSE No. 553—While the house pictured above was erected in Vancouver, British Columbia, it is entirely suitable for any part of Canada. One was just completed using the same plans in Cooksville, Ontario, and it has captured all the beauty of the home as shown. Carefully tailored to meet the tastes of a discriminating owner, this little white clapboard cotage could be a joy to behold on any street! Containing only about 16,500 cubic feet, it has five well-proportioned rooms designed for modern living. In spite of restricted size, criss-cross traffic has been eliminated. Bedrooms are private. For building plans, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay Street, Toronto.

Control Of Humidity Adds Years To Lifetime Of Home

Temperature control and avoidance of excessive moisture in a house can pay real dividends in greater home comfort and economy.

A certain amount of moisture is important in preventing furniture from disintegrating, in protecting nasal membranes and in maintaining general health. However, it is beneficial only so long as controlled within recommended limits. Beyond that point it may endanger health and the soundness of a building.

In winter moisture normally moves from indoors to outdoors. Cold air holds less moisture than warm air. Excessive vapor indoors coming into contact with a cold surface, liquifies and forms beads of moisture on the cold surface—the same as you see when summer air strikes a pitcher of ice water.

The pressure of this passage of moisture is surprising. Most building materials offer little resistance. Wallpaper, plaster and wood are easily penetrated. Only window glass and certain paints, enamels and varnishes offer resistance.

Rots Lumber

The result is when this vapor laden air touches the cold sheathing, building paper and siding that cover the outside of your house, it condenses and runs down in pools to rot structural lumber.

The most effective protection against that hazard is for the householder to exercise special care in heating a house and to guard against excessive moisture. This can be far more practicable than attempting to install a perfect vapor barrier.

In order to prevent moisture from passing through a wall, a vapor barrier should be completely air tight. If merely loosely nailed between joists, such a barrier will leave air passages along its edges and at seams, thereby decreasing its efficiency. However, it serves a real purpose as a surface on the indoor side of insulating batts by keeping suhch insulation dry. Moisture destroys insulating value as you can see if you take hold of a hot pan handle with a wet cloth.

Haits Problems

On the other hand, control of indoor humidity and proper ventilation can do much toward stopping moisture problems at their source. The idea of humidifying the air in homes until moisture runs down windows has been abused to a point where one of the largest manufacturers of heating equipment is including humidifiers in installations only after they have been proved necessary.

"Excess humidity is destructive to property and destructive to health," says W. C. Coleman. "A lot of folks think their chairs and furniture fall to pieces because of dry weather. It isn't the dry weather, it's the excess humidity the damp weather that has preceded the dry. Your furniture is made from kiln dried lumber. Moisture swells that wood and compresses the fibres. Then when it dries out the joints are loose."

Engineers have found that identical houses with identical heating systems in identical climates can have different humidity probelms. In one, the housewife may make a practice of boiling diapers on the stove every morning. In the other the occupants may like fresh air and may keep the house well ventilated.

Moisture from routine daily activities in kitchen, bathroom and laundry can be prevented from spreading through other rooms by allowing it to escape outdoors through windows opened in the room where it develops. Ventilating fans are highly important.

Humidity

Prof. C. P. Yaglou of the Harvard School of Public Health, has stated that any percentage of indoor relative humidity over 40 per cent in winter is undesirable. Instruments similar to thermostats are available for registering the percentage of relative humidity.

The Engineering Exepriment Station of the University of Minesota recommends that indoor humidity at 70 degrees should not be more than 15 per cent when outdoor temperature is 20 degrees below zero, and may graduate upward by 5 per cent for each 10 degree rise in outdoor temperature. From zero to 10 above the indoor humidity percentage can be 30 at 70 degrees.

More fuel is needed to heat air containing excessive moisture. And each degree above 70 for indoor temperature is said to add as much as 3 per cent to your fuel bill.

Maintaining a steady indoor temperature of 70 for comfort can be achieved through thermostatic heat control and adequate insulation. It has been found that in zero weather when a temperature of 70 is maintained indoors, a wall insulated with a full thickness of mineral wool will have a surface temperature of approximately 67 degrees. An uninsulated wall will register a surface temperature of approximately 59 degrees. The eight-degree difference is enough to make a room chilly, because of body radiation. This leads to over-heating the house.

The University of Illinois Small Homes Council says "the tendency to blame insulation for paint troubles caused by condensation is not fair. Neither the insulation nor the paint is at fault. Rather, the blame lies on the lack of control of water vapor."

Bath, Kitchen Can Be Colorful

Now that kitchens have been officially recognized as rooms, and bathrooms are admired for more than their plumbing, it's quite alright for enterprising ladies to get their itching fingers into decorating these two household necessaries.

Back in the days when all was sanitary and white, a red plaid ceiling in the kitchen, or mermaids reclining on the bathroom wall, probably would have been considered a little odd.

But now it's been conceded that a gay, spirited atmosphere in the kitchen doesn't necessarily distract a woman from her culinary chores. Furthermore, a person can take just as thorough a shower when surrounded by a coral decor with witty black accents as he can when there's nothing except stark white to take his mind off the business at hand.

Since the furnishings of these two functional rooms are necessarily of a rather austere nature, most of your fun will have to be supplied by the walls and accessories.

Wallpapers especially designed for kitchens and bathrooms make the problem of color and pattern an easy one. Plaids, checks, dots or symmetrical patterns—all in bright, cheerful colors—create an atmosphere that speeds the kitchen work.

These wallpapers can be used on the walls or, if you prefer something a little quieter, on the ceiling in conjunction with plain walls. With plain walls open cupboards lined with wallpaper to match the ceiling add a right, bright note.

In bathrooms, backgrounds of sea blue or green with appropriate patterns provide the correct local color. Used with colored tile, matched to plastic in shower curtains, such wallpapers do much to make the bathroom more than just a room you have to have.

Careful Tending of Carpets Will Add Years of Wear

We don't seem to realize the terrific wear and tear to which carpets and rugs are subjected, not now and then, but literally every day in the year. We walk on them with hard, soiled shoes, pull and push furniture over them without the slightest compunction, expose them to glaring sunlight, drop ashes and even food particles on their absorbing surfaces without a single care—and still expect them to last indefinitely and possess their pristine beauty and glory forever. Yes, indeed, carpets and rugs are the most abused of all home furnishings—and yet, like Mark Twain's weather, we generally do nothing about it.

Perhaps you can make practical use of these rules:

Most new rugs "shed." You'll find on almost any new rug a certain amount of woolly fuzz. These are merely the loose ends of the nap which have fallen back into the pile in the process of "sheering." As a rule, they disappear after a few weeks of use. If a broom is used in removing them, particularly on an Axminster or Wilton rug, one should not sweep hard, and never with a "digging" motion. New rugs should receive very little cleaning for two or three weeks.

All Rugs Shade

Practically all rugs "shade." The light or dark patches which appear on plain rugs are merely seeming differences in color due to unequal crushing of the nap.

Take special care in laying rugs. Neglect of this admonition causes untold trouble. Any bumps, ridges or unevenness in the floor are sure to cause worn spots. In any event, never place a rug on a bare floor; rather lay it over a good quality rug cushion, for this takes up the minor inequalities of the floor.

Do not beat or sweep rugs. Beating breaks threads and loosens the fabric, thus seriously damaging a rug. Sweeping with a corn broom is also dangerous, as the stiff fibres of the broom tear into the nap. When cleaning is necessary a carpet sweeper to remove the surface dust and dirt. If possible, use a vacuum cleaner at least once or twice a week.

Do not pull out knots or tufts. If they are objectionable, cut them off even with the surface. They are not defects in the weaving. When and if rugs rip, sew them immediately.

Always use a good quality of hair rug cushion. Every carpet and rug deserves an appropriate cushion or "lining," not only to increase its softness, but also to double its life. However, the cushion must be equal in quality to the quality of the rug. A poor cushion is hardly more valuable than no cushion at all.

Causes a Bulge

About lamp cords under rugs. The ordinary lamp cord causes a bulge under a rug that results in rapid wear. A special flat cord can be obtained to avoid this trouble.

Move the furniture occasionally. Such moving will prevent permanent indentations in a rug and will also distribute excessive wear.

Protect rugs from direct sunlight. Even the finest domestic rugs will tend to change color if exposed to bright sunlight, and particularly is this true of the delicate shades so popular today.

Turn rugs around every few months. The heavy traffic will thus be more evenly distributed and there will be less likelihood of the formation of worn spots around doors and windows.

Dry air is harmful to rugs. Dry air in closed rooms causes rug fibres to dry out and become brittle and thereby the life of even the finest rug is considerably shortened. Ample humidifiers should be usd on radiators espcially in the hot air heated room.

Never pack away until clean. Soiled rugs are much more apt to attract moths than clean ones, and all rugs, therefore, should be carefully washed before being put into storage.

General cleaning with a carpet sweeper and vacuum cleaner will retard the gradual soiling of rugs but at intervals, preferably once a year, thorough cleaning by a responsible carpet cleaner is advisable.

Dirt spots. To remove ordinary soil marks go over the rug thoroughly with a soft brush. Then sponge with mild, warm soapsuds and rinse carefully with clean, warm water.

Grease spots. Such spots gradually rot the fabric of a rug and should be removed at once with carbon tetrachloride, which is sold under various trade names. The tetrachloride should be applied with a soft cloth, and the soil taken up as it dissolves with a clean cloth or blotter.

Chewing gum can be softened by pouring on a little carbon tetrachloride. Let the tetrachloride stand for a few minutes and then remove the gum.

Animal stains. Most stains of this nature cause a discoloration which cannot be completely removed. Clean at once. First sponge thoroughly with a strong salt solution (½ cup of salt in a quart of lukewarm water), and then follow with a weak ammonia solution (one part in 20 parts of water).

THIS COFFEE TABLE has an interesting new idea. The ceramic trays can be used as snack dishes, or as a planter when set into the table in an upright position. When turned over the ceramic trays become "tiles" onto which drinks can be set.

Ventilation Will Clear Excess House Moisture

An example of how ventilation can reduce excessive indoor humidity is afforded by an average sized house of 24,000 cubic feet.

Such a house contains 1,800 pounds of air, which at saturation 100 per cent relative humidity, can hold 28 pounds of moisture.

If this house is heated to 70 degrees in winter and registers 60 per cent in relative humidity —which is excessive—it would contain 17 pounds of moisture.

An equal amout of outside air at 10 degrees temperature and 40 per cent relative humidity would contain about one pound, or a pint of moisture.

A few minutes' interchange of indoor and outdoor air will quickly keep the indoor humidity within recommended limits. The house will heat quicker and be more comfortable.

Electrical Gifts Are Favored As Presents For Brides

The popular gift for brides this Spring is a gift of leisure time. Electrical housewares give that very thing—extra hours of relaxation for the future home-maker.

This Spring. you'll see electrical housewares taking front-center on the bride's gift table . . . an indication that these practical and attractive gifts rate high in a young couple's appreciation.

While there are occasional shortages, most of the wanted small appliances are still available.

There is a good selection of such items as electric coffee makers and percolators, toasters, hot plates, corn poppers, roasters, mixers, juicers, waffle irons, deep fat fryers, and sandwich grills in furniture, department stores and appliance shops.

When you choose one of these, you give a gift for a lifetime of pleasure.

Inside your beautifully wrapped box is not only a thoughtful present, but a wonderful silent servant that will perform faithful service for years to come.

Electrical blankets, too, make truly beautiful and luxurious gifts and come in a wide range of fashionable colors.

Electric clocks are another timely gift suggestion for the 1951 bride and groom. You will find them in a wide range of designs, finishes ,and colors—in styles for kitchen or living room.

And, of course, an electrical alarm clock, 'though very much on the practical side, is always a welcome gift.

Whether you are a parent, relative or friend you can find the right gift for any bride, among this season's electrical housewares —at just the price that fits your budget.

PAINTING OVER WALLPAPER

First wipe away all dust that might cause paint to streak Remove loose or wrinkled wallpaper, and patch cracks and holes. Where the wallpaper comes loose at the seams when painting, brush a little paint back of the paper and smooth it down with the brush. If blisters appear, slit the swelling and allow some paint to run behind it. On wallpapers which have gilt or some other metallic substance in the pattern, test a section first with a few dabs of paint to see whether the pattern stains through. Test wallpaper colors with water to see if they run. If this happens, cover these areas with shellac before starting to paint.

London Plans Electric Eye Plant

LONDON, Ont., March 31 (CP)—One of Canada's first "electric eye" sorting plants for grading white and yellow beans will be set up in London this year, it was learned Friday.

Plans for construction of the plant were announced by the Ontario Bean Growers' Marketing Board following the annual meeting.

"We have the site chosen and wil be going ahead with the building as soon as we can," D. M. Campbell, of Blenheim, retiring chairman of the board, said.

A $133,000 surplus from two-cent and five-cent per bushel licence fees paid by Ontario growers, will be used to finance the project, Mr. Campbell said.

The new plant will provide for the first time, an accurate and foolproof way of sorting first quality beans from a low grade crop. This will be of great benefit to growers, said William Haugh, of Dashwood, Huron-Perth representative on this year's board.

Toronto Stock Market Continues Weak Tendency

By BILL DANIELS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock markets this week continued their weak and quiet tendencies. Developments in the Korean war seemed to govern the trend.

Prices were climbing a week ago Thursday when Canadian markets closed for the long Easter week-end.

Saturday, New York was open for trading. Prices on that board dropped rapidly as investors took a bearish view of Gen. MacArthur's peace offer.

Monday, New York — open while Canadian exchanges remained closed—was mostly mixed and quiet with little price change.

Tuesday, with Canadian markets open, rumors of a possible peace in Korea began to circulate. Prices on all markets dipped downward under nervous selling. Throughout the session Wednesday the selling continued.

Overnight news brought a reversal to Thursday's price trend. Gen. MacArthur's peace proposal was rejected by the Chinese and Communist resistance to the United Nations advance stiffened. Prices jumped ahead in the forenoon.

Thursday afternoon showed investors still unwilling to take a bullish stand. Activity decreased and many early gains were cut. At the close, gains barely outnumbed losses. All markets Friday climbed but trading was extremely slow.

Of note this week was the pattern of activity. As prices declined Tuesday and Wednesday sales increased. When they rallied and moved ahead Thursday and yesterday sales decreased. Yesterday's volume was the smallest of the week in New York and the least since Dec. 26 in Toronto.

Wolves Numerous North Of Marmora

MARMORA, March 31. (ENS)—Wolves are still plentiful in the north part of Marmora and Lake townships, according to Sanford Lawrence, local hunter and trapper, on his temporary return to the village on Friday.

"Many fresh tracks are to be seen all over" said Sanford. "That is because it is breeding time." About three weeks ago, this hunter shot a fine specimen with a single shot. Asked if he had accounted for any more since, Sanford replied "No, but I saw another big one last Saturday about 450 yards away as I was at the old Franklin house. I only had a light gun with me at the time and I was hoping he would come closer but he didn't". The only other animal Sandford saw was an otter on a strip of ice as he made his rounds on Thursday. "That had to be left alone," added the hunter.

Reds Mass Troops On Central Front UN Army Watching

TOKYO, April 2. (AP)—Allied tank-infantry patrols stabbed across the 38th Parallel into Communist Korea "several" times Sunday and today. Presumably all pulled back to main Allied lines after short periods north of the pre-war boundary between North and South Korea. AP correspondent John Randolph reported from the Western front that the border crossings "had no special significance." They were part of the routine patrolling constantly being carried out along the front.

Main Allied interest was focused north of 38 on the Central front. There the Communists are massing troops and equipment for a probable spring offensive.

New Chinese tactics have delayed infantry assaults on Red hill positions. In the past, the Reds usually waited on their hilltop crests for the Allies to hit them.

Now they wait on the reverse side of the slopes and man their trenches only at the last moment. By then the Allied infantry is too near the lines to receive close artillery support.

Hits Stiff Resistance

One Allied tank-infantry patrol which stabbed across 38 Monday on the west central front hit stiff Communist resistance 1½ miles north of the border and withdrew.

AP photographer Jim Pringle said the patrol planted a sign welcoming other Allied units to the 38th parallel. Later it learned the sign was placed a mile north of the pre-war boundary between North and South Korea.

This crossing was in the vicinity of Songdong. A U.S. Eighth Army communique said an enemy platoon was engaged and dispersed.

It was the third U.S. crossing of 38 in this area since Saturday.

Two American tank forces crossed 38 Saturday. Both withdrew.

On the central front, south of the reported Communist buildup, troops of a U.S. division were stopped three miles short of 38 by heavy Communist fire.

Well Entrenched

The Reds entrenched on a formidable hill north of Chunchon, threw mortar, artillery and machine-gun fire at the infantrymen.

The Allied troops failed to dislodge the Reds and withdrew for the night.

Infantry patrols cautiously led the way as the UN ground forces moved in force to within half a mile of 38 across the western and central fronts.

Gen. MacArthur's communique said the Communist build-up appeared to be in the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Hwachon triangle on the central front. Allied commanders expect the Chinese and North Koreans to funnel their troops through this triangle in a new attempt to drive the United Nations out of Korea.

Communist vehicles jammed the roads of northwest Korea. Allied air observers spotted 2,300 Sunday night. It was the largest after-dark movement observed during the war, and raised speculation that an expected Red counter-offensive may be launched soon.

Pats Encounter Scattered Chinese Fire

By BILL BOSS.

WESTERN SECTOR, Korea, April 2 (CP).—The Patricias patrolled forward Saturday after an advance Friday in the face of scattered Chinese small arms fire first enemy opposition since they began their latest push Wednesday.

Saturday's activity was around a 4,500-foot mountain about four miles south of the 38th parallel and commanding approaches to it in this sector. The mountain remained in enemy hands Saturday night after air, artillery and mortar strikes during the day gave the Canadians a chance to improve their positions.

A company under Major Jack George of Edmonton did the Friday job. It took them five hours to scale the face of the first hill where they rested briefly before moving on to an intermediate ridge guarding the approach to their final objective.

George's men, fired on by light automatics and small arms in their ascent of the ridge, called for artillery support and replied with small arms fire of their own.

Resistance ended. The advancing Canadians found one Chinese who had been killed by a Canadian sniper.

Spots Enemy

As the slanting rays of the later afternoon sun struck obliquely on a ridge to the left, Lieut. Risk Constant of Calgary saw figures, silhouetted against the skyline, ranging themselves along it.

Scanning closer through binoculars from battalion headquarters, Constant saw enemy positions. He called Major Gordon Henderson of Calgary, battle adjutant, to take a look.

The Patricias obtained permission from a London regiment heading for the ridge to open up and speedily New Zealand gunners supporting them were taking the range. In full view of the battalion spread from coordinating echelons in the valley to rifle companies on the mountain tops, the artillerymen sent a shell hurtling bang bang on to the position in a neat exhibition of gunnery.

Find Canada Best After All

MONTREAL, April 2—(CP) — Twenty Montrealers, who left here three years ago for their Yugoslav homeland with smiles on their faces, came back Saturday with tears in their eyes.

"We have gone through torture, we have lost everything and now we just want to live like human beings again," an elderly man said tearfully in an innterview. He was accompanied by his wife and family.

The returning Canadians were part of a large group who left aboard the Yugoslav transport Radnik, in response to a call from Marshal Tito's government for Yugoslavs and their descendants to return home and help rehabilitate the country.

One of the returning Canadians said "we were told Yugloslav was a wonderful place to live. What they should have said is 'It is a wonderful place to leave'."

Foil $10,000 Robbery At Oshawa Plant

OSHAWA, April 2 — (CP).— A suspicious motorist and two constables Sunday foiled an attempted $10,000 nickel ingot robbery at the Skinner Co. Ltd. nickel plating plant.

The officers were called by a passing motorist whose suspicions were aroused when he saw a truck being loaded at the darkened plant.

A group of men loading the truck fled when the officers approached. Police fired several shots chasing them.

Smuggling In Germany Billion Dollar Business

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 2. (AP)—Smuggling between east and west Germany has become an estimated billion-dollar business.

Huge quantities of goods flow illegally in both directions across the border between Russian-occupied east Germany and Allied-occupied west Germany.

Officials estimate the west German government is losing millions of dollars a year in customs revenue alone.

Both sides of the border are heavily patrolled. But it's almost impossible to provide enough guards to cover all the 700 winding miles of this border. Much of it is in wooded mountains.

West German officials doubt they catch as much as 10 per cent of the goods smuggled.

In the west Germany state of Lower Saxony alone, officials confiscated about $500,000 worth of contraband in the last half of 1950 and impounded scores of vehicles engaged in border running.

This illegal trade is profitable for two reasons:

1. Smuggled goods evade the customs duties and other taxes.

2. The west German mark—at 23.8 cents—is worth about five east German marks.

Good commonly smuggled into west Germany include glassware, lamps, optical instruments, typewriters, sewing machines, radios, musical instruments, silk stockings, furs and textiles.

Most of these are believed to come from government-owned plants and stores in the Soviet zone.

Smugglers into east Germany have been concentrating lately on non-ferrous metals — extremely scarce there.

West German officials expect a rash of liquor smuggling to break out soon. East German distilleries have been operating at peak capacity lately—and west Germany is cutting down its legal imports of French cognac to save foreign currency.

Man Drowns In Trent Trying Boat

Believe Youth Loses Balance, Falls, Family Helpless

CAMPBELLFORD, April 2. (ENS)—While his family and a friend looked on helplessly, Walter Alfred Fry, 22, of 287 Mothersill Drive, Oshawa, was drowned Sunday afternoon in the Trent river. The accident occurred near the family summer cottage, three miles west of Hastings. Fry was trying out his newly-purchased out-board motor when it is believed he lost his balance while standing up in the boat. The fast-moving current in the river at this time of year carried the boat beyond his reach and he floundered trying to reach it.

Provincial Police have not yet located the body.

Breaking In Motor

Fry had motored to the summer cottage earlier in the day with his father, mother, sister and friend. His intent was to break in the new motor.

He had been testing it in the morning and then came in for his lunch; and he went out on the water again immediately after.

Some 20 minutes later his father went out onto the verandah and saw the boat upside down and drifting away, propelled by the current and wind. His son, who was wearing a heavy air force suit and rubber boots, was swimming toward it to try and catch it. But he was unable to reach the craft and drowned.

Provincial Constables Jack McKendry of Peterborough and Donald W. Erskine are investigating.

Tickets Drawn In Irish Sweeps

DUBLIN, April 2—(AP)—The richest Irish Hospital sweepstake draw in history began today. The tickets drawn from the huge drum will send prizes totalling £1,154,066 ($3,231,384.40) to lucky ticket holders.

The top prize is worth £50,000 ($150,000). Second placed is worth $60,000.

The draw is based on the Grand National steeplechase to be run at Aintree, England, Saturday over a course of four miles, 856 yards.

Nine tickets will be drawn on each of the 73 horses originally entered in the race.

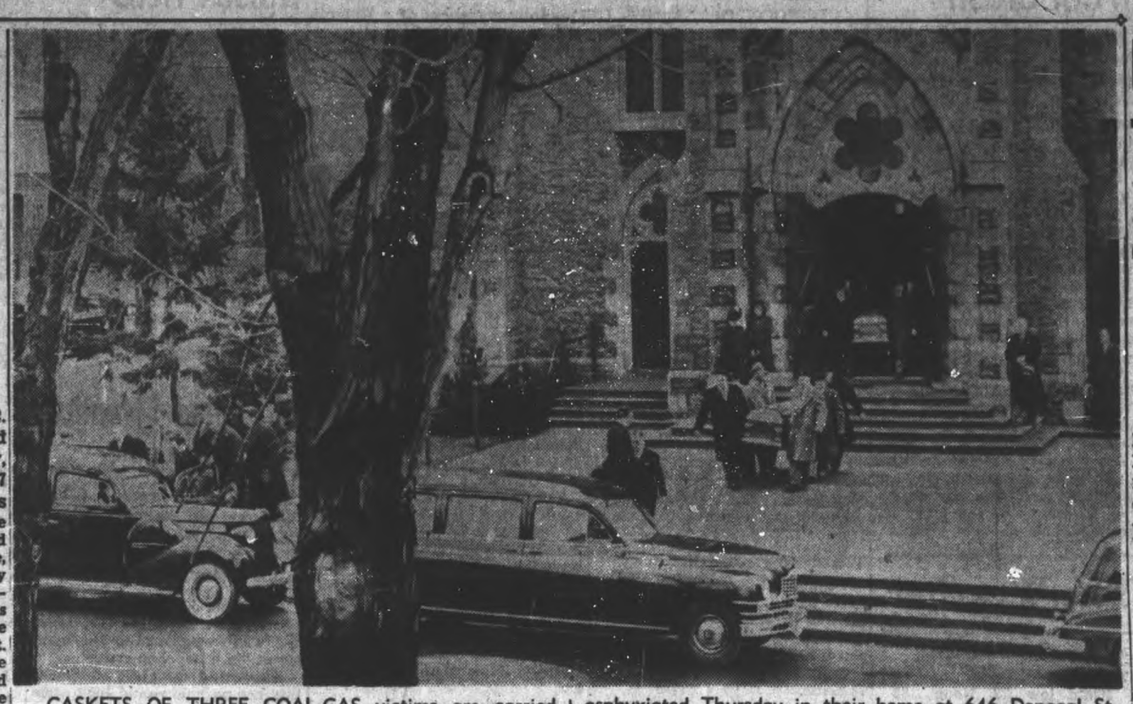
The Irish Hospitalts Trust—operators of the sweepstake—have doubled the value of all prizes this year.

Forty-three starters are listed for the jumping classic.

There will be prizes of approximately $1,000 each for all holding tickets on horses which finish out of the money, and for those whose horses were accepted but later scratched.

CompromiseBill Saves Finland Government

HELSINKI, April 2 (Reuters)—Finland's coalition government — threatened with collapse last month over a bill to raise rents—was saved today by parliament's approval of a compromise bill.



The compromise spreads a 43-per-cent rent increase over five months this summer, instead of bringing it all at once immediately, as proposed in the original bill.

The coalition was formed between the Agrarian party and the Socialists to keep the Communists out of power.

A split would have meant a new election, and another chance at taking over the government for the Communists, the third largest party in this, the only "western" democracy that actually borders on Russia.

Union Locked Out

INGERSOLL, April 2 (CP)—William Hipperson, president of Local 2918 of the United Steel Workers of America (CCL), said that members of his local were locked out of the Ingersoll Machine Company plant today. He said the lockout followed a meeting called to discuss a company offer. He added that company officials were notified of the union's intention to hold the meeting.

Triple Funeral Held For Gas Victims

Requiem mass for the two brothers and their sister, who were asphyxiated Thursday, was celebrated today at 9 a.m. in St. Peter's Cathedral. Nearly 200 people attended the triple funeral, believed the first in Peterborough's history.

Mrs. Mary Cowie, 64, Joseph and William Hagerman, 62 and 55, were found at 10 p.m. Thursday dead in their gas-filled home at 646 Donegal St. All had been dead about 18 hours. when the bodies were discovered.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young discovered that a faulty damper on the thermostat-controlled furnace was to blame for the coal gas that seeped through the house.

Celebrant of the mass was the Rev. F. K. Malane, assisted by the Revs. G. J. Weis and R. J. Garvey. Assisting in the sanctuary were Msgr. P. P. Butler and the Rev. V J. Corkery. Graveside prayers at Little Lake cemetery were said by Msgr. Butler, and at Port Hope by the Rev. J. J. Guiry.

RCAF Seeks 2 Missing Jets

SOREL, Que., April 2. (CP)—Search planes today continued to scour this region some 50 miles east of Montreal in an effort to locate two missing jet planes, one of which plunged into the St. Lawrence River Saturday. The second plane is also believed to have crashed in the vicinity. Police and civilians, meanwhile, covered the river in small boats and located some debris. It was not immediately possible to determine to which plane the debris belonged. Two RCAF pilots are lieved to have lost their lives in their single-seater, Vampire jets. Both aircraft were from 438, City of Montreal Fighter Squadron, Reserve Force, and were piloted by Sqdn. Ldr. Guy Hackett, Montreal lawyer, and Flt. Lt. Robert Leaper of suburban Dorval.

In Low Formation

The two officers were flying in low formation on a training flight and had left St. Hubert Airport, near Montreal, to make a sweep down river.

After circling Sorel they headed toward Montreal, flying in thick fog. It was then the accident happened.

Apparently, no one actually saw the planes crash, but several residents of Grande Riviere, a Sorel suburb, said they heard a loud report. One plane plunged earthward.

Thirteen-year-old Real Gauthier was standing on shore watching ice floes when he saw the jets sweep by and disappear into the fog. Seconds later, he heard "a loud noise like something hitting the water."

Later, a twisted gasoline tank was found. It was recovered and turned over to squadron headquarters in Montreal.

More than a dozen aircraft scoured the area Sunday, making repeated swoops over the river and surrounding countryside, but failed to come up with any further information.

$30,000 Paintings Stolen From Prospector's Home

TORONTO, April 2. (CP)—Police announced today a substantial reward was available for information leading to the recovery of 10 early Canadian paintings stolen Saturday from the North Toronto home of Robert M. Elliott, mining prospector. Valued at more than $30,000, the paintings included canvases by Cornelius Kreighoff, including his "The Toll Gate", "Sunset," "Scene Near Caughnawaga," and "Lord Elgin," part of one of the finest private art collections in Canada. In addition $10,000 worth of sterling silver and two automatic pistols were taken.

In telling of the reward with details to come later, police said the pictures were so well known it would be impossible to dispose of them to art dealers.

Let Them Be Found

Martin Baldwin, director of the Toronto Art Gallery, said the best thing whoever has them can do is to leave them in some quiet place where they can be found.

G. Blair Laing, Toronto art dealer, said unless the thieves were hired by a private collector the paintings would have to be cached for 50 years. Even then, he believed, it would be known they were stolen.

Elliott was absent from his home for an hour and during that time the place was ransacked. Thirty additional paintings had been stacked in the basement by the thieves, apparently for a return trip. The art collector said when he returned he heard a door shut and a man ran across the street but not until he entered the house did he realize he had been robbed.

Believed Ready To Return Stone

GLASGOW, April 2 (Reuters) —John MacCormick, leader of the Scottish covenant movement, said today he believes the persons who took the historic Stone of Scone from Westminster Abbey last Christmas are ready to return it "provided suitable arrangements can be made."

MacCormick said he believes some arrangement for sharing the stone between England and Scotland might be worked out.

"I think if it were returned to the Church of Scotland it would be open to that church to discuss with the Church of England whether the stone might not spend some part of each year in England and in Scotland," said MacCormick, whose convenanters want a Scottish parliament to deal with domestic affairs.

Army, Firemen, Police Pull Boy Out Of Mud

TORONTO, April 2 (CP). — John Fitzpatrick, 13, got stuck in the mud Sunday. The army, police, passersby and a doctor were 90 minutes getting him out.

It all started when two young friends of John bogged down while playing in a ravine where dirt is dumped from the Yonge Street subway under construction. John rescued them, but in the process sank up to his waist.

John's friends called in four soldiers first, then firemen and a passing doctor. Firemen finally dug him out.

John suffered no ill effects.

St. Laurent Enjoys Holiday In Bermuda

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent, tanned and refreshed, returned Sunday night to a drizzling capital after a week-long holiday in the sun. A big transport plane picked up Mr. St. Laurent and Trade Minister Howe in Bermuda earlier Sunday.

Mr. St. Laurent, who returns to his parliamentary duties when the Commons comes back from its Easter recess today, said he had a "very, very pleasant" holiday with much of the time spent resting and golfing. The weather was "most delightful."

"How were the golf scores?" a reporter asked.

The Prime Minister paused, grinned, shot a glance at Mr. Howe and gave this diplomatic answer: "the scores were satisfactory for all who were playing."

Truman Will Ask Congress To Continue ECA As Basis To Carry Out Security Plans

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP) —President Truman said today he will recommend to Congress that the Economic Co-operation Administration be maintained on a "continuing basis to help carry out the programs essential to the security of the free world."

In a statement hailing the third anniversary of the Marshall plan. Truman said economic recovery in Western Europe has been "substantially achieved."

"The free nations now are combining to convert their resources into military strength to preserve the peace and defend our freedoms," he added.

A new ECA policy, announced Saturday by Administrator William C. Foster, calls for supplying Europe not only with money and materials for rebuilding its economy but also for expanding its capacity for producing arms and military supplies.

Under existing laws the big Marshall plan agency is scheduled to close out next April. Its operations cost the United States $11,000,000,000.

Use Power To Best Advantage

Says Military Men Shouldn't Try To Be Diplomats

OTTAWA, April 2. (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said today the free nations aren't yet strong enough to be able to stamp out every aggression that may flare up and they should govern themselves accordingly.

In a preface to his department's annual report on "Canada and The United Nations," the Minister twice referred to the need for the free world to husband its resources and use them where they can be most effective. Mr. Pearson tabled the report in the Commons.

He said an understanding of what the UN may do in the future can only be judged by understanding the factors behind UN policy towards Red China's intervention in Korea.

It was obvious from the first that China's aggression had to be resisted "but should the resistance in Korea take a form which might lead to limited or unlimited war with China?....On this there were grave reasons for doubt and hesitation."

Last Resort

For one thing, the UN was founded on the belief that force should be used only as a last resort. Again when the UN did have to use force, "it uses only as much force and no more than is necessary to attain its object, suppressing acts of aggression and restoring peace."

Thirdly, it was obvious only Russia would benefit from a UN-China war. Finally, because China's motives were obscure it was essential to assure China that her interests would not be injured by UN defeat of the North

Oil Companies Facing Squeeze

BAGHDAD, Iraq, April 2 (AP) —Premier Nuri Pasha Al Said declared today that if foreign-controlled oil companies in Iraq do not meet the demands for higher royalties being made on them by the Iraqi government, they may lose their concessions. If they do, he added, oil nationalization will not be necessary.

The premier made his announcement in a statement to the financial committee of the House of Representatives. It was his answer to a group of independent House members who have been pressing for nationalization of Iraq's oil industry.

Parliament in neighboring Iran has adopted nationalization of its British-controlled oil industry but has not yet actually taken over. Britain has protested the move as illegal.

Iraq's oil industry is controlled by American, British, French and Netherlands capital.

If France Falls, World In Mortal Danger—Auriol

WASHINGTON, April 2. (AP) —President Vincent Auriol of France told Congress today that if his country falls before the forces of aggression "the whole world, indeed civilization itself, will be in mortal danger."

Addressing a special joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives, he said to prevent such a disaster the west must base its defence strategy on "shielding" western Europe from attack.

The alternative, he said, is to "liberate a Europe which may be occupied, enslaved, exploited and ravaged and whose name, you may be sure, would only recall the final ruin of a civilization."

Auriol's speech climaxed a six-day state visit here as guest of President Truman. He will leave by train for New York for three more days of speeches, dinners and receptions. Auriol will go to Ottawa April 5 for a visit.

The French president cautioned United States legislators of the dangers of "unco-ordinated diplomacy and strategy." The west must stand together, he said.

Auriol specifically mentioned only the North Atlantic Pact and did not elaborate on his reference to possible additional "pacts."

He vigirously defended the French fighting record. France, he said, has lost 1,932,000 men as a result of the last two world wars and now is fighting Communism in Korea and Indo-China.

Auriol laid down this five-point "peace" program for Russia to accept if it wants to end the East-West tension:

1. Respect for commitments subscribed to under the United Nations charter.

2. An end to Russian "interfering" in the internal affairs of other countries and a stop to the flow of "daily insults" levelled against these countries.

3. Permanent international control of all armaments by the United Nations "in order to limit fairly and later to destroy all classic or atomic weapons."

Flood Waters Dropping In 2 Bad Spots

By The Canadian Press

Rain and snow increased the threat of floods in some sections of Eastern Canada during the weekend, but the country's two main trouble spots—Medicine Hat, Alta., and Chateauguay Basin, Que.—reported flood waters dropping.

At Medicine Hat, in the southeastern corner of Alberta, army demolition squads took over from the RCAF in an effort to break a massive ice jam in the South Saskatchewan River that threatened the city.

A two-day aerial assault by the RCAF in which 5½ tons of explosives were dropped, failed to break the jam some five miles from Medicine Hat. Although the aerial bombing smashed temporary openings in the jam, it reformed after each bombing.

The threatened city of 16,000 residents was cheered by word that the river level had receded slightly Sunday and that army engineers would begin demolition work today.

Cleaning Up

Residents of the small mainland community of Chateauguay Basin near Montreal spent the weekend cleaning up after the worst flood to strike the area in 40 years. Flood waters of the rampaging Chateauguay River, which burst its banks Friday and swept through 90 per cent of the low-lying, heavily-populated region, began falling Saturday and continued to drop Sunday.

No loss of life was reported, but damage was estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

At Longueuil, Que., where 100 cottage-type homes were partly submerged by the St. Lawrence River, the water level dropped about six inches Sunday night.

The Saugeen River was also reported dropping at Walkerton, Ont., after flooding streets of the Bruce County town. But at Ottawa the muddy Rideau River rose eight inches Sunday, flooding some homes in the southeastern section of the city.

Detroit Family Of Four Killed On Holiday Trip

LONDON, Ont., April 2. (CP)—Four members of a Detroit family—two of them police officers—were killed Saturday when a passenger train plowed into their automobile on the Canadian National Railways Huron-Bruce line crossing on No. 22 Highway, five miles northwest of London.

Dead are: Lieut. Joseph Battista Curto, 48, of 20019 Appoline Ave., Detroit, Mich.; his wife, Goldie G. Curto, 50; his son, Ronald Thomas Curto, 19, and his stepson, Patrolman Raymond Curto, 29, 18976 Kentfield Ave., Detroit.

Police said the family had been holidaying at the home of relatives in Utica, NY, and took the shortcut through Canada to enable Lieut. Curto to return to his duties with the Detroit Police Department at midnight.

The westbound Curto car was struck broadside by the southbound train on the level crossing which is 3½ miles west of Calamity Corners, at 5:35 p.m.

The auto was carried 90 feet south of the highway and tossed 30 feet clear of the tracks. The impact spun it completely around with the car coming to rest facing in a northeasterly direction.

Three Killed Instantly

Three were killed instantly. Raymond was rushed to Victoria Hospital but died four hours later.

It has not been determined who was driving the car. Police are seeking information from the first persons to reach the scene, but doubt identity of the driver can be established.

First police notice of the crash came when a passing motorist reported to Chief Doug McGuire and Constable Arnold Precoor of London Township police.

Chief McGuire radioed for provincial police and ambulances. Coroner Dr. G. H. R. Seaman of Lobo was summoned, and Prov. Cpl. Floyd Haight took charge of the investigation.

Following identification by Joseph's brother, Massimo L. Curto of Detroit, the bodies were released for shipment to Detroit.

Major Transportation Problem Highway-Rail Rivalry-Gordon

MONTREAL, April 2 (CP). — Competition between highway transportation and railways is the "major national transportation problem of this decade," Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, said today in a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club.

Because inter-provincial highway transportation comes within provincial transportation, the Royal Commission on Transportation did not directly explore the problem of road-rail competition, Mr. Gordon said. He earnestly hoped that "the range of public discussion stimulated by the report will be broadened to take account of the very important facts which lay outside the commission's terms of reference."

From the standpoint of the public as a whole, the railway president said, it does not matter whether Canada's freight is carried by railroads or highways carriers—"provided shippers get the service they want at the lowest possible cost to themselves and to the public, and provided that the requirements of national defence are obtained at the minimum cost."

He reminded his audience, however, that "Canadian railways are performing a physical job of transportation which highway carriers could not possibly duplicate, carrying something like 150,000,000 tons of freight annually at an average rate per ton-mile of less than 1½ cent—at which level no truckers in North America could survive."

Only One Aspect

Mr. Gordon said he thought it might be assumed that "the railway problem" centres around freight rates and in particular the question of equalizing freight rates across Canada, but, in his opinion, this was only another aspect of the greater problem.

"The existing inequality in regional rate levels is in large measure the consequence of a difficult series of problems arising out of competition between railways and highway freight carriers," he said. "Faced with localized competition from truckers, particularly in Central Canada where competitive influences are highly concentrated, the railways have had to cut rates on the most valuable traffic. Inevitably this has meant that other traffic and other areas have been affected by efforts to recoup the loss in net revenues."

The Canadian National management is ready to recognize the technical advantages inherent in motor vehicle carriers and to make use of them in providing combined rail and highway services for the greater convenience of the public, Mr. Gordon said. However, proposals in this direction had been frustrated by the refusal of competent authorities to licence railway-owned bus or truck services.

Koreans.

"The UN should not be judged as if it were a court to try offenders with a police force always ready and able to punish those found guilty. The UN is not an entity in itself. It is the sum total of the wills of its members...."

Partial Pressure

"It is not now able to apply overwhelming pressure at all times on all offenders, major or minor. Its members must therefore conserve their limited resources in order to be able to apply them collectively where they are most needed."

Mr. Pearson concluded:

"We should not be ashamed to profess....that the principal purpose of the UN is to make peace rather than wage war and that we must therefore, no matter how strong we may become, be prepared with patience and imagination to prolong our efforts to reach a settlement."

In a speech Saturday to the Canadian Bar Association, Ontario section, Pearson said generals trying to be dimpomats are two of the main threats to United Nations unity of action.

"It seems to me to be as unwise, indeed dangerous, for the generals to intervene in international policy matters as it would be for the diplomats to try to lay down military strategy, Pearson said.

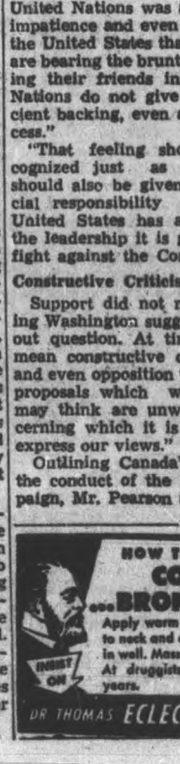
Gen. MacArthur, United Nations commander in Korea, has been the subject of considerable controversial comment as the result of statements he has made regarding the conduct of war against the Communists.

Mr. Pearson, however, did not identify any commander by name. He spoke in general terms of U.N. military men endangering free world unity with "controversial pronouncements which go far beyond" the military responsibility with which they have been charged.

Stick To Specialty

"The specialist should stick to his specialty. Otherwise unnecessary difficulties are created and that whole-hearted co-operation between friends which is so essential, is hindered."

The second threat to unity of United Nations was a "feeling of impatience and even irritation in the United States that while they are bearing the brunt of the fighting their friends in the United Nations do not give them sufficient backing, even at Lake Success."



"That feeling should be recognized just as recognition should also be given to the special responsibility which the United States has accepted and the leadership it is giving in the fight against the Communists."

Constructive Criticism

Support did not mean accepting Washington suggestions without question. At times "it may mean constructive criticism of, and even opposition to, courses or proposals which we in Canada may think are unwise and concerning which it is our duty to express our views."

Outlining Canada's wishes in the conduct of the Korean campaign, Mr. Pearson said the U.N. should "continue to localize" the Korean war and should refuse to be "stampeded into action."

The door should be left open to "every possible opportunity" for settlement.

Peace Treaty Draft Has British Approval

LONDON, April 2 (Reuters)—The United States draft of the Japanese peace treaty received last week is generally acceptable to Britain, diplomatic quarters said today.

A foreign office spokesman declined comment on the draft but the only serious British objection is believed to be over proposals to raise restrictions on Japanese shipbuilding. Britain would like strict control by capacity.

Informed sources said Britain is likely to waive earlier objections to the inclusion of the Philippines in the proposed Pacific defence pact. This will also include Australia, New Zealand and the United States.

Public Support

SOURIS, Man. (CP). — More than 36 volunteers signed up for the fire brigade which is being reorganized here. Charlie Cherrey was elected fire chief. Plans for a new brigade were boosted by success of volunteers in saving the St. Luke's Anglican Church in a recent fire.

Candidates graduate from one to the next as in school examinations. The club's skating committee, under Ernest Ferguson Sr., was largely responsible for a most successful season.

At a closing party Sunday at the Curling Club, Ralph Standish president of the skating club, complimented the skating committee and the popular club professional, Betty Lou Dent of Washington, D.C. Miss Dent, who leaves this week for Copper Cliff to instruct at a summer skating school, was presented with a train case by Arlene Ferguson, club champion, and a travelling clock by Marilyn Clark, on behalf of the club.

Appoint Lemonnier Ike's Naval Deputy

PARIS, April 2 (AP)—French Vice-Admiral Andrew Georges Lemonnier has been appointed as Gen. Eisenhower's deputy for naval forces, the French defence ministry announced today.

Eisenhower is expected to take working command of the Atlantic defence forces within a few days.

The defence ministry said Lemonnier's chief jobs will be to advise the general on the best use of naval forces in the defence of Europe, to represent him in dealing with the naval authorities of the 12 Atlantic powers, and to guide the training of the combined land, sea and air forces.

The ministry said the appointment does not conflict with the command of the North Atlantic, which has been entrusted to an American, Admiral William Fechteler.

Needs Revision

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—It's past time for many fathers to take over as head of the house, the National Council of Catholic Men said Sunday. It deplored as "most unfortunate" the fact that many fathers have failed to maintain this position. The council noted the words of Pope Leo XIII "the husband is the head of the wife as Christ is the head of the church."

Shelve Plan To Shift Deputies' Council

LONDON, April 2 (AP) — An American plan to move the Atlantic Pact's council of deputies to Paris has been shelved indefinitely, a pact spokesman said today. He indicated the Parisian housing problem was one reason.

The move, the spokesman said, was opposed by both Britain and by Gen Eisenhower's headquarters in Paris.

American officials on the council of deputies had felt more efficient work could be done if all Atlantic Pact agencies were grouped together. Britain, however, has sought to keep the council in London. British spokesmen have declared the council's location here emphasizes the Atlantic charter of the pact, while to move the group to Paris might give the pact an entirely-Continental European flavor.

Alnwick Roads In Bad Shape

ROSENEATH, April 2—(ENS)—The gravel roads of the back concessions, at least many of them in Alnwick township are really bad. On several trips during the past week Mr. Les Sherwin, mail driver on Rural Route No. 1 had to use a horse and a two-wheeled cart.

Mr. Harold George, mail driver on R.R. No. 3 is making his trips as far as possible with the tractor.

When Mr. Willis Timlin, a farmer residing on concession 1 in Alnwick twp. drove with a team of horses on a steel-tired wagon between his farm and Roseneath, the wheels dropped down in the mud until the reach of the wagon was scraping along the surface of the road.

Many farmers are practically isolated at their homes, owing to road conditions. The only sure way to go is to ride hoseback or by shank's mare.

It Has Not Paid To Be Thrifty

Last week we discussed some of the effects of the present inflation and pointed out that the basic notion of what represents financial security must change if the inflationary trend continues. Bonds, insurance and bank savings are losing value, and tend no longer to provide the security which thrifty people expected. Perhaps nothing can now give that financial security, although some people are seeking it through investment in sound common stocks, which have appreciated as dollar and bond values have depreciated.

* * *

A hundred dollar bond bought in 1940 was bought with 1940 dollars. Now, even if the bond is worth its face value of a hundred dollars, the hundred dollars paid back are in 1951 terms, and worth perhaps only $60 in real terms, that is, for the goods and services that can be got for them. Thus, because of inflation, the buyer of the hundred dollar bond has lost two-fifths of the principal. Actually, too, it is doubtful if the 1940 $100 bond will fetch its full face value in the open market. The demand for bonds has decreased because they have been money-losing propositions. A hundred dollar bond is probably worth now about $98, and in 1951 dollar values. In addition to this loss, the investor in bonds has been getting coupon interest regularly at say, three per cent., but he has had to pay income tax on these small earnings.

* * *

The American Mercury has documented the depreciation in war bond values in the United States. It recalls that in the 1940's war bond selling appeals were made like this:

"A growing nest egg of savings is a fine thing for everyone to have. You can add that room on to the house after the war is over. Or you can get that tractor you want. Or maybe you will want to send your boy and girl off to school. Put your money into defence bonds. At the end of 10 years they are worth one-third more than you paid for them. So—from a selfish point of view—forgetting patriotism—isn't it wise to invest in Defence Savings Bonds?"

In 1945 the U.S. Secretary of the Treasury said:

"The most important requirement of the small investor is that the securities he purchases should be absolutely free from risk. He does not want to gamble with the principal.

* * *

The Mercury makes this comment: "The disillusioning fact is that the investor who loaned his government $75 in 1941 can now get back, in purchasing power, only $57. He didn't make one-third; he lost almost one-third. Moreover, since the bonds are not tax-exempt, those who invested in 1941 will pay an income tax—at the higher 1951 rates—on their 'profit'."

The magazine then tabulates the values of U.S. Government bonds in 1940 and 1950:

	Dollars Value of Bond with Interest	Purchasing Power of Same Dollars
1940	$ 75.00	$75.00
1941	76.00	70.89
1942	77.00	65.75
1943	79.00	63.83
1945	83.00	65.15
1946	86.00	63.46
1947	90.00	58.50
1948	94.00	57.43
1949	98.00	60.66
1950	100.00	57.00

* * *

The Canadian Victory Bonds have suffered similar declines in values. What encouragement is there for thrift if savings in bonds, insurance, annuity policies and bank accounts are thus struck low? Will people buy Government bonds and Victory Bonds as readily again as they did from 1940 to 1945 with the examples of today's values in mind?

* * *

The inflation is not chiefly or primarily the fault of the Government. Nevertheless, the Government will have to take more effective action against inflation than it has done in the past five years if the bottom is not to drop out of our economy and if Canadians are not to be turned into a race of spendthrifts, knowing that savings have given them neither security nor even the protection that gold put in an old sock would have been. Inflation and Government taxation policies are penalizing thrift.

The Medical Lie

At a convention of medical men last week Dr. Walter C. Alvarez of Chicago, formerly of the Mayo Clinic, advised his colleagues to avoid what he called "the medical lie." What Dr. Alvarez meant was that when a patient has an incurable disease, or is for some other reason near to death, his physician should frankly tell him so. He should not say, "Take your medicine and get all the rest you can, and let me know if there seems to be any change in your condition."

There is much to be said for the frankness which Dr. Alvarez advises, but we feel that there is a great deal to be said on the other side, as well. A doctor understandably hesitates to tell a man that he has not long to live, if that man is enjoying what appears to him to be reasonable health at the moment. And doctors know that their opinions carry great weight with most patients, and that what amounts to a sentence of death from them will have a very depressing effect, and might even hasten the end.

Doctors know, too, that their diagnosis, however careful and sincere, may be wrong, and they hesitate to tell a man anything so drastic as that he cannot live for much longer. We are thinking of a great-uncle of ours who was told, at the age of twenty, that he could not live for six months; he lived well into his seventies. We recall another acquaintance who was told that a spine injury which he had received might kill him at any time; he lived for more than twenty years, and enjoyed life, after that gloomy prediction. Doctors are not to be blamed in such instances; they give the patient an honest opinion, but they cannot tell fortunes.

There is something to be said for the medical lie. When a doctor is sure that a man is going to die, he must tell him, or somebody near him. But unless a doctor is sure of such a thing, it is perhaps wiser to wait and see.

Get Ready For Immediate War!

Sound the bugle! Shrill the fife! Stuff Grandpa's musket with shingle-nails and rock salt! Put all the unemployed on the payroll of the Ministry of National Defence, for we are certain to be at war within two months!—We have indisputable evidence that this will be so!

Our reason? The Federation of British Astrologists has declared that there will be no world war for twenty years.

We know these British Astrologists of old. They are the very same swamis who assured the public in 1939 that Germany would never go to war. When Germany went to war they rushed into print with comforting news that Hitler's podex was within the perihelion of the Lion, and that the war could not last six months. They cast the horoscope of Hermann Goering and discovered that German planes were all made of tissue paper, and could never reach London. They foresaw that Goebbels would drop dead of galloping dandruff, thus ending the conflict. And now they say that there will be no great war for twenty years.

Ring the alarum bell! Thump the drum! The Reds will be on the march by May Day!

President Truman's Hope

In direct reference to criticism of certain aspects of the operation of his Administration, President Truman recently expressed the hope that it will be remembered chiefly for its efforts to prevent war. He pointed out to reporters that a President's true place in history cannot be established until the passage of time allows his record to be viewed in its proper perspective. There is considerable truth in that statement, as the history of several Presidential tenures reveals.

The critics of Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, and Grover Cleveland were as severe as any who have assailed Mr. Truman. There were probably just as many critics, in relation to population, as there are today, and it is likely that, in some instances, criticism was justified. Yet these men and their Administrations rank with the highest in United States history, and rightly so, for their positive achievements far outweighed their mistakes.

What Mr. Truman should keep in mind, however, is the fact that history, when years have given perspective, also assigns to their places on the record those Administrations whose mistakes outweigh positive achievements. It is generally conceded by United States historians that the regimes of Presidents Grant and Harding, with their attendant scandals, are unpleasant chapters of U.S. history. And while there is no suggestion that Mr. Truman's regime will ever deserve to be ranked with these, a fault common to all three may be readily perceived. It may perhaps be described as "government by crony."

President Grant placed friends in office and was loyal to them. They were in large measure responsible for his leaving office a broken and discredited man. President Harding died in office, under the same shadow, cast by friends to whom he was loyal and who looted the nation. And President Truman has consistently defended cronies in office, as well as Government establishments against which serious charges have been made and at least partly substantiated. Mr. Truman needs more protection from his friends than from his enemies, and he could improve his prospects for an honoured place in history by allowing investigation of serious charges rather than by answering all with expressions of utmost confidence in the integrity of individuals and institutions.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

THE other day I was listening to a broadcast of a concert of "Spring Music." Amongst other items not specifically connected with the season I heard (of course) Mendelssohn's Spring Song, arranged for orchestra. Mendelssohn is supposed to have written this during one of his many visits to England. In the house where he was staying there were some children who much enjoyed being taken out for walks by the composer. One afternoon he was extemporizing at the piano, and the children tried to drag him away from the instrument, but he evaded their hands as they sought to catch hold of his hands. In this way, so legend has it, the Spring Song, with its accompaniment of light arpeggi was first conceived. Even if this story is not true I would like to imagine that it was, as it is typical of the composer.

❖ ❖ ❖

DURING the same concert I also heard Delius' exquisite miniature tone poem "On hearing the first cuckoo in Spring." In the New World it is the robin and the crows that announce the arrival of spring; in the Old World it is the cuckoo, with its curiously monotonous call that tells the world that spring is here. The old rhyme says,

"In April
I open my bill;
In May
I sing night and day;
In June
I change my tune;
In July
Away I fly;
In August
Away I must."

Making a very personal use of a Norwegian folksong Delius distils the essence of the virginal charm of an English spring. There is a tender melancholy, too, in those shifting, wide-spaced harmonies that seems to tell of thoughts that do lie too deep for tears; a regret, perhaps, for the transitory nature of all the beauty of primrose, daffodil, dappled sky and burgeoning hedgerow. In the same mood Walter de la Mare wrote, "Look thy last on all things lovely."

❖ ❖ ❖

I CANNOT help feeling, however, that this idyllic conception of spring is rather alien to us here. For the Canadian, except he live on the west coast, the spring is an elemental struggle of the new forces of life against the ice and snow, the thawing of the lakes and rivers, roads turned into quagmires, the last triumph of the overshoe. The pastoral conceits of the Elizabethans, which seem quite natural in England, have a hollow ring in Ontario. More in keeping is Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring," with its remorseless rhythms surging like the sap in the maples. There is nothing conventionally pretty in this music, which caused such an uproar at its first performance in Paris in 1913. This famous "battle" is so well-known that I will forbear from quoting from eye-witness accounts of it. What is less well-know is the fact that the first concert performance of the work (the 1913 performance was of the ballet) was an unqualified success, and certain critics who had given it a rough handling beforehand freely acknowledged their error.

❖ ❖ ❖

I AM afraid that audiences have become too polite in our days. Perhaps they are afraid of expressing their dissatisfaction with a new work in case they may be made to appear bigoted reactionaries in the verdict of posterity. The heated controversies of the Gluckists and Piccinists, the Wagnerites and the Brahmins, however sterile and unedifying, at least showed that some people took music seriously. There are of course factions in the musical world today, but they are conducted with great decorum. Only once in a while does somebody like Sir Thomas Beecham say the right thing at the wrong time, or vice versa. It would be as well if the genuine likes and dislikes of these various sections of opinion were aired with greater freedom. It would help to clear the air of a good deal of high-sounding cant. Strangely enough the world of painting is troubled by no such inhibitions. A year or so ago the Royal Academy in London was shaken to its foundations by a fiery denunciation of "modern" tendencies by its president, Sir Alfred Munnings, and this year Ontario art circles were plunged into heated controversies over the same issue. It may be objected that these violent wrangles lead one nowhere. This may be true to a certain extent, but at any rate they compel one to think about fundamentals and to declare one's position.

❖ ❖ ❖

SOMEBODY has asked me what the word "opus" means. It is a Latin word, Neuter, third declension, and means work. It always refers to a particular task, and not to work in general, as in the phase "Work is the curse of the drinking classes," where another word would have to be used. In musical parlance opus means a published work of music. This may be an opera or a mass, or it may just be a song. Sometimes it happens that a batch of pieces of the same nature, such as a collection of songs or pianoforte pieces, is published together under the same opus number. In this case each individual piece is given its own number. For instance Brahms wrote three Intermezzi as his Opus 117. The first is op. 117 No. 1, the second is op. 117 No. 2, and so on. Of course the opus numbers indicate the order of publication, which is not necessarily the order of composition. A composer may very well withold a work from publication for a while. Some composers such as Hindemith prefer to substitute for the opus number the year of composition as a means of identification, but this is by no means general. Mozart's works for some reason or other never received opus numbers, but a complete catalogue of his works was made by Koechel. This is the explanation of the rather mysterious number that one encounters after works by that composer, for example "Symphony in C major, K551," sometimes known as the "Jupiter" Symphony. In this case the Koechel number distinguished this symphony from two other earlier symphonies, also in C major, K 200 and K 425. The name "Jupiter" is a sobriquet tacked on by some enterprising publisher, and was not sanctioned by Mozart.

❖ ❖ ❖

I AM afraid that this is not the first time I have mentioned opus numbers, though I have tried hard not to repeat myself, and it is probably not the last. If any of my readers has any problem which they think I might be able to solve I would be only too pleased to do what I can for them. Address your letter c/o this newspaper and they will reach me. A certain amount of repetition is inevitable, but I do not intend to do as a certain clergyman who preached the same sermon every Sunday for a whole year. On being remonstrated with by one of his parishioners he explained that as soon as his congregation showed signs of putting into practice the precept of his first sermon he would give them another!

Letters To The Editor

SICK AND TIRED OF LUKEWARM CHRISTIANS

Sir: I too have been interested in your editorial and letters in the paper pertaining to temperance or abstinence.

Our friend the "Swallow" seems to believe in the ethics of eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we may die. I wonder if he ever read Luke 12: 19, 20. These words were used to the Lord Jesus and He replied, "Thou fool this day thy soul shall be required of thee." It is a fine old world if, when we feel like a drink, we drink, and when we feel like being a total abstinence we go dry. But where does God come into the picture? What does the Guide Book, God's word say? "Am I my brother's keeper?" Yes. According to scripture, I am. Read Habakkuk 2:15. Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that puttest thy bottle to him," and again "accursed is he who putteth the cup to the lip." Maybe we do know our own will power but can anyone be sure of his brother's? Are you prepared "Swallow" to meet your Lord and give an account of yourself? Because the scriptures say in Romans 14:10, "We shall all stand before the judgement seat of Christ."

E. E. Pugsley, secretary of Temperance Federation, speaks about the Truth of alcoholics. Drink making, "another little drink won't do me any harm," person into a drunkard. I wonder why he doesn't write about the TRUTH of the scriptures, God's Holy Word. "THE WAGES OF SIN" IS DEATH—eternal death. "DESTRUCTION." "DAMNATION." "HELL." "ETERNAL PUNISHMENT." "WHAT SOEVER A MAN SOWETH THAT SHALL HE ALSO REAP!

I am sick and tired, Mr. Editor, of these lukewarm Christians who talk all around the TRUTH. If God's people would stand up and carry their cross and speak the truth and talk against sin, instead of slinking behind some alcoholic question, we wouldn't be getting into these abstinence arguments.

Why don't preachers preach "ye must be born again," John 3.3? Also, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature." II Corinthians 5:17. If these sermons were preached and teachers taught them we would see evidence of new life and we wouldn't have to show "slides" on the results of drink in our schools to children. They would see at home, first hand, fathers emptying out beer bottles and mothers burning packages of cigarettes. I believe E. E. Pugsley you have the cart before the horse. Tell the older folks, parents, about the harvest they are going to reap by seeing a son or a daughter and most likely both, in a drunkard's grave because they walked not only in "Swallow's" path but also in their own. Tell them the Lord Jesus can make new creatures out of them, with new desires. When God becomes our Master, He'll shake the very Devil himself out of us. There won't be anymore desire for drink, no Swallow, not even for tobacco, either, because He'll give you a far greater taste and it will all be for Him and His will for no man ever served two masters, Matt. 6:24, also Luke 16:13.

As far as I am concerned in this argument it is finished. We either believe God's word and accept it as the truth or we believe Swallow's epistle. As for me I'll stand alone, if need be, on God's Holy Word.

PUGNACIOUS BIBLE-LOVER

Sir: In answer to Monday's question, "Does anybody read the Bible Message?" I say "yes" emphatically. My husband and I read it every night, in fact it's a passage we read eagerly.

To me it is very annoying to read your own words, quote, "For if no one reads it we can use the space for more popular matter"—What could possibly be more popular or important than God's Word?

With all the space occupied with so-called jokes, cartoons advertising and many other items in your paper which to me have little value, surely you don't begrudge the space taken for a few lines of "Truth and Wisdow?"

To openly admit printing parts from the Bible just to fill in an awkward gap (as stated in editorial) must take a lot of nerve. I think most people are sincere in their desire to know the Bible even if they don't always take time to read it that's all the more reason your daily message should be printed.

Well, you asked for our opinion so this is it. I think it a very good policy to print even a small portion each day far better than none at all and if omitted, I'm sure there would be more than a few miss it so if you feel you need more space in your paper omit such articles as drunks, brawling and fighting and scandals.

Sincerely,

MRS. DOUGLAS WADE

WORD BRINGS FREEDOM

Sir: I read with interest your editorial under the heading "Does anybody read the Bible Message" which appeared in the March 26th edition of the Examiner.

May I express my personal appreciation for the fact that you print a portion of the Word of God in your paper. Nations that have given a place for the Word of God have been blessed with freedom and liberty such as we enjoy in our country.

I am sure that there would be many in our city who would not be favorable to your discontinuing your daily Bible Message. Please continue to print it.

Cordially yours,

(REV.) RALPH HOBSON

MAY BE NEAREST APPROACH TO BIBLE

Sir: On behalf of two families I am writing you suggesting that the Bible quotations on the editorial page each day be continued.

It is conceivable that the nearest approach that many people have to the Bible, is through the medium of your columns. There are others however who read this volume very frequently and very thoroughly and the supplementary reading they find on your editorial page is just another opportunity.

By all means continue it.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made. (John 1: 1-3.)

❖ ❖ ❖

Hear ye the word which the Lord speaketh unto you, O house of Israel: thus saith the Lord, Learn not the way of the heathen, and be not dismayed at the signs of heaven: for the heathen are dismayed at them....Who would not fear thee, O King of nations? for to thee doth is appertain: forasmuch as among all the wise men of the nations, and in all their kingdoms, there is none like unto thee....

Thus shall ye say unto heaven, The gods that have not made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens. He hath made the earth by his power, he hath established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heavens by his discretion....

Every man is brutish in his knowledge: every founder is confounded by the graven image: for his molten image is falsehood, and there is no breath in them. They are vanity, and the work of errors: in the time of their visitation they shall perish. The portion of Jacob is not like them: for he is the former of all things; and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: the Lord of hosts is his name. (Jer. 10: 1, 2, 7, 11, 12, 14-16.)

Include Rents In March Cost-Of-Living—Index Jumps 2.7 In Month Of February

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—The official cost-of-living index, rising to unprecedented heights, has been hopping along for months on five legs instead of six.

Wednesday, when the Bureau of Statistics announces living-cost trends for February, the sixth leg—rents—will be restored. A survey of rents is being completed and will be included in the general report.

Rents, a major item in most family budgets, have not been surveyed by the bureau since last October, mainly because of the difficulty of getting around in winter months.

When last surveyed in October, they had reached an all-time high of 136.4 and that is the way they've been shown since on the general report, while other items urged still farther ahead.

Rents comprise one of the important segments of the general cost-of-living index. Food, the most important, takes up about one-third of the index; a miscellaneous group, including health and personal-care costs, a little more than one-fifth; and rents a little less than one-fifth.

Clothing takes up about one-tenth; home furnishings a little under one-tenth and fuel and lighting about one-seventeenth.

The index itself is riding at the highest level in its history—175.2 points—after an unusual 2.7-point jump in February, the highest monthly increase in three years. The index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, stood at 172.5 in December.

Boosts in food prices, men's wear, furniture and tires and tobacco helped spark the January increase.

He won his title over 30,000 Canadian lumberjacks by establishing, in open competition, that he could drive a bucksaw through a 10-inch log of green spruce in the average time of 9.15 seconds. His closest competitor, 19-year-old Roland Perron, of Matane, Que., lost the title by 5/100ths of a second. In the photo above Ludovic St. Cyr is shown sawing the 10-inch log. He beat out the runner-up by only 5/100ths of a second.

Supplied Films At 133 Showings

The Peterborough Film Council supplied films to audiences totalling approximately 11,000 people at 133 separate showings in the city and district during February.

These figures were released Friday night at the Film Council meeting at the Public Library by Ron Ward, National Film Board director, in a report of the activities of film councils in Eastern Ontario.

Mr. Ward also explained that plans were being made for the setting up of a religious film library for Eastern Ontario. A film purchase pool is also in the making for this area. In this pool each council will donate a specified amount for a collective purchase of films that will be at the disposal of all the councils in Eastern Ontario. This will make a much greater number of films available than if the films were purchased individually by the councils.

It was announced at the meeting that a workshop would be held April 28. The workshop will include special interest groups—general community films, their use; a school group for teachers, religious films for church groups and an advanced projectionist course. The workshop will be open to the public.

A decision was reached to purchase the film entitled "Speckled Trout Fishing in Canada."

Two films were shown at the meeting. The first was "Fate of a Child." Following the film, Mr. Louis Zacks led a discussion based on the film, with stress on the undeveloped area of the world especially Latin America and the United Nations activities in this regard.

The second film shown was "Terrible Twos and Trusty Threes" — a film dealing with child behaviour. The members of the council were so impressed by this film that its purchase was authorized.

Out of respect for the late president, the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, it was announced that the executive had decided to leave the office of president vacant for the remainder of the year.

Compromise Averts Series Collapse

TORONTO, April 2—(CP)—A temporary solution early today averted a collapse of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A final between Barrie Flyers and Toronto Marlboros.

The Marlboros will travel to Barrie to open the best-of-seven series and a meeting Wedpesday will attempt to work out a solution for the dispute between the two clubs over Sunday afternoon games in Toronto. Barrie had refused to play in Toronto on Sundays and the Marlboros countered by saying they wouldn't open the series tonight if Barrie persisted in its stand.

George Panter, OHA assistant secretary, announced he had persuaded the two teams to start the series with the Barrie game tonight and a Toronto game Wednesday night. The Wednesday meeting would settle the Sunday matter.

Leighton (Hap) Emms, coach and manager of the Flyers, was firm Sunday night. "We will play in Toronto any time—morning, afternoon or night—but we won't play Sunday."

Said Stafford Smythe of the Marlboros: "I can't see why we can't have our own home dates. We are willing to play any time up there."

He added that the OHA at a general meeting earlier in the season agreed to Sunday hockey but Emms wasn't at the meeting because "he was in Rouyn, where his team was playing Sunday hockey."

Panter gave the OHA stand: "We will not force teams to play hockey on Sunday if they don't approve of it. We are not against Sunday sport, of course, but we won't make any team play it."

As organization gets underway for summer athletics, we trust the clubs and athletes do not forget who pays the freight. The paying fans should be given every consideration as to comfort, prices, the best possible entertainment, games starting on time, and so on. Some officials and athletes are inclined to put the customers as secondary or incidental, but without them there would be no sports to speak of. If one wanted to preach and to make a positive statement, one could well say that public opinion is the highest court on earth, provided it is an united public. The French Revolution is just one of the many examples of this—though, of course, that wasn't a sporting matter.

* * * * * *

It is a fact that enough of the public in sports here got behind the projects of the Civic Arena and lights in the Bowl and Riverside to put them over, despite loud squawks from a vocal minority. The lacrossers put their own project across in a most successful manner and need thank no one but the fans who support their games. The public here did not push the Memorial Centre business as much as folks did in Kingston, where it now is an accomplished fact, and a beauty, or our Centre would have been up years ago. Built as fast as the new city hall is being erected. One must never forget that a determined, united public can accomplish anything. Hence, sports bodies should remember to keep the fans happy.

Cagers Near The Finish

Basketball concludes a lengthy season here this week. Some two dozen cage teams saw action and a few more games will wind it up till the work's all done next fall. At eight tonight and four tomorrow, PCVS and SPS midgets have a local series, winner going into the OABA midget tourney at Collegiate this Saturday aft and eve. Toronto, St. Kitts and St. Mary's have entries, too, the latter being from 25 miles out of London. Saturday games at 3.00 and 4.30, with a final and perhaps a consolation in the evening. Normals and CGE girls have their junior playoffs this week, too, for city honors. And that'll wipe the hoop slate clean.

* * * * * *

President Bill Flint of the Girls' Softball League has called the annual meeting of the loop for eight p.m. this coming Thursday in the YMCA. Open to anyone interested. Reports will be presented, officers elected for '51, plans discussed and entries taken. There were five in last semester, one being junior. Westclox took senior honors, Ashby's won the intermediate title, and Woollens were the junior champs. The officers have hopes of an eight-team circuit this season, four in the senior section and four juniors. They expect to play thrice weekly again under the Bowl lights. All those interested in any way in girls' softball should be on deck.

Need Two More Entries

Still but two entries in the men's City Softball League, UEW and mutuals, two more being required. Closing date for entries will be April 15 at an executive meeting. General business was discussed at yesterday's huddle, and a committee of Dave Leether, George Dormer and Pat Calladine, named to consult with the parks committee on use and rental of the Ashburnham Bowl this season. No word received so far from the East City squad, winners last year, but George (Red) Sullivan—main push behind the team last year—is still in the throes of AHL playoffs. Cold, wet weather last summer cut down on the gates considerably. Prexy Bob Batley conducted the meeting.

Listened to the two Bruin-Leafs' games o'er the weekend, and got the impression that Leafs would take it from here on in. The Bruins almost pulled another upset Saturday in Toronto in that overtime tie, but Leafs battled bitterly all the way, and they were stronger in the Sunday scrap to earn the 3-0 shutout. The goals on Gelineau sounded a bit soft, at that. Some rugged play in this series, which now stands at a win each, next one being in Boston on Tuesday. The Wings returned to form Saturday to disappoint a large French-Canadian crowd with the Detroit victory, but Canadiens still lead the serial 2-1 and have the fourth game on home ice tomorrow. Anything could happen in that Stanley Cup semi-final yet.

Outstanding for the Shipbuilders were Cochrane, Fairchild, Green, Allan and Kirby. Tindal, Hastie and McCarney were best for the G-Men.

Giants Hearing Pennant Talk After Lean Time

By JACK HAND.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 2 (AP).—This could be the year the New York Giants have been waiting for since 1937. After many lean seasons in the Polo Grounds, pennant talk is running high.

Manager Leo Durocher, a talented driving boss, has a sound ball club with fine pitching, blazing speed and a flashy double-play combination in Alvin Dark and Eddie Stanky.

Scoring runs is the Giants' big problem. They finished next to last in batting with a team average of 2.58 last season, and were fifth in their old specialty, homers.

Bobby Thomson, a shocking disappointment in '50, must regain his old form for the Giants to be contenders. Thomson dropped so badly from his .309 pace of '49 that Durocher once had him batting eighth last summer. In late season he got back on the track to finish with .252, and hit 25 homers.

Durocher, never one for predictions on how his club will finish, thinks the team is improved over last year. It goes without saying that he'll need a better one to win, for his '50 team hovered around the .500 mark most of the summer before its scorching September spurt stole third place from Boston.

Gets Break

Durocher knows Sal Maglie's 18-4 year was phenomenal with his string of 45 scoreless innings and five shutouts. He realizes he got a terrific break in grabbing Jim Hearn from St. Louis for the $10,000 waiver price last July. Hearn wound up with an 11-4 year including five shutouts.

"Who wants to say Maglie and Hearn between them won't win 29 games, said Durocher. "I'm not saying Maglie will win 18 again. Just the two of them together will win 29 or more."

Larry Jansen (10-13) is the accepted ace of the staff. He also had five shutouts. Sheldon Jones (13-16) is Leo's other regular starter, with southpaws Dave Koslo (13-15) and Montia Kennedy (5-) for lefthanded power.

Ray Noble, a Cuban who used to play in the Negro National League, has been the talk of the training camp. A powerfully-built man with a .316 average at Oakland, he has won himself a job right behind Wes Westrum (.236), the first-string catcher.

The infield is the same that finished last year with Monte Irvin (.300) on first, Stanky (.300) on second, Dark (.279) at short and Henry Thompson (.289) at third.

Whitey Lockman (.295) is in left field, Thomson (.252) in centre and Don Mueller (.291) or Clint Hartung (.302) in right.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Big Jack Kramer power-stroked and outmaneouvred Richard (Pancho) Gonzales to win the Philadelphia Inquirer's $10,000 round-robin professional tennis tournament in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3 Saturday at Philadelphia.

Kramer, winning the $2,500 first place money vindicated a sub-par performance in the same tournament a year ago. He was soundly walloped then by Gonzales in three straight sets.

Kramer told reporters later he is finished with exhibition tennis tours.

The 29-year-old champion explained that he doesn't wish to appear big-headed but "I know I can beat any pro in the business today on a long trip."

Kramer said he would be back next year to defend his indoor title, but one-night stands on cross-country professional jaunts are a thing of the past.

At Listowel, Louis D'Annunzie baseball scout for Detroit Tigers in Ontario and Michigan, said Saturday night that the next few years will bring many opportunities for Canadian players to make good in the United States big leagues.

The United States draft will leave many openings in the ranks of ball players, he told a dinner held to honor baseball, bowling and rifle teams which won championships for Listowel during 1950.

At Boston, Clarence Campoell, president of the National League, said Sunday night that no decision has been reached yet on distribution of proceeds of Saturday night's 1-1 Boston Bruins-Toronto Maple Leafs playoff tie.

Campbell told a reporter "there will be a meeting first—apparently referring to a session of club owners.

Normally a large proportion of proceeds of the first four games of playoffs goes into a player pool and the last three games to the clubs.

Lightweight champion Ike Williams will substitute for ailing Billy Graham in a 10-rounder against welterweight Fitzie Pruden of St. Catharines, at the Chicago Stadium April 11, the International Boxing Club announced Saturday.

Graham has been sidelined by an attack of virus pneumonia. Pruden is a promising welter contender after recent victories over Tony Janiro, Beau Jack and Jim Carter.

NEW SOCKS—Manager Steve O'Neill inspects the form of Ray Scarborough, who with left-handed Bill Wright is expected to give the Red Sox the added pitching strength required to win the American League pennant. Both were acquired from the White Sox.

Oilers Down Knights To Even Up Series

TULSA, Okla., April 2 (AP)—Tulsa Oilers defeated Omaha Knights Sunday night in overtime to even the best-of-five United States Hockey League final series at two games apiece.

Tulsa's Bart Bradley grabbed the puck at 1:32 of the first overtime period, skated past mid-ice with it and fired home the winning goal.

Bob McLellan was the big gun for the Oilers Sunday night, racking up two goals, while playing-coach Bud Polie and Moe Young connected for singles. The Omaha markers went to Bill Folk, Eddie Bruneteau, Pete Durham and Jack McKay.

Benefit Show

A benefit boxing show for promoter Bill Jenkins ill in hospital will be held April 25 under the auspices of the Ontario Boxing Association, it was announced Sunday at Hamilton.

Promoters from various parts of the province decided on the benefit at a meeting held during the weekend.

Leafs, Bruins Say It's Tough Playoff Series

BOSTON, April 2 — (CP). — "It looks like a tough, close series." That was the concensus in both the Toronto Maple Leafs' and Boston Bruins' dressing rooms Sunday night after the Leafs blanked the Boston club 3-0 to tie up their Stanley Cup semi-final series at a game apiece.

Canny Connie Smythe, Leafs' head man, said after hugging the veteran Turk Broda, who came through with one of his superlative netminding performances just when the team needed it most:

"Boston has a great hockey team. It will be a tough series. Anything can happen."

Boston coach Lynn Patrick said that although the Bruins are handicapped by injuries to three men, "We're even with them, aren't we?"

"We're just as good a hockey team as they are and the team that gets the breaks will win the series."

Broda, who was playing in his 100th Stanley Cup playoff game, was delighted at shutting out the home club, but added quickly: "This is a tough series right now."

These sentences were echoed by Captain Ted (Teeder) Kennedy who sported five stitches in his chin as a result of Sunday night's action. The first-string Toronto centre already had seven stitches near his right eye from Saturday night's gruelling 1-1 tie in Toronto.

NO ESCAPE

Tag Team Bout Tops Mat Card

The team of Whipper Watson and Pat Flanagan will meet the team of Fred Atkins and Tommy O'Toole in another of those explosive, four-man tag team wrestling matches in the feature spot of Tuesday night's wrestling card in the ring at the Brock Arena.

The high-flying Whip and Pat won over their rivals last week, but O'Toole maintained Talun let their side down. Accordingly, O'Toole has replaced him with the rugged, flinty Atkins.

In the semi-final, Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman of the mat, will oppose Lee Henning, the irate Iowan. Abe Zvonkin will wrestle Pierre LaSalle in the first event.

BELEAGUERED GOALERS: These pictures showed the great pressure which the rival goalers worked in second game in Detroit as Canadiens made it two straight victories in the Stanley Cup playoff series with Detroit Red Wings. Habs won, 1-0 when for the second straight time, Maurice Richard scored the winning goal in overtime. Picture at Left shows gallant Gerry McNeil, of Canadiens, sprawling on the ice after fending off the raid by George Gee (No. 8) and Jimmy Peters (white sweater background). Bud MacPherson is caught in the struggle as the puck (arrow) bobs loose at far left. At Right, Terry Sawchuk is crouched in the goal mouth as Bob Goldham traps Richard, Red Kelly (No. 4) is rushing to Sawchuk's aid.

Reorganize Dutchmen

KITCHENER, April 2 (CP). — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association major league were reorganized during tht week-end. Personnel shifts will bring Dutchies, last-place club this season after three previous years as finalists, a new coach. A successor for former coach Walter (Punch) Scherer, who became hockey manager of the club, has not yet been named.

Leafs Blank Bruins 3-0 To Even Series In Rough Boston Game

By JOE KELLEY

BOSTON, April 2. (AP)—Boston Bruins may be in a bad way Tuesday night when they again oppose the Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup semi-finals, now tied at one game each with one tie. Milt Schmidt, Boston captain and centre, who is an all-star and Hart Trophy candidate, suffered an injury to his one good knee Sunday night as the Leafs downed the Bruins 3-0 and may not be ready for Tuesday's game against the Leafs.

Schmidt has been the main cog in the Bruins' offence this season despite playing the last few weeks with his left knee heavily bandaged because of a torn ligament.

Today the right knee was stiff and sore from a collision with former team-mate Fern Flaman. Schmidt went down with a grimace, but continued to take his regular turn, although at a slower pace.

Dr. Thomas [illegible], team physician, couldn't say pending further examination whether the popular Schmidt had suffered anything worse than a wrench.

Decision as to Schmidt's playing against the Leafs won't be made until possibly game time Tuesday night.

May Cripple Bruins

His loss, along with that of winger Johnny Peirson, would leave the Bruins crippled. Before the series began, the Leafs had a stronger bench even with Harry Watson out with a shoulder injury. Peirson is in a Toronto hospital with a fractured cheekbone and won't be available until Saturday night.

Watson is due to return soon and the Leafs would have an overpowering depth compared to the Bruins.

The clubs played a rough game Sunday night as Leafs won to even the best-of-seven series. Referee Bill Chadwick imposed a total of 20 penalties, 15 of them in the first period.

Fewer Stitches

However the game was two shy of the 22 penalties incurred in Saturday night's 1-1 tie in Toronto when five players needed a total of 34 stitches.

Sunday night only five stitches were needed, to close a cut on the chin of Leaf captain Ted Kennedy.

Cal Gardner's goal in the second period broke the [illegible] the Leafs on the way to victory. Flaman, who started the season with Boston, widened the margin late in the period and Max Bentley's goal in the third settled the issue.

Bruising Affair

The Saturday stalemate was a rough, bruising affair with players often more concerned with slugging each other than the puck.

Peirson was the main casualty of the penalty-studded contest which was halted because of Toronto's Sunday curfew.

While Governor-General Alexedander watched from a flag-bedecked box, defenceman Bill Barilko sent Leafs ahead 1-0 in the first four minutes of play. Peirson tied the score near the midway point in the second period.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Winnipeg won the Allan Cup by defeating Hamilton Tigers 3-1 for their second straight victory, 20 years ago tonight. Winnipeg won the first game of the Canadian senior amateur championship series by 2-1. The victors went on to win the Olympic hockey championship in 1932 at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Vote Richardson First In Class

BANFF, Alta., April 2 — (CP) —Bob Richardson, Canadian ski champion from Ste. Adele, Que., and pretty Jo-Anne Hewson of Montreal have been judged first in their respective classes at the Olympic ski trials held here during the last two weeks.

Richardson led in the slalom, giant slalom, and downhill events and earned 479.7 points. Miss Hewson gained the most points in the women's events, 477.1.

Richardson appeared assured of membership on the team if his amateur status is cleared by next year.

Football Star Dies

TORONTO, April 2 — (CP).— G. F. (Babe) Burkart, 57, football star of the 1920's, and prominent in the Canadian advertising field, died Saturday. He was an outside wing on the 1921 Canadian champion Toronto Argonauts and was a teammate of such football greats as Lionel Conacher and Dr. Smirle Lawson. He also was an active hockey player and was owner of the Bur Mac racing stable. Survivors include a son Philip at Whitby.

Red Wings Come Through Defeat Canadiens 2-0

By W. R. WHEATLEY.

MONTREAL, April 2 (CP). — The master-minds of the tightly-fought Stanley Cup semi-final between Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings sweated through their furious figuring today almost 100 miles apart.

Up in the Laurentian Hills, coach Dick Irvin, gathered his Canadiens about him and expounded on ways and means of increasing their 2-1 margin on games in the best-of-seven series.

Just as confident, coach Tommy Ivan held forth at a hotel in Granby in Quebec's Eastern Townships. He told his Red Wings that what they did in shutting out Canadiens 2-0 Saturday, they can do again.

If this semi-final follows the pattern already set, one of the National Hockey League's two scoring aces will decide which team meets Toronto or Boston in the final.

Back As Threat

Gordie Howe, the centre-ice smoothie from Saskatoon, lifted the Wings back into a threatening position with his second-period goal Saturday.

It was a fitting reply to Maurice Richard's two goals that broke up the long overtime games in Detroit and sent Canadiens into a two-game lead.

Veteran Sid Abel supplied the coup de grace in the third period and 14,417 supporters of the Bleu-Blanc-Rouge were left stunned.

The fourth game on Montreal ice Tuesday night shapes up as the crucial game of the series. It could well be the deciding game. If the Detroiters win they will move to their home ice loaded with confidence for the fifth game Thursday.

If Canadiens win the next one for the home fans, the Montrealers will have a throttle hold on the series. Detroit will be faced with the tremendous job of taking three in a row.

Immediately after Saturday's game the teams left for their quiet hide-out spots to spend the weekend resting. Irvin cajoled his players into forgetting "this one defeat in three games." Ivan smiled happily at the exuberance of his Red Wings but predicted the series is still anybody's property.

Before their own supporters Saturday night, Canadiens appeared a little off the razor-edge form that carried them to two straight wins.

Balked By Sawchuk

Richard and his mates missed goal-scoring chances or were balked by the brilliant goaltending of Terry Sawchuk. A defence lapse cost Canadiens the big goal scored by Howe. He took Bob Goldham's long pass with the Montreal defence caught out of position and swept in alone to beat little Gerry McNeil in the Montreal nets.

Abel's clincher in the last period was a smoking, rising shot from 20 feet inside the Montreal blue line.

The goaltending honors Saturday night definitely went to Sawchuk. The tall, black-haired netminder from Winnipeg tossed aside, blocked and dived into everything thrown at him. He had only 24 shots to handle against 31 fired at McNeil but came up with remarkable saves.

Approve Judges On Boards Of Conciliation

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—The Ontario section of the Canadian Bar Association went on record Saturday as approving appointment of members of the judiciary to serve on boards of conciliation and arbitration in industrial labor disputes.

The action was directly opposite to that taken by the Canadian Bar Association at its last annual meeting. The national association endorsed a resolution opposing appointment of judges as chairmen of such boards claiming such action tended to undermine the prestige and confidence of the judiciary in the eyes of the public.

N. L. Mathews of Toronto gained support for his resolution submitted to the Ontario section meeting that such service by judges and Supreme Court justices was "commendable and acceptable." But the resolution said such service should not be allowed to interfere with the judge's regular work on the bench.

The Ontario meeting also endorsed calling for repeal of the Dower Act. This act entitles a wife to claim one third of the real estate owned at anytime by her husband during their marriage. Whether it was subsequently sold or not, unless the wife has signed away her dower right to the property.

UE Charges Ex-Officers Broke Trust

Now IUE Officials, Asked To Account For UE Stewardship

Five former officers of Local 524, UE, now members of the rival IUE-CIO, nave been issued with a writ of summons, C. H. Harvey, treasurer of Local 524, UE, said today.

The plaintiffs' claim is to have an account taken of all "the dealings of the defendants with the assets of Local 524" waile they were officers in the period November 1, 1948 and August 2, 1950.

The plaintiffs also claim damage "for breach of trust" while the five men were officers of the local.

Writs have been served on John G. Morton, former president; Keith Chiles, former financial secretary; Cyril O'Donnell, former recording secretary; Joseph Murphy, former treasurer; and George O'Brien, onetime executive board member.

The writs, all of which have been served by Bailiff George McNabb, were taken out in the names of Mr. Harvey and Alex Sepalla, financial secretary of the local. And also on behalf of all other members of the UE local.

"The whole thing is a typical UE attempt at character assassination," commented Mr. Morton, now Canadian director of the IUE.

Chief Justice Presides Over Heavy Docket

COBOURG, April 2 (ENS)—A heavy docket is listed for the spring assizes which opened today with Chief Justice J. C. McRuer presiding. Slated for consideration by the grand jury were two criminal cases, a rape charge against Ralph Carey of Port Hope and a motor manslaughter charge against Gilbert Garbutt of London.

Ten cases are on the civil list of which one is a jury action. Four divorce actions are among the remaining cases.

The jury action is a claim for $5,000 brought by Bertha Crowhurst of Port Hope against Colonial Coach Lines, arising out of the accident which occurred in September of 1949 when a Colonial bus left the road near Newtonville and upset in a creek. Mrs. Crowhurst sustained a broken wrist and other injuries. The defence is that the bus accident was caused by the actions of a car going in the opposite direction and driven by George Langevin.

Estate Sues

A $15,000 damage action is brought by Pearl Hartford of Colborne, administratrix of the estate of Clifford Hartford, against Everett Newman of Brighton. Plaintiff alleges that Clifford Hartford had been a passenger in a car driven by Stanley Clarke who had stopped in front of his house to let him out and that when Hartford emerged from the car he was struck by another automobile driven by the defendant.

The case Canada Trust vs. W. H. Dodds of South Monaghan is in connection with an accounting of the estate of Jacobena Dodds of South Monagnan. Dodds in turn is suing Canada Trust and is claiming $2,273.56 for monies said to have been expended on the deceased and $3,000 for working the farm and looking after Jacobena Dodds.

Apple Losses Claimed

Joseph Persofsky of Colborne is the plaintiff in a damage action brought against George Graham, cold storage plant operator, Belleville. Persofsky alleges that in August of 1949 he rented space in the cold storage warehouse for 15,000 hampers of applies, which he valued at $19,043. Prior to Sept. 15 in that year he delivered 10,775 hampers for storage but on Sept. 25 he found that the temperature was not right and removed the apples. Plaintiff claims $8,865.85 for loss through depreciation; $1,100 storage charges; $5,000 loss of profit; $2,155 for regrading and $538.75 cartage charges.

Mary Gerry vs. George Laing is a dispute over a conveyance. Plaintiff, who resides in Orono seeks $2,775.00 from the defendant, a resident of Clarke township.

The divorce actions are Bertha Elliott of Trenton vs Fred J. Elliott of Belleville; Alfred Wright of Bonarlaw vs. Margaret Wright of Belleville; Francis C. Cook of Port Hope vs Lorraine Annie Cook of Merriton; Margaret Dudley of Bowmanville vs. Wilbert Dudley of Peterborough.

Eastern Canada Key Clubs Meet Here For Convention

One hundred and seventy-five high school youths from Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes met Saturday and Sunday at the annual convention of the district Key Clubs, a boys' service club. Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, the club works as a service club to help the Kiwanis and the Red Cross. They met in Peterborough for the first time to discuss the progress they had made and to consider how to deal with the problems they encountered.

Delegates came from as far as Sussex in New Brunswick, a small town near Moncton.

Jack King of PCVS, who was convention chairman, was elected district governor and he appointed [illegible] Clarke of [illegible] High School as secretary. Gerald Cousins of Belleville was elected [illegible].

Top Speaker

[illegible] King was also winner of the [illegible] contest with Ron [illegible] of East York High School [illegible] second. The seven contestants spoke on the subject, "Freedom Rings." Lloyd Hale, PCVS English teacher, was one of the judges. Other judges were Kiwanians from other towns.

The delegates were welcomed to the city by Mayor Max J. Swanston and Gordon Hancock, president of the local Kiwanis Club.

The Honorable Harold Scott, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, was guest speaker at a luncheon at noon held in the Canadian Legion hall. He told the boys about conservation of game and forests in Ontario. Jack King was chairman of the luncheon meeting.

Walter Howell, past district chairman, appointed to supervise by the Kiwanis Club, was chairman of the business meeting in the collegiate auditorium. Jack Hall was appointed to take his place for the next year.

Discuss Projects

The boys discussed their various projects for raising money, such as running a car-washing service, holding dances and several other money-making schemes.

The members voted to hold their next convention in Ottawa.

At the banquet meeting also held in the Legion Hall, the guest speaker was James Wharry, who described his trip around the world by air using photograph slides of the scenes of some of his visits.

Saturday night a convention ball was held in the collegiate gym specially decorated for the affair.

Sunday morning the delegates went to church either at George St. United Church or to St. Peter's Cathedral.

Anotther luncheon meeting was held in the Legion Hall and Governor Ralph Steele was the speaker. He described the purpose of service clubs in helping their communities in a wide variety of ways.

Following his address he installed the new officers. To wind up the convention, a large number of the delegates were taken on a sight seeing tour of the city.

Rambling Reporter

GIANT SPROUT

At St. Vincent's orphanage they raise not only healthy children but healthy sprouts as well. Potato sprouts that it. A three-foot growth was brought into The Examiner office by the amazed caretaker. He said it had grown in the earth of the furnace pit. The pit had been dug so the worm of the automatic stoker could be removed. Somehow a potato fell down into it and began to sprout ambitiously. It has grown six inches since Easter.

Three Youths Escape Death In Car Crash

Car Somersaults Twice; One Youth Hurled 50 Feet

Three Peterborough youths narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when their car went out of control on Highway 28, a quarter mile south of Lakefield, and somersaulted twice before crashing into a telephone pole.

In hospital with minor cuts and bruises, and suffering from shock are Ronald Miller, 18, 180 Mark St., and William White, 16, 491 Braidwood Ave.

The third youth Wally Rye, 19, River Rd., is off work today recuperating from the effects of a fall after being hurled nearly 50 feet through the air. He landed in a field but received no broken bones.

Like his two companions, he sustained cuts and bruises, plus a slight leg injury that has left him temporarily lame.

The car went out of control as it neared Lakefield. Exact cause of the accident is still obscure. Miller, who was driving the car, said the steering column seized up and he was unable to control it.

Saw Oncoming Car

Sidney J. Black, Water St., was driving toward Peterborough when he saw the oncoming car with the three youths. Suddenly the two front wheels began to "shimmy". He noticed that the driver lost control and the old-model car plunged into the steep ditch on the right hand side of the road.

It rolled end-over-end twice, crashed into a telephone pole snapping it off, and stopped upside down. Miller and White were trapped inside and Rye was thrown clear over a wire fence into a nearby farmer's field.

Mr. Black and some passing motorists were forced to raise the car so Miller could get out. His legs were somehow pinned beneath the steering column. White also had to be assisted from the [illegible] vehicle.

After a cleanup at nearby farmhouse Rye was able to go home. His two companions were taken to Civic Hospital.

Provincial Constable W. E. Mohns investigated.

Highest Receipts

Receipts at the custom house during the past fiscal year were the highest in the city's history, it was disclosed today. Receipts totalled $5,935,105.48, against $4,730,465.53 in 1949-50. For March, total receipts were $613,765.56, compared to $430,792.44 for March, 1950. During the past 10 years, the city custom house has collected more than $40,000,000.

Reid's Transfer Ends 19 Years Mail Trucking

After 19 years and five months delivering the mail from the trains to the post office, Edwin B. Reid of Reid's Transfer, 709 George St., made the last trip Saturday night. After delivering the mail from the post office to the Belleville train and returning with its mail to the post office, this part of Peterborough's postal delivery went from Mr. Reid's hands to C. N. Taylor, Harvey St. trucker, who began the job Sunday morning.

Mr. Reid said today that the Transfer couldn't operate at the price now paid by the government. Tenders were called for by the postmaster-general in Ottawa. Although Reid's Transfer submitted a tender, its higher bid was not accepted. Mr. Taylor got the contract.

Mr. Reid's trucking business has grown from a converted touring car to the present nine large trucks over the 19-year-old period. For two or three years he used the old touring car to deliver the mail to and from the stations and post office.

Although the number of trains is less now than 19 years ago, said Mr. Reid, the amount of mail has increased many times. He recalls that at one time he used to deliver one bag of mail for the early train to Toronto. Now the load is never less than half a ton. Other deliveries weigh from one to two tons for a single train.

Johnston Hound Wins Trophy

A foxhound owned by Alfred Johnston won the Thompson Trophy at Sunday's second field trials of the Kawartha Kennel Club. There were 16 entries and more than 100 owners and spectators were at the meet. Other owners with winning animals were Jerry Coughlin, second; Leo McMahon, third; James Joiner, fourth, and J. Flynn, fifth place.

There was only one run, in the morning, which started from the Five-Roads corner of the Warsaw Road, about four miles east of the city. Officials of the meet were George Hill, field marshall; Edward Roberts, field secretary, and directors Jerry Coughlin, Herb Routley, William McMahon, David Henderson, Ken Wesenburg, William Joiner and Bud Lloyd.

The next field trial for foxhounds will be held in the early autumn, officials say.

Baron Says Rieve Will Try To Expel Him

TORONTO, April 2 —(CP) — Sam Baron, dismissed March 6 as Canadian director of the Textile Workers Union of America (C.C.L.-C.I.O.) Sunday predicted that International President Emil Rieve soon will move to expel him from the union itself.

He told a union conference which Mr. Rieve has termed a "rump" assembly that the president probably will lay charges against him.

"My discharge has one root cause. I would not submit my will to that of the president. I have been the victim of a conspiracy . . aimed at giving the president total power in our organization. Whatever my future, I"ll wear no man's collar, no man's tie, under any circumstances."

The gathering passed a resolution protesting his dismissal and demanding the right to elect the Canadian director.

Hit-and-Run Driver Left Asphodel Man Aged 65 Seriously Hurt In Ditch

Phillip Metcalfe While Walking Home Hurled In Ditch, Legs Fractured, Suffers Internal Injury

Phillip Metcalfe, 65, of Asphodel is today critically injured in Civic Hospital after being knocked down by a hit-and-run driver as he was walking along Highway 45, two miles south of Campbellford. He was found unconscious on the side of the road by Wallie Fife, a passing motorist, and taken to the office of Dr. A. R. Atkinson, Norwood. After medical attention by Dr. Atkinson he was transferred to Civic Hospital where his injuries are said to include two broken legs, a possible fractured skull and ruptured spleen, and other internal injuries. His condition is still critical, but hospital authorities say he is "improved" today.

Metcalfe lives at the half-way corner between Hastings and Norwood. He was believed to have been walking home when struck by the unidentified car driver.

The impact of the collision broke off part of one of the car's headlights and it was left lying by the roadside.

Provincial Constable Donald W. Erskine of Campbellford is investigating. Police say an arrest is expected soon.

Weather Good For Crops

To the credit of this lacklustre weather, they say it is good for the crops. It is all of one kind, a neutral monotone, a succession of cloudy days with only brief and occasional glimpses of the sun.

Rain and melting snow have saturated the land with moisture, and everywhere there is mud. Neither is there frost as in some early springs; frost with cold nights and sunny days, a sequence of contrasts that tend to heave the fall wheat, breaking off the root structure, and likewise doing similar damage in the meadows and forage growth.

So, if this dullness wearies the spirit in its yearnings for spring and its sun and its bird songs, it is putting moisture in the land with prospect of lush green sprouting of the grasses when April turns on its warmth.

Mailmen Start On Single Delivery System

"Everything went off well this morning," said Postmaster Harold White, commenting on the first day of the one-trip-a-day mail service to residential districts.

He said that by the time he reached the post office at 8.45 a.m. today all the mail carriers but two were already on their routes, and those two on "business walks" were just leaving.

The number of "walks" for the posties has been reduced from 28 to 23—19 residential and four business.

From now on there will be one mail delivery a day (either morning or afternoon) on residential walks. But there will be continue to be two a day on the business walks.

Staff Reduced

The present mail carrier staff has been reduced from 33 to 32. The other mail carriers who would be surplus with the reduced number of walks have been re-employed elsewhere in the post office.

Two are inside, one is replacing a man indefinitely ill, another is available for sick leave, and the fifth was discharged.

Instead of working 44 hours the posties now have a 48-hour week —an extra four hours on Saturday. To compensate for this extra time Postmaster General Bl[illegible]fret has granted them one week's holidays every 11 weeks.

Mr. White said that there might be some difficulties with the new setup at first but they would be eliminated as soon as possible.

It's Healthier To Undereat Expert Reports

By JOHN B. KNOX.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 2—(AP). — Dr. Hugh Macdonald Sinclair, British biochemist who directed an Oxford University nutrition survey throughout Europe, reported today that there are no long-term serious results from under-eating.

He doesn't recommend starvation, but he says a diet deficient in the amounts and kinds of food generally considered necessary for adequate-nutrition appears to produce no disease conditions comparable to those associated with over-eating.

Describing studies of population samples in England, Holland and Germany, Dr. Sinclair told the Harvard Medical School:

"We found no lasting effects on the population that were caused by under-nutrition.

"In Holland, for example, where a serious famine existed for a time, we found less high blood pressure, less coronary heart disease, and less incidence of diabetes and arthritis. All these maladies go primarily with over-eating. Over-nutrition can be as serious a problem as under-nutrition."

Breakfast, he says, can be the cheapest meal of the day and yet yield one-quarter to one-third of the day's diet needs. He mentioned oatmeal and whole-grain cereals for breakfast.

He approves milk and cheese. Puddings and fruit desserts, "with a fruit bowl near the sugar bowl," may deliver more nutritional value at lower cost than some kinds of cakes and preserves.

Meat from the cheaper fore quarters may yield protein, niacin (A-B vitamin) and other values as high as the costly steaks, roasts, and chops.

Huntsville Arrest May Solve Case

AUSTIN, Tex., April 2 (AP)—A Travis county plain clothesman may have dug up the unsolved murder a young man told Canadian police he committed in Texas three years ago.

O. M. Doherty, special investigator for the Travis county district-attorney, Sunday said Austin police have never solved the case of a bullet-riddled body found in a creek bed near the town of Govalle, just outside Austin.

Date of the shooting was April 18, 1948.

The time and all but the first letter of the place match the story 21-year-old Ralph Somers told police when he was arrested Thursday in Huntsville, Ont., on theft charges.

LONDON, Ont., April 2 (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Walter C. Thomson Sunday night predicted milk will be selling at 21 cents a quart in Toronto before the end of the month. The increase, he said, will probably set the pattern for increases in other centres.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE UNION SITUATION

Two organizations are claiming the right to represent the production workers at the Canadian General Electric Company's Peterborough plant. One is the United Electrical Workers, an independent union which has been expelled from both the CIO, in the United States, and the Canadian Congress of Labour, in this country.

This expulsion followed charges that UE was under the control of officers who belonged to or slavishly followed the line laid down by the Communist Party. Neither the CIO nor the CCL has ever claimed that a majority of the individual members who support UE are Communist followers.

Both the CIO and CCL have taken the position that there is no room within the ranks of the legitimate trade union movement for an organization which follows Communist policies.

As a result of these expulsions the CIO organized the International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL). IUE was brought into being in order that workers in the electrical industry of the United States and Canada might have a union which is a part of the recognized trade union movement.

Since its inception in November, 1949, IUE has grown to an organization of 300,000 electrical workers. Through its affiliation with the CIO, IUE is linked with 6,000,000 CIO members in the United States. In Canada its affiliation with the Canadian Congress of Labour provides a direct relationship with the 360,000 CCL members.

CGE Production Employees Have the Choice Of An Independent Organization Or A Union Which Is Part Of The Recognized Labor Movement

WHAT IUE HAS DONE:

Following the regulations laid down by law under the Ontario Labour Relations Act, IUE has applied to the Ontario Labour Relations Board for certification as the bargaining agent of the CGE production workers in the Peterborough works.

The Ontario labour law clearly states that such applications may be made only at a certain period, two months before the expiry of an existing contract.

In the case of CGE Peterborough Works this meant that IUE could only apply between January 27 and March 26, 1951. The application was filed on March 22 in order to avoid the complications of the Easter holiday period.

The limited period in which IUE is allowed to apply for recognition is the period in which negotiations between the employees and the company take place. The IUE has no choice with regard to the open period. It is laid down by law.

ABOUT NEGOTIATIONS:

The action which IUE has taken in applying for certification should not in any way interfere with the conciliation procedure for collective bargaining laid down in the Ontario Labour Relations Act.

UE has applied for the conciliation services of the Ontario Labour Department and Mr. Louis Fine, Chief Conciliation Officer of the Department, has been appointed by the Minister of Labour to deal with the case.

The procedure from that point on is clearly defined in the Ontario Labour Relations Act and neither UE nor the Canadian General Electric Company can vary it, UNLESS THEY BOTH AGREE TO DELAYS.

The Labour Act says:

1. A Conciliation Officer must report to the Minister of Labour within 14 days of his appointment. This period can only be extended "by agreement of the parties"—that is the company and the union—or by the direction of the Minister of Labour if a settlement appears to be near.

2. If the Conciliation Officer is unable to bring about an agreement the Minister is required to ask the company and the union to name representatives to a Conciliation Board within seven days. Another five days is allowed for the selection of a chairman.

3. The Conciliation Board is required to report to the Minister of Labour within 14 days of its appointment. Again this period may only be extended "by agreement of the parties" or by direction of the Minister of Labour if a settlement is near.

If either the Company or UE delays these proceedings beyond the specified periods they are violating the Ontario Labor Relations Act. UE says the Company is refusing to negotiate. UE has a responsibility to force Canadian General Electric Co. to abide by the law.

IUE has offered Labour Minister Daley Proof of its position

IUE is seeking the earliest possible hearing

March 29, 1951

Hon. Charles Daley,
Minister of Labour,
Ontario Government,
Queen's Park,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Mr. Minister:

On March 22nd our union, the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO-CCL) filed with the Ontario Labour Relations Board an application seeking bargaining rights on behalf of the production employees in the Peterborough, Ont., works of the Canadian General Electric Company.

On March 28th, the United Electrical Workers, which currently holds the bargaining rights for these employees, circulated a leaflet which said that officers of that organization were meeting with you to discuss "the frivolous and false application filed on Thursday."

The production employees in the Peterborough Works of the Canadian General Electric Company who were parties to this application naturally resent the suggestion that the application was "frivolous and false." Our union is quite prepared to prove that this is not the case.

The UE has publicly drawn you, as the Minister of Labour for the Province of Ontario, into this dispute. We are, therefore, now formally offering to file with you cards of application for membership in the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO-CCL) and receipts signed by the applicants for membership as well as by the recipients, showing that the production employees in this plant are desirous of being represented by our union.

We feel that the significance of this situation extends considerably beyond the bounds of Peterborough and we most sincerely request that you, as the Minister of Labour for the Province of Ontario, accept our request for the opportunity to prove our good faith in the application which we have filed with the Ontario Labour Relations Board, established by the Government in which you are the Minister in charge of Labour affairs.

We would also request that you use your good offices with a view to obtaining for us the earliest possible hearing before the Ontario Labour Relations Board.

Our union is desirous of giving the production employees of the Canadian General Electric's Peterborough Works the opportunity of expressing, through a vote conducted under the supervision of officers of your department, their desire as to the union which should represent them. In view of the request of the UE for conciliation services from your department, made through the filing of Form 9 of the Ontario Labour Relations Board which was approved and referred to you for action, you are no doubt aware that negotiations are now in process between UE and the company.

In the light of these circumstances we most sincerely urge that you take every possible step to facilitate the quickest settlement of these union representation differences.

Sincerely yours,

Joseph Kirtz,
For the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO-CCL).

Joseph MacKenzie,
For the Canadian Congress of Labour.

Best Franco Can Show Prewar Guns, Extra Jeeps

By LOUIS NEVIN.

MADRID, Spain, April 2 (AP) —Generalissimo Franco, beset by economic worries, paraded his best troops today in a colorful 12th celebration of his civil war victory.

But the troops displayed a sorry lack of modern weapons that would make Spain an asset to the West in any conflict with communism. The most modern equipment was 100 Second World War surplus jeeps.

The tanks, artillery, machine guns, rifles and the planes which flew overhead were all prewar models. There were no bazookas, no fast, rapid-firing tanks, no radar equipment, no jet planes.

Franco hopes to get such modern equipment from the United States. But it is not possible to confirm here the Washington reports that he has proposed an alliance with either the United States or with the United States and Portugal in order to get it.

These reports already have caused ill feeling and worry in French, British and other North Atlantic diplomatic circles here. The French and British say they were unable to obtain more than generalities from U.S. Ambassador Stanton Griffis about his long talk with Franco March 14.

Holding Back

Diplomatic circles in Madrid believe it is quite possible that Franco did offer to join an alliance with the U.S. but the same sources doubt he would go so far as to offer to send Spanish troops across the Pyrenees on Spain's northern border in case of Communist aggression against the west.

Whether Franco gets the weapons he wants is another question. American sources would like to prepare Spanish ports, airfields, and armed forces for a final defence line in Europe. He may get some equipment, therefore. But many sources here doubt he would receive enough to make him a full-fledged member of Gen. Eisenhower's team.

As Franco watched the thousands of troops march down Castellana, Madrid's main thoroughfare, there was uneasiness in the air. This began three weeks ago with the 48-hour city-wide protest strike in Barcelona against the high cost of living and the accompanying rioting.

The celebration went off without incident. In the preceding 48 hours police were busy rounding up political prisoners, who were freed conditionally. Many pedestrians had to submit to having their identity papers checked as many as three times in the space of four or five blocks.

The Barcelona developments made even the most outstanding supporters of the Franco regime wonder just how firm is its control over not only the people but its own followers. There is little doubt now that the strike was started by the State syndicates, controlled by the Falange party.

Court Martial Tries Canadian Gunner

LEWISTON, Idaho, April 2 — (AP)—A Canadian army court martial meets Tuesday to try a Canadian army gunner charged with manslaughter.

Donald Gower, 29, of Hamilton, Ont., a special brigade soldier, faces the involuntary manslaughter charge as the result of the death of a Lewiston man here Dec. 26.

His battery commander, Maj. D. H. Gillis, acts as his defence counsel.

Gower became involved in a sidewalk fist fight with Early Bailey, who died later in hospital.

Report Denied

VATICAN CITY, April 2 (Reuters)—Vatican officials said Sunday night they have no knowledge of reported efforts by the East German Communist regime to conclude a concordat with the Holy See. They considered these reports unlikely, noting that the Vatican and Germany concluded a concordat in 1933 which the Vatican regards as being in force today, since she has not recognized the present divisions of Germany.

If Russia Attacks Iran World War Almost Certain

By CLARKE BEACH.

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP). —If Russia attacks Iran, what will be the outcome?

I asked that question of a well-informed diplomatic official.

"World war" was his reply.

Although the United States and her Alies have not said what they would do if Iran were attacked, he said the sequence of events would compel them to fight.

For one thing, he said, aggression anywhere by the Red army itself would bring war.

Secondly, a Russian lunge into South-west Asia would threaten the whole weak southern flank of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

That southern flank seems to be giving US military leaders more concern now than any other area on the rim of the Western powers. It consists of the Mediterranean and the lands eastward to India—South-west Asia.

Key Region

If Russia controlled that region, she would have the great oil reserves of the Middle East and could close the Suez, the Western powers' gateway to Asia, a foremost military leader told me.

She would have a bridgehead for an invasion of Northern Africa.

Asked what the Western powers would do if the Russians attacked Iran, the diplomat said: "There would be little that we could do at first."

There is a vast power vacuum south-east of Turkey.

Turkey, with considerable US help, has built up a formidable army, but no other country in the area to the south and east has forces that could stand against the Russians.

Britain and the US have about the only strength in the area that the Russians could be made to feel—a US air base at Dharan, Saudi Arabia, on the Persian Gulf, and British air bases in Iraq, Trans-Jordan, Suez and some other spots.

The diplomat to whom I talked doubts, however, that the Western world will ever have to decide whether to take up arms to repel an invasion of Iran alone. The Russians know, he said, that if they attack Iran it will mean war, so they will strike in other areas at the same time. If they attacked only in Iran, and war resulted, they would lose the initiative in other parts of the world equally important to them.

The most desirable move, from the Soviet viewpoint, as this man sees it, would be to promote a Communist rebellion inside Iran, send Iran against Iraq, then snowball the attack into a satellite conquest of South-west Asia.

Ontario Gov't Faces Growing Duties

TORONTO, April 2 (CP)—The problem of growing government duties in a province of 4,000,000-odd people has been brought home in the present session of the Ontario legislature.

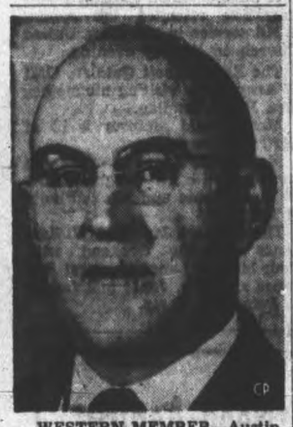
When the session ends this week after nine weeks' work, the legislature will have appointed two committees from among its 90 members to carry on important phases of its work after prorogation and named two new ones to handle its business during the session.

Premier Frost's administration will also have provided for one new branch of government and two new boards to meet its expanding duties in three fields.

Tops in importance among the new committees is Attorney-General Porter's seven-man select legislative group on crime investigation. It is faced with the mammoth task of finding ways to tighten up operation of criminal courts and laws and police forces, and directed to the special problem of ensuring against what the premier terms a "beachhead" of gambling and vice operators—either home-grown or imported from the United States.

Discuss Rent Controls

A second select committee will also meet after the session to advise on the operation of rent controls, which Ontario takes over intact from the federal government April 30.



The problem of ensuring fair treatment for landlords and tenants has also prompted establishment of a three-man advisory board, with a judge as chairman and representation from both conflicting interests.

Two new pieces of social legislation passed this session will result in establishment of a new labor department branch to administer them. They are the Fair Employment Practices Act, banning employment or union discrimination on the grounds of race, creed, color or nationality, and the Female Employees Fair Remuneration Act, providing equal wages for both women and men doing the same work in the same establishment.

Burden of directing the new branch will fall on Louis Fine, Ontario's chief labor conciliation [illegible]

Decision of the government to control retail milk prices resulted in what amounts to a new Milk Control Board, in which consumer representation was added to the previous three-man board under Judge A. B. Currey. The board was formerly limited to dealing with milk price disputes between producers and dairies.

During the session the government acceded to opposition requests and set up two standing committees to permit members a special examination of the Lands and Forests Department and of all government administrative commissions—Hydro-Electric, Liquor Control, Niagara Parks and Ontario Northland Railway.

Won't Have Zombies Again If Mobilization—Gregg

CORNWALL, April 2 — Avoidance of any half-way measures in the event total mobilization in Canada becomes necessary will be his personal program, Labor Minister Gregg said here Saturday night.

Mr. Gregg was here to address the annual regimental dinner at the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders officers' mess.

"I shall never be a party to any legislation that will again make it possible for a portion of our fellow Canadians to be known as zombies," Mr. Gregg said. "If mobilization is required let it be a total mobilization and let it never again be carried out along the lines adopted in World War Two."

Mr. Gregg said he does not believe it is necessary, at this time, for Canada to start drafting men into reserve forces for traing purposes. He warned that this may become necessary, however.

Face Emergency

"Like the rest of the Western World, Canada is facing something of an emergency today," he said. "We have faced others and have emerged with our honor intact. It is true, however, that we have never before lived under conditions such as those in vogue today—war on the one hand and peace on the other.

"I am confident that Canada and her people will meet any emergency with confidence and assurance. We Canadians have many traditions which we must always value. We can, however, attempt to avoid any unnecessary tension resulting from the unsettled condition of the world. At the same time we should leave nothing undone that would enable us to cope with whatever the future has in store for us."

Other speakers included Lt.-Col. W. J. Franklin, a former commanding officer of the S.D. & G. Highlanders, and now sergeant-at-arms in the House of Commons; Brig. M. G. K. Gordon, commander of the 7th Canadian Infantry Brigade, reserve; Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, commander of the Eastern Ontario area; Lt.-Col. A. M. Irvine, officer commanding the local unit, and Harold E. Durante, warden of the united counties.

MOOSE FACTORY (CP). — Irene (Fran) Mann nips sickness in the bud in Indian settlements near this Hudson Bay post and the Indians love her.

This girl's job is to trek to lonely settlements on James Bay on her mission of preventive health education.

She herself treats cases which aren't sufficiently serious to be removed to the big new Indian hospital here. A native of Campbellton, N. B., she also wages a continuous campaign to improve sanitary conditions.

Fran is a field nurse for the Indian health service of the Department of National Health and Welfare. She has been doing her job since the service was started 18 months ago.

Three times a week she is taken to the north end of the settlement by snowmobile. She works the rest of the way and back on foot; house by house. Another three days are spent in calls to patients requiring regular treatment.

Keeps Eye on School

There is one call that she makes every day—to the Indian residential school, where she keeps an eye on the welfare of more than 300 pupils. Temperatures ferquently are taken, as are X-ray examinations for tuberculosis, the disease to which the Indian is most subject.

Fran moves through the village to the accompaniment of howling sleigh dogs, staked and chained before each home Many are vicious, but they, too, have got to know her. She's never been bitten.

Hers was a lonely job till last autumn when the new hospital was opened. Now there is a big staff and Fran has plenty of company.

She takes her work calmly.

"The Indians are good people," she says. "All they need is a little help."

Young Couple Given Chairs

A gift of occasional chairs was presented Friday evening by the congregation of Springville United Church to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gibson of Carmel, in honor of their recent marriage.

Mrs. Gibson was the former Myrtle Davis, a member of Springville church and Sunday school.

An address of congratulations and good wishes to the happy couple was read by Lois Paddock and Howard Johnston and Carl Preston made the presentation. Both the bride and groom spoke their thanks and appreciation.

Rev. E. S. Linstead was chairman for the program. Murray Carew, (ine years old) of Toronto rendered accordion selections; Jack, Carl and Don Sargent and Jim Elliott of Peterborough entertained with musical numbers. Humorous readings were given by Clarence Johnston and by Hazel McIntosh. Betty Stevens gave several violin numbers and Doreen Stevens piano solos. Mr. A. B. Preston sang two solos, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. J. D. Seymour of Cobourg. Mrs. Bert Viser conducted an unusual contest "Your Neighbors Names.' Short speeches were given by Mrs. Owen Murray and Mr. Bruce Sargent.

At the close of the program, the ladies served refreshments.

Audrey Timlin Is Married Will Live In St. Catharines

With a floral background setting of spring tulips at the altar of Mark St. United Church Saturday afternoon, Audrey Kathleen Timlin became the bride of Benton Griffiths Bridson in a ceremony performed by the Rev. B. S. Morwood. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Timlin, RR 10, Peterborough, and the groom the son of Mrs. Edward Bridson and the late Mr. Bridson of Williamstown.

Before the ceremony Mr. H. Manley, uncle of the bride, sang "Because" and during signing of the register he sang "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. E. DeNure was at the organ and also played the wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a beautiful gown of white faille taffeta made on full flowing lines. The low rounded neckline was set in a bertha of French lace and matching lace trimmed the skirt in apron effect. Her fingertip veil was of illusion net with lace applique and flowed from a small bandeau of matching lace, and long lace mittens completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade of white carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Norma Timlin, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She was frocked in tulip red taffeta similar in styling to the bride's, and wore a headdress of matching taffeta and pink net and carried a cascade of pink carnations.

Mr. Cecil Cameron of St. Catharines was the groomsman and the ushers were Earl Manley of Lindsay and Ralph Ruetz of St. Catharines.

The reception of guests took place in the church hall where the bride's mother received in a gown of sea crest crepe with a hat of pink straw braid and matching gloves, and a corsage of Butterfly roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to Ottawa, the bride wearing a dress of tangerine crepe with [illegible] coat and hat and black accessories, with a corsage of Talisman roses. They will make their home in St. Catharines.

Here's Why You Need Aspirin When You Have A Cold

—To Feel Better, Fast!

At the first sign of a cold—before you do anything else—take two ASPIRIN tablets with a full glass of water. Here's why: When you have a cold, it's almost invariably accompanied by a headachy, feverish feeling and muscular aches and pains. And it's very important to your well being that you treat these distressing symptoms with a medication that will relieve them . . . relieve them quickly. By taking ASPIRIN at the first sign of a cold, you'll get this important relief.

No matter how you try to stop or shorten a cold, authorities will tell you that this is sound advice.

FEEL BETTER FAST

And when you take ASPIRIN, you'll discover why millions have followed this advice with remarkable results. For ASPIRIN works fast. It actually goes to work in two seconds. And this is one reason why it brings you amazingly quick relief from these painful cold symptoms.

This two-second speed is something you can see with your own eyes by dropping an ASPIRIN tablet in a glass of water and "clocking" its disintegration.

WHAT TO DO FOR SORE THROAT

When your cold causes a sore throat, gargle with three ASPIRIN tablets dissolved in one-third of a glass of water. This makes a potent medicinal gargle that almost instantly soothes tender throat membranes, relieves pain and irritation.

Besides being effective, ASPIRIN is also gentle. Its single active ingredient is so gentle to the system that it is regularly prescribed, even for small children.

Keep ASPIRIN handy. When you buy, get the 100-tablet bottle which gives you ASPIRIN for less than a penny a tablet.

Because no other pain reliever can match its record of use by millions of people, without ill effect, one thing you can take with complete confidence is

DOROTHY DIX

Should Push Backward Beau On Question Of Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think a girl has the right to mention marriage to the boy she loves and has gone with for a reasonable length of time if he only jokes about marriage to her, but still tells her he loves her more than anyone else? I don't mean to come right out and propose to him, but is there any harm in asking him questions about marriage and finding out just what his plans are for the future so that she will know exactly what to expect? If there is some reason why he can't marry, shouldn't he tell her, instead of keeping her waiting and expecting him to propose, which he never does?

X. Y. Z.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think a girl has not only the right to mention marriage to a dilatory lover, but that she is a dumbbell if she doesn't do it and find out whether or not his attentions are with intentions. Youth is a time in which a girl must reap her matrimonial harvest, and she is very foolish if she throws away her chance of making matrimonial hay when the sun of her girlhood and beauty shine, waiting on some man who makes love to her, but who never pops the question.

Does He Love Her?

Any girl should have sense enough to know that it don't take a man six months to discover whether or not he loves her well enough to want her for his wife, and she should know beyond all doubt or question that when a man is in love with a girl he doesn't keep silent about it. He talks to her about nothing else. If his intentions are honorable, as the Victorian novelists used to say, he doesn't avoid the topic of matrimony. He urges marriage upon her.

Every sensible girl should put a time limit upon the attentions of the parlor hounds who come and sit and sit and talk of love, but never do anything about it. If they nimbly sidestep the marriage proposition, the girls should go to it and put them through the questionnaire, in which they should be made to state definitely their intentions. And with the girls it should be "put up or shut up" as their ultimatum.

It would save a lot of weary waiting looking for the proposal that never came and keep many a girl from ending her days in the Spinsters' Retreat.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married just exactly one month and I feel as if it were twenty years instead; all because my husband is dumb and does not seem to appreciate what I do. He is a fine man. He works hard and gives me every cent he makes. Has no bad habits. Is never cross or surly. But why doesn't he give me a little attention and comment on what has been done around the house? I know there are things a wife is supposed to do, but can't we expect to get any thanks for them, or any notice, or any praise? I am miserable, not happy as I should be considering that I have been married only a month.

C. B.

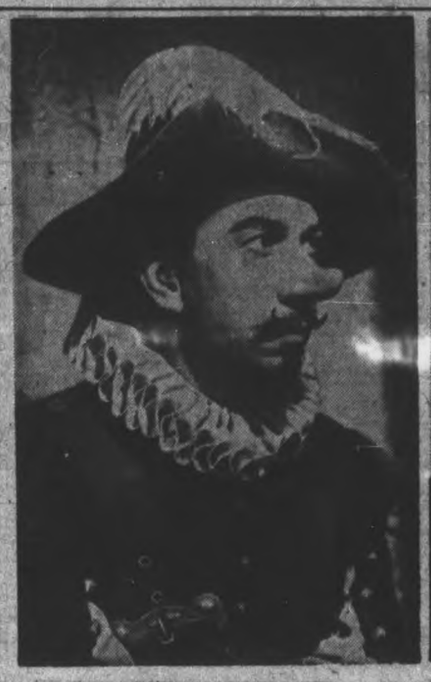
ANSWER: When I get a letter like this, and I get thousands of letters during a year from wives who are breaking their hearts because their husbands take them for granted and never pay them any compliments, I never know which I think has the least sense—the clam husband or the goose of a wife.

How any woman who has enough intelligence to be outside of a feeble-minded institution can ruin a perfectly good marriage by persuading herself that her husband doesn't love her because he doesn't make love like a movie hero and get out the big drum and beat on the cymbals every time she makes an edible pie, beats all creation.

But as long as women are afflicted with this incomprehensible mania and husbands know it, why in the world haven't these husbands got gumption enough to play up to it? Why, since they can make their wives happy with a few words, are they so stingy about uttering them?

Nothing is as cheap as talk. And nothing buys so much that makes a woman happy as it does. Feed a woman on flattery and she won't ask for jewels and fine clothes or even bread and meat.



✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend and I have had an argument about money. I told him that money wasn't everything and he says that without money you don't have any friends. Which is right?

R. M.

ANSWER: I think you are. Money doesn't buy love nor happiness nor even friends, for those whose loving has to be purchased aren't worth buying.

TWO BROADWAY CELEBRITIES, comparative newcomers to Hollywood, won the top awards as best actor and best actress in films released in the United States in 1950. Jose Ferrer is shown above as Cyrano de Bergerac, the role which won for him his Oscar. Before making the film Mr. Ferrer had produced the famous Rostand classic on Broadway, where he has long been known as a successful actor and director. Before Cyrano his best-known movie role was the Daughin in "Joan of Arc". Miss Holliday also won her Oscar for a role she had made famous on Broadway—that of the "dumb" blonde in "Born Yesterday".

Herbs And Careful Cooking Aid To Low Cost Meals

By MARY MOORE

Fulfilling my promise to one of you and my urge to cope with The Meat Problem, today's offering contains low cost meats made into high class dishes with a boost from herbs and careful cooking.

Shoulder lamb, hamburg meat and stewing beef are given such expert treatment that no apologies are necessary. On the contrary your friends will wonder how you manage to have such wonderful meals all of the time.

Lamb Hot Pot

One or one and one-half pounds shoulder or breast of lamb—not too fat. 2 tablespoons fat or less if lamb is fat, 1 chopped clove garlic, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 cups water, salt and pepper to taste, ¼ teaspoon rosemary (this is a strong herb so go lightly with it), ⅛ teaspoon each savoury and marjoram, 2 cups cubed raw potatoes, 4 medium onions sliced, 1 cup each sliced or diced carrots and green beans. Mix the 3 tablespoons flour with salt and pepper and dredge the meat in it. Saute the meat in the hot fat until browned on all sides. Place in a baking dish, add the garlic and ¼ cup water, cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. Make a gravy as follows: Brown 2 tablespoons flour in 1½ tablespoons hot fat and when bubbling and golden add 2 cups hot water and stir until thick. Add the herbs and stir. It will not need salt if you have added enough to the flour when you dredged the meat. Cover the meat in the casserole with the raw vegetables, pour the gravy over, cover tightly and bake until vegetables and meat are tender.

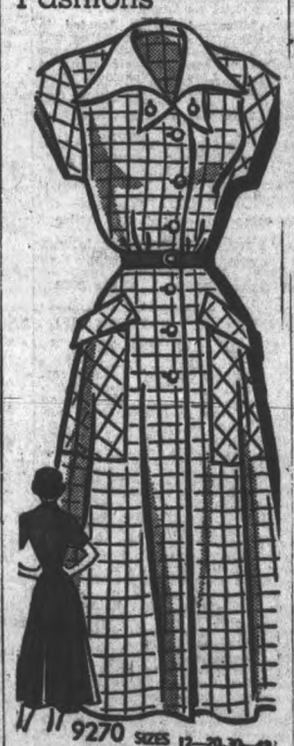
Savoy Hamburgers



To serve four buy one pound hamburg or ground stewing beef and make it into four very large flat meat cakes — unseasoned. Place these in a flat dish and pour over them a mixture of 3 tablespoons cider vinegar made up to ½ cup with water which contains 2 thin slices from a clove of garlic. Let this stand, covered, at room temperature for 2 hours, turing the meat cakes over once. Drain them and dry them by patting. Have a heavy skillet hot and sprinkle it heavily with salt and a little pepper. Fry quickly in very hot pan with almost no fat at all, turning them every 2 minutes. Do not fry until gray throughout—serve while centre is still pink. Pass lemon wedges and hot Worcestershire sauce.

Beef Stew (for 3 meals for family of 4.)

Three pounds chuck beef cut in 1 or 1½ inch pieces, ½ pound side bacon cut in pieces, 12 small onions, 1 clove garlic, 6 cut up carrots, 8 small potatoes, ½ to 1 cup chopped outer stalks celery, one-half small turnip, 4 cups water, 1 cup tomato juice, 2 tablespoons salt, ¼ teaspoon each pepper, rosemary and thyme, ¼ teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice. Saute the bacon until slightly crisp. Lift it from pan and set aside. Flour the meat and saute it until brown in the bacon fat. Add onion and garlic and fry slowly for 10 minutes. Add water and tomato juice and simmer 2 hours. Add vegetables and bacon, herbs, salt and pepper and cook covered 1 hour longer. Pour off gravy. There should be 4 cups. Thicken it with a flour paste made of 7 level tablespoons flour and ¾ cup cold water, stirring until thick. Pour over stew. On second day make into a meat pie with pastry crust. On third day put through grinder, crust and all and make into croquettes.

Expert Lectures On Children 3-Day Series

Mrs. Harry Johnston, director of the Institute of Child Study, University of Toronto, is the lecturer at the three day course in Family Relations being held at the Public Library today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

This is the 5th course of this kind to be sponsored by the Adult Education section of the Community Programs. During the past four years Mrs. Johnston has led courses in Discipline. Preschool Child, School Age and Adolescence.

Representatives from Home and School Associations, church groups, the Children's Aid Society and the Department of Health are attending the morning, afternoon and evening sessions of the course.

Arrangements for the course were made by Mrs. D. Rostocky, Parent Education convener of the Peterborough Home and School Council.

Volley Ball Games Put Spiders First

Volleyball results Saturday at the YMCA Lillico trophy league left the Spiders well out in front with the next four teams closely grouped.

The Spiders and the Bees battled in three games and split the points, three each. The Bees held the group leaders with a tie game 2-1 (the teams must win two points or else it is called a tie game) and with a win 16-14. The Spiders pulled through in the third game for a decisive 14-3 win.

Moths moved into third place three points behind the Bees with three wins over the sixth place Fleas, 8-5, 15-11 and 9-7. The Ants took two from the Mosquitos, 15-8 and 8-5, for four points to place one point ahead of the Mosquitos. The Mosquitos' win 15-10 in the first game gave them 32 points.

The tail-end teams met in the other games with the cellar-dwelling Locusts winning out in two games, 13-9 and 6-4, and losing the third 15-13. These results only brought the Locusts closer to the Bugs.

The league standing now is: Spiders 47, Bees 38, Moths 35, Ants 33, Mosquitos 32, Fleas 28, Bugs 26, Locusts 21.

Understanding Theme Of Jaycee Movement

Better universal understanding is the principal theme in the Junior Chamber of Commerce International, said Bernie Morin, addressing the St. Luke's Breakfast Club Sunday morning. Junior Chamber members live in 44 countries of the world and there are 34 countries with a membership in the International movement.

Mr. Morin said that 325,000 young men comprise the ranks of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of which more than 30,000 are Canadians.

Mr. Morin spoke of the many projects conducted by the Peterborough Junior of Commerce and said that similar programs were undertaken by other units in Canada and in other parts of the world.

The speaker was introduced by Fraser Watson and a vote of thanks was extended by Jack Garvey.

Claude Hewitt is chairman of the Breakfast Club, and Don Walker was responsible for the organization of the April Breakfast Club.

Quaker Open House Outstanding Success

Quaker Oats officials have dubbed their four-day "open house" last week an "outstanding success." More than 3,500 district residents passed through the plant and watched the processing of the company's cereal products.

Visitors came from as far away as Hastings, Madoc and other Northumberland county communities.

It was the first "open house" ever held and there are prospects of it becoming an annual event, though this has not been decided definitely. If so it will probably be known as Farmers' Week.

Winner of the grand prize, in a special lucky draw, was Clarence Coons, Jr., Lakefield. He receives 20 sacks of 16 per cent dairy ration (cow feed). Other winners of the daily draw were: Mrs. Frank Turner, RR 2, Keene, featherweight iron; Carl Preston, RR 3, Peterborough, toaster; Mrs. Donald Sage, RR 3, Lakefield, card table and chairs; and Allen Bolton, RR 9, Peterborough, pressure cooker.

Purpose of the "open house" was to acquaint local farmers with the milling and manufacturing operation of the plant. Whole families attended, the children taking adavntage of the Easter holidays to joint their parents.

Friends Collect Funds For Electric Chair

MILLBROOK, April 2. (ENS)—The friends of Ed Richards are conducting a fund with the proceeds to be used to buy him an electric chair.

Mr. Richards served as a fireman for many years and was well known as a local sportsman.

Donations are being received at Harold Nattress' and J. H. Raper's barber shops and D. R. Fowler's store. Donations from out of town may be sent to the Reporter office.

OSCAR'S BIG MOMENT—As the news of the Academy Award winners reaches a New York night club, the two top winners hug each other while an also-ran excitedly jumps for joy. Judg Holliday (left) and Jose Ferrer took the top acting Oscars. Gloria Swanston (right) doesn't seem downcast by her loss. Miss Holliday won for "Born Yesterday," and Ferrer acted the title role in "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Louis Yeotes At Home In Greece Today On Fourth Visit To 92-Year-Old Mother

Louis Yeotes was due today at his mother's home in Tripolis, Greece, making in three days by air the trip that took him 38 days by rail and boat when he first came to Peterborough 47 years ago. He left the airport at Montreal Saturday.

"My mother is now 92 years old, and I feel that this will likely be the last time that I will be with her," Mr. Yeotes told the Examiner Thursday. "When my friends here, in Toronto, and in other parts of Ontario, heard I was going to Greece, many of them gave me cheques to take to their relatives, especially their parents. So, I have quite a service to do in a round of calls.

"I would like to say, if it will not be misunderstood, that it is typical of Greek people that they should be thoughtful of their parents and always show them respect and love. That goes for other people, too, and I think in this day it would be well for everybody if something was often said about homes and parents and what we owe to them, and what we should be glad to do for them."

Mr. Yeotes said before leaving for Montreal Thursday night that this was his fourth trip back from Canada. The last one was 20 years ago.

"I will be with my mother, my three sisters, and my brother George, who used to live in Peterborough years ago. It will be quite a family reunion, and we will not likely all be together again."

Mr. Yeotes said he would be thinking of Peterborough, and all his friends because this had been his home so long.

K of C Class Initiated Sunday

A large class of candidates from the Central Ontario district was initiated into the Knights of Columbus Sunday afternoon. Exemplification of the major degree was under the direction of Ontario State Warden James J. Gaffney and staff of Hamilton.

This class was named in honor of His Excellency Bishop Gerald Berry, DD.

Among those present for the occasion were Ontario State Deputy Frank A. Hyde of Wallaceburg, District Deputy Albert C. Love of Oshawa, Grand Knights Lorne Blodgett of Cobourg, Edward Clark, Oshawa, Harold Griffin, Lindsay, E. T. O'Brien, Peterborough.

Senator J. J. Duffus, Past State Deputy, was also present. Bishop Berry was the speaker at the concluding dinner at the Empress Hotel in the evening.

Most Mayors Honest

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—The American Municipal Association issued an assuring statement on Mayors Sunday. It said 99 per cent of them are honest. The association did not elaborate on the honesty of mayors, or comment on the one per cent it does not consider honest.

Business Good

KINGSTON, April 2. (CP)—Three sets of twins were born in Hotel Dieu Hospital here during Easter week. Twin daughters were born to two women and a third woman bore twin sons.

U.S. Coal Mines Idle In Tribute To Mitchell

PITTSBURGH, April 2 (AP) — Most of the coal mines in the United States were idle today as miners paid tribute to the man who won them a shorter working day.

Diggers in 27 soft-coal producing States scheduled parades and speaking programs to celebrate "John Mitchell Day."

Mitchell, one of the early presidents of the United Mine Workers is credited with winning an eight-hour working day.

He's Tough

NORWOOD, Mass., April 2—(AP)—Eighty-two-year-old Nils Grahn clung to his capsized sailboat for about half an hour in the chilly water of a pond before he was sighted and rescued Sunday. As his rescuers talked of rushing him to a hospital, Grahn spoke up: "Just take me home. A couple of whiskys and I'll be o.k.

Rescue Scientist Ill At Isolated Camp

VANCOUVER, April 2 (CP)—A helicopter, seapiane and a standard aircraft teamed up Sunday to rescue a scientist seriously ill in an isolated Chilco Lake camp 205 air miles north of here.

Tom Stepp, 55, of Cloverdale, B.C., member of a five-man salmon study expedition sponsored by the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, was brought to hospital in three air hops.

Authorities did not disclose nature of his illness except to say he was suffering "severe abdominal pain."

The five-man team went into the Chilco Lake area by sleigh several weeks ago.

Millar Funeral

Canon F. J. Fife of St. Aidan's Anglican Church, Young's Point, officiated today at the funeral service at the Hendren funeral home, Lakefield, for Melville Millar, Young's Point. Mr. Millar died Saturday in Peterborough Civic Hospital. His age was 68 years. Pallbearers were Gordon Fitzgerald, Cephas Bullock, Joseph Tucker, Reginald McConkey, Thomas Hatton, Earle Dixon; and flowerbearers, David Millar Jr., George Hatton, Fred Dixon, Wayne Heard, Peter Heard and Arnold Preston. Simpler Spelling Aid To Pupils Dearness Says

TORONTO (CP) — If fonetic spelling were brot into the skools Johnny mite get thru more easily.

Dr. John Dearness, of London, Ont., who has just attended his 80th annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association here, feels that a simplified system of spelling could almost wipe out the subject from the school curriculum.

Dr. Dearness, who will be 99 in two months, said in an interview that he does not favor the 40-letter alphabet sponsored by the late George Bernard Shaw.

He agreed that there are not enough letters in the present alphabet to take care of all sounds in the English language, but felt it more practical to correct the situation through simplified spelling than to complicate matters by introducing new letters.

No Reason

"Our teachers take a great deal of time teaching children ways of spelling that have no rhyme or reason at all behind them," he said.

Typical changes suggested by Dr. Dearness are nite for night, bot or bawt for bought, trof for trough—and fonetic for phonetic.

Teacher Main Factor

Dr. Dearness, oldest delegate at OEA conventions for the last decade, recalls moving a resolution at the 1872 convention which was passed, but can't remember what it was about.

He favors the use of radio and movies in education but fears that some teachers might overrate these aids and not work hard enough to make them worth while.

"The personality of the teacher still is one of the most important factors in schooling" he said. "As is the teacher, so is the school."

Provisional Gov't Set Up For Ryukyus

TOKYO, April 2 —(Reuters)—The American-occupied Ryukyus, southern-most islands of Japan within sight of Formosa, have set up a "Provisional Central Government," Gen. MacArthur announced today.

Col. James M. Lewis, U. S. administrator of the Ryukyus, said it is hoped the Provisional Central Government will be superseded by a permanent central government by mid-1952.

Until the Japanese surrender at the end of the Second World War, the Ryukyus were part of the Japanese empire. After the surrender, the Ryukyus were placed under United States military administration, with MacArthur as governor.

Korean Crisis Lies Ahead Ridgway Warns UN Army

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, April 2 (AP)—The great crisis in Korea still lies ahead, Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Eighth Army commander, on Sunday told Stars and Stripes, the US Army newspaper.

"We have not yet come to the crisis of this area," he said. "I am confident that we will meet and surmount it when it confronts us, but not lightly or easily."

The UN forces in Korea do not think they are nearing the end of the war and are not over-confident, Ridgway said. The general, who said the US soldier in Korea "has arrived" as a fighting man, indicated he had not formed any idea that the war is practically over.

"The men have conquered winter, and as a result are better men and stronger in body and in spirit, but the fight will continue and will grow harder. No one knows the answer to the question of when the war will end.

"The future may very well put us to greater tests than those to which we have already been subjected and have beaten. . . . We cannot afford to become too sure of ourselves."

Acquire Poise

The US Eighth Army commander said US fighting men "have now acquired poise and self-reliance, born of confidence, which gives them pride in themselves."

He added, "it isn't confined to our men alone, but it is also true of all UN fighting forces."

Ridgway praised his men for "the manner in which they have licked weather and terrain."

"They beat the other fellow while they were doing it," he said. "It is the stamp of the professional soldier."

He said there were many tough problems ahead and that he had no delusions as to the capabilities of the enemy. Ridgway said leadership in the UN Army is built on the one basis on which it can last—respect, demonstrated both ways.

"There is a mutual respect born of mutual confidence, derived from one thing: demonstrated performance on the battlefield.

"There are 15 different nationalities under my command, and the same respect which has imbued leadership in U.S. forces with its polished results is displayed in the attitude of all those who fight together.

"There is the same mutual confidence. U.S. troops who have the French or the British, the Turks or the Greeks, or any of the others on their flanks know they'll be there when the chips are down.

"They feel the same way about us. This is truly a United Nations."

Building Up In US

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Building construction in the United States for the first three months of 1951 was 21 per cent higher than the corresponding period last year, the government reported today, setting a record. The total value of new work was estimated at nearly $6,100,000,000.

Ungrateful "Actor"

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP). —A rattlesnake bit the director of the Lincoln Park zoo Sunday shortly before they were to go before television cameras for a program on snakes. Director Marlin Perkins was treated at the zoo, scene of the program and later at hospital. He was reported recovering.

Walking Radar

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 2 (AP).—Twenty-seven German shepherd dogs are serving as "walking radar" for American infantrymen on Europe's defence line. Their mission is to patrol in absolute silence, picking up an enemy by scent or by ear at distances up to 400 yards.

Actor Has Operation

SUFFERN, N. Y., April 2 (AP)—Actor Burgess Meredith underwent an emergency appendectomy here Sunday. A hospital spokesman described his condition as good today.

No April Fool's Joke

CLEVELAND, April 2 (AP)—How does a proud father of triplets who arrive on April Fool's Day get his friends to take the news seriously? Joseph M. Mantz, whose wife, Lillian, gave birth to triplets Sunday, doesn't know. "When I call my friends to tell them the news, I have a hard time convincing them it's not an April Fool's Day joke," he said. "It's no joke to me."

Hopes For Job In Montreal, No Publicity

MONTREAL, April 2—(CP)—Freda Linton Alexander, a figure in Canada's 1945 spy inquiry, said in an interview that she hopes to get a job in her native Montreal and "drop quietly out of public notice."

She arrived here Saturday night following an "exhausting" cross-continent trip by plane and train. The trip was climaxed by a train derailment in which she was slightly injured but from which her baby daughter escaped unhurt.

She said she had given "no significant information" to a San Francisco grand jury which questioned her about communistic connections before ordering her deported last week.

She said that Tom DeWolfe, special assistant to the district attorney in San Francisco, who was quoted as saying she had given significant information about Communists, was "either telling lies or has been misquoted."

No Justification

If he was not misquoted, "he was probably trying to justify holding me and my daughter for three months without cause."

She had gone to Reno last year to get a divorce from her husband, William Alexander. Following divorce proceedings, she took a job to earn money for her passage back to Canada.

She said she was arrested for falsely declaring she was a U.S. citizen when she took the job and for failing to declare she was a member of the Communist party in 1935-36.

Admitting the charge, she asked to be sent back to Canada but was "interned" for three months.

Her train was derailed near Arlington, Vt., early Saturday when it struck a rain-softened roadbed. Several passengers suffered minor injuries.

Troops For Korea Ready In Two Months

TOKYO, April 2 (Reuters).—Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of the Canadian Brigade which is to fight in Korea, said here today that the full force of 6,000 men will be ready to take its place at the front in "a good deal less" than two months.

Rockingham, who has just returned from an inspection visit to the Korean front, said that the full-sized brigade, which will join the Princess Patricia's 2nd Battalion already in action, is "a crack fighting force which I can promise will give an excellent account of itself."

The Canadian brigade is scheduled to sail for the Far East within a month.

Rockingham said 35 per cent of his troops are veterans of the Second World War. The remainder, mainly in the ranks, are youngsters new to war.

The Patricias, who have given a good account of themselves, will be detached from the 27th Commonwealth Brigade and will join their countrymen once they arrive.

Use Canadian Weapons

Rockingham said the Canadians will be equipped with Canadian weapons, except for American rocket launchers and mortars.

Food will be supplied by American quartermasters.

The Brigadier said he had been "highly impressed" with the campaign waged in Korea by Lt.-Col. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.S. Eighth Army Commander.

"Gen. Ridgway seems to have made his offensive fighting spirit felt right down to the last private in the field," he said. "It is a remarkable thing and every soldier takes a personal pride in Ridgway."

Rockingham said he appreciates the fighting qualities of Communists, and expressed the belief they would be able to hold out in Korea for a long time, even without much in the way of equipment.

Farmers Win Hydro Battle

HOLMESVILLE, Ont., April 2 (CP)—Embattled farmers in this area have won their claim for increased compensation from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for power lines across their farms.

Nineteen farmers between here and Bayfield objected to rates paid for poles and other installations and work. Saturday they got word that Hydro had agreed to their terms.

At times the farmers assembled in groups to forcibly keep Hydro construction men off their land. Hydro called provincial police to enable its work to proceed.

The new arrangement will give farmers $14 for each pole or arable land and $14 for each brace. The old rate was $5. In addition, Hydro increased its rate per rod for a 33-foot right-of-way to 65 from 45 cents. Where it is necessary to cut timber, farmers will get double their current price and will be left all salvage.

QUEBEC SLUM—This has been the main street and children's playground for residents of an army establishment on the Plains of Abraham, an eyesore in the uptown Quebec City residential section. The slum now is being torn down and new accommodation arranged for the families.

Quebec Wipes Out Slum On Plains Of Abraham

By BERNARD DUFRESNE

QUEBEC, April 2 — (CP) — An unsightly slum settlement is being cleared away from the historic Plains of Abraham. With it will go a pronounced limp in the best-foot-forward tradition of tourist-conscious Quebec.

The ramshackle settlement of former army barracks for six years has been a problem for city authorities puzzled about what to do with its more than 1,000 dwellers.

Located practically in the backyard of Upper Town, Quebec's posh residential district, "Flea Town," attracted as much tourist attention as the provincial legislature, the Citadel, the armories and other choice points of interest.

Few people strolling on the Plains near the Citadel—old British fortress—escaped gangs of ragged children from the Cove Fields begging for pennies to spend at one of the settlement's two stores.

Slow to Act

Th[illegible]ather, everybody talked about the Cove Field huts but nobody did anything about them until a special housing committee recently hit on a plan to find new homes for the slum's 130 families.

The housing committee included representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Catholic Federation Charities, city hall, and service clubs.

The committee now plans to tear down the huts and put up elsewhere in the city about 30 four or five-room cottages with the material that can be used.

On Instalment Plan

The new cottages, costing less than $1,800 each, will be sold to evicted families on a low monthly instalment plan. Meanwhile, the committee is trying to find low-rent houses for other Cove Field families.

The rehabilitation plan follows a federal government eviction order designed to return the slum area that blocks off one end of the Plains to the National Parks and Historic Sites Commission.

The eviction order, postponed from year to year at the city's request, now goes into effect May 1.

Th Cove Fields settlement, outcome of postwar housing shortage and rising rents, saw as many as 16 persons jammed into five small rooms into which the barrack buildings were divided.

Paid $5 Weekly

The apartments, described by authorities as "incredibly filthy, unheatable in the winter and like furnaces in the summer," were rented by the city for $5-weekly.

Mayor Lucien Borne once said the slum cost the city about $40,000 a year for services like a school, public health nursing, electricity and fuel.

Police who assigned three constables to a patrol of the area 24 hours a day, reported frequent family quarrels but a low crime rate.

The Cove Fielders had their own "council." It met mostly to ask Quebec city council for free rents and other special benefits.

Plan Conference On Manpower

MONTREAL, April 2 (CP)—Experts from Canada, the United States and Great Britain will hold a two-day conference on manpower later this month, it was announced during the week-end by Prof. H. D. Woods, director of the McGill School of Commerce.

The experts will meet "to consider the manpower problem from three points of view—the economic, that is, the labor market; the institutional or collective bargaining, and finally, the psychological."

Dr. K. W. Taylor, assistant deputy minister, department of finance, Ottawa, will open the conference April 26 with a discussion on manpower and the national economy.

Josephine Hull Thrilled With Award

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 2 (AP)—Small and rollypoly, she walked across the stage, looking like anybody's favorite aunt. When the wave of warm applause died down, she squinted a smile and sighed: "How wonderful of you!"

Josphine Hull reached a height of her career that moment at the Pantages Theatre last Thursday night. She embraced the Oscar which she had won for her supporting role in "Harvey" and walked off stage.

"Yes, this is highest honor I have ever been given," she told me. "Frank Fay and I won the Donaldson awards for appearing in 'Harvey' as a play. But the Academy award is much better known.

Not Sure Thing

"Really, I wouldn't have been surprised if I hadn't won. I had the advantage over the other contenders in that I have played the role for four years on the stage and knew its values."

Everyone agrees it couldn't have happened to a nicer lady. In her nearly 50 years in the theatre, she has created a host of admirers.

She was born 67 years ago in Newton, just outside Boston. In 1902 she joined a Boston stock company at $6 a week. She traveled in several road companies until she married Shelley Hull, older brother of actor Henry Hull.

"I gave up the stage so we could be together," she recalled. She retired for nine years, until 1919, when her husband died in the flu epidemic.

She intends to keep the stage her primary interest, limiting her films to a one-a-year contract with Universal-International. Her current assignment is "Fine Day," in which she is again cavorting with animals.

"First it was Harvey," she laughed, "now I'm playing with a skunk named Annabelle. Fortunately for me, Annabelle has been defrosted."

Young Doctor Hit On Nose Becomes An Opera Singer

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK, April 2—(AP)—The hardest blow ever struck was the one that knocked a man into a cocked hat. The next hardest was the one that knocked a would-be doctor onto a Metropolitan Opera stage.

The man who struck this blow was Max Schmeling. The man who took the sock on the nose was Kurt Baum, who for 10 years has been one of the most popular tenors at the Met.

It happened more than 20 years ago in Prague, Baum's birthplace. He was studying medicine at the University of Prague and singing in a glee club.

"But I wanted to be a fighter," he said. "I weighed 195 pounds, was six feet tall, and for a time I was amateur heavyweight of Prague.

"It was before Schmeling became famous, of course. He and I were having a bout in a gym . . . I just happened to step into his right. It smashed the bone in my nose and . . . the pieces of bone were removed."

That, Baum claims, opened up the channels under and over his eyes and through the bones in his cheeks and gave him a resonance he did not possess before. At any rate, this, he says, is what followed:

"When I went back to the Glee Club, a fellow beside me said I was singing much louder, and wanted to know why I didn't go in for it seriously."

Baum did. He came to the United States and joined the Chicago opera. At the Met he has sung about 15 roles in three languages.

He now weighs a little less, but keeps fit with punching bag, swimming, deep-sea fishing and golf. Thanks to his stamina, he recently sang the leading tenor roles in "Cavalleria" and "Pagliacci" on the same night at the Met, the first time that feat has been heard there in 16 years.

Stone Thieves To Get Medal

LONDON, April 2 (AP)—The persons who spirited the Stone of Scone from Westminister Abbey Christmas Day will receive medals for their work from Scottish Nationalists, London newspapers said Sunday.

They also stand a chance of being brought into court if the police ever catch up with them.

Published pictures showed the medal on one side contains these words:

"Presented on behalf of the Scottish people to Blank for service rendered 25th-31st December 1950."

On the other side a jubilant Scottish unicorn prances on the stone while the English lion writhes beneath it.

TORONTO, April 2 (CP)—Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association decided Saturday to send names of teachers who participate in mass resignations because of salary disputes to other school boards in the province. The association voted to endorse the resolution passed at a recent zone rally in Guelph, and will send it to the Ontario Trustees Council.

UN Troops Cross 38th Along 10-Mile Front

Murder Leaves 8 Orphaned

STONEY ISLAND, NS, April 3. (CP)—An inquest will be held Saturday into the deaths of a 55-year-old fisherman and his wife, following a vicious family argument involving beatings, shootings and a drowning. Details of the Sunday quarrel were meagre but police pieced together this story from several of the eight white-faced orphans who saw the drama: Duncan Ross, they said, became embroiled in a vicious after-dinner quarrel with his wife. The reason was not quite clear. Suddenly, he seized a crutch from one of his crippled children and gave his 38-year-old wife a "terrible" beating. He also attacked his son Forrest, 8.

Mrs. Ross escaped to a bedroom and locked herself in. The enraged man then attacked Cassie, a daughter, who received several blows.

Fires Shotgun

Police said Ross grabbed a shotgun and fired twice into his wife's room, then sent a blast through his own shoulder.

Ross then threw the gun aside and ran for the wharves about a quarter-mile away. By that time neighbors in the district of some 400 on Cape Sable Island, off Nova Scotia's south-west coast, were arriving on the scene.

Reaching the shore, he climbed into a small boat and rowed some 20 yards from shore. More than a score of villagers saw him plunge over the side and drown.

Orphaned were Clifton 20, Cassie 13, Morris 18, Phillip 12, Forrest 8, George 5, Evelyn 2, and Mrs. Milton Francis, of nearby Brass Hill, who is looking after the younger children at present.

Hint Bigger Helicopters Carrying 50 For War Use

NEW YORK, April 3. (AP)—In Korea, airmen are talking about bigger helicopters, great dragon-flies capable of carrying more passengers as faster speeds. A 10-passenger helicopter already is in service. Even bigger ones probably are on the way. The navy recently awarded two contracts for experimental helicopters, giving no specifications as to size, speed, or passenger capacity. A bare announcement contained the word "transport helicopter" and disclosed that it has a five-blade rotor.

Obviously, something new — and with immense possibilities — is on the drawing board.

In Korea the helicopter is doing a limited but tremendous job. Helicopter pilots have lifted thousands of wounded and brought them back to field hospitals. Maj.-Gen. Edgar E. Hume, surgeon-general in Tokyo, said the helicopters, and the use of whole blood, are the two great new factors in cutting deaths from battlefield wounds to the lowest point in the history of warfare.

Helicopters also are being used for air-sea rescues, artillery observation, and sometimes for supply-drops in Korea.

Comes Into Own

"The ship is just beginning to come into its own," said aeronautics expert Igor Sikorsky who has blazed many a trail in the development of helicopters.

"It would be possible in the immediate future, to build machines capable of carrying 50 people and with speeds of 150 miles an hour or more."

This could mean a totally new technique in assault-landing operations. In the Second World War, and again in Korea, the actual amphibious operation was conducted by hundreds of landing craft, relatively slow and vulnerable to even light artillery.

Suppose hundreds of helicopters, each carrying 50 to 100 men, took over the job?

Experience in Korea has shown that they are not unduly vulnerable to fire from the ground, much less the air. They will put troops ashore more rapidly than the boats.

Raps Return Of Yugoslavs

SUDBURY, April 3 — (CP) — Peter Borovich, leader of the Yugoslav colony here, protested today the return to Canada of men he said are avowed Communists.

Mr. Borovich declared that Sam Lazich, whom he described as the former local leader of the Communist party, is returning from Yugoslavia after going there four years ago.

He said the federal government is "criminally soft and stupid . . . to readmit people of the very same kind as those who are killing Canadians in Korea."

Mr. Borovich claimed the return of the Yugoslavs is being financed by the Communist party and by Communist-dominated national groups. The Canadian government "is rescuing Lazich from Tito so he can work for Stalin in Canada."

"The Yuogslavs who left Canada were the most rabid Communists in the country," Borovich said. ". . . They were no good to this country and never will be."

Boys Get Reward

YONKERS, N. Y., April 3 (AP)—Two schoolboys who found $33,841 in the attic of a dilapidated mansion here last week are each $1,000 richer today. The boys, Alfred Graves and Thomas Nowak, both 12, received the rewards from the estate of Mrs. Edgar Bigelow, owner of the house.

Three Badly Burned In Restaurant Fire

SHERBROOKE, Que., April 3—(CP) — Three persons were severely burned and another less seriously hurt when fire raced through a restaurant here today.

The fire broke out suddenly while oil was being delivered in the restaurant.

The three most seriously burned were reported in critical condition. They are:

Benoit Roy, 18, of East Angus, oil company employee, not expected to live; Maurice Letourneau, 39, of Sherbrooke; Guy Menard, 23, Sherbrooke, restaurant owner.

All suffered burns about the body hands and face.

Cause of the fire, which broke out with explosive force, was not immediately determined although it coincided with delivery of oil.

MacArthur Wants Canadians

More Dominion Troops Now Awaited—Rockingham

VANCOUVER, April 3 (CP).—Gen. MacArthur wants "more Canadian soldiers in the Korean front lines as soon as they can get there," the commander of Canada's United Nations brigade said Monday night.

Brig. John Rockingham had just returned by plane from Tokyo, where he had a 75-minute conference with the UN commander.

The brigadier made a 10-day tour of the Korean war theatre. He plans to lead his 6,000 men from Fort Lewis, Wash., to Korea later this month.

"Gen. MacArthur told me he wanted us in the line just as quickly as we can make it," Brig. Rockingham told reporters.

He said his tour of the UN's front line convinced him that "they could do with a few thousand more troops right now."

He reported that Gen. MacArthur had praised the "fine work" of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, who have been in action for several weeks. Lt.-Gen. Matthew Ridway, Eighth Army commander, and all other UN field commanders, also praised the Patricias.

Brig. Rockingham spent a day and a night with the Patricias in action. He said their corps headquarters—when he left the area 48 hours previously—was seven miles south of the 38th parallel.

"They can look out for themselves," he said when asked how the Canadians were faring in the rugged mountain terrain.

"The atmosphere of co-operation at the front is simply wonderful," Brig. Rockingham said.

In Japan, the brigadier visited Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone, commander of the Patricias, who was forced to leave the front when he picked up "a mild dose of smallpox."

"It was very mild and he'll be out of hospital next Thursday and will go right back to his Pats," he said.

Russia, China Offer 1,500,000 Tons Grain

NEW DELHI, April 3—(Reuters)—The Indian government is considering offers totalling 1,500,000 tons of food grains from Russia and Communist China — enough to supply one-quarter of her entire food deficit this year, it was authoritatively learned today.

The Soviet union has offered 500,000 tons of food grains in addition to the Chinese offer of 1,000,000 tons reported Monday.

The two offers came while action was still pending in the United States Congress on a proposal to grant 2,000,000 tons of American food grain to India.

The Russians are understood to have asked in return for iron ore, raw jute, manganese and other commodities of which India is in short supply, or for which commitments have already been made to other countries.

Will Present Budget On April 10

Many Tax Increases Predicted Meet Defence Costs

OTTAWA, April 3. (CP)—A "bad news" budget, fixing Federal taxes for 1951, will be presented to the Commons next week. Finance Minister Abbott, barring "unforeseen contingencies," plans to bring down the budget Tuesday, April 10 at 8 p.m., EST. It will outline in detail the tax increases already forecast by Mr. Abbott and other members of the Government. They have said that tax increases are necessary to meet higher defence costs and to combat inflation. That is as far as they have gone.

Mr. Abbott, who will speak a few hours after the British budget has been presented to the United Kingdom parliament, will tell the Canadian taxpayer how much more is going to be taken out of his pay cheque to help meet the costs of the cold war and the war in Korea.

As usual, there has been a lot of speculation about what will be done. Some observers guess a general increase of taxes right along the line. Others feel only selective increases will be announced.

Luxuries May Be Hit

There has been speculation that personal income taxes in the lower brackets will be left largely unchanged because of the high cost of living. There are indications that many people believe liquor and luxury commodities will be hard hit.

Liquor stores in some provinces have reported large sales to clubs, hotels and others anticipating an increase in taxes. Some motor car dealers have been urging customers to buy cars before the budget is introduced.

The CCF party has been pressing Mr. Abbott to revive the excess profits tax, in effect during the Second World War, to drain off the profits made by large corporations.

In 1950, Mr. Abbott presented two budgets, one in the spring and another in the fall after Canada decided to participate in the war in Korea.

The spring budget made a few minor tax reductions. The "baby budget" in the fall increased taxes on corporations, motor cars, liquor and beer, soft drinks, candy and chewing gum, and a wide list of luxury and semi-luxury goods.

Negro Woman Dies, Said 110

OWEN SOUND, April 3 (CP) —Reputed to be at least 110 years old, although she herself stubbornly maintained that she was "only 98" Mrs. Robert Hornby, the oldest member of this city's Negro community, died at her home Monday.

Her father, the late John (Daddy) Hall, was for many years noted as the city's town crier. Ringing a bell and wearing a uniform, he used to patrol the streets calling out items of news and advertisements for coming attractions. He died at the age of 118 after having grown a third set of teeth and having regained his eyesight after several years of complete blindness.

The son of a Negro mother and a Mohawk Indian father, Hall was captured in childhood by raiding American slave traders at his home near Amherstburg. He was sold as a slave to a Kentucky plantation owner named Catlett, and escaped to Canada as a young man by means of the "underground railroad."

Mrs. Hornby was the last survivor of "Daddy" Hall's family of 21 children. He was married five times.

Suicide Verdict

LONDON, April 3 (AP). — A coroner returned a suicide verdict today in the death of Maj. George Cornwallis-West, former stepfather of Winston Churchill. Cornwallis-West, 76, was found shot in the head Sunday at his Mayfair flat. Lady Jennie Churchill, widowed mother of the Conservative leader, was the first of Cornwallis-West's three wives.

Scout Set Fires

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., Apr. 3. (AP)—A 14-year-old Boy Scout who liked to watch "big blazes" has admitted starting several fires, one of them causing $300,000 damage, District-Attorney L. S. McLaren of McComb said today.

Conservatives Plan New House Barrage

LONDON, April 3 — (AP) — Parliament reassembles today amid a new Conservative barrage of "prayers"—a polite form of filibuster designed to harass the Labor government out of office.

These tactics are part of the political guerrilla-warfare set off by Winston Churchill's Conservatives in an attempt to force the Socialists into a general election, one the Conservatives claim they now could win.

Eight "prayers"—high priority petitions to annul government executive orders—were piled on the agenda as parliament prepared to reconvene this afternoon. Each requires debate.

The regular order of business had called only for a full week of [illegible] bills until Hugh Gaitskell, Chancellor of the Exchequer, presents his budget next Tuesday. But the "prayers" can keep the House of Commons sitting around the clock.

For several weeks before the Easter recess, Conservatives forced tired and annoyed Labor members to maintain their full voting force at all times in case of a sudden vote. Labor has only an effective majority of four.

Counter-Tactics

Labor party leaders hinted they were ready to counter the harassing tactics with parliamentary manoeuvres of their own. Party sources said a 10 p.m. adjournment might be forced through tonight despite pending "prayers."

This suggestion drew astonished gasps in the British press this morning. The Times said it is the government's duty to allow itself to be harassed.

"The government's majority is now so small that their defeat is always a possibility," the Times said editorially. "The opposition is therefore entitled to use every occasion which the business of the House affords to force a division in the hope of bringing the government down."

Fresh Executions In Southern China

HONG KONG, March 3—Reuters)—Fresh executions in Communist China's purge of "counter-revolutionaries" were reported in pro-Communist newspapers here today.

Thirty people were executed in Chungking March 11 by order of a People's Court, the reports said. An undisclosed number were shot in Tientsin.

These reports followed the official admission of 91 executions in Shanghai and 18 in Canton.

A count of Communist reports puts the total executions now at several hundred. But most non-Communist sources here believe the figure runs into many thousands.

Fire Equipment Said Ancient

SARNIA, April 3 (CP). —W. J. Scott, Ontario Fire Marshal, in a letter to Mayor W. C. Nelson today criticized Sarnia for its "lack of proper fire-fighting equipment and fire-fighting personnel."

Referring specifically to the disastrous March 24 blaze which did $200,000 damage to a Front street block and took the life of one man, the fire marshal wrote, in part:

"You were fortunate in the outside aid you could get that day . . . You were also very fortunate that your two ancient fire pumpers functioned during the fire."

That clearly demonstrated that the city needs more equipment and fire fighters, he said. He pointed out that only the acting chief and a crew of five was on hand to operate both an aerial and pumper which required 10 men and that a second pumper with but two men answered the second alarm.

Recently Mr. Scott urged that 22 firemen be added and that two new fire halls be built.

Bill Tightens Controls Of Charities

Farm Marketing Agencies Allowed To Pool Produce

TORONTO, April 3. (CP)—A bill to tighten supervision over charitable organizations which solicit funds from the public was introduced in the Ontario Legislature Monday.

Introduction of the measure by Attorney-General Porter followed complaints in the House last week about the fund-raising practices of the March of Dimes and the United Emergency Fund for Britain.

One effect of the bill is to bring corporations organized for charitable, educational and other public purposes under provisions of the Charities Accounting Act. Religious and fraternal organizations will remain exempt.

The measure would permit any person to make a formal complaint about collection or use of funds by incorporated charities. The complaint would be heard by a county judge who, if he deemed necessary, could order a formal investigation by the provincial public trustee.

The powers of investigation by the public trustee are such that any inquiry would be as broad as a royal commission, authorized to call witnesses and take evidence.

Prompted By Criticism

Attorney-General Porter said the bill, an amendment to the Charities Accounting Act, was prompted by criticism expressed last week by E. B. Jolliffe, CCF leader, of the United Emergency Fund for Britain. Mr. Jolliffe had said the fund had sent only $880 worth of food parcels to Britain from a total of $593,000 in collections. He had urged that greater control be exercised over charitable organizations.

The bill will be one of the last placed before the House which is expected to prorogue at the end of this week.

Another major piece of legislation, the bill authorizing Ontario to take over rent controls when the field is vacated by the Federal government April 30, was

Search Planes Comb Atlantic

SHANNON, Ireland, April 3—(AP).—Search planes combed the Atlantic again today for stray wreckage that might help tell what happened to the United States Air Force Globemaster which disappeared 12 days ago with 53 American airmen aboard.

A U.S. officer at Shannon Airport said there was no hope of finding survivors. However, he added that officials still sought fragments of the giant transport to add to charred bits of debris already recovered.

What was wanted, he said, was some evidence to indicate what happened when the plane suddenly dropped out of contact several hundred miles off the Irish coast. It was en route to England.

As for rumors of sabotage, the officer said that not enough evidence had been found yet to substantiate any such finding.

Rescue 41 In Crew

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 3. (Reuters) — The Italian liner Castelverde picked up the 41-member crew of the British vessel Ketos which sank Monday in mid-Atlantic after an explosion in her engineroom, reports said today. The Ketos sank off the northwest coast of Brazil.

Aldermen Balk At Introducing Poll Tax Bylaw

ST. CATHARINES, April 3 — (CP) — St. Catharines may have no poll tax this year because no alderman cares to present the bylaw necessary to collect it. When Alderman W. R. Bald, the chairman of the Finance Committee, was called upon Monday night to present the by-law, he said he was opposed to a poll tax.

Similarly Alderman Romaine K. Ross turned down the honor. Finally Ald. Harry Gale was asked to present it as he had moved the original resolution in committee. But he said he did not think it an opportune evening.

"I'm not going to present it, and you can't force me to," he said.

The city has collected a poll tax for 36 years. In recent years it has amounted to $6 with a $1 reduction for prompt payment.

This year it was planned to raise the tax to a $10 flat rate and an amending by-law was drafted. Without action on it the $6 rate is still in effect.

Yard Knows Stone Thieves

LONDON, April 3 (Reuters)—Scotland Yard knows who stole the historic Stone of Scone from Westminster Abbey Christmas Day, but it still does not know where it is hidden, Chief Inspector Owen McGrath said Monday.

Even the thieves may not know where it is, for it has changed hands many times since they took it to Scotland, he said.

Three men and a woman—all Scottish Nationalists—are understood to have carried the 450-pound lump of sandstone off early Christmas morning, dragging it along the Abbey floor to an automobile waiting at a side door.

The Yard has enough evidence to bring them to trial, but whether the culprits should be prosecuted rests with Attorney-General Sir Hartley Shawcross and Home Secretary James Chuter Ede.

28 Hours Together In 7 Yrs., Pair Wed

BELFAST, April 3 (AP). — More than 3,000 persons attended the wedding today of Hugh McAteer and Nora McKearney, who spent only 28 hours together during seven years of their romance.

The courtship took place through the wire netting of the visitors' room at Belfast prison. McAteer, 30-year-old former chief of staff for the illegal Irish Republican Army, was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment in 1943 for subversive activities.

Miss McKearnel, 27, visited him for the permitted maximum of 20 minutes a month. Five years ago they became engaged. McAteer was freed last August after serving seven years.

Half Million Reds Massing For Offensive

Jet Fighters Down 3 Enemy Planes Over Northwest Korea

TOKYO, April 3. (AP)—Elements of an American division today crossed the 38th Parallel in force on the Western Korean front. Field dispatches said the crossing was "aggressive but cautious" along a 10-mile front.

The Allied force met only light Communist resistance.

In the air, American jet fighters shot down three Russian type MIG-15 jets and damaged three others over northwest Korea.

They were out along with Allied bombers and F-51 Mustang fighters lashing the Communist rail and road network—the "Achilles heel" — which the Communists have jammed with vehicles supplying their biggest offensive build-up of the Korean war.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur Tuesday visited South Korean troops five miles inside North Korea on the east coast. On his return to Tokyo he said:

"The enemy's weakness in the air and on the sea and his lack of artillery and heavy ground weapons is being beautifully exploited by our field commander."

The supreme commander jeeped across Parallel 38 about 50 miles east of the central front, where some 500,000 Chinese and North Korean combat-ready soldiers are massing for their long-expected spring offensive.

MacArthur said "tactical conditions along the entire Korean front remain favorable. Our strategy remains unchanged . . . it is based on manoeuvre and not positional warfare."

Earlier his daily communique said the Communist commanders near the front have "a potential strength of 63 divisions, the greatest of any period of the Korean campaign."

The communique pointed to two "compensating factors" in the Communist threat: the Reds' limited supply capacity and the vulnerability of their supply lines.

Allied Sabre jets shot down three Russian-type MIG-15 jets in an air battle over Sinuiju. Three other Red jets were damaged.

Other Allied planes hit road and rail traffic, tunnels and bridges of the Red Korean supply network. More than 200 sorties were flown by noon Tuesday. Fifty vehicles were reported knocked out.

Try To Expedite Freight Cars

OTTAWA, April 3 (CP).—The Canadian National Railways is spending $18,500,000 in a four-year program to expedite the handling of freight-car traffic, it told the Board of Transport Commissioners today.

The railway was continuing evidence in the carriers' application for tightened car-loading regulations aimed at overcoming a shortage of freight cars in the face of expanding defence traffic.

Under the proposed regulations —a renewal of wartime measures—users of rail cars would be compelled to load them nearer to maximum capacity. They also would be penalized more heavily than at present for holding cars on sidings beyond specified times.

More Austerity For Britons

UK Facing Harsh Year, Gaitskell Warns

LONDON, April 3 (AP).—The Government warned the British people today that life will be "harsh and unpleasant" this year, with wages buying less goods. It blamed Russia.

This picture of more austerity was drawn in the fifth annual economic survey by Hugh Gaitskell, chancellor of the exchequer. The survey pointed up the new task of large-scale rearmament.

"Not until the Communist leaders have been convinced that the western powers are impregnable may we hope to be able to concentrate once more on peaceful development," the survey said.

Gaitskell, who took over last year from ailing Sir Stafford Cripps, must present his 1951-52 budget to Parliament a week from today.

In general, he followed the pay-as-you-go path that Cripps marked out.

Production Up

The survey predicted a four-per-cent. increase in industrial production in 1951, compared with nine per cent. last year, but added "we cannot count on getting raw materials" even for a four-per-cent. boost.

"At best, we face in the immediate future a decline in the rate of increase in the national output, worsening of the balance of payments, a fall in supplies of some consumer goods and continuing rise in prices," it said.

A three-year arms program, costing a total of £4,700,000,000 ($14,100,000,000) now is beginning. It will reach a peak in 1952 and 1953.

In this year alone, £120,000,000 will be spent on airplanes, £60,000,000 on tanks and other vehicles, a similar amount on ships and £18,000,000 on radio and radar equipment.

To make sure the arms flow on schedule, "further controls and powers of direction over production will be used, including the requisitioning of factory and storage space."

The survey estimated men and women in the armed forces will rise from an estimated 800,000 this month to about 860,000 a year from now.

Rape Case Trial Begins At Port Hope

COBOURG, April 3 (ENS)—First evidence in the hearing of a rape charge against Ralphy Carey, 26-year-old Port Hope undertaker, was given Monday afternoon by Dr. N. Sharpe, provincial pathologist.

Carey pleaded not guilty before a petit jury and Chief Justice J. C. McRuer. He is charged with the rape February 10 of a Port Hope woman after she had retired for the night.

Earlier on Monday, a grand jury brought in true bills against Carey, and Gilbert Carbutt, of London, Ont. Carbutt is charged with motor manslaughter and dangerous driving.

The petit jury for the Carey case was selected from the first panel of 20, with only a few challenges. John A. Bradshaw, Peterborough crown attorney, is special prosecutor and H. R. S. Ryan of Port Hope is defence counsel.

Human Bloodstains

Dr. Sharpe told court he made tests of stains on bed clothing, and on night attire allegedly worn by the woman. The stains were human blood, he said.

The woman's family physician Dr. E. A. Hunt, testified as to marks he found on the woman's body a few hours after the alleged attack, and again two days later.

The marks included abrasions about the head, back, thighs and arms, and swollen lips.

Smelled of Alcohol

Dr. Hunt said he also examined Carey and found two scratches on his face, a piece of skin missing from one finger, and bruised lips. The doctor also said Carey's breath smelled of alcohol.

Provincial Constable William Baluk identified certain photographs he had taken at the scene.

Chief Justice McRuer, in his instructions to the grand jury, told them to bring in their findings on the rape charge as early as possible, so the court would be in a position to know when to proceed with the criminal work.

In his address, he dwelt only on the grand jury's functions in regard to the two bills of indictment before them. He remarked that the grand jury work of inspecting public institutions was valuable.

approved after clause-by-clause study. It will probably be given third reading and royal assent within the next few days.

The Attorney-General said a legislature committee, to be set up as an advisory body on rent control problems, will meet shortly. It will cover many of the details involved in rentals legislation.

Federal controls will be taken over unchanged, and present offices and staff will continue to handle administration. However, the province is empowered by the bill to make changes by order-in-council.

Pool Produce

Agriculture Minister Kennedy announced that a bill currently on its way through the House will be amended to permit farm marketing agencies to pool their produce.

Principle of the measure was immediately approved by leaders of the three major parties in the Legislature.

Premier Frost told the House that it had been difficult in the past for the province to pass pooling legislation for farmers because of constitutional barriers. However, the government would go ahead with this measure and if opposed on constitutional grounds the province would carry an appeal through the courts.

During the sitting the House approved expediture of $10,742,000 by Lands and Forests Department, the last of this year's budget estimates.

Would Raise Grant

The government was urged by one of its own members to increase emergency grants to the province's small fairs.

T. L. Patrick (PC, Middlesex North) urged that appropriations for such grants—made when fairs lose money through bad weather—be increased from $10,000 to $25,000. He spoke during the budget debate.

Grants for Class A and B fairs had been increased last year, but the small Class C fairs were essential to rural communities. As an example he cited the Ilderton fair, sponsored by the London Township Agricultural Society, which holds its 100th annual exhibition this year. Such fairs were hard hit if they are rained out, he said.

Mr. Patrick, a well-known sheep breeder, attacked the low prices paid for wool.

Norwood LA Meets

St. Andrew's Ladies' Auxiliary of Norwood held their Easter meeting at the home of Mrs. Gilmour, Alma St., with Mrs. George Atcheson, president, in the chair.

A pleasing part of the program was a message given in song for five little girls of the Mission Band. Mrs. Duncanson brought an Easter message which was enjoyed by all.

Recording secretary Mrs. Rogers and treasurer, Mrs. Gilmour, gave satisfactory reports of the standing of the W.A. and work for the coming year was taken up.

After this a lunch was served by Mrs. Gilmour and her helpers.

Australia Planning Push Mobilization

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 3—(Reuters) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said today Australia must have a mobilization strength of 178,100 men for the armed forces by the end of 1953.

In an election statement of the policies of his Liberal Party-Country Party coalition, he said the army must have 124,000 men, the air force 30,000 and the navy 24,100 in an emergency.

"We solemnly believe the state of the world is such that we cannot give ourselves more than three years in which to get ready to defend ourselves," Menzies said.

"But nobody can guarantee that it may not be two years—or even one."

Last Month Wetter Than March Of 1950

The month of March, according to the figures produced by official weatherman Jim Harrison, was warmer, had more rain, and the same amount of snow as March of a year ago.

Maximum temperatures were 58 degrees for 1951 and 50 for the year before. Minimums were eight above this year against 24 degrees above in 1950. The average temperature, 31.4 this year in March and 22.3 for the same period a year ago.

Ask To Put Gas Station At Dalhousie-Aylmer

Trinidad Leaseholds (Canada) Ltd. applied to council Monday night for permission to build a service station at the southeast corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Sts. The property is owned by Percy Dunford, and was recently before the attention of the council in Ald. Harold Rehill's question as to whether something could be done about the disrepair of the old residence.

The petition was sent on to the city planning board because of the zoning of that corner, once commercial had been changed to residential.

Because there is a nine-day option on the place, the planning committee, is being asked for a quick answer, preferably by Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

CHICAGO, April 3 (AP) — A new narcotics court, believed to be the only one of its kind in the United States, opened in Chicago Monday to handle the growing problem of dope. All police cases involving narcotics, even if other law violations are involved, will be assigned to the new court.

Court Battle Concludes With Conviction

The police court fight between Marvin Armstrong and the crown attorney ended today when Armstrong was found guilty of two charges of false pretences and the last five charges against him were withdrawn.

He was remanded for sentence until Thursday.

Armstrong stands convicted of four charges of false pretences. Eleven forgery charges were dismissed and he was found not guilty on one charge of false pretences. He originally faced 21 charges.

Armstrong was not represented in police court today by counsel. On the previous charges J. C. N. Currelly defended him.

Offered Bargain.

In police court today acting crown attorney V. J. McElderry, KC, offered Armstrong a bargain. If Armstrong would plead guilty to charges on which the crown was prepared to proceed today, he would withdraw the other charges.

"I don't wish to plead guilty because I really thought there was enough money in the bank to cover these cheques," Armstrong said.

The crown proceeded and Armstrong was found guilty of giving a cheque signed M. Armstrong to Oliver J. Linton, a Havelock grocer, for $30 cash Jan. 20 in his store.

Armstrong told him it was his own cheque and that it was good. Armstrong said in the box he asked Linton to hold the cheque for a week and he would pick it up.

Asked if he went back in a week to redeem the cheque, Armstrong said he didn't get back because his truck broke down.

Marked NSF

Linton said the cheque came back to him marked not sufficient funds. James Milburn, accountant for the Havelock branch of the Bank of Toronto, which handled Linton's account, said he later sent the cheque for collection to the Imperial Bank in Peterborough and it came back marked not sufficient funds.

"On that evidence, I must find you guilty," Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said.

Mr. McElderry then said, before starting the next case, "The offer's still open. I'll withdraw the other charges if he pleads guilty to this one."

Armstrong replied, "I have no other evidence, but I don't feel as though I'm guilty." Then he asked "Could I appeal if I pleaded guilty?"

The magistrate said he would bein a very poor position to appeal later on if he pleaded guilty to the charges. The case then went ahead.

Charles Flynn, reeve of Harvey township, who runs a small grocery store and service station, said that on Jan. 29 Armstrong came to him and asked if he would cash a cheque.

"I'm buying junk today," Armstrong told him.

Flynn had his wife give Armstrong $25 for the cheque, but when he turned it into the Royal Bank of Canada in Peterborough where he kept his account, the cheque was returned in a few days, marked not sufficient funds. The cheque had been signed Mabel Armstrong. But Armstrong said he didn't know for sure whether he had signed the cheque or his mother had.

Didn't Know

He said he didn't know there wasn't enough money in his mother's account to cover the cheque. He said when his mother told him she had received a notice from the bank that there were no funds left, she asked him not to cash any more cheques and he didn't.

He was found guilty and the crown asked that the other charges against him be withdrawn rather than put the court to the expense of bringing witnesses from all over the district to testify against Armstrong.

Raps Welshmen For Bigotry

TREDEGAR, Wales, April 3—(CP)—Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan, a Welshman, says he thinks some of his countrymen display a "lamentable tendency towards bigotry" in insisting that set pieces for the Eisteddfod must be sung only in Welsh.

The world-famous Eisteddfod is the national festival of Wales.

Bevan, speaking at a dinner, said it should be remembered that a large part of the population of Wales is English-speaking and "has a contribution just as big, if not bigger, to make towards the cultural life of Wales than the Welsh-speaking part.

The break-down is as follows: Cobourg high school district, 1.92 mills; separate school, 7 mills; public school, 7.50 mills; county rate, 4.87 mills; welfare, .84 mills; parks board, 1 mill and general, 10.87 mills. This is to raise $254,421.68 out of a total amount of $369,155.73.

The hearing on the expropriation of 19 acres and a house, the property of Tommy Hughes of Monaghan Rd. south, began today before Judges S. L. Smoke. In its original bylaw the city declared the property was for veterans' housing and the erection of Peterborough's second collegiate. Mr. Hughes' original request was for $52,000. BODY STILL IN RIVER

Provincial Constables Jack McKendry of Peterborough and Donald W. Erskine of Campbellford are continuing dragging operations in the Trent River for Walter Alfred Fry, 22, of Oshawa, who drowned Sunday afternoon. Fry fell into the river near his family's summer cottage, three miles west of Hastings. He sank from sight while his father, Alfred, and sister, Violet, were rowing out to rescue him.

Not Enough Red Flare

City council's notice to the Herb Payne transport vans loading at Canada Packers was not as effectual as Ald. Norman Graham considered it should be. Alberta Okays Temporary Export Of Gas

By The Canadian Press.

The Alberta Legislature Monday approved the principle of a bill authorizing temporary export of natural gas to Montana.

Premier Manning assured several opposition members that Alberta's interests are protected He emphasized both the United States and Canadian governments believe the export vital to joint defence.

The bill now must withstand full-scale debate in committee before receiving third reading and royal assent. It would permit minimum export of 40,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily—10,000,000,000 annually to the Anaconda Copper Mining Company in Montana for five years, solely for production of minerals essential to defence.

In Halifax, an opposition motion by G. I. Smith (PC-Colchester) asking that curricula and teaching methods in rural schools be adjusted or changed to meet requirements of rural life, was adopted by the Nova Scotia Legislature.

Rural Life Important

Mr. Smith said such innovations should "emphasize the importance" of rural life to the economic life of the province. "If the rural population decreases much more," he said, "it will be a serious blow to our economy."

The Saskatchewan Legislature aiming at prorogation this week, passed 19 bills and gave second reading—approval in principle—to four.

At Winnipeg, Attorney-General C. Rhodes Smith told the Manitoba Legislature that the government has no intention of imposing a direct or indirect sales tax at the present time.

SCENE OF ROBBERY—Paintings valued at $30,000 and silverware were stolen from the Toronto home of Robert M. Elliott, mining prospector, during the week-end. Included in the paintings were four by Cornelius Kreighhoff, celebrated Canadian pioneer artist. All of the canvases will be easily recognized by art dealers. The dog on the porch was absent at the time of the robbery.

Indian Bill Given Second Reading

OTTAWA, April 3 (CP). — A lean Commons dealt with a variety of government legislation Monday. Members gave second reading—approval in principle—to a bill setting up a new charter for Canada's 136,000 Indians.

The bill, referred to a committee for further study, will give Indians more authority over the administration of their own affairs. It will give them more control over their own funds. It will give them the right—now denied them—to buy alcoholic beverages off the reserve in provinces which agree to give them the right.

First reading was given to a bill that will give the 15,000 people of the sprawling northwest territories the right to elect three members to the eight-man council that helps to govern the vast northland.

Under the present set-up, a government - appointed commissioner administers the area, aided by a six-man appointed council. The council membership is to be increased by two.

Extend Controls

Third reading was given to a bill extending import-export controls for three years beyond the scheduled July 31 expiry date. George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, said steel is the only commodity at present under import control. He said the government has no immediate plans to control the importation of other commodities.

Also adopted was a bill amending the Migratory Birds Convention Act to give game wardens power to seize motor cars and aircraft used in the illegal shooting of migratory birds.

Minor Changes

The bill empowering game wardens to seize vehicles and aircraft used in the illegal shooting of migratory birds was one of several amendments to the Migratory Birds Convention Act. The other changes all were minor. The bill already has passed the Senate.

Dr. W. G. Blair (PC-Lanark), urged Resources Minister Winters to see what could be done about stopping commercial shooting of migratory birds in Caribbean countries such as Cuba and Mexico.

A duck hunter for many years he said he wholeheartedly approved of conservation. But there was little use in Canada raising birds only to have them shot wholesale when they flew to southern climes in the winter.

Efforts Fail To Reach Log Agreement

TORONTO, April 3 (CP)—Repeated government efforts to reach agreement with the Great Lakes Lumber and Shipping Company on a supply of sawlogs for its Fort William mill have failed, Premier Frost told the legislature, Monday. He indicated that much of the difficulty lay in personalities.

"I don't know whether I ran across any more difficult personalities to deal with in my life," Mr. Frost said during consideration of lands department estimates.

A visitor in the Speaker's gallery during the debate was E. E. Johnson, president of the Fort William company, who earlier Monday presented a brief to a legislative committee charging that government "strangulation" methods had denied his mill a supply of logs and forced it to close, putting 3,000 persons out of work.

The Great Lakes lumber bill was rated by the company at 125,000,000 board feet a year, the premier said. Mr. Johnson thought the area could sustain the mill on an exchange basis with pulp companies, with each forest interest exchanging supplies with the other.

Information Different

"Our information is different than that," Mr. Frost said. It couldn't be done on the basis of a sustained forest yield. It was probably doubtful if the mill could operate on a sustained yield from the Thunder Bay area at a mill production of 60,000,000 board feet—the highest figure it had ever reached.

Lands Minister Scott backed up the premier's argument. To operate both the Great Lakes lumber mill and pulp mills under an change basis, with one supplying the other with logs it needed, the area could not produce sufficient sawlogs and a surplus of pulpwood would have to be exported.

The Fort William mill can be operated, Mr. Scott said, but its annual production would have to be tied to the production of pulp mills through an integrated cutting plan.

The question of exporting was raised earlier in the debate by Charles Cox (L—Fort William), who charged the government with failure to reduce the amount of pulpwood exported.

Mr. Cox said the Liberal government had permitted export of pulp during the depression to provide jobs in the forests.

Toronto Driver 7 Days; Hit Parked Car

A Toronto man, Augustus Kemper, was found guilty in police court Monday of a charge of drunk driving and was sentenced to seven days in jail.

The charge was laid as a result of an accident March 1 about 11 p.m. in which Kemper crashed into the rear of a car parked on the west side of Clonsilla Ave. south of Sherbrooke St.

Constable Douglas Stark said he noticed a part bottle of whisky lying at Kemper's feet and another smaller unopened bottle of whisky in Kemper's coat pocket.

He said Kemper was drunk. He said the man staggered when he walked, he had to be brought back off the highway where he had wandered, to prevent his being struck by passing cars and didn't at first know where the keys to his car were. He said his speech was thick and his breath smelled of some alcoholic drink. He said Kemper at first denied owning the part bottle of liquor, but later admitted it was his.

Car Knocked 27 Feet

The car that Kemper hit had been parked well off the highway by Gordon Casey, 248 Wolsley St. The Casey car was knocked 27 feet eight inches by the impact. The Kemper car was found 25 feet in front of the Casey car.

Casey testified he ran out of the house when he heard the crash and saw what had happened. Kemper, he said, was trying to drive his car out of some light snow along the side of the highway. He drove past Casey's car and Casey ran after him and tapped on the window of the Kemper car. The accused then pulled over to the side of the road and stopped. He said that he believed that Kemper was drunk.

Constable Edward Patterson said in his opinion Kemper was "under the influence of liquor and in no condition to drive."

Gordon McMillan, Toronto building contractor, said he had been working with Kemper all that day in Perth. They had started to drive toward Toronto to pick up some machinery. Kemper was driving his own car about 10 minutes ahead of McMillan who was driving his truck with John McCartney, of Toronto, as a passenger.

"Perfectly Sober"

In Peterborough they all stopped and each had two pints of beer in a downtown hotel. He said Kemper was "perfectly sober when he walked out of the hotel."

McCartney admitted he himself was "high" but said Kemper was sober.

"A person who is under the influence of liquor is not a very good judge of the condition of anyone else, is he?" acting Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. asked.

"They claim not," was McCartney's answer.

Kemper explained the accident by saying that as he was driving out of Peterborough, two cars were approaching him. One attempted to pass the other and he swung to the west to avoid a head-on collision with the approaching car. In doing so his car crashed into the parked car.

Donald Minnie, the beverage room waiter who served Kemper and his friends, said Kemper was "completely sober."

"I think there's quite sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction," Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., said.

Two $10 Fines

Pleading guilty in police court Monday to a charge of being drunk Sunday, Robert Allan, 210 Bethune St., was fined $10 and costs.

Robert Blackwood, 186 Rubidge St., pleaded guilty to a charge of causing a disturbance by fighting and he was fined $10 and costs.

Now A Substitute For Beef?

When wool became costly and scarce two centuries ago, John Kay invented the "flying" shuttle and cotton came in as a substitute. When silk was beyond the average purse, rayon and later nylon replaced it. Oil as a fuel is replacing coal rapidly since the coal miners' strikes. Late in the last century margarine became the poor man's butter in Europe. Now in Canada high butter prices and shortages have put margarine on many Canadian tables, a replacement for butter. When one commodity becomes scarce or expensive, human ingenuity and social pressure produce a substitute, which in some cases is better than the original. Is there any hope of a substitute for meat?

* * *

Last week a powder was shipped to a Toronto distributor for consumer sampling. It is a very special kind of powder. Add water to it, cook for 45 minutes, and out from the oven comes the meat for the meal. This powder, which has not yet been given a commercial name, may become an acceptable substitute for beef. If the dozen sampling Toronto consumers report favourably on the powder, no doubt we shall soon see it on retail store shelves. It is said to be filling, and to have a good meat flavour. If it is marketed it will sell for less than half the price of hamburg beef.

* * *

In these days when high meat prices are bedevilling butchers, making housewives sigh and wage-earners wince, and incidentally upsetting the balance of farm production (because farmers are turning from milk cows to beef on any sort of hoof), we hail the possibility of a meat substitute which has never been on a hoof. We make no apology for dragging out old cliches when referring to a possible substitute for beef: Where there is a will, there's a way; and Necessity is the mother of Invention.

Poorer Peterborough Water?

Last week-end our news columns had a report that the Utilities Commission is buying two new three-million-gallons-a-day (MGD) pumps for the filtration plant. These will be additional to the present pumps. It is a first step in enlarging the capacity of the plant. Later the size of the filters will be increased and presumably the storage tanks will be added to. In the interval between increasing the pumping capacity and enlarging filters and storage tanks, will Peterborough get poorer water?

It might seem so, since all the pumps together could push 14 MGD through the filter beds which have a rated capacity of not more than 6 MGD. Neither Utilities nor the Board of Health officials are at all disturbed about this. The facts seem to be that the rated capacity of the filter beds is lower than the real capacity to turn out first quality water, by at least 25 per cent. Further not all the pumps are expected to be used at the same time to full capacity, not even in the summer when the demand is very heavy. The pumps will give the system greater efficiency and greater variation than the two present pumps of 6 MGD capacity allow.

Peterborough water is highly reputed not only because it is chemically pure but also because it looks, tastes and smells well. The Utilities Commission is determined not to sacrifice or mar that fine reputation. Once last summer the quality fell off, though the water still tested pure. (Water is tested three times a day at the Filtration Plant, and periodically analysed by our public health authorities). In the poor water last summer squiggly-wiggleys were noticeable and the smell was not good. But the reason for this was not that too much water was being pushed through the filters too quickly. It was a temporary condition due to abnormal causes, and will not become a common condition even though the pumping capacity is being enlarged before filter beds and storage tanks are increased. That is what the experts say, and we are glad to accept their word for it.

We'll Hear More Of This

President Truman has authorized deferment from the draft for military service of college students who make good grades, or who pass an aptitude test; this will apply to approximately a million students now in college.

The reason for this deferment is plain enough; clever young men will be of greater use in the army, navy and air force when they have finished their college education than they will when they have completed only a year or two of training. The need of the modern fighting services for men of special training is greater than at any time in history. Nevertheless, we feel that this order will create dissatisfaction.

There is nothing undemocratic about differentiating between clever people and others who are not so clever, or who do not show their cleverness in school. But when military service comes into the question it may be said that the new order savours of the establishment of an intellectual elite. It may be said that young men who are not clever in school are thought to be more expendable than those who achieve high marks.

If the deferment applies only to military training, it may be possible to smooth over any trouble of this kind. But if the deferment extends to actual military service, there will be a public outcry. Risking life for his country is not a matter which can be settled entirely on the basis of a man's academic record.

A Puzzle For The Head Shakers

The people who get so much pleasure out of shaking their heads over the wickedness of modern youth, the moaners over juvenile delinquency, and the fretters about parental neglect, might do well to consider the history of a respectable Los Angeles lawyer who died last week. His name was Jesse James, Jr., and his father was the infamous outlaw who was shot in 1882.

The late Mr. James grew up in an environment which would not recommend itself to a social worker or a child psychologist. When he was six years old he saw his father shot before his eyes. He grew up with a name which immediately told everybody who he was, and what his family background was. But Mr. James never spoke harshly of his parents, and was always willing to give biographical facts about his father to historians, without a hint of pride or shame. He did very well in the legal profession, and was much respected.

Maybe character isn't as much a matter of environment as some people think.

Pronunciation Is A Thing Of Fashion

An interesting series of letters has been appearing in the London Times on pronunciation, following one from Lord Courtald-Thompson, from which the following is an extract:

I remember elderly ladies 60 or 70 years ago pronounced some of their words in an odd fashion. They said "yaller" for yellow, "gould" for gold, "brasslet" for bracelet, "chainey" for china, "vawse" for vase, "corfee" for coffee. Girls were something between "gells" and "galls", and, of course there was "huntin" and "shootin".

Curiously enough, these ladies belonged to what were then known as the "best families". Nearly every epoch has its affectation of speech, and possibly these noble dames were sometimes glad to escape from the over-precise diction of that period.

The pronunciations which this gentleman considers "odd" are, in fact, survivals from the eighteenth century. They sound odd and uneducated to the modern ear, but once they were fashionable. It is the way of fashionable things to begin at the top level of society and work their way down. People copy the speech of their betters, and their betters, finding that their pronunciations have become common, change them.

A modern example may be cited; it is the word "mourning," which used always to be pronounced "morning"; careful speakers now pronounce it "moorning," probably influenced by the way in which it is spelled. In thirty or forty years the "moorning" pronunciation will probably have become the common one.

The word "ain't" has an interesting history. In the nineteenth century it was fashionable slang, originating in a corruption of "aren't." In the novels of Dickens and Trollope it is used by people of high fashion. It was copied by the vulgar, and then the schoolmarms began to belabour it, and now it has virtually dropped out of use.

The history of words and pronunciations is an endlessly fascinating study, and the changing fashion of pronunciation is one of its most complex and amusing aspects.

Peron For Peace Prize

President Peron of Argentina, the man who has closed La Prensa, is trying to set up counter-noises to distract people's attention from his smashing of the Argentine press. We commented Friday on his claim that a purely Argentine scientific discovery had been made—that on the basis of "thermonuclear reactions" and using only cheap Argentine materials, the "controlled liberation of atomic energy" has been produced. Orthodox physicists find it an interesting series of words, but meaningless. The wonder-worker of this revolutionary, purely Argentinian discovery is an Austrian called Dr. Ronald Richter, an agent in Argentina's atomic energy program begun only nine months ago.

Another off-stage noise, signifying nothing, was produced in Buenos Aires on Thursday. A Peronist Deputy in the Chamber of Deputies has moved a resolution that a committee be appointed to apply for the Nobel Peace Prize on behalf of President Peron. Any efforts for peace which President Peron has made have been about as effective as a skunk's attempts to improve on the perfume of a rose. Judging from his dictatorial attitude towards freedom of speech, we suggest that peace would be menacing if it were put in President Peron's hands.

The Cost Of Eating

by SUSAN STRANGE

AN easy way of shocking any European housewife is to tell her how much more her leg of lamb, her butter or eggs would cost in dollars if she had to buy them in New York. By this trick, it is sometimes possible to persuade the simple-minded that Americans are not, after all, quite so well off as they thought.

"What", exclaims the innocent housewife, "a guinea a pound for mutton....."—and she forgets how many more guineas the American husband gives his wife each week to spend on housekeeping.

❖ ❖ ❖

SOME figures recently published by American government statisticians manage to emphasize this point very dramatically. They compare, as nearly as they can, how long an industrial worker has to work in different countries to buy certain fairly standard items of food. Obviously in these days when rates of exchange between pounds or francs or roubles and the dollar are completely artificial matters, decided as questions of government policy, it is not much good merely to translate the price of meat at an American meat counter into shillings and pence. It is perfectly true, for instance, that British food prices in 1950 were less than half (43 per cent.) as high as food prices in the United States. But average British wages were less than a third—27 per cent.—of those of American workers.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE figures bear out, in fact, what many ordinary people had already vaguely comprehended: Americans are not only better off than the rest of the world, but the gap between the high American standard of living and that of the rest of the world has widened, not narrowed, in the last ten or twelve years. Since 1937 the Americans seem to have steadily outstripped other countries. The sole exception is Australia where, in food at least, the average worker is now able to buy more for less work even than in the United States. But as for the European countries, almost all of them, according to these statistics, are relatively worse off, compared with Americans than they were before the war.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE figures do not, of course, claim to be more than a rough and ready guide. "The results," says the U.S. Bureau of Labour Statistics which produced them, "cannot be taken as indicators of the relative well-being of workers in different countries." However they do claim—with some justification—that where there is a substantial difference in the figures the variation in material standards between two countries is probably real, although the difference may not—indeed cannot—be entirely accurately expressed by statistics.

❖ ❖ ❖

THIS is certainly true of the comparisons between work time needed to buy food in the United States and in the Soviet Union. Nearly twenty years ago, an American Presidential candidate—Mr. Hoover—made the famous promise of "A Chicken in Every Pot". Now, an American worker can earn a four-pound chicken in under an hour and a quarter; his Russian counterpart must work nearly two days for it. And for all kinds of food, Russians must work seven times as long as Americans to buy the same amount.

What is also undoubtedly true is that the European standard in food, though low compared with the United States, are still far better than those of Russia. (Even the Austrian index of purchasing power of wages in terms of food is double the Russian.)

❖ ❖ ❖

TO take some specific examples: an American and a Swede can buy a quart of milk with eight minutes work, a Briton with 15 minutes; a Frenchman with 20 minutes; but a Russian must work 52 minutes. Again, a Russian must work over 5 hours for a pound of pork chops; an American just less than half an hour; a Frenchman and a German, an hour and a half; an Italian, two hours. For staple like potatoes, there is less variation. British, Israelis, Norwegians, Australians and Finns all work three minutes for one pound, against the American two minutes and the Russian eleven. But in the case of coffee, eggs, butter and even margarine the contrast between the West and East is strongly marked.

❖ ❖ ❖

IN many ways, moreover, this guide to living standards is less than fair to the Americans. It is based on wages in manufacturing industry, which are normally higher than those of farm labourers, for instance. But there are proportionately many more industrial workers in America than in many other countries, and other things than food—radios, nylon stockings, refrigerators, cars and so on are relatively cheaper there than elsewhere as a result of American mass production. In many countries, too, government subsidies have artificially kept down the cost of food. In Britain in 1949 taxes paid 18 per cent. of the food bill; in Norway, as much as 30 per cent. Elsewhere, other government welfare policies helped poorer workers to pay the high cost of a square meal—sometimes with family allowances (as in France) or with steeply graduated income tax scales.

❖ ❖ ❖

IT is very likely that the differences have become more extreme than ever since the statistics were compiled. They use wage and price levels, in most cases, of March or April, 1950—almost a year ago. At that time, many European countries, like Britain, had barely begun to feel the pinch of devaluation, which has raised, many prices including that of imported food. And since then the Korean war, rearmament, stockpiling and further inflation have made matters worse. The inevitable result in all countries has been to eat away the real value of wages in terms of food or anything else. Undoubtedly, this is more painful for the European family than for the American. And inflation, so far, has sent up the price of other necesities — particularly clothes—more than that of food. So that in many ways the real gap between American living standards and living standards elsewhere is now even greater than these figures suggest.

(Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)

REALLY HAPPY

"Remember what I told you last Monday, children—that you should all try to make someone happy during the week?" asked the teacher. "Well, how many of you did so?"

"I did, teacher," replied one boy brightly. "I went to see my aunt, and she is always happy when I go home."

Letters To The Editor

APPROVES SCRIPTURE CHOICE

Sir: The "Bible Message" printed in your paper are very helpful, if read carefully and prayerfully. Your choice of scripture has been very good.

God has blessed our land with freedom, health and wealth. May we ever be thankful so that they may never be taken away.

While on earth we may never know the blessings received from these Bible Messages. Please continue to print God's word.

Thanking you.

Your sincerely,

GEORGE A. BAKER

RELIGION IN EVERYDAY LIFE

Sir: As I shall be leaving this corner of Canada shortly and shall not then be renewing my subscription to "The Examiner," perhaps I have no right to answer your query and say, "Yes, please, do keep on printing the Bible Message." I always read it and sometimes find it very apt in the pattern of a particular day; and, too, there has been verses from the Old Testament I had not read before. Have been glad at Christmas time to see you print the message from St. Luke, and at Easter the resurrection story—this time Wycliffe's translation. These Bible Messages have seemed to me part of what "The Examiner" stands for: The will to help its readers to higher things. Our religion should merge into and permeate our everyday life; so it seems fitting for a Bible Message to appear alongside secular things.

Yours faithfully,

"EDINA"

APPLES OF GOLD IN PICTURES OF SILVER

Sir: On the editorial page of your March 26 issue you ask, "Does anyone read the Bible Message?" printed daily on that page. I have many people express their appreciation of it, and wonder who was responsible for it. Personally, I'd sure hate to see it discontinued, as I always look for it, and many times that little bit of scripture has spoken directly to my heart. I think it stands out on your page like "Apples of gold in pictures of silver," prov. 25:11. Your remark, that this same space, could be filled with more popular matter, is a sad reflection on the taste of present day readers, most of whom prefer the jargon of the underworld, and the comic strips, to the sublime, soul inspiring "Word of God."

If the Bible was read and honored in homes today, as it used to be, there would be less juvenile delinquency, and the language and conduct of our average 'teenagers would be less repulsive. The cure is found in Psalm 119:9. Wherewithall shall a young man (or woman) cleanse his way? By taking heed thereto, "According to Thy Word." Others may rise and wane, but the Bible is still the world's "best seller." It is not only a literary masterpiece, couched in the finest English, and the choicest translation, but it is "Alive." Hebrews 4:12 says: The word of God is quick, (living) and powerful, and sharper than a two edged sword. It is like a high tension wire, birds can alight on it, unharmed, but grounded, earthbound humans touch it and they die. So with God's word. It is alive and powerful. Handle it not foolishly when you handle it, touch nothing else. Get above the world on a plane of reverence and worship. Then God's word will be a lamp unto your feet and a light unto your path.

It is a much abused, discredited Book nowadays But it is like a lion at bay, it needs no defence. Its best defence is "turn it loose." In Isaiah 55:10,11 we read: My word shall not return unto me void, but shall accomplish that which I please, and prosper in the thing whereto I sent it. So, Mr. Editor, give a corner to the "Good Seed" in your valuable paper as before. Turn it loose, with no added comments, undiluted and unadulterated.

Hoping this reference to this feature of your paper may focus attention on that particular "Bible Message." God bless you.

Standing on the word of God,

Yours sincerely,

M. HARVEY

WHO IS A CHILD?

Sir: I wonder who the mean bus driver was on the Byersville bus on Sunday afternoon, who held up the bus while he argued and bawled out a little girl about 10 years of age for paying children's fare and made her pay another nickle to make it up to adult fare? If she's not a child I don't know what she is. She certainly isn't an adult. They should call the tickets infants tickets.

I believe the fare should go according to age not height. For people who have a family of three or four children not earning anything, adult fare soon adds up.

I certainly thought it was very small of the bus driver and very embarrassing for the little girl.

A PASSENGER ON THE BUS.

LET THE LIGHT SHINE

Sir: Your daily Bible Message has been appreciated in the past, and we hope that you will continue to give it a place in your paper. The Bible gives us the highest standard of wisdom for this life, and tells us how we may obtain the hope of a bright hereafter. How fitting are the Psalmist's words "The entrance of Thy words giveth light". Psalm 119: 130.

Trusting you will still allow this light to shine through your worthy paper.

Yours truly,

W. C. G. PARRINGTON.

A HELPING HAND

Sir: Though the percentage of people who find time to read the Bible Message is perhaps small, I think it is definitely worthwhile to have this always at hand in case of need and for those who already know its value.

While some of the historical excerpts offer little or no encouragement, the majority of the Messages contain something which may be of infinite help, and certainly can do no harm. I, for one, would hesitate to withdraw the helping hand.

INTERESTED.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden: and there he put the man whom he had formed. And out of the ground made the Lord God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil....

And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die. (Gen. 2: 8, 9, 16, 17.)

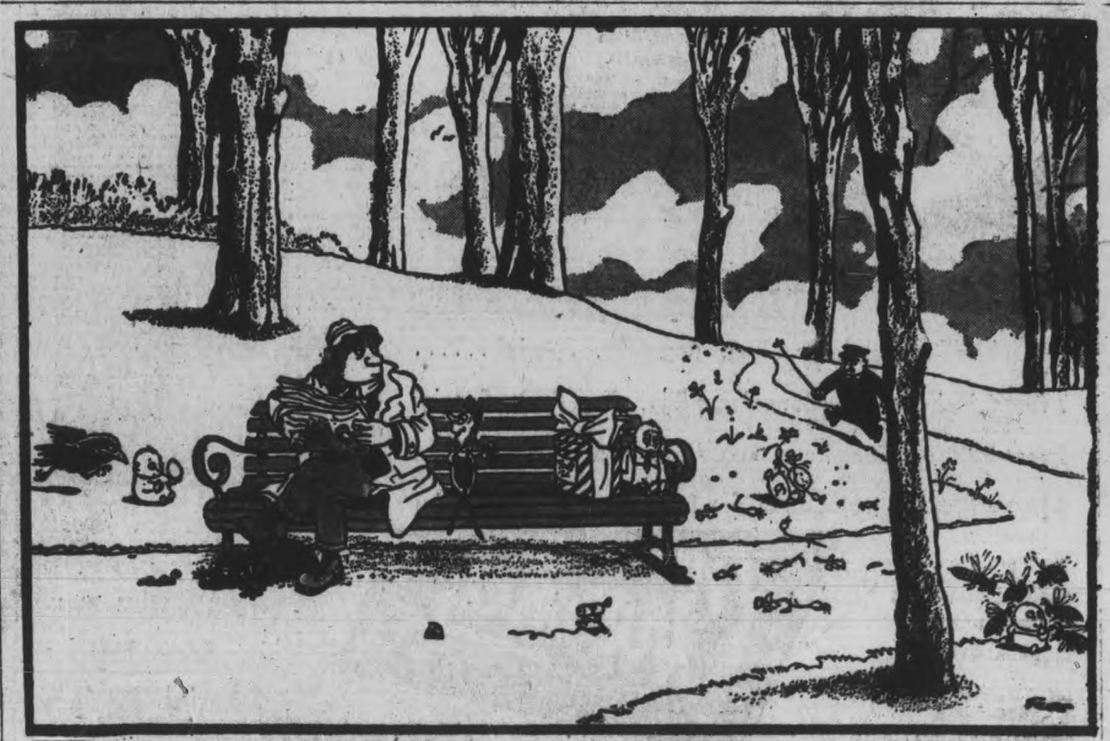
And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil. And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her: and he did eat....

And the Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever: therefore the Lord God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken. So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life. (Gen. 3: 4-6, 22-24.)



Our Vast North

(North Bay Nugget)

Of course, the western portion of Northern Ontario is called Northwestern Ontario—but it has a perfect right to include itself under the heading of Northern Ontario—for all of it is well north of the Gateway to the North, our city of North Bay.

Transportation is just one of many problems facing this vast section from Cochrane west. There are myriad other problems and in time, as civilization spreads northward in Ontario to the south coast of Hudson's Bay—yes Northern Ontario has many miles of salt water border—there will be the problem of administration.

Even now a small group is pressing for a new province to be formed to better administrate this huge section of Ontario. In time this group's demands will become impossible to ignore, for the vastness of our northern territory in Ontario is going to need close supervision by the Government. It is certain to have a great future.

Next Election Likely Cost About $2,000,000

TORONTO, April 3.—The next provincial election, which opposition leaders predict as early as June, will cost about $2,000,000.

The figure was given by Attorney-General Porter Monday as the legislature's elections committee went over the Elections Act in detail and the Voters' List Act. Mr. Porter is chairman.

Mr. Porter mentioned increased printing costs and the payment to a great number of voters' list enumerators as factors which will boost the price of an election. The 1948 election cost about $1,360,000.

The committee approved abandoning the practice of delivering local voters' lists to all homes. It also recommended that district lists no longer be posted on school doors where they are little read.

Cost Unjustified

Cost of the home lists would be between $150,000 and $200,000, which the committee found unjustified particularly with a double check to be made on the publicly posted full lists.

Apparently with thought of an early election in mind, committee members gave careful attention to such matters as the supply of voters' lists to candidates, and the publication of election notices.

One member, Aurele Chartrand Liberal whip and MPP for Ottawa East, registered a complaint against the high cost of radio time, newspaper advertising and rental of halls for candidates.

That was something beyond the committee's jurisdiction, Mr. Chartrand was told.

SMALL STONES

The Belgian Congo is the world's largest producer of diamonds for industrial purposes.

J. ERNIE AYRHART who went into the bush on a grubstake, came back with a pot of gold, is mayor of his hometown of Campbellford. Business keeps him in Montreal most of the time but he serves the town by remote control. He attends all council meetings and is often on long distance telephone conversations with the other town officials.

Mayor Runs Campbellford From His Montreal Home

MONTREAL (CP). — From his apartment home in Montreal a mayor runs a town 300 miles away.

He is Mayor Ernest Ayrhart of Campbellford, Ont. Business keeps him here most of the time but the 3,500 residents of Campbellford want him to stay in office.

Mr. Ayrhart, who has mining interests in Northern Quebec and heads Chibougamou Explorers, Ltd., says he will retire at the end of his term, but he may have a hard time doing it.

He retired once, was persuaded to run again and when he wanted to quit the next time the other candidates refused to run against him.

In 1946 Mr. Ayrhart returned to Campbellford with the idea of settling down. He was born 16 miles from the town.

The townspeople made him mayor. Four years later he retired but in 1950 was persuaded to run again. He defeated three other candidates.

"Last July rock fever hit me again," he said at his St. James Street office in Montreal. "I came back to Quebec to re-establish myself in mining interests."

He wanted to retire again as mayor but at the nomination meeting in Campbellford last December three other candidates refused to contest the election, and Ernest Ayrhart was mayor again.

He attends all council meetings and is constantly on long-distance telephone to talk over problems with other town officials. He gets co-operation from his councillors.

Last Easter Sunday he asked 60 Campbellford businessmen to attend a meeting to discuss a new industry for the town. While most everybody else was enjoying the holiday, 56 of the 60 businessmen turned out for the meeting.

Design Entries Incompetent Judges Declare

OTTAWA, April 3 (CP) — A United States design expert and four of his Canadian colleagues have found "demonstrable incompetence" among all but 28 of 330 entries in Canada's first national industrial design competition.

Serge Chermayeff, director of Chicago's Institute of Designs, says in his report, prepared on behalf of himself and his colleagues, that apparently many Canadian designers don't understand the implications of the word "industrial."

Results of the $10,000 national competition, sponsored by the National Gallery, the Aluminum Company of Canada and the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, were announced Monday.

The international panel of judges found the entries didn't merit either first, second or third prize. Instead, six "consolation" prizes were recommended. The designs were for consumer products either in wood or aluminum. First prize in each group was to have been $2,500; second, $1,500, and third, $1,000.

Split Equally

The judges decided that $3,000 be split up equally among six competitors and the remaining $7,000 held over for another contest which might be run later this year.

Winners of the $500 awards:

George A. Robb of the University of Toronto School of Architecture, for an aluminum lighting fixture for downward direction and indirect lighting;

Norman Slater of Montreal for a lighting fixture of aluminum with a reversible lampholder;

Julien Hebert of Montreal's Ecole Des BeauxArts for his design of garden furniture produced out of aluminum tubing;

The team of H. W. R. McMillan, H. F. McMilland and J. A. McCuish of the University of Manitoba School of Architecture, for a folding table containing a new kind of folding mechanism;

James Warren of Toronto, for an occasional table and chair of bent plywood;

Pierre Gauvin of Quebec City, for a chair using aluminum seats.

Mr. Chermayeff's report said that "of 330 entries handed to us for examination, 302 were immediately eliminated on the basis of demonstrable incompetence."

WIDENS SPLIT—Mrs. Tilly Rolston, member of the British Columbia legislature for Vancouver-Point Grey, announced she had lost confidence in the coalition government last week and crossed the floor of the House to sit as an independent. She followed W. A. C. Bennett (Ctn. - South Okanagan) who split with the government two weeks ago. Both voted against the controversial Hospital Insurance Bill. Mrs. Rolston is the only woman ever to be elected as a Conservative.

Niagara Council Criticizes Hydro

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 3 — (CP). — Criticism was directed at the Provincial Government and the Ontario Hydro Commission Monday night at a council meeting.

The Commission was accused of changing the route of a tunnel for the new power development in the municipality without consulting council.

"Have we any authority, or are we just a bunch of dumbbells?" asked Ald. George R. Inglis.

Attack on the Provincial Government flared up after a letter from W. A. Orr, Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs, informed the council that, in his opinion, its members were getting paid as well as other councillors in municipalities of comparable size.

An increase of $200 a year, to $600, for aldermen is sought by the council.

CHARLOTTE, NC, April 3 — (AP). — About one-tenth of the South's textile workers went on strike Monday for more pay.

The union is asking $1.14½ an hour; minimum now is $1.01½.

UAW Boosts Dues $1 Month

CLEVELAND, April 3 (CP)—The CIO United Automobile Workers' Union voted itself a $15,000,000 strike fund and a multi-million dollar political-action kitty Monday night by approving a hotly-contested $1-a-month dues boost from $1.50 to $2.50.

UAW president Walter Reuther and secretary - treasurer Emil Mazey spearheaded the debate for passage of the dues increase.

The anti-dues boost arguments centred around charges that union "pork-choppers" would benefit most from the extra money. This term is applied, in union slang, to any unionists holding non-elective jobs.

The opposition also charged that UAW funds had been used to raid the membership of farm-equipment workers, one of the left-wing unions kicked out of the CIO.

UAW leaders have said that, barring a major strike in the meantime, the dues would enable the union to build a $15,000,000 strike fund by 1955. That's when all the big auto industry contracts expire. Thirty cents of the $2.50 was earmarked for international union and local strike funds.

Science against pain

Science progresses: For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for the relief of pain. Today this familiar painkiller is available in a new form without the disadvantage of insolubility, acidity and bitter taste. It is called DISPRIN.

Why take DISPRIN?

Because, DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) it permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

IOOF Junior Hockey Club Run By Strong Executive

By FRED MAYBEE.

Oddfellows have said goodbye to their many hockey supporters for the season of 1950-51. Bun Kingdon's colorful squad of scrappy juniors provided some fine entertainment for the hundreds of fans in the city and district this winter, before finally bowing out to Oshawa in a hectic group final series.

Much of the credit for the success of the club this year, as in the past, must go to their genial manager, Len Symonds, whose untiring efforts on behalf of youth in the city are too well known to need recounting in detail. But as managing director of hockey for the Oddfellows' Committee, Len has proven a leader of true worth.

Coach Bun Kingdon also must receive praise for the moulding together of a winning combination, after the loss of several stars to higher ranks and the introduction of younger juveniles as replacements. Bun did a creditable coaching job this year.

Deserve Credit

The Independent Order of Oddfellows and particularly their hockey committee, deserve a special word of mention at this time for the part they have played and are playing in sponsoring both juvenile and junior hockey in Peterborough. There is no gainsaying the fact that this group is doing excellent work in this special field of sporting activity that has won widespread attention.

How is the Oddfellows' committee appointed and how does it function? These are questions often asked. Here are the answers.

The Oddfellows' hockey clubs are sponsored by the subordinate IOOF lodges of Peterborough and Otonabee townships, known as Peterborough lodge No. 111 and Otonabee No. 13. A small committee is nominated and selected annually to take charge of hockey. It numbers 16 men. These members are responsible for the financing and operation of the clubs.

How It Works

Officers are appointed by the committee members themselves from their own group as an executive, who supervise the various phases of activity incidental to the promotion of the whole enterprise such as the planning of different seasonal projects for the purpose of raising funds as well as the handling of same. The projects include bingos throughout the summer, a booth at the Exhibition and other lesser activities.

Oddefllows have been singularly fortunate in having numbered in their ranks men of exceptional character fitted for philanthropic work of this kind. They are chaps who give freely of their time whenever possible, to further the good aims of youth in the community and their worth to the city and district as a whole cannot be assessed. As a factor in the prevention of juvenile delinquency the work of such groups as these cannot be overestimated.

Committee members including the executive, receive no remuneration for their services insofar as cash compensation is concerned. Their reward comes solely from the pride they have in seeing boys of different types play hard, clean hockey together, win or lose.

New Executive

On Friday night last week, the new committee for the coming hockey year was appointed. There were a few changes in the respective positions of a few members but in the main the group is the same as last year.

Here is the new slate of officers: Hon. Pres., Grant Harris; president, Elmer Pearse; vice-president, Herbert Youngs; secretary, Glen Edwards; treasurer, Bob McCuaig; assistant treasurer, Frank Collwell; managing director of hockey, Lyn Symonds; timekeeper, Russell Downer; publicity director, R. Viscoff; custodians, Jack Smith, James Fosket; bingo chairman, William (Bill) Alberry; committee members William Harris, Jack Fosket, Bert Allen, Ken Mowry, Vic Brown, William Lawson, Robert Smith, Earl Sage.

The Triple Links have many friends and are making more each year. Perhaps their most loyal individual supporter is elderly William (Bill) Andrews who seldom misses an Oddfellow trip with the boys and whose heart is in tune with the lads in sorrow and in joy. Bill hates to see his boys lose.

St. John's Ambulance Corps have done yeoman service on behalf of the club during this season as in the past and the committee members fully recognize the meritorious service they have rendered. Mr. Leo Tompkins, a devoted member of the local unit, is also a frequent and welcome traveller with the club.

Until another hockey season rolls around then: "Good luck to the Oddfellows and Club 16."

TVL HOCKEY CHAMPIONS—Peterborough Brintons in their first year in the Trent Valley Hockey League this season captured the title in a fine showing. They eliminated Stirling and Campbellford to win the northern section and then ousted Trenton Taximen for the league crown in four games of the best-of-five series. Shown above are, front row, left to right: C. Willshaw, B. Anderson, J. Byers, K. Lawson, L. Eakins and J. Richlark; back row: J. McCuaig, W. Huard, B. Crowder, D. McIndoe, K. Anderson, J. Mercurys To Meet Sault Greyhounds

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 3 (CP).—The all-Ontario senior hockey finals get under way here Wednesday with the powerful Owen Sound Mercurys meeting Sault St. Marie Greyhounds in the first game of a best-of-five series. The winner will represent Ontario in the Allan Cup race.

The clubs play again April 6 then travel to Owen Sound for games April 9, 11 and 13.

Owen Sound won the Ontario Hockey Association crown handily, taking 34 of 38 league and playoff games, while Sault Ste. Marie was a repeater in taking Northern Ontario Hockey Association honors for the second successive year, blasting Porcupine Porkies four in a row in the best-of-seven finals.

Tapering Off In Buying Said Likely

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Price increases in the last year have in considerable measure been due to what may happen rather than to what has happened.

There has been a rush to buy materials beyond immediate needs, in case of future shortages, thus magnifying real scarcities. Further, in such a situation, manufacturers look around for substitutes, and sometimes the substitutes add to costs.

It is true that defence programs have added a great demand to economies which were already booming.

Yet they were economies in which, if it were not for defence spending, some slack might now be showing; and it would seem that defence programs so far announced can be absorbed in orderly fashion.

That brings up the big question: Are defence programs of today to be followed by all-out war programs tomorrow? Unfortunately the answer to that rests largely outside the western countries, and so it is not surprising that business and industry, and individuals, have tried to safeguard themselves against anything that may happen.

Feel Concerned

However, companies with large stocks on hand can't go on adding to them indefinitely, and they must feel concerned over the possibility of getting caught with too much high-priced goods on hand.

It was nervousness of this sort that led to the United States "inventory" recession of 1949, when companies simply stopped buying until they had cleared out some of their stocks.

Observers now are inclined to expect another reduction of inventories but they don't seem to fear that it will cause any "recession" because growing defence programs should take up any slack.

However, the worried consumer may at least hope that some braking-power will be applied to rising prices in the coming months—again barring, of course, fresh international pressures.

Markham Nips Kingston 6-2

KINGSTON, April 3 (CP). — Markham Millionaires outclassed Kingston Nylons Monday night with a 6-2 victory in the first game of their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior B semi-final series.

M. Armstrong opened the scoring at 1.26 of the first period. Gley made it 2-0 unassisted, and F. Scott 3-0 in the second. Bell, Brennan and Clement were other scorers.

Second game will be Wednesday night in Oshawa, with the third here Friday and the fourth in Oshawa next Monday. Dates and places of other games are not yet decided.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Annual meeting of the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club is at eight p.m. Thursday in the Chamber of Commerce. A lot of important business coming up, including formation of a second cricket team here, a "B" entry in the Toronto and District Council. The first or "A" local team entered the Council in '49 and led the third (or Rawlinson) division to gain promotion last season to the second (or Godin) division after finishing in second place. Formation of a "B" team with a full schedule provides play for many players here who don't make the "A" team. Hence, a good turnout is hoped for at this meeting, including newcomers to the city interested in cricket.

While the game does not draw nearly as well in Canada as in the Old Country, cricekt is quite an international sport and has many followers. Peterborough in recent years has been fortunate in getting some starry cricketers from England, chaps moved here on jobs, and the club has done well. Plans for this season are in the hands of President G. Monkman; vice-president J. Wild; Capt. F. Booth; vice-captain S. Jennings; treasurer A. Hamilton, and secretary W. Wright. The clubs have a lengthy schedule, exhibition matches and there are County playoff games. The season will open early against Lakefield Grove and TCS of Port Hope.

Just Like Barbara Ann

Perhaps figure skating is not actually a matter for the sports department—being a bit too graceful for that—but we do mention that the local figure skating club had a good season. Some 75 figure and dancing tests passed on ice at Civic Arena and the Curling Club. Prexy Ralph Standish, Ernie Ferguson Sr., chairman of the skating committee, and the executive and judges, as well as the many candidates, deserve credit for their showing the past semester. And they had a capable pro in Betty Lee Dent of Washington, D.C., who leaves now for a summer school in Copper Cliff. Arlene Ferguson was club champion this year.

An item in the Quinte sheet the other day said: "The COBL is seriously considering, we are informed, cutting loose from the Ontario Baseball Association, and operating along what is known in baseball circles as an 'outlaw' league. Officials felt that the long-drawn-out playdowns which stretch almost into November are too much, constituting as they do long jaunts acorss the province to settle titular series.". It is a problem, all right, but we'd hesitate quite a spell before deciding to run an outlaw loop, as the OBA has ways of getting back at one, having an understanding with such bodies as the OHA, the OASA, football, and others, whereby players might be suspended from some other sport for playing in an outlaw setup.

Knife And Fork League

Coach Lou Vitarelli and the junior lacrosse champs were guests of the Filter-Queen sponsors at dinner last evening and had an enjoyable time. Business details and plans were discussed later, and indications are that the squad will be considerably stronger than last season. As the OLA senior Petes should be much better, too, it just could happen that two lacrosse titles might come this way by autumn. Apart from what PMLA winners do in provincial playdowns. But time will tell. Annual meeting of the OLA will be a week from this coming Saturday in Toronto's Royal York, starting at 1.30 p.m., and Peterborough will be represented.

Play commenced at 9 a.m. with 24 rinks entered and finished up about 10 p.m. with H. Macfarlane's rink of Mrs. A. Elmhirst and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gall as winners of first prize and the Knox trophy. In second place was Chas. Nelson's rink, followed by Chas. Mather's rink.

Rationing Blades

EAST LONDON, South Africa, April 3 (Reuters)—Razor blades are being rationed here and many men are having difficulty in obtaining supplies. The scarcity of blades is an indirect result of the world-wide steel shortage. Some wholesalers have had their quota cut by as much as 75 per cent.

PCVS Midgets Get Lead In First Fray

Jack Cullis' PCVS midget basketball quintet grabbed a 13-point lead in the first of the two-game series for the local district of the OABA from St. Peter's High School Monday night at PCVS. The Purple and Gold will have to return tonight at PCVS in the second game stronger than Monday night if they wish to offset the deficit and take the series.

Coach Fred Allore's cagers outplayed and outscored the Garnet and Grey in the first quarter and seemed to be capable of a small-margin win. Simmons and Galvin drifted in a total of 10 points to combine with two foul shots by Quinlan and Board for 12 points for SPS. PCVS' Griffin and Bob Boorman tallied nine points for PCVS.

Got Stronger

St. Peter's began to fade while PCVS became stronger and the lead the Garnet and Grey took in the next two quarters gave them the healthy margin. Griffin continued to pace PCVS in the second as he added six points with points by Doug Ash and Brian Turner to give PCVS a 19-15 score at halftime. Galvin and Quinlan made the three for SPS. PCVS' scoring became more evenly divided in the third as they outscored SPS this time 11-3 with John Boorman, Bob Boorman, Carleton, Turner and Griffin scoring. Galvin and Quinlan again added the three points for SPS.

The fourth quarter was either team's but St. Peter's were edged 12-11. Galvin kept racking up the points with six in the quarter backed by points by O'Rourke, Quinlan and Finn. Again PCVS' scoring was distributed evenly with points to Turner, Griffin, Carleton, Fred Ash and John Boorman.

Dan Griffin easily led the PCVS team for scoring honors with 15 points but was followed closely by St. Peter's Doug Galvin with 13. SPS' Simmons and PCVS' Bob Boorman each had eight points.

Lineups:

SPS—(29)—Board 1, Galvin 13, Feeley, O'Rourke 2, Creally, Simmons 6, Ryan, Quinlan 6, O'Brien Finn 1.

PCVS—(42)—D. Ash 2, F. Ash 2, J. Boorman 4, B. Boorman 8, Roberts, Heffernan, Fowler, Carleton 4, Turner 7, Griffin 15.

Handle Proceeds In Routine Way

BOSTON, April 3 (AP).—Proceeds of Saturday's 1-1 Stanley Cup series tie between Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins will be handled in routine fashion National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell said Monday night.

"Except for the score," explained the league head, "the game is just the second game of the series. The major portion of the money will go to the players."

He added that should an eighth game be necessary to complete the best-of-seven semi-finals between Leafs and Bruins, proceeds would be divided between the two clubs "after the player pension fund receives the proper share."

Players receive the majority of proceeds of the first four games in the cup playoffs, both semi-finals and finals. Clubs do not share in the proceeds until after the first four games.

Shaw Re-elected Softball Head

COBOURG, April 3.—For the third year in succession Thomas (Shammy) Shaw will head the Lakeshore Ladies' Softball League. He was re-elected to that post at Monday's annual meeting here.

The other officers, newly named this year, are: Vice-President, Jim O'Brien, Belleville; Secretary, Shirley Johnston, Grafton; Treasurer, Florian Lawless, Grafton.

Four teams are sure starters, Baltimore, Grafton, Belleville and Cobourg, with Colborne, Brighton and Trenton, possibilities.

Cobourg won the intermediate "B" division last year and were defeated by Agincourt in the second round of the PWSU playoffs. Oshawa, winners of the A division, were defeated by Sunnyside champions.

This season it is expected the loop will be divided into two brackets, the Motor City and Bowmanville forming the nucleus of the western half.

Tri-Bells Victorious

TORONTO, April 3 — (CP).—Toronto Tri-Bells Monday night scored a 51-38 victory over Ottawa Mormon Elders in the first game of a best-of-three series for the Eastern Canada senior basketball championship.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England—(CP)—Enlarged and redecorated at a cost of £75,000 ($225,000), the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre in its picturesque Avonside setting has been prepared for a record influx of visitors during the 1951 Festival Of Britain.

As a special contribution to the festival, the theatre will present a complete cycle of Shakespeare's historical plays from "Richard II" to "Henry V." Based on advance bookings, officials estimate more than 350,000 people from all over the world will be accommodated during the season which opened March 24 and ends late in October.

A company of 45, one of the strongest ever assembled at Stratford, will include such noted actors as Michael Redgrave, Richard Burton, who has been playing in the Broadway play, "The Lady's Not for Burning," Rosalind Atkinson, Hazel Penwarden, Heather Stannard, Sir Laurence Olivier's leading lady in "Venus Observed," and Anthony Quayle, director of the company.

New Roles

In the repertory of historical plays, Michael Redgrave will appear as Richard II, as Hotspur in "Henry IV." and Prospero in "The Tempest." All are new roles for him.

Prince Hal in both parts of "Henry IV" and the king in "Henry V" will be played by Richard Burton. Anthony Quayle will be Stratford's first Falstaff in 1" years.

Rosalind Atkinson is cast as the Duchess of Gloucester in "Richard II" and Mistress Quickly in both parts of "Henry IV" and also in "Henry V." Heather Stannard will play the queen in "Richard II" and Hazel Penwarden the French Princess in "Henry V."

Barrie's Overtime Goals Defeat Marlboros 5-3

BARRIE, April 3 — (CP). — Barrie Flyers scored two quick goals in overtime Monday night to beat Toronto Marlboros 5-3 in the first game of their best-of-seven series for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A title.

Penalties played an important part in the fast, hard-checking game before 4,000. Second game is in Toronto Wednesday night.

Referees Frank Udvari and Jack Melanbacher divided 14 penalties evenly between the teams, and six of the eight goals were scored with a man in the penalty box.

The goals that sewed up the torrid contest were scored by Real Chevrefils and linemate Jack White, both while Ron Hurst of Marlboros was serving a penalty for pulling down Leo Labine when he had a clear path to the Toronto goal.

The series between the two top teams in the OHA during the regular season coincidentally matches the Stanley Cup playoff series of their parent clubs. Barrie, who finished in first place, is the farm team of Boston Bruins, and Marlboros are in the Toronto Maple Leafs farm system.

Marlies Outplayed

Marlboros were outplayed most of the game by Flyers who outshot them 38-20. However, a stout Toronto defence and some good goaltending by Don Lockhart, kept the losers in the fight.

They had to come from behind twice to stay even with the Flyers, once in the first period after Doug Towers and Labine had given Barrie a 2-0 lead, and again in the third when Barrie led 3-2.

Labine's first goal was scored while Toronto's John Lumley was serving a penalty for slashing. Then, toward the end of the first period Danny Poland got Marlboro's first goal with Jim Morrison sitting out an elbowing penalty. Chevrefils joined him in the penalty box for kneeing and Hurst used the two-man advantage to make it 2-2, beating goalie Glen Howes on a pass from Bill McFarland.

Towers got the only goal of the second period, banging the puck home on a passing play with Dan O'Connor and Lionel Barber to make it 3-2.

O'Connor was off for boarding with less than five minutes to go when Lumley scored for Toronto and sent the game into overtime.

ALL FOR NAUGHT — Max Bentley and Danny Lewicki of Toronto Maple Leafs dive for the puck, only to be thwarted by Bill Quackenbush and goalie Jack Gelineau of Boston Bruins as the two teams played to a 1-1 tie in the second game of the N.H.L. playoff series in Toronto Saturday night. Toronto's Sunday curfew ended the game after one period of overtime and N.H.L. officials ruled no contest as a result. Boston won the first game 2-0 in Toronto last Wednesday and Toronto evened the series with a decisive 3-0 win in Boston Sunday night.

Detroit Fails To Impress As Pennant Hope

By JACK HAND.

LAKELAND, Fla., April 3 — (AP)—Detroit has not impressed the experts as a pennant contender this spring.

Bouncing around near the cellar in the Grapefruit League, the Tigers show no signs of improvement over 1950. Basically, it's the same club that didn't have enough last September.

"We've got the same club," said manager Red Rolfe who speaks openly. "The same limitations of last year. Maybe we're better one place. Steve Souchock looks like he'll give us that threat of a long ball as a righthanded pinch-hitter."

Caution is advised in writing off the Detroit club. After all, the Tigers led all last summer and finished only three games back. Having the "same club" can't be too bad in this case.

Loss of Art Houtteman (19-12) to the army carved a gap in Rolfe's slender front line strength. But a sound Virgil Trucks (3-1) could take up the slack.

Ral Newhouser (15-13), Ted Gray (10-7), Dizzy Trout (13-5) and Freddie Hutchinson (17-8) make up the front line staff.

Prime Headache

Catching is a prime headache for Rolfe. Joe Ginsberg, who split last year between Detroit and Toledo, is No. 1 man. Frank House, the $75,000 bonus kid, has been optioned to Toledo.

George Kell (.340) is the big man of the ball club. The talented third baseman tops the payroll this year. Kell is the best third baseman in the league and one of its best hitters.

Don Kolloway (.289) is back on first base. Gerry Priddy (.277) and Johnny Lipon (.293) at second and short round out the infield.

The "best outfield in baseball" is intact with Hoot Evers (.323), in left, Johnny Groth (.306) in centre and Vic Wertz (.308), the power man, in right. Behind them the Tigers have Charley Keller (.314), Pat Mullin (.218), and Souchock, drafted from Sacramento where he hit .291.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Hockey is due for a decline as Canada's national game unless present roughness is eliminated, Lionel Conacher said Monday after being presented with a plaque by the city of Toronto.

The plaque was presented in connection with Conacher's being chosen in a CP poll as the country's outstanding athlete and football player of the half century.

"If that's hockey—I wasn't playing hockey for 20 years," Mr. Conacher, one of the most-battered players in the game, said of the Toronto-Boston game here on Saturday. Mr. Conacher now is Liberal member of parliament for Toronto-Trinity.

He objected particularly to charging from behind which he said was being tolerated. "Eliminate that and you'll eliminate 90 per cent of the injuries."

Fernando Gagnon was ordered by the Canadian Boxing Federation to defend his Canadian bantamweight title before June 1.

Gene Letourneau, chairman of the CBF ratings committee, listed five contenders for the Quebecer's crown: Stan Almond, Vancouver, now fighting in Britain; Clement Bolduc, Sherbrooke, Que.; Manny Spivak, Montreal; Claude Meunier, Three Rivers, Que.; and Tommy Corrick, Toronto.

Gagnon last defended his title Aug. 22, 1949, against Jackie Turner of Vancouver.

At Montreal Leo Nadeau Monday was fined $40 and costs for scalping $1.75 tickets to the Montreal Canadiens-Detroit Red Wings playoff game last Saturday for $10. Seven others were fined $30 and costs on similar charges.

Winnipeg Stellars overwhelmed Calgary Freightways 65-32 Monday night in the first game of the best-of-five Western Canada Junior Men's basketball final.

The second game will be played here tonight. Other games are on successive nights—all at Winnipeg. The series winner will represent the west in the Dominion final at Saint John, N. B.

The 15-man travelling squad of the English cricket team arrived Monday by air from Auckland, N. Z., at San Francisco. The players left by plane for New York.

London promoter Jack Solomons Monday rescheduled his Cesar Brion-Jack Gardner heavyweight fight for May 22 at London's Harripgay Arena.

The 10-round bout originally was set for April 24 but was postponed because Gardner's left thumb is injured.

Cambridge's crew arrived by plane Monday at New York for precedent - shattering rowing races against Yale and Harvard. The crew earned the trip by trouncing Oxford in their traditional race last week.

Invited here by the English-speaking Union and various American rowing associations, the Light Blues will race Yale on the Housatonic River at Derby, Conn., April 14, and against Harvard, Boston University, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology on the Charles at Boston, April 19.

Mrs. Andy Schuttinger's Ferd won the $29,700 Paumonok Handicap Monday as Jamaica opened the New York racing season before 37,607 fans at Jamaica race track. Casemate was second, and Delegate, third.

May Take Title From Williams

CHICAGO, April 3 (AP). — The National Boxing Association began action today which may strip the world's lightweight boxing championship from Ike Williams for his failure to defend it.

Williams has not risked his 135-pound crown since Dec. 5, 1949, when he outpointed Freddie Dawson of Chicago in 15 rounds at Philadelphia.

Williams failed to abide by an NBA edict to sign for defence of his title by March 31. Dawson's manager, Harry Rudolph, asked that action be taken on the issue.

Executive committeemen of the NBA are being polled today for decision on declaring Williams' title vacant at the direction of Arch Hindman, NBA president. It will take several days to complete the poll.

Meanwhile, Williams got in hot water with the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission. John Dagrosa, member of the board, announced that Williams has been suspended because he failed to meet Tommy Campbell in a feature bout at the Philadelphia Arena Monday night.

Williams is due in Chicago Thursday to begin training for his April 11 non-title bout in Chicago Stadium with Fitzie Pruden of Toronto.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins set a National Hockey League record, up to that time, for overtime play 18 years ago tonight at Toronto. Ken Doraty scored the only goal to give Toronto the league title after 104 minutes and 46 seconds of overtime. The present record is 116½ minutes of overtime, set when Detroit beat Montreal 1-0 on March 24, 1936.

Arctic Gold, Shagreen Grand National Co-Favorites

LONDON, April 3 — (CP). — J. V. Rank's Irish challenger Shagreen and New York millionaire Jock Whitney's Arctic Gold are the co-favorites at 8-to-1 in the latest callover for the Grand National Steeplechase Saturday.

A late rush of money boosted Shagreen's stock in the callover last night. Not since 1929 has an American-owned horse gone into the race as the public's choice.

Some 40 to 45 other horses will be in the field for the hazardous Aintree course of 4 miles 856 yards over 30 of the most treacherous jumps ever built.

Former winners

They will include two former winners — Freebooter, in 1950, and Russian Hero, in 1949. Only four other posible runners—Rowland Roy, Lucky Purchase, Roimond and Revealed—have completed the course.

Twenty-two years ago it was another Whitney horse— Easter Hero — which the public liked for this crown jewel of the world's jumping races. Easter Hero finished second to Gregalach, a 100-to-1 shot.

Arctic Gold is young as jumping horses go—no six-year-old has won the National since 1915—and he has never tackled the Aintree course. But he's beaten everything he has been asked to beat, including Freebooter.

Another good argument for Arctic Gold is his jockey, Tim Molony, who is the leading steeplechase jockey in Britain this season.

The Grand National will have a first-place purse of about £9,000 (about $27,000). Since 1931 it has formed the basis for the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes.

Amusing Incidents Recalled At Rotary's 30th Birthday

The Little Prairie Flower song of the forgotten repertory of Rotary wasn't worth a nickel to the treasury at the Club's 30th birthday party at the Empress Monday.

Two demonstrations by the elders at the head table, past presidents, with the pivot dance on the last line, and the entire membership, including recent initiates, was ready in words, music and pirouette.

Sergeant-at-Arms Ross Dobbin drew a financial blank on that once remunerative stunt, but collected $1.75 from the late-comers. Fines of a dime each were imposed on those who had come without their badges.

Mr. Dobbin was then taken for his loose change when Syd Black, incoming president, challenged him at 25c each to identify the new members by their full names.

Those were incidental flash-backs to the time when the club fines were a medium of fun when Rotary was in his salad days.

Otherwise the program of the anniversary was mainly reminiscent of personalities and projects. Retiring president Hugh Waddell cut the festive cake with its 30 candles, counting the years that are gone. The sustantial remnant goes to the Children's Aid Shelter, on the suggestion of A. L. Killaly.

Chris Graham was luncheon president and V. J. McElderry, KC, (those titular letters might have left him liable for a fine in the old days) was the speaker. Prominently displayed behind the head table were photographs of Paul Harris, founder of Rotary, and Fred L. Roy, first president of the local club.

At Head Table

Past presidents on either side of Mr. Graham were: G. A. Gillespie, James Juby, R. F. Downey, Gordon S. Matthews, J. W. McDermid, Mr. McElderry, Mr. Waddell, Mr. Killaly, T. J. Carley, KC, Jack L. Gillespie, F. C. Paterson, Wm. J. Thompson, R. L. Dobbin and David Rogers, son and representative of Claude L. Rogers, a charter member, whose telegram from Phoenix, Arizona, was read by Mr. McElderry.

Peterborough's 25 original Rotarians were reduced to Mr. Graham, Mr. Matthews, Mr. McDermid, Mr. McElderry. Two were absent, Robert Abbott in New York, and Mr. Rogers.

Visitors introduced by Ernie Young were: Magistrate W. R. Philp, Ford Warren of the Bank of Montreal, H. F. Blake of CNR, and Ken Dalrymple of Sun Life Insurance.

Introduced by Mr. McDermid, Mr. McElderry paid a warm tribute to the Rotary Annes "for their prodigious work" during the years of their distaff assistance.

Recalling the energetic leadership of Claude Rogers in organizing the Rotary Boys' Camp at Clear Lake, years ago, Mr. McElderry said that when everything was set up and 40 boys were on their way in for the first holiday occupancy, it was found that dishes and some other furnishings had been overlooked.

Rotary Annes performed a miracle in producing dishes, bed clothing and some chintz curtains.

"We wish them to know that at this meeting their efforts are not forgotten, and we send them our very good wishes," Mr. McElderry said. "I am mentioning the wives of the charter members who are here today: Mrs. Agnes Matthews, Mrs. McDermid, Mrs. Bertha Graham, but we are grateful to all of them."

In a series of humorous incidents out of the past, Mr. McElderry recalled the ladies' night dinner at which Dr. Campbell, a veterinary surgeon, headed a delegation from Toronto.

Skunk Appeared

In the course of the speech, a skunk suddenly appeared at one end of the head table and ambled along toward the other end. Rotary Annes and other members, too, fled in alarm as they recognized the little animal. "It had been defrosted," Mr. McElderry said, "and was harmless."

Then there was the luncheon at which Rotarian Rev. Dr. Harold Young, "eloquent minister at George St. United Church" was the speaker. It was in the period when the only persons making money were bootleggers.

Dr. Young was suddenly interrupted by a man wearing the cap of an Express Company officer, and called out, "Dr. Young that package of books of yours is leaking."

"I always suspected that Chris Graham had something to do with that incident," Mr. McElderry said.

There was also the ladies' night in a period when some of the members were interested in hunting. For that meeting a target had been set up at the end of the dining room with 14 pieces of chinaware hung on it: cups, saucers, plates, and it was announced that a shooting competition had been arranged for the ladies. They were told that everything had been padded behind the target, and there was no question of damage or harm.

The guests were shown how to aim, and each was given a particular object to fire at. One by one the crockery broke.

Two plates were left, at opposite corners of the target. And when the last shot was fired by one of the ladies, nothing happened. There was silence for about six seconds, and then the opposite plate broke into a hundred pieces.

At that stage Rev. Harold Young emerged from behind the target. The cartridges were blanks.

Mr. McElderry recalled even more amusing stunts. In conclusion, he said, had not been able to give much to Rotary, but he got back 1,000 fold.

"I hope that on the 60th birthday of Peterborough Rotary there will be a gathering like this to celebrate it, but I leave the request that the chairman will have some other speaker, because I have intimations that I shall be otherwise engaged."

The club's thanks to Mr. McElderry were expressed by Mr. Carley.

Mr. Graham spoke of the community works Rotary Club had carried on here, with special emphasis on the value of what was done for Crippled Children.

Gordon Matthews recalled the first softbal lteam, and the games that used to be played with Belmont Club at the Armouries. Mr. Graham was catcher, Mr. Matthews pitcher, Bob Abbott was at first base. Dr. A. W. McPherson at second, and Ross Dobbin the field.

Mr. Matthews said the battery had the all-time record of 20 strikeouts, and Ross Dobbin claimed a perfect average of 1,000 put-outs.

The telegram from Claude Rogers conveyed congratulations and best wishes to the members, and hoped that they "will derive as much joy and satisfaction as I did in its first 17 years. Wherever there is Rotary, the community benefits; so keep up the good work."

UNDER AGE — Pte. T. E. Downie, of Winnipeg, arrived at Vancouver during the weekend from Korea. Downie explained he was "sort of deported" by Canadian Army officials when they discovered he was only 18 and under the age for combat soldiers. He hopes to return to the Special Force when he reaches 19 this summer.

LEARNS SOMETHING NEW

"Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue"

"Whoever wrote this rhyme must have realized how important blue is to happy home-making. For instance, to get the whitest wash—the kind that makes a bride proud—I've found one must use Reckitt's Blue. Just a swish or two in the rinse prevents any yellow tinge in my beautiful trousseau, and Reckitt's Blue costs less than two cents a washing."

Star At 8 Months Leroy Not Interested

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, April 3 (AP)—A star at eight months and a has-been at four years. That is the story of the brief but sensational movie career of Baby Leroy.

His full name is Ronald Leroy Overacker. Now 18, he is a strapping six-footer who could hold his own in any kind of altercation.

"When I was in grammar school, I got into many a fight over being called 'Baby,'" he laughed. "It's not so bad any more. Not so many people know about it."

I asked him if he had any desire to resume acting, when he finishes his schooling.

Not Acting

"I never thought about it," he admitted. "It just does not appeal to me."

Leroy remembers nothing of his film career, so his mother, Mrs. David Epstein, had to fill me in.

"Leroy got into pictures quite by chance," reported his mother. "I happened to be at a luncheon where a teacher from Paramount Studios was speaking. She said the studio was looking for a baby to be starred with Maurice Chevalier in 'Bedtime Story.' He was eight months old then.

"He got the role and then did several other pictures, including about four with W. C. Fields."

The feud between Baby Leroy and Fields, who allegedly hated children, is legendary. I asked Mrs. Epstein if working with the comic was hazardous for a child.

"Not at all," she replied. "That was just publicity. Actually, Mr. Fields was very considerate. He did many kind things and always sent us a telegram at Christmas time."

Query Evidence Of Boy 6 In Court

TORONTO, April 3 — (CP) — Does a six-year-old boy know the difference between right and wrong? Is he capable of giving proper evidence in court?

The question was argued Monday in the Ontario Court of Appeal. Decision was reserved.

Messrs. Justices Wilfred D. Roach, F. D. Hogg and C. W. Reid Bowlby heard an appeal by Victor Lebrun, 35, for his conviction and five-year sentence for indecent assault on the youngster.

Mr. Justice Roach questioned whether the boy understood the nature of an oath in court. C. P. Hope, Crown counsel, submitted that the lad did know what it meant and that his evidence in court indicated he was telling the truth.

At the trial before Magistrate H. R. Polson in Galt Nov. 20, the boy said he had been lured into Lebrun's home and attacked. He later told his 17-year-old brother and his mother of the incident. He also gave a policeman a detailed description of the inside of the Lebrun house.

Union Committees Discuss Marketing

CHATHAM, April 3—(CP)—A committee of the Kent Vegetable Growers' Association met Monday night with the executive of United Automobile Workers' Local 127 (CIO) to discuss marketing problems, James McGuigan, who heads the Kent Growers, said.

The vegetable growers, who have refused to sign contracts with district canneries for the coming season, are seeking the reaction of a consumer group, Mr. McGuigan said.

Mr. McGuigan said that no meeting between canners and growers had been held since the arbitration at Hamilton and that the settlement should be at provincial level.

Extra Drivers' Tests

WINNIPEG, April 3 (CP). — Applicants for automobile drivers' licences in Winnipeg now must take a psycho-physical test as well as written examinations and a road test. R. B. Baille, provincial safety director, described the system as the most advanced in North America. Of the first 1,314 applicants tested 34.1 per cent failed.

Opera On TV

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP). — The Metropolitan Opera Association said Monday it plans a television department next season to put on a series of operas from TV studios. General manager Rudolf Bing said the series, which will be sold to advertisers, will be sung in English and will not duplicate the regular repertory of the opera season.

Reject Motion

MONTREAL, April 3 (CP). — City council Monday rejected a motion aimed at prohibiting the erection of a television tower at Mount Royal. In 1946, city council passed a resolution approving the project. The resolution was approved by the Quebec Legislature with the stipulation that there was to be no monopoly.

LEADING INDUSTRY

More than 120,000 men and women are regularly employed in Sweden's forestry industry, mainly in sawmills and pulp factories.

Chicks for Italy

TORONTO, April 3 (CP) — Eight hundred baby chicks will leave here by air today for Rome to be turned over to the ministry of agriculture for improvement of Italian poultry stock. The chicks, being shipped by Fred W Bray Ltd. of Hamilton, include a strain of white leghorns which originally came from Italy.

Bureau Faces Challenge In June Census-Taking

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, April 3 —(CP) — Herbert Marshall, driving force behind the 1951 census, says it presents for the Bureau of Statistics probably the "greatest challenge it has ever faced."

In a sense, adds the ruddy-faced dominion statistician, the Bureau is pioneering, hacking out a new path in census-taking, building a model road on which other nations may travel.

"The Bureau is instituting radical changes in procedure in this census to achieve speedier compilations and economy of procedure," says Toronto-born Mr. Marshall, who at 63 has seen action on both sides of the international scene—the battlefields and the conference tables.

New strides taken by the Bureau include the use of "mark-sense" documents, greatly improved automatic census machines, decentralization of operations and more intensive training of field staff.

Cut Time in Half

"It is pioneering in several of these procedures," says Mr. Marshall. "A census carried out successfully along these new lines will be more complete, accurate, economical and much faster than previous censuses. Usually three or four years were required before the job was completed. Our objective is to cut the time in half."

And the Bureau might well do it. For two years it has been driving towards the goal, planning and re-planning, studying the oncoming campaign from every angle. A central committee of senior officers was set up. At its helm was Mr. Marshall.

Critical Period

They combined their efforts to plan what Mr. Marshall believes is the most important census in Canada's history. For one thing, it comes at a time when international skies are dark and Canada must have a clear idea what its total manpower resources are in case of war. Then, too, it comes at the half-way mark of the century and will provide an accurate measure of the 50-year growth of the nation.

Success, therefore, is essential; and to ensure success the full cooperation of the public is needed.

"Everyone should assist the enumerator when he calls in June by answering the questions fully and accurately. They will thus fill the role of good Canadians in this huge national stock-taking."

Presents Challenge

A challenge to the Bureau, the census presents a personal challenge, too, to Mr. Marshall; for, as he says, a census "is the biggest statistical task" a dominion statistician has to undertake. And this is the first he's undertaken.

Tackling big problems, however, are the things Mr. Marshall has been doing all his life. As a 29-year-old second lieutenant, he went overseas with the second battalion, Royal Irish Rifles in the First World War, was wounded at Messines in 1917 and later mentioned in dispatches.

He came back to lecture at the University of Toronto, entering the Bureau in 1922, stepping up to the top job six years ago. In that time he's gained international prominence, with fellowships and offices in a dozen national and international scientific organizations and representation for Canada in various international statistical organizations.

Yet while making all these great strides in a specialized and complicated professional field, Mr. Marshall still has been and continues to be very much a man of nature. He likes the outdoors.

In the summer, you can see him sometimes indulging in his favorite summer sport—bird-watching. And in the winter his slight-built figure takes to the ski-trails. He's as familiar a figure on the trails around this capital as any man in these parts.

STATISTICIANS—Organizers of Canada's 1951 census, to be made in June, make a last check of plans for the campaign. Left to right, they are: J. T. Marshall, assistant Dominion statistician; Dominion Statistician Herbert Marshall (no relation); and Dr. O. A. Lemieux, director of the census division of the Bureau of Statistics.

Wallis Art Arrives In 5 Boxes

Famous Sculptress Catalogues Shipment As Aid To Citizens

Correspondence by the council during the winter has resulted in the arrival Monday of five boxes of the sculptured art of Miss Katherine E. Wallis, of Seabright, Cal.

The childhood of Miss Wallis was spent in Peterborough at the rural home of her father, Captain Wallis, a retired captain of the sea. His house "Merino" west of Jackson Park, and on the south side of that Peterborough-Smith boundary road, with acres of its old estate, was bought several years ago by Mr. George Roper. Ald. T. D. Miller built a row of modern houses on a block of the property last year.

In a letter to the council, Miss Wallis listed a catalogue of her works "thinking the people of Peterborough would be interested in knowing which of them were exhibited in the Paris Salon, and which were made in Santa Cruz."

Now Property of City

"I should be most interested in hearing how and where they are placed, and I hope that when your civic building is completed they will all be in the same place as is fitting, as it is understood they are now the property of the city of Peterborough.

"I should like to recommend that the smaller pieces should be attached to the stands on which they are placed, and also that the atmosphere in which the wood carvings are shown should not be too dry. They have all been executed in damp climates."

The catalogue list follows: Box 1—Relief plaster: Christ Among the Children, Paris Salon.

Box II—Bosnian Women Hoeing; relief wood; The Three Fates: relief wood; Here She Comes: relief wood; The Triple Tasks: relief bronze on wood. (Paris). The Toilette: bronze statuette (Paris S.); Soup Time, bronze statuette (Paris Salon).

Box III—Mask of Christ, terra-cotta on wood, (Paris Salon); Evolution of an Angel, in pear wood (my own tree); Little Sisters of the Orient, mahogany, (Paris); Conjugal Confidences, walnut; "Sprite" and "Pussy" separate pieces, in terra cotta on wood; Peter and Barbra, relief, pear wood (Paris); Two decorative heads, walnut (Paris).

In box IV there is a self-portrait in ceramic; and in box V, a bust, in ceramic on wood.

Cost of packing entailed an expense of $20, and as the council had requested Miss Wallis to inform them of any cost to herself, Aldermen Waddel and Graham moved that a cheque be sent to Miss Wallis.

No UK Mayor's Visit?

If the Mayor of Peterborough, England, cannot attend the opening of the new city hall here some time next fall, Ald. A. B. Burows suggested to the council that he might be requested to record an address to be broadcast during the ceremonies of the official opening.

Mayor Swanston thanked Ald. Burrows for his proposal.

Ald. Burows said there might be financial stringency, there as here, preventing the personal attendance of the mayor of the English city.

Kiwanis Plan Water Sports Dominion Day

Former Mayor W. G. Ovens and John W. Madden reported to the council Monday night Kiwanis Club plans for a Dominion Day program of water sports at Little Lake on a scale three or four times bigger than the successful event of July 1 last year. J. F. Richardson, with them on a special committee, was unable to accompany them to the meeting of the council.

Mr. Ovens was general chairman of the civic centennial year committee which assisted in scheduling a series of events throughout 1950. That committee has been requested by the council to continue their steering and aiding role this season.

Afternoon and evening programs were being considered, Mr. Madden said, including water skiing, water ski jumping, aquaplaning, fancy diving, decorated parade on the lake, and so on. Mr. Madden recalled that the Dominion Day crowd was one of the largest in the city's history, variously estimated at up to 15,000 people.

The request of the Kiwanis committee is for a grant from the council or a guarantee of $250 to help defray expenses, if financial help is needed, and especially if it is decided that means of charging spectators are not feasible.

This application was referred to the finance committee.

STILL CRITICALLY HURT

Phillip Metcalfe, 65, of Asphodel, is still lying critically injured in Civic Hospital today. However hospital authorities say he is holding his own. Victim of a hit-and-run motorist Saturday night, he was knocked unconscious by the roadside and ustained two broken legs, ruptured spleen, a skull injury and other internal injuries. The accident was on Highway 45, two miles south of Norwood.

Greet Chance To Face UE Charges

'Nothing To Hide,' IUE Five Say; All Were UE Officials

The five former members of the United Electrical Workers, named in a writ of summons to explain their actions while officers of Local 524, UE, say they would welcome a chance to "face these charges in the open."

On Monday the UE announced that a writ of summons to appear in the Ontario Supreme Court had been issued against George O'Brien, Keith Chiles, John G. Morton, Cyril O'Donnell, and Joseph Murphy.

The UE's claim is to have an account taken of all the dealings of the defendants with the assets of Local 524 from November 1, 1948, to August 2, 1950.

There is also a claim for damages "for breach of trust" while the five men were officers in the local.

Welcome Action

"We welcome the action taken by two individuals (C. H. Harvey and Alex Sepälla), presumably on behalf of UE," said the five in a joint statement today to the Examiner.

"Over a period of many months there have been numerous insinuations cast upon us, and other former members of UE. These insinuations have always been carefully worded to protect the UE against libel action. They have usually appeared in leaflets, rather than in open public declarations.

"As former officers or members of Local 524, UE, we have nothing to hide. Those of us who were responsible for the handling of funds were fully bonded. Since the funds entrusted to us have been turned over to those who now represent UE there has not been the slightest suggestion from the bonding company that anything is amiss.

Are Confident

"We therefore are very glad of the opportunity we will probably have to face these charges in the open. We are confident that exposed to the light of truth the insinuations and smears will melt away faster than last winter's snow."

The UE and the IUE-CIO are now engaged in a battle for the loyalty of the 3,500 production workers at the Peterborough CGE plant. At present Local 524, UE, is the legal bargaining agent, but the IUE has applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for a hearing. The IUE claims a majority of the workers.

Industrial Employment Increases In Ontario; General Payrolls Lower

Seasonal Occupations Causing Unemployment In Kawartha Area; Decline In Payrolls Also Noted

Seasonal occupation in the first months of this year caused employment in the Kawartha district to drop slightly from the December level. The Ontario Bureau of Statistics and Research reports that in Janauary employment locally dropped by 2.6 per cent. This change resulted in a decrease in payrolls of 2.1 per cent. The decline in the Kawartha area which includes Peterborough, Oshawa, Lindsay, Cobourg, Whitby, Bowmanville, Port Hope and Campbellford was similar to all others in Ontario except the Border zone. The most noticeable in Ontario was the Lake Erie zone with a 16 per cent. drop; Highlands, seven per cent., and the Niagara, four per cent.

While employment decreased all zones in the province except the Ottawa Valley reported employment in industries was greater than last year.

With the decrease in general employment there was a substantial decline in payrolls. However, in the Kawartha zone the average weekly wage and salary rose from $53.31 to $53.44, an increase of .23 per cent. Only two other zones, Sault Ste. Marie and the Nickel Range, had a rise in the average weekly wage. Both were greater than the Kawartha increase.

Defence contracts over $5,000 each awarded between November and February 28 to the Kawartha area firms amounted to $794,000. Six other zones, Metropolitan (Toronto), Burlington, Niagara, Upper Grand Valley, Border, and Ottawa Valley, all received contracts totalling more than those awarded to the Kawarthas. They varied from $15,367,000 to $999,000. The total defence contracts for the four month period in Ontario amounted to $28,269,000.

344 Unfilled Jobs

The Kawartha area reported on March 1 that there were 344 unfilled jobs while the unplaced applicants amounted to 3,732.

During January the bureau reports that $27,000,000 in cheques passed through clearing houses in the Kawartha area. This was $4,000,000 more than the average monthly amount in 1949 and $17,000,000 more than the average for 1941, but was a decline from December's figure of $28,000,000.

New residential construction showed a decline in 1950 of both completed and under construction units. The largest decrease was in the number of completed residential units, from 835 in 1947 to 670 in 1950, or a decline of 20 per cent. The drop in the under construction was from 560 units to 541.

No Legal Owner City Unable To Prosecute

"Everybody is stymied" was the phrase City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, KC, applied Monday night to recent efforts of the council to remove the old John McGlynn house on Rutherford Ave.

Clarence Stevenson, builder and contractor, said he had a new house on an adjoining lot which he could sell providing the McGlynn house was torn down and the lot cleared.

Mayor Swanston asked Mr. Huycke to review for the information of Mr. Stevenson the course the council has adopted.

"I saw the Attorney-General's office last December," Mr. Huycke said. "They told me the Fire Marshal's Act did not cover this situation. John McGlynn died intestate. One son who lives in town has paid the taxes on the property up to 1949, so the place cannot be sold for taxes. There are two other sons, but they are away from here.

"I got in touch with the Public Trustee. The property has some value as land, and I am hoping he will apply for administration of the estate, and take steps to sell the land. Any way, everybody is stymied. There is nobody to prosecute, there is no legal owner as things stand. You can't prosecute a mythical owner.

"If some people think the place is a nuisance, it is a private and not a public nuisance. The council has no power to send any one over there to tear the house down. The Public Trustee will probably sell the land, and also the building for junk."

Garner Resigns Commission Post

City council accepted last night the resignation of Harold L. Garner as chairman and member of the city's industrial commission. His election to the presidency of the Air Cadet League of Canada was requiring so much of his time that he could not carry on the industrial service again this year, Mr. Garner wrote.

Mayor Swanston said he had written Mr. Garner congratulating him on his new position in the important work of the Air Cadet League.

New OPP Inspector

Only Provincial To Hold King's Medal

The new head of OPP district "8" is Inspector James Allan Stringer, a dark, deep-chested man who is a veteran of 24 years with the Provincials. He succeeds Staff Inspector E. V. McNeill who has been temporarily in charge since Inspector C. W. Farrow left headquarters in Peterborough to become chief constable of Windsor.

Inspector Stringer arrived in the city Monday. He comes from the Sudbury district where he has been succeeded by Inspector Price Morris, formerly a sergeant at Peterborough headquarters.

Inspector Stringer is a crack revolver shot, and his prowess with this weapon won him the King's Police Medal which ranks second only to the Victoria Cross. With his first bullet he killed a gunman who had previously shot OPP Constable Harold Dent in the waiting room of the railway station at Navan, 16 miles east of Ottawa.

The double shooting was on June 20, 1940. The inspector, then an acting sergeant, was on leave. He heard of the shooting of the Rockland constable and sped to the railway station by car.

Three Shots Missed

Unarmed, he took the revolver from the mortally-wounded Dent, and started out by foot to track the murderer through the woods. The two met three-quarters of a mile from the station. The gunman, a man named Miki, drilled three shots at him from a distance of 30 feet.

Inspector Stringer raised Dent's revolver and shot Miki dead through the head with his first bullet.

"I guess he must have had too big a head," is the laconic comment of the new OPP head.

The former lieutenant governor, the Hon. Albert Matthews, at a special investiture in 1943, presented Inspector Stringer with the King's Police Medal. He is the only member of the OPP to have this award.

Joined at Kitchener

The Inspector joined the Provincials at Kitchener in February, 1927. He has served at various detachments since then, including Kirkland Lake, Belleville, Niagara Falls, Elk Lake, Timmins, Ottawa and Sudbury. In 1939 he was made acting sergeant and the rank was confirmed the next year.

From October, 1943, to September, 1945, he was Stoker PO in the engineering branch of the RCN (VR). The naval duty included convoy escort across the Atlantic and boom defence.

He returned to the Provincials after the war and on August 1, 1949, was made inspector and posted to Sudbury. The OPP district there is so large it takes between two-and-a-half and three weeks to inspect it. Detachments are farther away from Sudbury than Sudbury is from either Peterborough or Toronto.

Inspector Stringer admits that he doesn't know the Peterborough district well, though he did live in Bancroft area for several years, and he worked in co-operation with the local detachment when he was stationed in Belleville.

"One of the Best"

He was both respected and liked in Sudbury. Before he left the courthouse staff presented him with a gladstone bag and his wife with a clock. Chief Constable A. F. Runciman of Copper Cliff, formerly of Cobourg, credited him with being "one of the best district inspectors I've had the privilege of working with. . . . We'll miss him."

The inspector is also holder of the 20-year-long service and good conduct medal.

He has two children — a son Ronald, and daughter Allane. Both will finish their school year in Sudbury before coming to Peterborough.

"I don't know Peterborough too well," the inspector told the Examiner, "but I'm looking forward to my stay here. I hope to pattern my actions on that of my predecessor Staff Inspector McNeill. And I'd like to meet the many friends he has made here."

For the next few days the two inspectors will travel around the district, and by the end of the week Staff Inspector McNeill expected to be back at Toronto headquarters.

KEYS TO NUMBER EIGHT HEADQUARTERS, Ontario Provincial Police, Peterborough, were handed over on Monday to newly-appointed inspector James Allan Stringer, Left, by Staff Inspector E. V. McNeill. Church Minority Must Wage Aggressive War

There is a desperate need for people to be shocked into realizing that the Christian Church is a minority in not merely a non-Christian but an anti-Chrisitan world.

This statement was made by the Rev. Dr. J. B. Smart, of Toronto, at the Home and School night at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Sunday School Monday night. Dr. Smart was a former minister of St. Paul's Church and since his ministry in Peterborough was editor-in-cheif of the Board of Christian Education for the revision of Sunday School materials in the United States. At present he has returned to Canada and is now established in the Presbyterian Church in Toronto. The topic of Dr. Smart's address was "The Educational Program of the Church."

The speaker attacked the inability of the Protestant Christian Church to wage an aggressive battle against the anti-Christian forces present in the world today. He dubbed the policy of the church as preservation rather than progression.

Heart Of Problem

"The heart of the problem," Dr. Smart contended, "is the inability of the professing Chrisitan to speak simply and convincingly on behalf of the Christian Church. In personal contacts between the Christian and anti-Christian, the Christian fights a losing verbal battle because he is unable to defend his religious faith."

This failure, the speaker explained, was arising from the lack of education and instruction given not only to children but to adults in the principles of their church and religion.

He dealt with the home and Sunday school as the major mediums for the teaching of religious principles and faith.

"Parental authority's only foundation is Christian authority," the speaker stated. "Hand in hand with this role of authority must go parental sense of responsibility for training their children in the Christian faith."

He condemned the trend toward defeating the Christian principles taught in the church by the upholding and impregnating of materialistic ambitions in the home.

"Fool's Paradise"

"We are living in a fool's paradise if we believe that the church is in a safe and healthy state today," Dr. Smart argued.

The speaker was introduced by Jim Davidson, superintendent of the Sunday School, who was chairman of the meeting. Appreciation to Dr. Smart was expressed by Max Kaye, superintendent of the Junior Sunday School and by the Rev. C. G. Boyd.

Musical entertainment was provided by Miss Sheila Smith and Miss Jean Smith who sang two vocal duets and Max Clarke with a piano selection.

Following the program, teachers, parents and friends were given the opportunity to inspect the latest revised Sunday School materials and also various translations of the Bible.

Gananoque's Mayor Skips Winning Shriners' Rink

Gananoque's rink, skipped by Mayor A. G. (Jerry) Woodley, placed first Monday when the Shrine club combined its spring meeting with a Shriners' bonspiel in Peterborough. Rinks from Havelock, Port Hope, Campbellford, Bobcaygeon, Lindsay, Oshawa, Kingston, Midland and Peterborough took part in the bonspiel in the morning and afternoon. Robert Merrett of Peterborough presented the rink members with their trophies at the banquet held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

Guest speaker at the banquet which more than 100 Shriners from the Kawartha district attended was Potentate Stewart W. Hall of Toronto. Past Potentate William Gallow, also of Toronto, spoke briefly. Other leading Shriners were past Potentates Dr. Grant Fraser of Madoc, W. Reginald Shaw, recorder of the Rameses Temple and S. Tichener-Smith of Toronto.

Oldest Shriner present at the meeting was William A. Davis of Bobcaygeon, 83 years old. He participated in the bonspiel for the Bobcaygeon rink and has been curling since 1888. Mr. Davis has been a Shriner since 1901.

Between the morning and afternoon parts of the bonspiel, the Shriners held a luncheon at the Curling Club, and after the curling held a reception prior to the banquet at the country club. Following the dinner the Shriners were entertained. The program included selections by the Chanters, a quartet from the Rameses Temple.

Swimmers Go To Indiana

After workouts in local indoor swimming pools, the Peterborough Ornamental Swimmers left today for South Bend, Indiana, where the fifth annual solo, duet and team synchronized swimming championships will be held from Friday until Sunday.

Plans at first called for two teams to enter the senior competition from Peterborough, but financial difficulties forced the club to send only one team. The transportation is being supplied by two local garagemen and all other expenses will be paid by the girls.

Miss Jean Millard and Mrs. Shirley Moldaver will open the club's representation Friday in the solo events. Saturday Miss Norma Gant and Miss Millard will contest in the national duet championships, and on Sunday the team composed of Mrs. Betty Welch, Mrs. Norma Delaney, Miss Mary Rutherford, Mrs. Moldaver, Miss Millard and Miss Gant will enter the team championships. The girls are accompanied by Coach Mrs. Pansy Forbes and Mrs. Fred Gant.

Last year the club's first team placed third, half-point behind the Des Moines, Iowa, entry. Detroit placed first. Several years ago the Peterborough club returned from the championship meet, which is sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union of the U.S.A., with the junior duet championship.

Council Asked For Parking Ban

An evening parking ban on streets adjacent to Queen Mary School in the interest of Peterborough's summer theatre and appeasement of any opposition in the area was proposed to the council Monday night in a petition presented by John C. N. Currelly, accompanying Ross Thompson, chairman of a citizens' committee promoting the theatre project.

Proposed restriction would be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. during the season from June 15 to Sept. 15.

Of people canvassed by Mr. Thompson, 14 signed the petition; three declined to sign, two of them said they were not interested. Three others have not yet been interviewed. Petitioners live on Hopkins Ave., between Monaghan Road and Albertus Ave., and on Monaghan Road between Weller St. and Woodland Ave.

Mr. Currelly reviewed the recent consideration given by the Board of Education to the summer theatre resuming at the west end school. He said the Board would probably feel justified in renting the school to the Summer Theatre group if the parking problem in the area was solved.

The Board could come to a decision in the required time at its next meeting, April 12.

Austerity Year Likely In India

By S. S. HARRISON

NEW DELHI, April 3—(AP) — Even if he gets enough to eat, India's John Doe is in for a year of austerity under his government's 1951-52 budget.

Prime Minister Nehru and other leaders ask him to make no faces while swallowing a stiff dose of new taxes to help stabilize the year-old republic's economy and pay for a 1,800,200,000 rupee ($360,040,000) defense program—half of all national spending.

"No price is too great for building the economic superstructure of free India," Nehru told 300,000 listeners at a Bombay rally. "We may have to eat less and sacrifice more in the coming few years—if not for us, for posterity."

Instead of large-scale government borrowing to balance the year's books, Finance Minister C. D. Deshmukh recommended increased taxes on individual income, corporation profits, tobacco, liquor, and such holsehold essentials as the kerosene which lights virtually every dwelling in rural India. Fares on the government-operated railways go up 20 to 25 per cent.

In addition, citizens of most states will have to meet state tax increases as well.

LONDON, April 3 (AP)—Winston Churchill will speak in Philadelphia May 8, the Conservative party announced Monday. Mr Poulton, council secretary, said "most of the horses I saw running at Dufferin ought to have been pensioned off long ago."

The Rev. H. E. Wintemute was elected president.

The Rev. Canon W. W. Judd of the Church of England in Canada spoke in favor of removing the restrictions in immigration against people from the British West Indies.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Danish Food Requires Skill, Training

Occasionally I doubt the wisdom of so much practicality in this column.

While I know the great majority of us have to prepare those eternal three meals a day on unstretchable budgets, some of that same great majority and quite a few of a small minority are looking for glamor foods and careful instructions. They want to concoct the foods that require imagination, skill and training.

Because Danish pastries are on my mind this week and because my own kitchen looks like a miniature bakeshop this morning, I am going to give you just that.

First you need to know how to to make the basic Danish pastry. Then you can venture into horns, butterfly rolls, pinwheels, etc., at will.

Danish Pastry (basic dough)

One-half cup scalded milk, 2 tablespoons soft butter, ¼ cup sugar, 2 well beaten whole eggs, ½ teaspoon vanilla, rind of ½ lemon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cake compressed yeast or 1 envelope granular yeast with 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 2¼ cups sifted bread flour, ½ cup hard butter or margarine. Pour the hot milk over the 2 tablespoons butter and ¼ cup granulated sugar. Add the beaten eggs, vanilla, salt and lemon rind. When lukewarm add the crumbled yeast cake and 1 teaspoon sugar. (If granular yeast is used sprinkle it over the lukewarm mixture and keep lukewarm for 15 minutes, then stir well. Gradually add the sifted flours and stir to make a soft dough.

Turn dough out onto canvas pastry board cover and knead for 3 to 5 minutes or until dough seems smooth as satin. Place in greased bowl, brush with melted shortening, cover and let rise in warm room until doubled in bulk. Knead again on lightly floured board for one-half minute and let rise again.

Wash the ½ cup cold butter in cold water and squeeze it between the hands in the water until it feels waxy. Divide in half. Chill. When dough has risen the second time roll it out on floured canvas to rectangle 6x12 inches. Cut one-half of the butter into pieces, distributing them over two-thirds of the dough. Fold uncovered part of dough toward you over half of the covered dough. Fold once again to make 3 thicknesses of dough. Press edges tightly together, place on platter, cover with wax paper and towel and chill ½ hour. Roll out dough to rectangle 8x14 inches and repeat the buttering and folding. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness. Chill 1 hour. It is now ready to cut out to desired shapes.

Danish Pastry Butterfly Rolls

Use part or all of the dough. Brush with melted butter. For 8 rolls spread dough with 1 beaten egg mixed with 1 or ¾ cup chopped nuts, 4 tablespoons icing sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 teaspoons cream. Roll up like jelly roll. Cut into 1½-inch slices, make a deep crease across centre of each. Brush with melted butter, let rise, covered, until light and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 20 minutes. When baked and still hot brush with corn syrup, sprinkle with nuts and frost.

✧ ✧ ✧

Danish Pinwheels

To make 8 rather large pinwheels roll out 2 sheets of dough 10x10 inches. Cut each into 4 squares. Cut through each point leaving about 1 inch uncut at centre. Moisten centre with top of finger. Turn every other point toward centre pressing it down well. Brush with melted butter and let stand 1 hour at room temperature. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 15 minutes. When cool brush with icing and sprinkle with nuts. Pour raspberry jam in centre.

Will those who are interested in this type of fancy pastries please write to me if they would like to see more of them in the column?

DOROTHY DIX

Slovenly Wife Should Be Just Cause For Divorce

DEAR MISS DIX: What can a man do with a wife who is a good woman but the world's worst housekeeper? My wife has all of the conventional virtues. She is virtuous, kind, generous, intelligent and good natured, but she is incorrigibly lazy and slovenly. She never gets up for breakfast, lounging around all day in a kimona, and we have never had a meal in the house that was fit to eat. The house is so dirty I am ashamed to ask anyone into it. I make a good salary, but everything is wasted, so that I can never get ahead. I am a domestic man, who craves a neat and orderly and thriftily run house, like the one I was brought up in. I have tried every way in the world to rouse my wife into making some effort to be a better housekeeper, but without avail. Is there any way I can change her so she will make me the home I long for? And if so, how?

Dorothy Dix

DISGRUNTLED HUSBAND

ANSWER: I believe laziness to be an incurable vice. Possibly people who are just so inert that they cannot bring themselves to make any effort, either mental or physical, have some disease. At any rate, I have never seen any of these Weary Willies or Wilhelminas who was ever galvanized into action or who ever rolled up his sleeves and went to work.

Peace of Mind at Stake

When a woman finds out that she has married a lazy man, all she can do is to go to work and support him. When a man finds out he has married a lazy woman all he can do is just break up his home and go to live in some good boarding-house or hotel, where he can have proper food and decent surroundings, or hire a housekeeper to run his house. This will save wear and tear on his temper, nerves and stomach, and be money in his pocket in the long run. For a man's efficiency at his job depends upon his being well fed and upon his being able to maintain a peaceful state of mind, which he cannot do if he is continually irritated by his wife's triflingness.

The law permits a woman to divorce the husband who does not support her. It should make bad housekeeping equally a cause for divorce. It is just as much a woman's obligation to make her husband a comfortable home as it is his to make her a decent living.

A lot of good-for-nothing wives would get busy with the cook stove and the vacuum cleaner if they knew they would lose their jobs and be sent back home to mother for laying in bed of a morning and make a hard-working husband get up and get his own breakfast, and for sitting him down to dinners that would kill an ostrich.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: How can a husband let down his wife when she has suffered for him? I have been sick ever since my little girl was born nine months ago and I have become dissatisfied and unhappy. I feel that my husband has become tired of the baby and me because he has sent us back to my parents in the country while he is working in town to pay our back bills. He says this is the only reason for sending me home, but I believe he is tired of staying at home nights and not getting to go places as he used to do. I don't get to go places either. Do you think he is letting me down? I believe I will lose my mind if I don't find my way out soon. DISSATISFIED

ANSWER: What about your letting your husband down? Be honest with yourself. You had the baby because you wanted it and because babies are a natural by-product of marriage. It is just your misfortune that you have had ill health as a result. Nothing your husband was responsible for.

And don't forget that he has got a bad break as well as you have. He has had the anxiety about your health, the terrible bills that have had to be incurred for nurses and doctors and hospitals, and the depression of having to come home every night to a sick and nervous wife instead of a jolly and healthy one.

Snap out of it. Try to see the situation from his point of view, and instead of reproaching him with what you consider his neglect, tell him how wonderful you think he is in being patient with you. He has done the sensible thing in sending you to your parents' where you have better care than he can give you and so he can have a chance to pay up your bills. Now you be sensible and leave your baby with your mother and go to some specialist who can cure you. Don't let your morbid frame of mind wreck your life.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We are two 16-year-old girls who are tired of old-fashioned ideas about petting. Here is the way we look at it. There are only two reasons why a thing should not be done—because of harm to yourself or someone else, or of others' opinions. We think we do ourselves no harm, and we believe that intelligent people do not think less of us for doing it.

TWO PHILOSOPHERS

ANSWER: But the petter does do herself harm when she throws away all the reserves of maidenhood, and when she violates all the canons of good taste. No man feels he need respect the girl who is a heavy petter.

Catherine Doris Is Wed At St. Alphonsus Church

A wedding of interest was solemnized Saturday in St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic Church when Catherine Theresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Doris became the bride of William A. McTeague, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McTeague, all of Peterborough.

The nuptial mass was said by the Rev. Robert A. Macdonald, C.SSR, who also performed the ceremony. Altar boys were Paul Doris, brother of the bride, and John Adamson.

Spring flowers and ferns decorated the sanctuary. The organist was Mr. Patrick McTeague, brother of the groom, and Mrs. D. Campanaro was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin, fashioned with a v-neckline and high petal collars, a fitted bodice and full skirt falling to a beautiful train. Her finger-tip embroidered veil of misty sheer net was held by a halo of orange blossoms and lily of the valley, and she carried a white prayer book covered with pink and white rose buds with long white satin streamers tied with lily of the valley and forget-me-nots.

Attendants were her two sisters, Miss Marie Doris as maid of honor, and Miss Agnes Doris, as bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of apple green and blue rose taffeta. Both wore face framing headdresses of shirred taffeta and matching mittens. They carried bouquets of mixed spring flowers.

The groomsman was Mr. Frank McTeague, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Dick Doris and Jack Doris, brothters of the bride, and Joseph McTeague, brother of the groom.

A reception was held in the church hall where the bride's mother received wearing a floral gown of lavender and grey with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a gown of navy blue crepe with navy and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Later the bride and groom left by motor on a honeymoon trip to the United States. The bride travelled in a navy gabardine suit with a natural colored top coat and pink and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses. On their return Mr. and Mrs. McTeague will live on George St. North.

Slim Silhouette At London Salon Of Paris Expert

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.

LONDON (CP)—Paquin of Paris, showing his second London collection since the war, brings French haute couture to the doorstep of London's Mayfair.

Models shown in the dove-grey and gilt west end salon are drawn from the Paris display and make it possible for women to buy in Britain current models from the collection of a top Paris designer.

Typically French, the spring styles draw inspiration from the letter X. This is seen particularly in pencil-slim dresses with neat waistlines and wide skirt panels on both sides. Fitted bodices carry out the line by means of wide revers necklines filled by straight little vests.

Despite the make-believe skirt fullness, however, the silhouette is essentially slim. Tailored suits are pencil-slim with neat jackets clinging to a narrow waist and buttoned on a half-hidden waistcoat of contrast color. Basques stand out sharply from the hips and button-interest is given at the waist and on the pockets.

Many waistcoats are in white pique sporting pretty jewelled buttons that match the jacket buttoning at waist and pockets. Suit colors follow the London preference for stone, grey, rust, beige, black and navy.

Gowns Are Stately

In evening dresses, Paquin could challenge the beauty and originality of Hartnell and Worth—two of London's foremost designers of exquisite embroidered ball gowns.

A full-skirted pink gown with strapless apron top is embroidered completely in silver beading, so minute it covers every particle of material. The dress is completed by the addition of two huge puff sleeves of white fox comprising a double strand of fur joined by bands of pink.

A full, rustling dress of pink grosgrain, with wide shoulder straps and straight neckline, has embroidery running from waist to hips in pointed spears. This is repeated at the neckline.

An interesting evening coat is a red-tiered grosgrain lined with white and having short cap sleeves topped by huge winged white cuffs. It is worn over a square-necked dress of white chiffon intricately gathered and tucked.

The huge winged cuffs on short cap sleeves are a new fashion interest this year and are shown also on dresses and other ensembles. Mostly they are accentuated by white pique or embroidery.

In All Saints' Anglican Church on Saturday white snapdragons were the flowers decorating for the wedding of Gwendolyn Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Abraham, 629 Brown St., to Mr. William James Berwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Berwick, also of Peterborough. The ceremony was solemnized by Ven. Archdeacon C. W. Balfour. Organist Miss Margaret Flowers played the wedding music.

The bride was attired in a powder blue gabardine suit with which she wore white accessories and her corsage was of white roses. She was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Doreen Whitmore, who was in a suit of copper tan gabardine and wore beige and black accessories and a corsage of copper roses.

Mr. John Berwick was the groomsman and ushers were Harry Sinden and Alex. Delvicchio.

The reception was held at the bride's home, her mother receiving in a gown of navy with white and navy hat and corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother, who assisted, was also dressed in navy complimented with a pink and navy hat and pink roses in her corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Berwick will make their home in Oshawa.

Visiting Hours At Hospital Now Reduced

Changes in the visiting hours at the Peterborough Civic Hospital, since lifting of the ban on visiting ten days ago, were outlined by superintendent Mr. John Hornal at the Monday afternoon meeting of the Women's Auxiliary.

Reduction in the afternoon and evening visiting time to one hour each in general wards is a move to enable better service to the patient, he stated, and it is possible that the change is permanent.

As it seems sometimes difficult for persons who have not themselves been hospitalized to realize the benefit to be derived from more quietness and longer time for nursing care, the Auxiliary members were asked to help in making the public understand why the plan had been adopted.

Co-operation of the women in this matter was pledged by president Mrs. Charles Huffman and members present, indicating they feel the plan is a move for betterment of the hospital's service.

It was decided the Auxiliary will furnish a recreation room in the nurses' residence with $1,000 which had been set aside for such purpose. Plans are being carried out by the committee in charge of nurses-in-training.

Auxiliary visiting report was for one day only, due to the ban during March, and nearly 100 calls were made. Thirty books were circulated from the library on the one day open to this committee. Easter tray favors by the decorating committee numbered 180, including some for special diets and children.

Dates of the annual Penny Sale have been set, May 25 to June 4, which is a shorter period than usual.

Uninformed Citizen Said A Threat To Democracy

The case of the "Clueless Canadian" or the uninformed citizen was cited as the chief enemy of democracy by National Council YWCA executive director Miss Lillian Thomson when she addressed the Ontario-Quebec Y-Teen Conference at Kitchener on Friday.

"We can be citizens in our own clubs. A good citizen has rights, but also responsibilities, and the uninformed citizen is a menace to the community, the country and herself," she said.

"For example the club president who sometimes pushes people around or the club member who lets herself be pushed around, are lacking in the knowledge of the fundamental rights of the individual.

"Then there's the club member who whines along like a jet engine every time she is asked to do something. These people are not good citizens, nor are they ever likely to be."

Miss Thomson said information about a country could easily be obtained through the medium of movies, literature, a member of parliament (a choice speaker for youth clubs) or through writing letters to the point of view column in the newspaper.

"We also need to get these things done, and we can start with our own city by finding out what the city needs," the speaker explained. "We do not always need to ask for things....we should offer to do something ourselves to make it a better community in which to live."

"You are citizens now—you are not asked to prepare to be citizens. You are electors in the YWCA if you are 16 years of age, and you have a voting power in this organization, though it is not until later you will become a civic voter."

Following the address, workshop sessions were held. More than half the YWCA's in Canada were represented by 139 young women attending the conference in the Kitchener-Waterloo Y. Theme was "The Y's View of the World" and its significance was stressed in the topics that featured sessions of the three-day meet.

Ladies' Aid Holds Spring Tea

A delightful spring tea was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Callingham by the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Omemee.

The house was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. A lace tablecloth centred with attractive vase of yellow daffodils and red tulips with yellow candles burning in silver holders completed the table decorations.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. Callingham and Mrs. B. Windrim. Tea was poured by Mrs. H. Kaye and Mrs. Wilbert Thorn and serving were Miss Amy Best, Miss Marion Murray, Mrs. Whitmore, Miss Sharon Toland and Miss Cornell. Mrs. Preston was taking the tickets.

The event was sponsored by the Belmont Women's Institute and the friends and neighbors of the couple. Charles Ellis, president of the Institute made a presentation on behalf of the gathering.

Staff Nurse Takes Special Course

Miss Lorna Mitchell, supervisor of the pediatric ward at the Peterborough Civic Hospital, who has just completed a four-day course on care of the Physically Handicapped Child at the University of Toronto, outlined the course for benefit of the Hospital Women's Auxiliary members at their meeting Monday afternoon. A bursary given by the Auxiliary enabled Miss Mitchell to take the course.

Points which the nurse stressed were selected apparently with the hope that she may gain fuller co-operation from parents and the general public in detecting abnormalities in children and treating them, as is being given by public health nurses and authorities.

One day of the course was devoted to the subject of cerebral palsy which Miss Mitchell advised is usually from pre-natal causes. She urged that assistance be given a child so affected and stressed that the majority of victims are not mentally deficient. She mentioned various ways that have been devised to help these children learn that can be carried out by their parents as well.

A supply of educational toys purchased by the Auxiliary for the children's ward is bringing great joy to the young patients the nurse advised and a few of them were demonstrated for the members.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Mr. Alex Sinclair, recreational supervisor, was guest speaker at the meeting of Central Home and School Association Monday evening. Introduced by Mr. W. Langan, Mr. Sinclair spoke on the subject "Recreation Everybody's Business."

He opened his address by answering the question "Why should we have organized recreation?" People have more leisure time than ever before. They want to be entertained and with the modern trends away from the church and home to commercialized entertainment there has been an awakening to the fact that something must be done about it.

Not All Sport

"Recreation is not all sport," he said, "but part of the educational process." He went on to list the various projects sponsored by the recreational commission as nursery school, junior ski, ball and lacrosse schools, playgrounds, craft classes, So-ed, citizens', band and ornamental swimmers, club, touching on the highlights accomplished by each.

"Life is a game," he said, "and if played according to the rules, we can score."

Mrs. L. Raper, home study convener, followed with an outline of the chapter "Leisure Time Interests of the Adolescent" from the study book. She listed various activities and discussed their relative values in providing relaxation, developing permanent interests, independence and moral standards, providing enjoyment, escape from boredom and a variety of experiences. "Every family," she said, "should plan and provide some place for leisure activities."

An appropriate film, "Fitness is a Family Affair," was shown after which Mr. Sinclair led in an enthusiastic discussion centred on the topic "What can be done here?"

Mr. D. Crawford expressed the thanks of the meeting to Mr. Sinclair.

Two vocal solos were sung by little Beverly Garside, accompanied by her sister, Carol.

Mrs. E. J. Vanpe and Mrs. W. Gunn gave reports on the recent Home and School Convention in Toronto.

Attendance prizes were won by Miss E. Richardson's, Miss S. Bennett's, Miss J. Buck's and Mr. C. J. Crown's class rooms.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. E. Williams and her committee.

Snarled Finance In Used Cars Ends In Court

A tangled snarl of used car financing was left for Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC to unravel in a delayed decision on a cahrge of false pretences against Howard Cooney, former used car dealer.

Cooney was charged with false pretences by defrauding Albert Edward Sculthorp, 232 Edinburgh St., of a car and $1,300 cash.

Sculthorp testified that Dec. 14, 1949, he traded in his old car on a newer car to Cooney. The accused allowed him $575 on his old car and he gave Cooney $200, leaving a balance of $1,100 to be paid through financing with the Industrial Acceptance Corporation. He was to pay back his loan from the finance company at $69 a month. By Feb. 8, 1951, he had it all paid but $349, when a bailiff came and seized his car. He found out that there was a lien against the car held by Personal Finance Co. on which the payments were in arrears.

He had been told by Cooney that there was no lien against it. The lien had been registered in Lindsay, naming Gerald R. Lowes, RR 1, Omemee, as owing the money to the finance company. He said the lien had now been paid, but he had paid nothing on it.

"Did you consult legal advice and were you not advised that the lien was totally without power?" J. C. N. Currelly, defending Cooney, asked Sculthorp.

"No," Sculthorp replied.

He said his car had been held about a month, before he could get it back.

Lowes added his story to the picture. He said he sold Cooney a 1949 model car for $2,300, Nov. 9, 1949. Cooney didn't have a market for it in the city, but asked him to go with him to Lindsay and then to Beaverton to sell the car. It was sold he thought to a Beaverton man for $2,350.

Cooney then gave him a cheque for $2,300. It was then too late to cash the cheque and the following morning, Cooney's brother-in-law, Harry Fry, phoned him and asked him to hold the cheque without cashing it. In a day or two, Cooney came and paid him $1,500. He told Cooney he would have to have the remaining $800 immediately.

Cooney took him downtown in a 1948 model car and went into a finance company office and in a few minutes returned to him. Cooney asked him if he would sign a note for $1,000 with the Personal Finance Co. if Cooney transferred the 1948 car to Lowes' name as security. He said transaction would last only a few days until he sold another car and paid off the loan to the finance company. This 1948 car was the one later sold to Sculthorp by Cooney, the crown attorney said.

He agreed to this, thinking that he was safe with the 1948 car in his name. He said D. R. Thompson, manager of the finance company in Peterborough, paid Cooney and Cooney gave him $800.

He heard no more about it until March, 1950, when he received a notice from the finance company that the payments on the loan had not been paid up to date. He then received a phone call from the finance company telling him to ignore the notice, that it had been sent to him by mistake instead of to Cooney.

He then saw Cooney who told him that his wife had been sick and he had been out of town, but that he was going to pay the loan.

Asked to compare the loan form signed by Sculthorp with the Industrial Acceptance Corporation and the one he signed with the Personal Fincance Co., Lowes noted that there was a discrepancy in the serial numbers noted on the forms. One figure on the 10-figure number was different on the two forms. However he said the make of car, style and licence number were the same.

Thompson, the finance company local manager, said he was aware that the note signed by Lowes was just a method by which Cooney borrowed $1,000. He said however, that it was his understanding that Lowes was to take the car as security to his home, which is in Victoria county. For that reason, he registered the lien in Lindsay, rather than in Peterborough.

He said that Nov. 3, 1950 there was still $719.50 owing on the loan but since then it had been paid off.

Mr. Currelly argued that there was no evidence that the car seized from Sculthorp and which he said there was lien against signed by Lowes was the car on which Cooney through Lowes' signature had borrowed $1,000. He also said the seizure of the car by the bailiff was not valid and that the lien itself was not valid.

Magistrate Philp reserved judgment until April 9.

Want All Teachers To Be Evaluated

WELLAND, April 3 (CP)—The Niagara zone conference of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association, Monday night heard a recommendation that services of all teachers be evaluated.

Lloyd Spalding, secretary-treasurer of the Hamilton Board of Education, told a meeting that teachers "are the only people in the world whose services are not evaluated."

"I would recommend that arrangements be made to evaluate the services of all teachers," he said. "There should be three grades of teachers. Each school should be compelled to have a certain percentage of teachers in each grade on staff. They should be graded as (1) outstanding; (2) good; (3) ordinary....and paid accordingly."

Mr. Spalding suggested that a group comprising a department adviser, a school inspector, a principal and a teacher should do the evaluating.

Find Deathly Choir Of 13 Skeletons

BOLOGNA, Italy, April 3 (Reuters)—A "deadly choir" of 13 skeletons was found by workmen in a tomb under an ancient church here last night.

The skeletons, clad in priestly robes, were seated in a circle on stone choir benches. Historians believed they were parish priests who died between 1262 and 1772.

The skeletons were found under the Church of Camurana Di Medolla, founded in 776.

Wool Shipment Believed Trick

OTTAWA, April 3 — (CP) — Suspicion is growing in the Trade Department that a shipment of scrap wool, which United States officials reported to be going to Communist Poland, left Canada under false pretences.

A United States Senator, Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Dem., Wyo.), sparked an investigation during the weekend when he called the U.S. Commerce Department's attention to the wool waste on the docks at Boston, ready for shipment.

The U.S. Department said the shipment, about 400,000 pounds, originated in Canada and was licensed for export by the Canadinan government.

Officials said a thorough search of the department's records now has been made and no export licence for shipment of wool to Poland has been uncovered.

A licence is required on all exports of wool, except those going to the United States. One official said it appeared possible that the wool was moved to the U.S., not for the purpose of sale in that country, but to be re-routed to some other point.

These photos both won national recognition earlier when they were named picture of the month for CP picture service. Befus' shot was the picture of the week in Life Magazine.

Jack Dalgleish of the Windsor Daily Star was awarded the Hamilton Spectator Trophy for the best press feature picture with his photo of a nude young child being escorted into a police station by a kindly policeman. The photo was titled "Overexposed". Ray Munro of the Vancouver Province placed second with a photo of a mounted policeman looking down at, a young fawn and goat in a Vancouver park.

McDonald also won the Graflex Trophy for the best publicity photo with a picture of Quebec author Roger Lemilen. Strathy Smith of Toronto was second in this class.

The manufacture of Printers' Ink provided the prize-winning subject Gilbert A. Milne of Toronto entered to win the Latimer Trophy as the best commercial print in the show. The same shot also won the Ansco award as the best industrial photo. Hugh Robertson of Toronto was second prize winner.

The W. E. Booth award for the best architectural photo was won by Hugh Robertson with Malak of Ottawa placing second.

MINERS AT WORK—Top commercial illustration photo in the fourth annual print show of the Commercial and Press Photographers Association of Canada was this one by George Hunter of Ottawa and Winnipeg of Yukon gold miners at work. Winner of the Ansco Award, the photo will be on exhibition in Toronto April 4 to 18 with 125 other top entries in the competition.

OVEREXPOSED—This photo of a youthful offender in the hands of the law won the Hamilton Spectator Trophy as the best news feature photograph of the fourth annual print show of the Commercial and Press Photographers Association of Canada. The exhibition is being held in Toronto. The picture was taken by Jack Dalgleish of the Windsor Star.

Security Bars 2 U.A.W. Delegates

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—The Justice Department said Monday two Canadian delegates to the CIO Auto Workers' convention in Cleveland were refused admission to the United Stotes "for security reasons."

The department said they were William Tourchin, of Windsor, temporarily excluded after he reached Detroit last Saturday; and Harry Colgate, of Toronto, turned back at Detroit March 12 when he sought to cross the border.

The department said the actions were based on certain "affiliations" which the department declined to identify.

A third Canadian delegate to the Cleveland convention, department officials said, was temporarily detained at the border last Friday for examination but was subsequently granted temporary entry for the convention. He was not identified.

Allies Drive 4 Miles Across 38th

Communists Offer Stiffest Resistance Of Present Offensive

TOKYO, April 4. (AP)—An Allied task force drove four miles north of the North Korean border today against heavy Communist resistance.

A field dispatch said the task force met heavy red mortar fire and some artillery fire near Topyong, four miles north of the border on the western front. But it drove ahead.

(Reuters News Agency said front dispatches indicated the Communists were offering their stiffest resistance since the start of the current UN offensive. The Reds were making a serious effort to stem the Allied push across the 38th, Reuters added.)

Earlier reports said an American patrol had crossed Parallel 38 on the central front and routed Chinese Reds from two hills. The patrol was probing the outer areas of a huge Red build-up where almost 500,000 Communist troops are massed for an expected Red offensive.

The strong force which crossed Parallel 38 Tuesday along a 10-mile stretch of the western front withdrew by nightfall under heavy fire.

In the air, American Sabre jets destroyed one Russian-type MIG-15 jet fighter and damaged two others Wednesday in a swirling dogfight near the Manchurian border.

Other Allied planes ripped into Communist ground forces and supply lines. They destroyed four tanks, six trucks and five railroad cars in 270 sorties flown by noon.

Ominous Report

From the central front came an ominous report that a large group of Reds is moving into the Communist build-up area north of 38.

Intelligence reports say there now are nearly 500,000 combat troops in this area, primed for the long-expected Red offensive. Korea's rainy spring weather and glue-like mud will favor the Reds, who may launch their greatest attack of the war any day now.

U.S. fighters and bombers hammered the Red transport network. Preliminary reports Wednesday showed 28 vehicles damaged or destroyed and several direct hits on the Sonchon rail yards.

There was scattered ground fighting on the western front. A brief skirmish was reported eight miles southwest of Yonchon and another eight miles southeast of Yonchon. Yonchon is six miles north of the border and 35 miles north of Seoul.

Necklace, Nelson Gift To Lady Hamilton Sells At London Auction Room For $7,800

LONDON, April 4)AP). — The diamond necklace which Britain's great naval hero, Lord Nelson, is reputed to have given to Lady Hamilton, was sold today for £2,600 ($7,800).

A woman made the highest bid at the Christies Auction Rooms, where descendants of Nelson sold many objects associated with him. The purchaser did not identify herself.

The necklace consists of 27 graduated diamond clusters with diamond points.

The total sale realized £54,145. The sixth Earl Nelson, 60 years old, announced he had been obliged to dispose of houses and other property because of the weight of death duties. In 1946 the government decided to discontinue the £5,000 annuity, granted to the Nelson descendants "in perpetuity," on the death of the fifth Earl. The fifth Earl died on January 30.

Lady Hamilton was Lord Nelson's mistress. She accompanied him on several of his naval expeditions and he credited her with having performed valuable services for the British Fleet. She died impoverished in France, years after Nelson's death.

Pas Un Drapeau Francais? Oui: City Can Help Toronto

President Auriol of France is arriving on a visit to Toronto on Friday in course of paying a ceremonial visit to Ottawa. It is said that there isn't a tricolor, France's national flag, to be got anywhere in Toronto, except for a few which Provincial Government buildings keep in stock. "Never carry them", one department store reported. "No, we don't have a single one," said another. Well, Peterborough can supply Toronto with all the tricolors it needs.

J. E. Dyble, in charge of the J. J. Turner flagmaking department, says: "Yes, we've got one in stock, and we can make up as many as they want, and as big as they want, in 20 minutes."

Wire Mayor

The firm is wiring the Mayor of Toronto offering to provide the city with enough spanking Tricolors to deck the streets for the President's visit.

Paul Martin, French Consul in Toronto, said that the Consulate had had a number of inquiries from individuals and business concerns eager to decorate in honor of President Auriol's arrival.

"I informed the stores 10 days ago that there would be a good demand for the French flag," he said. "I do not know what they have done."

Apparently they have done nothing.

Anyway, Turner's of Peterborough stand ready to step into the breach, Tricolor flying, on 20 minutes' notice.

Girl Stabbed On Way Home

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP) — Marie Kemp, 19, record shop sales girl, is under an oxygen tent in hospital today as police search for a heavy-set man who crept up behind her on a west-end street early today and stabbed her in the back with a hunting knife.

The girl was returning home after bowling and was within sight of her home when stabbed. The man, before fleeing, looked down as she writhed on the pavement.

She was able to reach the house of a neighbor who called police and a doctor. Her condition is reported as "fair."

A hunting knife was found later on the street near the girl's home.

Government Asks Authority To Revoke Citizenship Of Disloyal Canadians

Planning To Prepare Amendment Soon To Criminal Code To Help Curb Activities of Communists

OTTAWA, April 4. (CP)—A three-pronged program may emerge from the current session of Parliament to give the Canadian Government greater power to deal with Communists and other subversive elements in Canada. The Commons Tuesday approved the principle of a bill giving the Government wider authority to take away the citizenship rights from disloyal Canadians. While the measure was under study, Justice Minister Garson disclosed that his department is working on a draft amendment to the criminal code to deal with Communist activities. If the Cabinet approves, the amendment will be submitted to parliament.

Citizenship Minister Harris hinted that proposed amendments to the Immigration Act will provide for the deportation of naturalized Canadians who are deprived of their citizenship for disloyalty.

The bill making the amendments to the Canadian Citizenship Act, already passed by the Senate, is due to receive third and final reading today in the Commons.

Step In Right Direction

Members said the bill is a step in the right direction but that additional moves are necessary to combat subversive activities.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) noted that the Immigration Act does not give the government power to deport naturalized Canadians who are deprived of their citizenship. Mr. Harris interjected that the government already has indicated its intention of amending the Immigration Act. He could not indicate the changes to be made at this time.

In debate on amendments to the Citizenship Act, Mr. Harris said this will be the effect of the legislation:

1. Citizenship of naturalized citizens who return to their country of origin or former nationality without retaining a substantal connection with Canada could be revoked after two years. At present, a six-year period must elapse.

2. Citizenship could be revoked for persons convicted under the Official Secrets Act, as in the case of those found guilty in the 1946 Soviet spy inquiry. At present, this can be done only on conviction of treason or sedition.

Reuther Gets Fourth Term As UAW Head

CLEVELAND, O., April 4 — (AP)Walter Reuther gets his fourth term today as president of the CIO United Automobile Workers.

And the UAW convention also was ready to re-elect the other three top officers with him.

Though only token opposition was put up against the four, an hours-long roll-call vote was required.

On the same slate with Reuther were secretary-treasurer Emil Mazey and vice-presidents Richard T. Gosser and John W. Livingston.

Election of 19 regional directors was scheduled for later in the day. There was no other business on the day's program.

10% Opposition

The anti-Reuther faction has been able to muster only about 10 per cent of the votes on most convention issues so far. It was doubtful that it could do any better on the elections.

Reuther's opponent was James Cleveland, secretary of Chevrolet-Forge Local 262 in Detroit.

The convention has allocated 10 cents of the new membership dues rates—boosted from $1.50 monthly to $2.50—to help elect candidates it likes in the U.S. Leaders said the UAW contributed only $120,000 last year to the CIO Political Action Committee in voluntary giving.

The constitution also provides that 30 cents of each dues dollar go into a strike fund. Mazey said this will provide a $15,000 fund by 1955 when most auto industry contracts run out.

In Canada, the higher dues are expected to finance a major organizing drive centred on Quebec.

Commonwealth Refuses Change Tariffs

TORQUAY, Eng., April 4 — (Reuters) — Britain and other Commonwealth countries have held out firmly against all attempts to whittle down imperial preferences at the international tariff talks here, conference circles said Tuesday.

As a result there will be no large scale reduction or alteration in the low tariff system under which Commonwealth nations trade with each other.

This has become clear to observers following the failure of Britain and the U.S. to conclude a new tariff agreement. Australian-U.S. negotiations also came to nothing, it is believed, and other dominions are thought to have concluded only strictly limited agreements with the U.S.

No Comment

There has been no official comment on the six-months-old talks, but sufficient information has leaked out to show that Britain and other Commonwealth countries would not exchange their preference scheme in return for U.S. tariff concessions.

Relative failure of the talks is expected to result in only about 100 bilateral agreements between the 40 nations taking part as against 400 agreements originally expected.

The conference is in its final stages. Only secretarial and clearing-up work remain before the signing of the Torquay Protocol, putting the agreements into effect takes place April 21.

Final results and schedules of concessions made at Torquay will be published at Geneva, Switzerland, May 12.

Three Ice-Breakers Battle To Relieve Quebec Areas

MONTREAL, April 4. (CP) — Three Government ice-breakers battled through heavy ice jams in the St. Lawrence River today in a race to Montreal to relieve inundated suburbs. The ships Lady Grey, Ernest LaPointe and the Sorel were reported working through ice packs in the swollen river, 40 miles east of Pointe aux Trembles on the east end of Montreal Island.

The community was the hardest hit of several Quebec municipalities as the St. Lawrence spilled over its banks causing mass evacuation and thousands of dollars damage.

On hundred families fled the rolling St. Lawrence at Pointe aux Trembles. An ice jam 20 feet thick in spots sent ice and water rushing through the streets of the community of 7,500. Another 100 homes were under water and three-quarters of the town suffered from at least basement flooding. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

At Beauceville, the swollen Chaudiere River lived up to its threat of the last two days by overflowing into 100 Riverside homes. Residents fled to higher ground in a heavy rainstorm that added to the flood tide. An ice jam three miles downstream caused the flood.

Still further downstream, lowland communities of St. Joseph and Ste. Marie were in danger. The water already has crept over wide areas of farm land, the river is 22 feet above normal and still rising.

Railway communications between Quebec and Malbaie were cut about 69 miles east of Quebec by a combination landslide and flood. Heavy rains loosened tors of earth and rock and sent them thundering over the line. Then the St. Lawrence crept in and washed out the railway bed.

Road travel between Montreal and Quebec on the north shore of the St. Lawrence remained closed today.

Rocket Hopes To Score For Bedridden Child

MONTREAL, April 14 (CP).—Don't be surprised if Maurice Richard hits the scoring column again in the Montreal-Detroit Stanley Cup series.

The telephone in Canadiens' dressing-room rang after Tuesday night's game, in which the Rocket didn't score and Detroit won 4-1.

A little girl was calling. She is a very sick little girl, 10 years old, bed-ridden with what may be an incurable ailment, her doctors say.

All she said was this: "Rocket, score a goal for me."

The Rocket, possibly thinking of his own children, said quietly: "I'll do my very, very best."

The name of the little girl fan was not revealed.

Report Mao Anxious To Bring War To End

PARIS, April 4 (Reuters). — Informed French quarters said today that Mao The-tung Chinese Communist leader, met Marshal Stalin in Moscow last month to discuss the Korean war.

He was believed to have asked Stalin for military help or political intervention to bring the fighting to an end, they said.

The Chinese, it was added, were planning a big defence works round Shanghai and Canton following reports of a possible Chinese Nationalist landing from Formosa.

Possible Truce In UK Commons

LONDON, April 4 —(AP)—An unexpected full night's sleep for parliament bolstered Labor government hopes today for an early truce with Winston Churchill's filibustering Conservatives.

Not, of course, that there was any indication the Tories no longer hoped to throw Prime Minister Attlee's cabinet out of office; just that they might change their tactics for something permitting more sleep.

The Conservatives in recent weeks have kept the House of Commons sitting throughout night after night by introducing "prayers" — high-priority attacks on routine government orders which permit extended debate until a vote is forced or the "prayer" withdrawn.

But the House Tuesday night, back for its first session since the Easter holiday recess, wound up business at the comparatively early hour of 10:48 p.m., as the Conservatives suddenly eased the harassing campaign.

There was no declared truce yet. But an exchange of letters between government House leader James Chuter Ede and Winston Churchill, and some backstage negotiations were reported under way.

"If rumor has it right, peace and common sense may break out at any moment," Labor member J. W. Snow told the Commons in a taunting reference to Conservative tactics which have frayed Socialist tempers for several weeks.

Royal Winter Fair Has $14,809 Surplus

TORONTO, April 4 (CP). — A surplus of $14,809 for 1950 was reported today by the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Increased labor and operating costs plus record prize expenses were more than offset by higher revenue from ticket sales, entry fees, concession rentals and government grants, said president John W. McKee.

For the 1950 fair, more than 3,200 exhibitors sent 17,249 entries from every province but Newfoundland, from 18 of the 48 States, and from England, Ireland, Mexico and Chile.

Makes 6,000-Mile Trip From Alaska By Sled

LEWISTON, Me., April 4 — (AP). — Bewhiskered Cecil A. (Mush) Moore and his dog team trotted in triumph into Lewiston today , ending a sled drive that began 17 months ago in Alaska.

A band, city officials and the populace welcomed the 40-year-old ironworker at the end of his 6,000-mile journey—believed the longest dogsled trek in history.

"I owe everything to my dogs," Moore told a reporter.

The bearded traveller and his nine huskies began the trip in Fairbanks in November, 1949, to raise money for the Lions Club Underprivileged Children Fund.

He originally planned to cover the 6,00 miles in 120 days.

He began his journey with 11 dogs. One was killed in a wolf attack just after he left Alaska. Another fell victim to a North Dakotan rattlesnake. The nine others were with him all the way.

Offer Suggestion

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP) — A proposal that the Ontario Government use its liquor profits to subsidize the retail price of milk was placed before Premier Frost today by a deputation representing the Housewives' Consumer Association. The group of women headed by Mrs. E. Hahn, association secretary, visited the premier's office and also spoke to Farquhar Oliver, Liberal house leader.

70 Cripples Flee School Fire

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP) — Seventy crippled children at Wellesley Public School here were led to safety today when fire broke out in the basement. Damage in one corner of the building was not extensive.

Nearly 500 pupils are registered at the school and a fire drill system with the older non-handicapped children aiding the others enabled the building to be cleared in 67 seconds.

A gas company official said a defect in the stove used to prepare the noon meal apparently let gas escape and ignite the flooring.

Churchill Invited To Pay Ottawa Visit

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP)—Winston Churchill has been invited to visit Ottawa early next month by Dr. M. M. MacOdrum, president of Ottawa's Carleton College.

Dr. MacOdrum said Tuesday he has sent a cable to Mr. Churchill, noting that the British Conservative leader is to address the University of Pennsylvania, May 8, and asking him to address the Canadian nation at ceremonies marking the opening of a new library at Carleton.

Living Costs Take New Spurt In France

PARIS, April 4 (AP).—Living costs took another upward turn in France today. The government boosted telephone and telegraph rates by about 20 per cent.

Local telephone calls in Paris, for example, will now cost 15 francs (about five cents) instead of 12 francs (about four cents).

The cabinet ordered the rate boosts to provide extra government funds. Heavy new demands have been made on the government budget following wage increases to transportation and other public service employees.

Princess Plans Visit To Pope

ROME, April 4 (Reuters) — Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are expected to pay a private visit to the Pope April 13.

The British royal couple are due to arrive here by air April 11 on a private sight-seeing tour of Italian cities.

The Duke—a Lieutenant Commander with the British fleet based at Malta—will captain a British armed-services polo team in a series of games against Rome teams.

Only official engagement arranged for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip is a luncheon date with Milan president Luigi Einaudi the day they arrive in Rome.

Krupps Refuses To Make Arms

ESSEN, Germany, April 4 — (AP).—"Krupps will never make another gun—not even if we are accused of sabotaging the European rearmament program."

This assertion was made today by Dr. Friedrich Wilhelm Hardach, director of the huge Krupp concern that helped arm Germany for two world wars.

"After twice getting our fingers burned building arms for two wars, no one can justly complain if we say 'never more,'" Hardach said in an interview.

"We are so much opposed to any more arms making that we are even refusing contracts to make trucks which might turn up some day in some army."

Although Alfried Krupp, heir to the big Krupp steel empire, was released from prison recently and had his property rights restored, Hardach actually runs the Krupp business.

Bloody Red Purge Reaches New High Across China

HONG KONG, April 4 (AP).—Reports from Communist China indicated today the Communists' bloody purge reached a new high the last two weeks in March.

Still, the Reds declared, the program of blotting out all opposition must be increased in intensity.

The Peiping radio announced mass executions Saturday of "a large group of counter-revolutionaries" at Tientsin and of 23 at Swatow. This brought to at least 212 the number of executions officially announced in the 13-day period ended March 31.

It is impossible to determine the exact number executed.

Official and unofficial Chinese Nationalist sources at Taipeh, Formosa, reported hundreds of new Red executions, with thousands more under arrest on the mainland. The Nationalist defence ministry has said about 10,000 await execution at Nanchang, Kiangsi province capital.

There was no way to confirm the many reports heard here or at Taipeh.

The Nationalists have charged the victims of the Red purge already total more than 1,000,000.

The Red radio praised the example set by recent executions at Peiping and Tientsin and urged that the purge be stepped up.

Five Canadian Roman Catholic Nuns arrested in Canton now have been accused of causing a cholera epidemic in the city in 1938, according to press reports from the south China city of Canton.

The reports said this charge had been made by 180 members of a peasants association in Shaho a suburb of Canton who attended a "public accusation meeting."

The peasants, who also accused the Nuns of "murdering" orphans said the infection had spread from the bodies of "baby victims" which the Nuns left in the open air. A considerable number of persons in Shaho later died of cholera, the peasants said.

Council Rejects Scaled-Down Pension

WINDSOR, April 4 (CP). — By a vote of seven to six, Windsor city council Tuesday night turned down special scaled-down pensions for former police chief Claude Renaud and former deputy chief W. H. Neale.

The pensions, passed by board of control March 21, would have provided Renaud with $1,800 a year and Neale with $1,356.

Previously the board of control had voted to pay Renaud $2,190 and Neale $1,792 but council on March 20 also turned that recommendation down.

After the vote was taken on Tuesday night, council agreed to instruct the board of control to once more take up the question of pensions for the two former police officials.

CNR Revenue Highest Ever During 1950

Expect New Plan To Do Away With Big Deficits

OTTAWA, April 4. (CP)—The Canadian National Railways' over-all 1950 deficit of $3,261,000 probably will be the Government line's last red-ink entry in a high-revenue year.

The Government is taking steps to clear away the clutter of ancient debts that has dragged the CNR into the red steadily, even in times of buoyant operating returns such as last year's record high.

Plans are to do this at the current session of parliament through setting up a new capital structure for the $2,500,000 company. The new set-up recommended by the Royal Commission on Transportation, slicing the CNR's annual fixed charges drastically, would have left it with a surplus of more than $14,000,000 for 1950.

As it was, the debt-burdened capital structure drew off all of the company's $42,416,000 that was available for interest and left it $3,261,000 short of meeting the interest obligations. These figures were given in the company's annual report tabled in the Commons Tuesday.

Best Showing

The income deficit represented the company's best financial showing since 1945 and was based on all-time-high gross revenues of $553,831,000—up about $53,000,000 from 1949. The higher gross was due to a combination of higher freight rates and greater freight traffic.

At the same time, operating expenses took a jump from $478,501,000 to $493,997,000. Factors in this rise were wage increases, higher costs of materials and equipment and the added expenses that go with more traffic haulage.

From the net operating revenue of $59,834,000 there were deductions of $17,417,000 — made up largely of taxes — to leave the $42,416,000 available for interest charges.

The over-all deficit compared with one of $42,043,000 the year before.

Farmer Kills 4 Through Window

CONWAY, Mo., April 4 (AP)—A 23-year-old farmer today admitted pumping a volley of shots through an Oarkz's farmhouse window and killing four persons.

Sheriff E. I. Cunningham identified the farmer as Kenneth Essery, who lives near the scene of the slayings, and said he verbally admitted the shootings, which occurred Tuesday night about four miles southeast of here in the Ozark hills of southern Missouri.

Four persons who responded to a call for aid from the farm family also were fired on. One of the four was wounded.

Prosecuting Attorney John Hosmer said Essery declined to give a reason for the shootings. No charges have been filed.

Hydro Expansion Big Power Boost

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP) — Expansion plans of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission will provide the province in 1952 with a power capacity 80 per cent higher than in 1945, G. E. Challies, vice-chairman of the commission, told the Legislature Tuesday night.

Reporting on progress of the commission, Mr. Challies said the $816,000,000 program had increased the hydro system's capacity from 2,600,000 horse power after the Second World War to 3,700,000 horse power at the end of 1950. Plans called for 4,700,000 horse power by the end of 1952.

Total assets of the provincial and municipal power commissions total $1,243,000,000. The Ontario commission employs 20,024 persons, the minister said in his report to the Legislature during its budget debate.

Addition of new generating sources however, had not allowed the commission to build up a power reserve because of an "unprecedented" demand.

Premier Frost said an advisory committee to the Hydro Commission, approved by legislation in 1944, will be formed this year.

A maximum of nine members will be named, Mr. Frost said. It will meet to advise the Hydro Commission on specific problems. He had not yet chosen the committee personnel.

3. Citizenship also could be revoked in the case of Canadian citizens by birth or naturalization who formally declare their allegiance to another state without technically acquiring the nationality or citizenship of that state.

Opposition leader Drew said the legislation would not make it possible to deal with actions by people who had come to Canada and were "abusing" the rights of Canadian citizenship and seeking to "destroy" Canadian institutions.

Widen Basis

The government should still further widen the basis upon which citizenship could be withdrawn. It should have an amendment to the Criminal Code to deal effectively with Communists.

Justice Minister Garson said his department is working on a draft amendment to the Criminal Code to deal with Communist activities. However, that did not mean the draft would emerge as legislation. The policy would have to be decided by the cabinet.

Mr. Fleming and Leo Gauthier (L-Sudbury) raised the question of how the citizenship legislation will affect persons who left Canada a few years ago for Yugoslavia and now wanted to return.

Mr. Gauthier read a "Canadian Press dispatch from Sudbury, Ont., quoting Peter Borovich, leader of the Yugoslav colony in that mining centre as saying that some of the Yugoslavs returning from their own country were avowed Communists.

The Yugoslavs who left Canada were the most rabid Communists in the country," Borovich said. "They were no good to this country and never will be."

Strong Statement

Mr. Gauthier said he knew Mr. Borovich and his statement was "pretty strong."

"But being a hotel keeper and probably with a couple of beers under his belt I can understand him making the statement that he did."

Mr. Gauthier wanted to know if the Canadian government planned to re-admit those who had shown before they left that they were affiliated with the Communist party. If they were re-admitted he wondered if the government had any power to deport them if they continued their Communistic activities.

Mr. Harris said there were three different categories of Yugoslavs who had returned to their homeland. Some were aliens who had not taken out Canadian citizenship. They now were in the same class as any other immigrant wanting to come to Canada, they would have to pass all tests.

There also were Yugoslavs born in Canada and Yugoslavs naturalized as Canadian citizens who could return as Canadian citizens. If there were charges against them because of their conduct abroad, they could be investigated by a commission of inquiry which would judge whether they should be deprived of their citizenship.

Mr. Harris said no one could expect Canada to grant the exponents of Communism one thing more than the law permitted.

Memorial Gate For Morrow Park

The members of the R. A. Morrow Trust have approved the design of a memorial gate at Morrow Park, Peterborough Exhibition grounds, as prepared by the board of directors of the Exhibition.

On the face of one of the concrete pillars a bronze plaque will commemorate the gift of the park property to the public by Mr. Harold A. Morrow, in memory of his father, R. A. Morrow.

The permanent entrance at the George St. end fulfills the wish of Mr. H. A. Morrow that some appropriate memorial to his father should be conspicuously placed in the park.

A sketch plan of the gate was submitted to the trustees by members of the Exhibition Board, and with their approval will now be completed in detail. The members of the Morrow Trust are Col. Frank Bradburn, Mr. H. I. Bradburn, T. J. Carley, K.C., and Mr. H. A. Morrow. The late R. M. Glover was a fifth member.

It is understood that the trustees frowned on the building of another barn for race horses on the west side of the park.

Say Ex-Convict Kidnapped Girl

McALESTER, Okla., April 4—(AP) — Sixteen-year-old Jackie Parris was freed today by a 23-year-old ex-convict who admitted to officers he abducted the girl and her high school skating date Sunday night.

The girl was found about 1 a.m. huddled beside a fire under a rock ledge atop a mountain near here. On the other side of the fire, his head buried in his hands, sat the ex-convict, Robert M. Phillips. He made no attempt to escape and was arrested on suspicion of kidnapping.

Chester Palmer, leader of a posse, said the girl told him Phillips "raped her about two hours before we got there."

Bill Coghill, 17, was parked with the girl outside of a skating rink Sunday night when a man forced himself into their car and made them drive to nearby Kinta.

The car became stuck in a creek several hours later and the abductor walked away with the girl, threatening Coghill who did not follow.

Order Company To Halt Advertising Liver Pills

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) —The government has ordered Carters to knock the word "liver" out of Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Furthermore, the federal trade commission said Tuesday, Carter's must stop saying without qualification that its pills are what you need when you're down-in-the-dumps, irritable, bilious or sullen.

The F.T.C. conclusion, as summed up in an accompanying statement by Commissioner John Carson:

"Carter's Little Liver Pills were and are, as the findings of fact show, nothing more than an irritative laxative compound."

The company, officially known as Carter's Products, Inc., will test the decision in the United States Court of Appeal.

In Ottawa, an official of the health department said he did not want to "commit myself on whether Canada will consider similar action" on Canadian-manufactured Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Plan To Fight Annexation By Sudbury

SUDBURY, April 4 (CP)—McKim township, a municipality with about 12,000 population, plans to fight annexation by Sudbury, a city of about 50,000.

The township council at a special meeting Tuesday night with Gordon Watson of Toronto, legal consultant, decided to oppose Sudbury's application to the Ontario Municipal Board here May 16 for permission to annex the 15,305 acres of land.

Sudbury at present has an assessed population of 47,054 and the addition of McKim residents would make the city large enough to have a board of control and cocktail bars.

The application to the Municipal Board was made earlier this year. Since then two small sections of the township have been joined to Sudbury. One was a built-up area and the other was unoccupied land.

Decision to fight annexation was supported by public and separate school boards which felt that they would lose in grants by becoming part of Sudbury.

Public meetings are expected to be held in the next few weeks and a plebiscite may be held in McKim on the question of joining Sudbury, Ontario's sixth city in population.

Iran Curbing Press Cables

TEHRAN, Iran, April 4 (AP).—Ahmed Zanganeh, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, announced today that Iran will refuse to transmit foreign press cables which appear to endanger state security or violate "decency."

The minister said Iran does not plan to institute censorship, but said some foreign correspondents have sent out "lies and false statements about the situation in Iran."

A notice of the move was sent to the Foreign Press Association calling attention to an article in the Atlantic City communications agreement under which member countries "reserve the right to stop transmission of any private telegram which may appear dangerous to the security of the state or contrary to their laws, to public order or to decency."

Zanageh's statement apparently was aimed at some news accounts which have painted an alarming picture of Iran under the martial law invoked in Tehran and in some areas of the southern oilfields. Actually, Tehran has been quiet since the proclamation of martial law, and reports from areas where oil workers are striking say there have been no major incidents, although a few demonstrators have been arrested.

French Hit Back In Vital Tonkin Area

HANOI, Indo-China, April 4—(Reuters). — French forces hit back today in the vital Tonkin Delta area of Indo-China as reports indicated that the first phase of the Viet Minh Communist rebel offensive launched last week had failed.

A strong French mobile force advancing through rugged mountains on a two-mile front reoccupied three French outposts in the Tonkin Delta bridgehead, reliable French military sources stated.

Ship 14 Hours Late

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., April 4 (Reuters)—The 33,000-ton United States liner America, battling through a gale, today reached Southampton 14 hours late. Conditions were so bad in Southampton water during the night that Commodore Harry Manning had to radio for more tugs. No casualties or damage was reported.

Murder Breeds Murder

The more we think about the suppression of the great liberal newspaper La Prensa by the Peron dictatorship in Argentina, the angrier we become. The suppression of a newspaper of high ideals and great integrity is in itself an abominable and tyrannical act, but it is even more important as a symbol and as the reflection of an attitude of mind. Hitler and Mussolini were also newspaper-suppressors, book-burners and press-chokers; a long, costly, bloody war was fought to vanquish them and to assert the fact that freedom is better than slavery. After that war the winning forces banded themselves together into an organization called United Nations, in order to keep on asserting the superiority of freedom. Argentina was admitted to U.N., although Argentina's part in the war was obscure, and now an Argentinian government has set out on the course which made Germany and Italy hateful and unendurable to the free world. The disgusting thing is that Argentina is a member of U.N., and there is apparently nothing that U.N. can do to make Argentina live up to the ideals of U.N.

* * *

This point of view has been expressed with admirable clarity by The New Yorker, which we sometimes think is the most intelligent liberal publication on this continent. This is what it says:

> The murder of a newspaper is a lot like the murder of a person; it is apt to lead to further bloodshed in an attempt to destroy the evidence. Mr. Peron strangled La Prensa and was seen with the sash cord in his hand. All over the world, newspapers and magazines just happened to catch him in the act. So he is now taking the next step: he is knocking the witnesses over the head, in order to get them out of the way. Argentine customs authorities were instructed last week to seize certain foreign newspapers and periodicals, so the dictator might be spared the embarrassment of having the Argentine public read about his crime. Thus does murder breed murder.

* * *

A man who takes it upon himself to silence the voice of truth must expect to have a long fight, and for a while he will have all the best weapons. But he cannot win; the human predilection for truth can no more be rooted out than the human preference for light. The pitiful thing at the moment is that our idealistic union of nations, called U.N., cannot apparently do anything to meet the situation. Again we quote The New Yorker:

> The Prensa affair stirs again the recurrent question: How can the United Nations shake off its impotency and show strength? The free world is rocked by the suppression of an independent newspaper and does not readily accept the explanation that it is a "domestic" matter. There is nothing domestic about the death of a newspaper. To kill off a newspaper is aggression. It is as menacing as to move an army across a border. If the Subcommission on Freedom of Information is dormant, then let the new Peace Observation Commission wake up and take La Prensa as its first assignment. What better observatory is there, if one is looking for evil stars, than a padlocked newspaper whose editor is being sought for arrest because he wrote a statement expressing his side of the case?

* * *

The moral right of U.N. to protest against the behaviour of Peron is indisputable, but if that right is asserted there will be a knock-down-and-drag-out debate in U.N., in which Argentina will loudly assert its sovereignty in domestic matters. There is not the faintest ghost of a chance that Peron and his goons could ever be persuaded that the free circulation of information and opinion is not a domestic matter but a matter of world importance. The fact is that world peace will always be out of the question until nations are ready to surrender a large measure of their sovereignty in matters which they now believe to be domestic, and they will never do that so long as the allegedly United Nations are in such widely varying conditions of civilization and have such widely varying consciences.

Let's All Be Medieval

Scotland Yard now knows who stole the Stone of Scone, but does not yet know where the Stone is hidden. The Scottish Covenant Movement has expressed, through a spokesman, "very grave resentment" at the thought that the thieves may be arrested, and the Scottish Nationalists are going to decorate the thieves with special medals, made from Celtic silver relics which have been melted down and re-cast.

The reason for the stealing of the Stone is rooted, apparently, in a medieval notion that some special virtue is inherent in it. We feel that in all fairness the case should be dealt with in a medieval manner.

In the first place, the thieves desecrated a church when they stole the Stone from Westminster Abbey. Judged by medieval standards, robbing a church is a much more serious matter than murder. Therefore we suggest that the Yard haul in the four thieves (one of whom is a woman) and punish them in the manner customary during the Middle Ages when church-robbers were caught. This will mean a revival of the writ De Heretico Comburendo which was revoked during the reign of Charles II, in order that the thieves may be burned at the stake, but as they apparently exist, mentally, in the Middle Ages, it would be churlish to disoblige them. Or they might prefer to be hanged, disemboweled and quartered—a punishment which does not last quite so long as the other.

We have some sympathy with the romantic aspirations of the Scottish Nationalists. But they want a piece of stone which is drenched in medieval hoodoo, and if they are prepared to turn thief and rob a church to get it, strict poetic justice demands that they be treated as though we were still living in the Middle Ages. It would be messy and savage to burn them in public, but it would be in strict accord with their beliefs, and the methods which they have adopted to further those beliefs.

Employment And Wages In Peterborough

There is always a seasonal drop in employment in Canada's winter months. The decline in the Peterborough area—which, in Ontario statisticians' books includes Oshawa, Cobourg, Lindsay and intermediate points—was very slight; 2.6 per cent. from the December level. This drop and its small degree were general throughout the country. In the province employment in industry increased, even though the total for all branches of work declined. These facts point to a very busy, fully-employed Canada. When the figures for the first quarter of this year are compiled they will undoubtedly show a higher rate of employment than ever before, and the greatest number of people at work in Canada's history. Peterborough's own chief plant, the Canadian General Electric company, is now employing more people than it did in its busiest war year.

Wages and salaries paid all types of workers employed in the Kawartha area rose slightly during January to an average of $53.44 a week. The increase was from $53.31 in December. Only two other classified districts in Ontario showed an increase in wages paid: Sault Ste. Marie and the Sudbury district.

Altogether, employment and wage statistics underline what everybody knows: that Ontario is booming. There is no respite in sight.

Strong Support For The Bible Message

Since we enquired on March 26 whether our readers wished us to continue to print the daily Bible Message we have received sixty letters urging us to do so; we have printed some of these letters at length, and have acknowledged the others. There can be no doubt whatever that the Bible Message is widely read, and we assure our readers that it will long continue to have an honoured place on this page.

We are grateful to those who wrote on this subject, for without some expression of opinion from our readers it is impossible for us to know whether the matter which we print every day, in various parts of the paper is of interest to them. We may remark in passing that we have had many telephone calls on this subject; what surprised us was that several of the telephoners wanted to keep the Bible Message, but were unwilling to sign their names to a request to that effect. Whether they feared that such a public avowal of interest would stamp them as "religious" in the eyes of their friends, we cannot tell.

Several correspondents, in supporting the Bible Message, took us to task for printing news of wars, crimes and for publishing daily comic strips. One writer asserted that Bible passages and religious news alone would suffice to make an excellent daily paper. This is a point of view with which we cannot agree; a somewhat less extreme opinion was expressed by a writer who said that doubtless the money we made from the publication of comics went into our "Judas bag". We can only reply that it is from our Judas bag—presuming that this pejorative expression is meant to refer to our treasury—that we pay our heavy expenses, and the wages of our staff. The Examiner does not live by bread alone, but without bread we should not live at all.

We are delighted and heartened by the warm response which our enquiry has brought, and the Bible Message is a fixture. Indeed, we would have kept it if only six letters had pleaded for it.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Fifty-one per cent. of the names on the electoral lists in Ontario are those of women. What the percentage of women is among those who actually vote, we have no idea.

An Ontario official describes our provincial educational system as revealing "wholesome confusion". It has been brought to that, we presume, by meritorious muddle in the Department.

ON THE MARGIN

Odyssey of the Spirit

THE PILLAR OF FIRE, by Karl Stern (Harcourt, Brace, New York; George J. McLeod, Toronto).

DR. Karl Stern, the author of this personal story, practises neurological medicine in Montreal and is a German Jew who reached the final stages of conversion to Christianity and Roman Catholicism in Montreal.

To begin near the end of the book, let me quote this paragraph of Montreal as an example of the author's powers of observation and synthesis. He had arrived in that city as a refugee two months before war broke out in 1939, a Jew in flight from the Hitler regime who took temporary haven in England in 1936.

"Montreal shows, in a coarsened and seemingly static form, all the imprints and traces of the quarrels of the European family of peoples. At home (i.e. in east Bavaria, near Bohemia) we used to have 'living pictures', scenes in which an action was shown arrested at a certain point, in a motionless pantomime. When you look down from the top of Mount Royal, you can almost directly perceive currents of European history of the last few centuries in a petrified form. There are French who seem to perpetuate the France of the time of Pascal, Monsieur Arnauld and the Port-Royal, a France which had dodged the impact of the Revolution. Here until a short time ago, political liberalism and the Catholic tradition were mutually exclusive. As in other Catholic countries, there is much voluntarily accepted poverty. In the province there is a genuine rural culture, with the family farm as a centre. The clergy is suspicious of industrialism and of the city, and one has a feeling that most of the Frenchmen who live in the city rely on the soundness and indestructibility of the village. Calvinist prosperity, at one with the rest of the British Commonwealth, seems to look down upon all this with amused self-assurance. This, in turn, spurs the French into national resentment of an incredible tenacity. To many of them the Church itself becomes a vehicle of national exclusiveness, obviously the opposite of what she actually is meant to be. In between this are the Jews and the Irish, both of whom seem still to bear the resentment produced by the suffering in their European home countries. Thus, the city is parcellated, and everywhere there are frontiers of distrust."

* * *

One wonders how the psychiatrist Dr. Karl Stern fares now in that city where the Jews are more disliked than 'Les Anglais', and yet he has severed his connection with Jewry by becoming a Christian. He is thus a minority of a minority of a minority.

Dr. Stern believes that his Christianity is an extension of the Hebraic religion, in which he used to be extremely orthodox. He believes that there is no incompatibility, except that "the one simple question, whether Jesus of Nazareth was God incarnate, becomes increasingly decisive between people, as history moves forward". His theological and philosophical disquisitions are undoubtedly important, for instance, his observations on Thomism (the doctrines of St. Thomas Aquinas), but for this reviewer the book holds most interest through its portrayal of idyllic Jewish life in a south-eastern German village, his impressions of the brutal advance of Nazism thereon, and by emotional inference as well as direct description, of the forces and people involved in the mass killings of Jews, the concentration camps, and the transmigration of persecuted people, the like of which the world has not seen since the dark ages.

Sometimes Dr. Stern's account is so vivid, personal and poignant, that one forgets that the author himself happily escaped the worst of it, if his friends and relatives did not. He managed to keep a jump ahead of Buchenwald and had the asylum of Canada all during the war. As he remarks, professional men of scientific learning had the edge on other Jews whose abilities were less important or more commercial.

This is the Odyssey of a soul as well as of man. It is also the biography of a person of sensibility and fine sensitivity. Behind it is the pathos of Europe in our times—and its culture.

This book, published two weeks ago, may well become a best-seller on this continent (given the usual blare of publicity). Its religious theme is compelling, its human appeal is gentle though vivid, and it footlights a chapter of civilized history from King Ludwig of Bavaria to Montreal and New York which is tearful but not without hope.

FISH AND COMPANY, by Ralph Arnold (Heinemann).

THIS is a detective story full of black mushrooms and red herrings. The story is set in the beautiful Lake Como district of Italy and abounds with Barons, Ladies and Honourables; perhaps if a few more of them had been dispensed with — via the black mushrooms—the whole thing wouldn't be so hard to follow. The hero is a dapper elderly little dentist, maddeningly loquacious, whose thoughts and actions are catalogued in such detail that one feels the author does not credit the reader with even the most infantile ability to reason for himself. Mr. Puckle may be a very fine detective-hero, he may be imagined to be a very expensive and excellent dentist, but he natters on and on through the book so that I cannot think of anything more irritating than being at the mercy of such a dentist, (unable to answer back) unless it is having to read 'Fish and Company' during a holiday.

Robbing The Soil

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Agricultural economists are expressing concern because more than 50,000,000 tons of straw, by-product of Canada's huge wheat crop, are left to rot in piles where the wheat is threshed, or else burned. They say that the straw should be chopped and turned back into the land that made it to loosen the soil and to help enrich it.

The problem of returning to the soil the vegetable wastes that occur through the processing is one that agricultural scientists should do more about. A case in point, of less magnitude than that of straw, is carrot tops. According to at least one agriculturist, an inch or so of the top is all that need be left on carrots when they are pulled to keep them fresh. Yet when the housewife buys a bunch of carrots either the marketman breaks off the tops and throws them away or she does it herself when she gets home.

Those tops should be removed at the farm and put back into the soil.

Letters To The Editor

MACDUFF REPLIES

Sir: I should like to thank Mr. Tully for his cordial and exuberant welcome to my recent soulful epistle on Englishmen. Let me assure him, however, that the writer would not care to "return" to England, not for all the tea in China.

As for being cheaply amused, I find a very good nickel's worth in the Examiner, in a phone call, and even in a bag of peanuts.

Mr. Tully notes that I am only inclined 'to agree' with "Canada First". Oh well, perhaps he doesn't know that we Scots are a canny race, so I'll go a wee bit further and say I am "very inclined".

One point I will make clear, and that is, that while the Englishmen take the best jobs and houses, they very seldom get the best girls.

Now, as regards the enquiry about my job and house, this seems irrelevant to me, as, (perish the thought) I am not an Englishman. I will, however say that I've a fair kind of job, and my house is,—well, it's not too bad at all, at all!

Lucky man Mr. Tully to have found what a Scot wears under his kilt. I, for years have wondered what an Englishman wears under his hat.

England may, as Mr. Tully asserts, be the best dreadfully small country in the world, but I'll borrow some of the salt he's giving away to swallow with his statement that Englishmen have been going to Australia and New Zealand since the days of good Queen Bess.

Alas! I'm afraid that Mr. Tully gives me credit for knowing more Latin than I really do. My classical vocabulary is limited to that which appears on the Examiner's title block and the "Honi coit qui mal de mer" of England. Sickening sort of thing to say, isn't it?

As regards the wealth I gathered in England, it was just sufficient to enable me to pay my fare back to civilization.

I agree that we must (temporarily) drop our racial differences until we make the world free for democracy. (I like the sound of that "free"!) Then, for the present let us say that we'll grant a temporary pardon to Englishmen, providing they don't come to Canada and take all the best jobs, houses, etc., from Canadians and their friends.

This seems to be the part where I came in.

Yours, etc.,
MACDUFF.

SUPPORTS BIBLE MESSAGE

Sir: The editorial page is a very educational and most interesting page to read, and when reading it, we of course look for the Bible Message which is good food for thought and we would certainly miss it were it not there, so we would be greatly pleased to see your Bible Message continued each day.

Thanking you for your space.

Sincerely,
The Mark St. United Church
Missionary Society.

ALL THE TRUTH

Sir: My wife and I want to add our appreciation to you for publishing the verses from the Bible every day. We read them constantly. By all means continue to do so. There are many stories in the Bible that make more thrilling reading than many novels. The Bible stories are true whereas the others are not. We agree with the statements of Mrs. Douglas Wade, Rev. Ralph Hobson and others regarding this matter. We are glad also that you publish these from the authorized version as we consider it much better than any other version.

Yours sincerely,
One of the representatives to the Bible Society from George St. United Church.
WALTER BURNS.

ROOM FOR CRIME AND SENSATION

Sir: I noticed an article on editorial page asking if people read the scripture message. I am sure that a great number of people read it, especially older people and shut-ins. It is one of the first things I read and get a comfort from the words of scripture. Very often when one is discouraged, there is a verse that lifts one up. In Monday night's message the verses from Psalm 36 were very comforting, mentioning the loving kindnes of God.

Most people read their Bibles, but it is nice to read scripture in the newspaper also. Surely when the paper has so much space for sensation and crime, you can spare a little space for words of comfort from the word of God.

Yours truly,
MRS. H. TAYLOR.
Aylmer St.

NOT READ REGULARLY

Sir: Re your letter in your paper March 26 relating to the Bible passages you print daily. Personally I do not always read them all—like many others we do read our Bibles—and the passages you quote are usually very familiar ones and very appropriate. The "Book" says "My word shall not return unto me void". So we have no means of knowing just how much good those verses do. I know I would miss them if they were not there.

Sincerely,
A READER.

PERADVENTURE TEN?

Sir: Re your query "Does anybody read the Bible Message?"

Surely you jest? But if not why would you consider leaving out the wonderful passages from Holy Writ—and what would you give us in place of them?

You wield a mighty pen, and your editorial page is read near and far—what a privilege to include portions of God's word!

I hope hundreds who read the verses will write you, but "Peradventure ten shall write in."

Yours truly,
(MRS.) J. E. CUMMING.
1216 Monaghan Rd.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

Sir: I read and appreciate very much the "Daily Bible Message" published in the Examiner. It is regretable that we are so often inclined to complain about the things we do not approve of, and forget to add a word of praise to the ones which please us.

Sincerely,
(MISS) M. DEYELL.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In addition to those published in full letters supporting the Bible Message have been received from M. Marsden (Lakefield), Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

For since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him. (Isa. 64: 4.)

* * *

Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ: (he is Lord of all:) that word I say, ye know, which was published throughout all Judaea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached; how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him....

While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word. And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost. (Acts 10: 34-38, 44, 45.)

* * *

Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. (James 4: 7, 8.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Is this the speedometer?" asked the pretty girl, tapping the glass with her finger.

"Yes, dear," he replied.

"And that's the clutch?"

"That's the clutch, darling," he said, jamming on his brakes to avoid a fast-approaching lorry.

"But what on earth is this?" she inquired, at the same time giving the accelerator a vigorous push with her foot....

"This, dear," he said, in a soft, celestial voice, "is Heaven." And picking up a harp he flew away.

* * *

A housemaid gave notice because she was going to be married. But when the great day arrived, it was found that her successor could not take up her position for another fortnight. Her mistress asked her if she would not postpone the ceremony.

"Change the date, change your fate, ma'am," the girl answered. "It's like flying in the face of Providence to alter wedding arrangements; but if 'Erbert is agreeable, I don't mind getting married and then coming back for a fortnight."

The young man was amenable to the arrangement, and half an hour after the ceremony the bride was back at her usual duties.

"And has your husband gone back to work, too, Mary?" asked her mistress.

"Oh, no, ma'am," was the shocked reply. "Herbert wouldn't work on a great day like this, he's gone on his honeymoon."

"They'll smile on the other side of their faces when the Government starts importing ostriches."

LINCOLN : : : AND ONLY LINCOLN : : :

WINS TOP AWARD IN A.A.A. ECONOMY RUN

MERCURY AGAIN WINS ITS CLASS!

PROVEN ENGINEERING PRODUCES DOUBLE WINNERS

Proven engineering means proven economy

The gruelling Mobilgas Economy Run conducted by the American Automobile Association — the severest competitive economy test for motor cars on this continent — has produced two outstanding winners this year. The Lincoln, equipped with overdrive, and only the Lincoln, was the grand sweepstakes winner, delivering better pound-for-pound performance than any other car.

The new Mercury, equipped with overdrive, again won the first prize over all other makes in its class. The results of the contest were on a ton-mile basis as determined by the A.A.A. Here, then, is unmistakable proof of peak performance and unparalleled economy.

Tested over roads ranging from icy mountain passes to blazing desert heat, the mighty Lincoln "InVincible 8" and the famous Mercury V-8 have proved once again that precision engineering means proven economy. Lincoln and Mercury engines are made by the world's largest manufacturer of V-8 engines — they are the product of twenty years painstaking research, of continuing improvement.

Three softball meetings coming up shortly. Annual session of the Industrial Fastball League is at 7.15 tonight in the YMCA, and the annual huddle of the Girls' League is there at eight p.m. on the morrow. All interested should attend these meetings. Next get-together of the men's executive will be April 15 to close entries. While the fastballers use Quaker Park for twilight tilts, the girls and men play under the arcs in the Bowl. And they found last season a tough one financially. A lot of cold, wet weather, plus rival attractions at night, cut down considerably in the attendance. They can't take too many season like that and survive.

* * * * * *

The Men's City Softball League has been paying a rental of $450 a season for the previous three years, but couldn't make it last semester. Just didn't have enough money at season's end. The girls pay less in annual rental. However, we might point out that the lights in the first place cost only a little more than $4,000 — and could have been installed cheaper. To date, the girls' and men's loops have paid back at least half of that sum in the space of five years, so the city (which, of course, still controls the park) hasn't done badly. It will get the rest of its money back in time and then make a profit each year. And have the lights for other uses, too.

* * * * * *

Some Give-And-Take

We feel that when the leagues have a bad financial season, the rental should be set accordingly. After all, the softballers are now bucking two popular under-the-lights sports in senior baseball and senior lacrosse. If the softballers, who get no help from anyone but the fans, continue to take too bad a financial beating, they'll have to fold up. That will be tough for them and their followers, and it will leave a lighted park making no profit for the city. Actually, the Council has no contract with these leagues, since a contract would give the loops control of the park during the summer, and naturally the parks committee wants to retain control at all times. But there must be some give-and-take in using this city property.

* * * * * *

Riverside Park now has lights and it, too, is city property. The Council drove a rather hard bargain but the senior ball club was satisfied. It promised to donate $15,000 to the city to get the lights put up and then pay the balance in rental. Actually, the club gave the city $15,163 and another $1,232 as 25 per cent of gate receipts the tail end of the season—after the arcs were used—in rental. And then paid out another $500 when the club had a balance of $998 for the season. With just 10 games played under the lights, mind you. Power costs for the 10 games were nearly $300. So, the Council isn't doing too badly on that Riverside investment, either. In time the lights will be paid off and then it'll be clear profit for the city.

* * * * * *

Two Referees Needed

Those team mat bouts or tag matches are slightly terrific, and big crowds of grapple fans really go for 'em. Last night along the Rue Brock, two tough guys named Atkins and O'Toole gained a most doubtful main bout o'er the popular Flanagan and Whip Watson. A groggy and definitely overweight referee (Bert Maxwell) didn't help matters any by getting himself knocked for a loop just before Whip had O'Toole in dire trouble. When Bert woke up, the situation had changed—due to Atkins getting into the act—and there was O'Toole atop Watson. So he counted the Whip out. No justice at all. It was a redhot session all the way, with more action than a nudist colony in mosquito time and rougher than some of our city streets. Henning and Geohagen drew in the semi-final and the prelim betwixt Stack and Zvonkin was even.

* * * * * *

Results of the Stanley Cup semi-finals last night were not too surprising to the many fans up this way who listened in. Leafs won 3-1 in Boston, with Gelineau not so hot in the home cage, and they now lead the series two games to one. Next one is Saturday back in Toronto. Detroit Red Wings took a 4-1 win in Montreal to sew up that series at two games each—Canadiens taking a pair in Detroit and Wings winning two in Montreal. Reise was hot and Stewart also effective for the NHL champs in the tussle staged before 14,428 fans. They go again in Detroit tomorrow. It rather looks at this time like the Wings and Leafs fighting it out for Lord Stanley's $50 basin.

PCVS Midgets Get Series Over St. Pete's

Soundly trouncing St. Peter's High midget basketball team 50-20 Tuesday night, Jack Cullis' PCVS Garnet and Grey team moved into the Ontario midget championship tournament Saturday. The Collegians won the first game of the points-to-count series Monday night 42-29, and took the round by 43 points.

PCVS' quintet is expected to open the tournament Saturday against the Toronto playground and city champions, Adam Beck. The second game will feature St. Catharines Collegiate midgets, coached by Jim McNulty, and St. Mary's from Western Ontario. The final game will be played in the evening.

A fast break powered the Garnet and Greys to their impressive win Tuesday night. This featured Doug Ash, the smallest man on the court. He broke unnoticed time and time again up the floor for easy baskets and started the Collegian pasing plays working. With Dan Griffin feeding him in the first half, Ash was able to total for the game 17 points. Griffin came through with 14. Simmons led St. Peter's with eight.

Opens With Dash

PCVS opened Tuesday with the dash in which they ended Monday night's game. Ash on breaks scored six points to combine with others by Bob Boorman, Griffin, Kearns, and Turner for 14 points. Meanwhile Simmons dropped in two foul shots and a basket for SPS. Again in the second, PCVS passed the ball well while on the offensive and this resulted in the scoring spread among Turner, Griffin, Foote, Corbett and D. Ash. This time four foul shots by Galvin with a basket by Board and a foul shot by Killen gave SPS seven points, the half ending 27-11.

Doug Ash and Carleton, two bantam basketball players for PCVS, controlled the scoring in the third quarter for PCVS when Ash notched six points, Carleton four and Griffin two for a total of 12. St. Peter's matched their second quarter effort with seven points, scored by Creally, Simmons and Board. Griffin then took over for PCVS in the fourth as they swamped SPS 11-2. The line-ups:

SPS 20 — Galvin 4, Board 4, Ryan, O'Brien, Simmons 8, Quinlan 1, O'Rourke, Finn 1, Creally 2, Killen

PCVS 50—D. Ash 17, J. Boorman, B. Boorman 2, Carleton 4, Corbett 2, Foote 2, Griffin 14, Kearns 8, Roberts, Turner 7.

United Church Parson Raps Rough Hockey

TORONTO, April 4 (CP) — Rough hockey was criticized Tuesday night by the Toronto East Presbytery of the United Church.

A resolution sponsored by the Rev. G. H. Thomas condemned the trend to rough-house tactics in hockey as a threat to good sportsmanship.

"We view with deep concern any drift in athletic circles, professional and alleged amateur, that tends to destroy good sportsmanship, thereby hazarding the unique contribution that team games can make to the character education of youth.

"We would include such hazards . . . as the growing practice of players resorting to such physical attacks on opposing players and officials as results in bodily injury as well as making a public spectacle that in no wise enhances the game as such."

M. Sanderson High

M. Sanderson led in singles with 324 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League, as D. McArthur had top three of 750. Brinton's 3,032 was best in pinnage while Marines hit a high single game of 1,146. Towne Togs and Dickson's whitewashe d Sevenaires and Aces, with Brintons Marines and Arcos gaining 2-1 wins over Curtin's, Cardinals and Collis respectively. The blind score of 525 went to J. Snape with 527.

Good singles included: M. Thompson 302, D. McArthur 302, B. Castle 291 M. Selkirk 282, M. Hawthorne 269, J. Alexander 253, B. Nichols 268, L. Vincent 265, E. Thompson 264, M. Sanderson 269, D. YOGI CHANGES HORSES—Before leaving the Phoenix base, Yogi Berra has to make like a cowpuncher with something besides the 10-gallon hat. Berra tries the real thing at first. But if you look closely at the horse on the right, a doubt may arise. Yep, you're right, it's only a wooden rocking-horse—best suited for a tenderfoot like the inimitable Yankee catcher.

Find Yankees In Sorry State With Injuries

By GAYLE TALBOT.

TUCSON, Ariz., April 4 (AP). —Doctor Casey Stengel is holding his New York Yankees together with baling wire and sticking plaster (again!) as the world champions start limping back north to open the American League baseball season in less than two weeks.

A series of new injuries within the last few days, added to several others that have plagued the club all spring, forced Casey to play a line-up against Cleveland here Tuesday which would have difficulty finishing in the second division.

Casey is becoming worried and admits he is in for trouble unless there are a few recoveries before opening day. He planned to have his starting team ready to go by this coming Saturday, but has abandoned hope of that now.

"What makes it worse," he lamented, "is that these kids get hurt and don't tell me about it so I could get them out of there. Then they start running and throwing too soon."

He had particular reference to third-baseman Billy Johnson, who fractured a rib in an early inning of a game the other day but said nothing about it and played out the contest. Now he is out for at least two weeks.

Little Phil Rizzuto has a badly-pulled muscle in his left side and could be out for some time. So it has been necessary to move second-baseman Gerry Coleman over to shortstop.

Thumb Trouble

Mickey Mantle, the wonder rookie, has come up with a sore thumb which threatens to give him serious trouble. The thumb swells to nearly twice its normal size after he has batted left-handed, the result, apparently, of a faulty follow-through.

Mantle can hit right-handed without ill effect, but the Yanks have been seeing very little left-handed pitching, and until they do Mantle doubtless will stay on the bench. Casey is not going to risk such a prodigy at this stage —not when he knows Mickey will pack the park for the Yankees' final two exhibitions in New York.

To continue with the casualty list, pitcher Allie Reynolds still is having trouble with his salary arm, and there is no indication when he will be ready for a starting assignment. The club can't win a flag without the sturdy Indian.

Gene Woodling, alternate outfielder, has been able to play only at rare intervals because of a painful instep. Likewise first-baseman Johnny Mize, who has a troublesome side.

Villains Take Doubtful Win Against Flan and the Whip

When four wrestlers are in the ring at once, there should be at least two referees in there—or, at least, that's how the large crowd felt at the Brock Arena last night. Fred Atkins, 255, and 248-pound Tommy O'Toole (the villainous pair) won an unpopular deciding fall in the main grapple bout over Whipper Bill Watson, at 237, and the 231-pound Pat Flanagan, but there was skullduggery afoot. Plus a dazed referee. It came about, after each side won a fall, that the good guys were whamming the bejabers out of their rivals, working in relays. Whip Watson rammed O'Toole several times into the turn-buckles, but once by accident into Referee Bert Maxwell, who went down in a flabby heap. The Whip then had O'Toole about out with an unconscious grip when Atkins tripped Whip, who banged his head hard. O'Toole rolled on him as a groggy referee got up just in time to count out Watson. Flan had even helped revive the ref. just before.

Evened It Up

That fall came in four minutes, but Whip flattened O'Toole in 14 minutes for the second fall of the bout to equalize the match. He caught him with a flying body scissors and applied the unconscious grip, after he and Pat had worked in relays on Tommy with hard headlocks in their corner. It was a wild show, with the ring nearly ruined and the place in an uproar. There were four grapplers flying about in there at times, and the referee once stopped it to lay down the law to all four. The popular Whip and Pat had the best of it and Whip had both his opponents out of the ring at times. They used O'Toole another time as a battering ram to bash into Atkins tied up in a corner.

Fred won the first fall over Flanagan in 15 minutes with a series of rolling headlocks, resembling choke holds after Tommy had softened Pat up with punches and knees. Earlier, Whip and Flan had a good margin in rough, open scrapping, with Tommy and Fred using all their trickery in their corner to give Maxwell a busy time of it. All four got in once in mad confusion and Tommy and Fred even found themselves grappling with each other as the crowd roared in approval. Watson had both chased out of the ring once, and Pat pulled a lot of agile stuff to more than hold his own in the lively session.

Tim Was Strong

Timothy Geohagen, 228, and Lee Henning, the tough 256-pounder, battled to a semi-final draw in the 30-minute time limit. While Lee was bigger and rougher, speedy and powerful Tim balanced it up most of the way. He was having the best of it at the bell, after applying a headlock from outside the ropes. They mixed briefly after the bell with the crowd booing Henning. The latter used knees, fists, chokes, a concealed piece of string, and yanked hair in an all-around villainous mat showing. Tim offset a lot of it with punishing wrist-locks and bridging to escape the holds, his strength and speed making it a fairly even and exciting bout. The fans were with the Irishman throughout.

Abe Zvonkin, scaling 232, and 240-pound Bill Stack, went to a draw in the prelim. Stack replaced Pierre LaSalle, whose mother died, and held his own with a rough-tough opponent. Abe played it dirty from the go-in, but Stack battled back with a headlock in pretty fast stepping. Zvonkin yanked hair, used ropes for leverage, and even scraches, but a leglock in reverse later bothered him. He protested plenty to the five-by-five Maxwell — who keeps putting on the weight —but it didn't do any good. The fans were behind big Bill and panned the rough ex-Hamilton gridder plenty.

Leafs Hold One-Game Edge Down Boston Bruins 3-1

By JOE KELLY.

BOSTON, April 4 (AP). —Toronto Maple Leafs travelled back to their St. Catharines hideaway today holding a one-game edge over Boston Bruins in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series.

The Leafs, who will rest today and work out Thursday and Friday, downed the Bruins 3-1 on Tuesday night at Boston Garden for their second victory in the series, which will determine the opponent for the winner of the Detroit-Montreal playdown.

Breaks decided Tuesday night's tussle, and one of the first to admit it was Conn Smythe, articulate president and general manager of the Leafs.

Bruins had a slight edge in territorial play until the 15th minute of the second period when Max Bentley scored a flukey goal which cracked a 1-1 tie.

Max had been ridden off as he skated in on the Boston cage, but retained possession of the puck as he moved in.

He shot the puck out towards his mates clustered in front of the net and it bumped off goalie Jack Gelineau's skate into the cage.

Bill Barilko's third-period goal was just a little more frosting on the cake.

Opened Scoring

Boston opened the scoring in the first period on Dunc Fisher's backhander over the fallen Turk Broda. That goal, only one of the opening session, was set up by Hal Laycoe, just rounding into shape after a layoff because of a cracked bone in his foot.

Bill Ezinicki was finishing a minor penalty when Toronto tied it in the second, with Sid Smith deflecting Jimmy Thomson's drive past Gelineau.

The Leafs will take it easy today after arrival at St. Catharines. They will skate Thursday and Friday and arrive at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens an hour or so before game time Saturday night.

Bruins will have today off. They leave by train Thursday for Toronto and will skate briefly in Toronto Friday.

The teams then will return here Sunday.

Leafs will be at full strength, save for winger Harry Watson who is recovering from a separated shoulder. Bruins have a long list of injured. Latest word is that wing Johnny Peirson, who suffered a fractured left cheekbone Saturday night in Toronto will be unable to play this weekend.

Milt Schmidt is skating on two knees bound so tightly he can barely bend them. Vic Lynn and Pete Horeck are slowed by charlie horses. Henderson still winces when bumped hard near his mending rib.

But neither Boston coach Lynn Patrick nor his players have given up and Patrick insists "we can still win."

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Moncton Hawks playing without their injured star centre Bert Connolly, won the Allan Cup for the second year in a row 17 years ago tonight. The Hawks won the third and deciding game by 5-1 at Toronto. The Halifax Wolverines made it three straight for the Maritimes by taking the 1935 title.

ARGOS TO PLAY IN WEST

The Winnipeg club of the Western Football Conference said on Tuesday that Toronto Argonauts will meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers in an exhibition game in Winnipeg Aug. 20. Argos will play at Calgary Aug. 18.

Praise Sawchuk For Stellar Job

By VIC MORRIS, JR.

MONTREAL, April 4 (CP). — "For a club that let you down we did pretty good tonight, eh Terry?" manager Jack Adams asked goalie Terry Sawchuk in the dressing room last night, after Detroit Red Wings trounced Montreal Canadiens 4-1 in the fourth National Hockey League play-off game.

Jolly Jack, who witnessed his first complete playoff game this season, was high in praise for his rookie netminder.

"It was this kid that pulled us through tonight," Adams told newspaper men and photographers after the game.

Adams told Sawchuk to forget about the loss of the Vezina Trophy to Al Rollins of Toronto. "The team went out and scored the goals for you, Terry."

"We're back in it again."

Coach Tommy Ivan stuck with his earlier opinion that the series would go to the teams with the breaks.

"We had them again tonight," he said. "I think the series will go the seven games if the breaks are as divided in the next games as they have been."

On the other side of the rink, coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens was still confident that his boys will win the series.

"Sure, we lost two games at home—so did Detroit."

Lethbridge Loses

BRIGHTON, Sussex, England, April 4 (REUTERS).—Lethbridge Maple Leafs wound up their 55-game European tour Tuesday night by dropping a 7-6 decision to Brighton Tigers of the British Ice Hockey Association. Mickey Roth led the Canadian scorers with two. Dinny Flanagan, Hec Negrello, Don Vogan and Walter Rimstad got one each.

Habs Left On Short End Bow To Detroit

MONTREAL, April 4 (CP).—The advantage of home ice, said by hockey's cognoscenti to be a deciding influence in the winning of games, has been a disadvantage so far in the Montreal-Detroit National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs.

Canadiens took the first two games of the best-of-seven series from Detroit on the Wings' home ice. Playing at home, the Montrealers dropped the third contest 2-0 and Tuesday night they came out on the short end of a 4-1 count. In other words, both teams are back where they started, each having lost two home games to leave the series tied 2-2.

If the current winning-away trend continues, Canadiens are assured of taking the series. They can count on a victory at Detroit Thursday, Detroit will take the next game at Montreal Saturday to even the series again, and Canadiens will have the final say at Detroit Sunday.

Wings Have Edge

In Tuesday night's contest, it was Detroit all the way.

The Wings struck for two goals in the opening period and for two more in the finale to more than offset Montreal's solitary second-period marker.

Leo Reise, Metro Prystai, Gerry Couture and Sid Abel counted for the Wings. Elmer Lach counted for Canadiens.

Some 14,500 fans witnessed the game and didn't particularly like what they saw—a home team performing in big-time fashion only in the second period.

The game was a rough-and-tough affair, too, threatening to break wide open on several occasions. Tempers were cooled in time, however, and only minors were called, nine in all of which six went to Canadiens.

Detroit had 28 shots on Gerry McNeil and Canadiens had 23 on Terry Sawchuk.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

COLOURFUL Dick Irvin has always been sure-fire "hot copy." We verified this again the other day when we dropped in for a chat with the "grey thatch" coach of the Montreal Canadiens. Asked about the future of his team, Irvin was as optimistic as ever. Said he: "We've got a fine lot of youngsters coming up the line. Several French-Canadian boys we brought up for the play-offs are setting our town on its ear. They really helped us into a play-off spot." As far as the play-offs are concerned, Dick Irvin naturally believes the Canadiens should win the Stanley Cup. Pressed to pick a favourite team should the Flying Frenchmen fall short of the ultimate, Irvin looked skyward a moment, then pontificated: "If our planets are not favourable—if our numerology charts are not agreeable or our teacup readings incorrect and we do not win the Cup this year, I hope Boston takes it. That Milt Schmidt fascinates me as a competitor."

Irvin As Player:

As a judge of hockey players, Coach Dick Irvin should know whereof he speaks. A former top-flight centre himself, he set many leagues on fire, including the NHL. In the season, 1913-14, as centre of the Winnipeg Monarchs, he came east for the Allan Cup finals against the Toronto Rowing Club.

The "best of five" series had got under way in Winnipeg, where the Rowing Club won the first game 5 to 4. The Monarchs went on to take the second game 5 to 1. The third game ended in a 6-all tie and the two teams then came east to continue the struggle in Toronto's Mutual Street Arena. The Rowing Club were heavy favourites to win the trophy, but when the sticks were packed away after the game, skinny centre Dick Irvin had chalked up a personal total of NINE goals.

The final score was NINE to TWO for the Winnipeg Monarchs!

Irvin As Innovator:

When Irvin took over the coaching chore of the Canadiens some ten years ago, he introduced several innovations which are today standard practise in the major circuit. His favourite brain child was the icing of a complete set of forwards and defensemen. "Makes you feel like a Field Marshal sending out those players," smiled Irvin. "Only you've got to watch out you pick the right moment. I remember watching a kids' game where one team changed players just as the opposition started to sweep down the ice. Imagine the surprise of the goalie, when he found himself all alone facing a whole team. The fresh kids swarmed on the ice just in time to see the red light flash. I'll bet their coach's face was red, too!"

Who Said That?

At the present time, with his Canadiens in the play-offs, Irvin would like to reply to his friend, columnist Jim Coleman, who publicly prophesied that Montreal would never enter the charmed circle this year.

" 'Dear Jim:

Turn red, white and blue—
our colours. Ha, ha.

(signed) Dick Irvin.' "

Photo Finishes:

Congratulations to Maple Leaf goalie, Al Rollins. The towering Vanguard, Sask., boy walked off with the coveted Vezina Trophy in a last game-finish with sensational Terry Sawchuk of the Detroit Red Wings. A mere goal separated the two netminders as it did the goals-scored totals of Red Wing Gord Howe and Canadien "Rocket" Richard. Oddly enough, the Detroit Hockey Writers' Association picked Red Kelly as the Red Wings' most valuable player. Just shows you how powerful those Wings really are. Remember, they also have such diversified hockey talent as Ted Lindsay, Sid Abel and Leo Reise—and, of course, Terry Sawchuk. Dick Irvin to the contrary, we don't see how the Red Wings can fail to take their second straight Stanley Cup. If they miss, will our face be red!

Central Takes Puck Win In Special Tilt

In an exhibition hockey game yesterday at the arena, Central (senior Public School League champions) blanked St. Alphonsus—senior winners of the Separate School League—by a 5-0 score. Both goalies were good with Matthews earning a shutout by blocking many close-in drives. It was the first such game played in a long time, the coaches feeling it a step in the right direction, and the teams turning in a fine sporting contest, shaking hands afterward. Walt Smillie gave ice time and ran the clock and lights. The refereeing was good.

Gardner was in great form to notch all five markers for the winners, two each in the first and third and one in the second. Brooks aided on two. This pair and Armstrong stood out for Central, while Heffernan, T. Doris and Smith were best for St. Alphonsus. Teams:

St. Alphonsus: Heffernan, T. Doris, Smith, E. Doris, Forestell, Daley, Carver, Adamson, Rochetta, Blodgett, Hickson.

Central: Brooks Patterson, Gardner, McInnes, Martyn, Naish, Matthews, Tranter, Armstrong, Dunford, Williams, Craymer, Gray, Brown.

Referees: G. Heffernan and D. Lawless.

To Increase Share

BAGHDAD, Iraq, April 4 (AP) —A government communique said Tuesday night the Iraq Petroleum Company has agreed to increase the government's share from oil revenues to levels similar to those accepted by neighboring Arab countries. In Saudi Arabia this amounts to a 50-50 share of profits. The communique added that negotiations to implement the agreement will be opened this week.

OFF HOURS—The Montreal Canadiens, currently playing in the Stanley Cup playdowns with the Detroit Red Wings, are spending a few days between games at their play-off camp in Val David, Que., in the Laurentian Mountains. Left to right in the friendly card game are Glen Harmon, Kenny Mosdell and Rocket Richard, whose rifle shots won the first two games of the series. The series is tied two all.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Cambridge crew has taken a quick look at New York and agrees with an emphatic "heah, heah" that the city's taxicab drivers are unique philosophers.

Today the pink-faced British athletes—small and slight by American standards—leave for New Haven to start intensive training for races April 14 against Yale, and April 19 at Boston against Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Boston University.

This British crew averages six feet one-half inch, and 174 pounds. At bow is Harry H. Almond, 5-9, weighing a mere 144 —about the size of an American coxswain.

Cambridge won the invitation to compete here by defeating Oxford by about 12 lengths in their annual 4½-mile race on the Thames. Here the Britishers will race at much shorter distances — probably 1 5-16 miles at Derby, Conn., against Yale, and 1¾ miles on the Charles River at Boston.

At Toronto Pete Audette, who manages Montreal's Armand Savoie, said Tuesday night his fighter has been matched for an April 23 bout with Jean Richard, the winner to be named Canadian lightweight boxing champion.

Audette, who arrived with Savoie to prepare for the match with Toronto's Alan McFater on Monday night, says the Boxing Federation has okayed the bout.

However, Fred Steele, Ontario athletic commissioner, said "there will be no lightweight title match unless Arthur King is considered." King currently fights out of Philadelphia although he comes from Toronto.

Turning to baseball, Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday sent rookie right-handed pitcher Paul Stuffel to their Baltimore farm club of the International League. Stuffel was with Toronto Maple Leafs last season.

And at St. Louis, Cardinals, owner Fred Saigh said manager Marty Marion won't be ready to play before June and Sollie Hemus probably will be the club's shortstop this season. Marion underwent a knee operation in December.

Cancer Kills Child

Omemee H & S Plan Sale

OMEMEE, April 4 (ENS). — The April meeting of Omemee Home and School Association was held Monday evening, Mrs. H. Green presiding. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $29.78. Announcements were made of coming Home and School events in Peterborough and Lakefield. Parents' roll-call gave the shield to Mr. Curtis' room.

Mrs. H. Lennox gave her report as health convener. Mrs. F. W. Pooley reported for publications, recommending a book published by the Department of Health and Welfare on "Years from One to Six."

All conveners were requested to prepare yearly reports for the annual meeting in May. Date for the proposed afternoon tea and sale of home baking was tentatively set for April 20. Mrs. R. James was appointed convener for the tea and Mrs. R. Rehill for the home baking section.

Features of the meeting were reports by Mrs. Pooley and Mrs. A. Stephenson. Mrs. Pooley reported on the Home and School Council meeting held in Peterborough on March 21, and Mrs. Stephenson presented highlights of some panel discussions which she attended at the Federation convention.

The president thanked the ladies who gave the reports, and the Rev. F. W. Pooley for operating the projector. Lunch was served.

Ike Williams Decides To Defend Title

PHILADELPHIA, April 4 (AP) —Ike Williams finally has decided to defend his lightweight championship, but it seems likely that the Trenton, N. J., puncher waited a little too long to make up his mind.

Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Williams' manager, said Ike will fight James Carter of New York in a title match at Madison Square Garden May 11.

This move caused the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission to lift its suspension of Williams—but it didn't change the position of the National Boxing Association.

The NBA had begun polling the 14 members of its executive committee to decide whether to declare Williams' title vacant because he ignored an NBA directive to defend his crown by March 31.

Arch Hindman, head of the NBA, said the poll will continue despite the agreement on the Carter match. Results of the poll won't be made known until next week.

Carter has only a fair record as far as title challengers go. In 61 bouts, he won 45, lost 10 and fought a draw six times.

He is one of five boxers Palermo named earlier as possible foes for Williams when the NBA issued its March 31 directive.

Palermo said that if Williams gets past Carter in their title go, Ike will meet Art Aragon of Los Angeles June 19.

This was news to matchmaker Babe McCoy who said at Los Angeles that he "gave up a long time ago" trying to arrange a Williams-Aragon championship fight. McCoy said that as far as he is concerned, Williams is no longer the lightweight champion.

The Indian government will conduct the sale of the gems which have been held in trust since last year for the Nizam, one of the world's wealthiest men. The proceeds will be invested in Indian government securities and used for development of Hyderabad.

Boys Tie Up Traffic

CALCUTTA, April 4 (Reuters) —Schoolboys sat down in a street in the town of Khardah Tuesday and held up traffic for several hours. Police finally arrested eight and dispersed the rest. The boys were protesting against traffic being allowed to use the street. They alleged a truck had recently knocked down one of their schoolmates there.

Marmora Man Marks Birthday

MARMORA, April 4 (ENS)—Daniel Osborne attained to his 78th birthday on Monday. He was born in what is now Harry Keating's residence on the old Havelock road, on the top of Osborne's Hill.

His father, James Osborne, came from Cornwall, England, and was a foreman at the old Blairton Iron Mines.

Dan is one of 13 children born to his parents of whom two others are living today; Mrs. Dave Taylor of Warsaw, and Mrs. Alfred McKeown of Vancouver, V.C. A retired pensioner of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, Dan has for the past eight years devoted a great deal of his time to his vegetable garden at the rear of his home on North Hastings Avenue.

He has recently recovered somewhat from an illness and will have to curtail his gardening efforts this spring. With his wife, he evinces great interest in the welfare of his eight children now scattered in Ontario and Montreal. Two of his sons, George of Marmora and Ray of Toronto served in the Second World War.

Car Weaving Across Road Catches Inspector's Eye

Everett Godfrey, 161 Robinson St., was followed by Staff Inspector E. V. McNeill of the Ontario Provincial Police as he drove into Peterborough the night of March 25 and as a result he was charged in police court Tuesday with careless driving.

He was found guilty and fined $10 and $5 costs.

The inspector testified that he caught up to Godfrey's car at the Chemong turn as he was driving into Peterborough on Highway 7.

The car, travelling about 25 to 30 miles an hour, was wandering all over the road. Each car that approached the Godfrey car had to go over to its right to avoid a collision. One car passed the inspector's car and tried to pass the Godfrey car, but the accused man's car cut him off.

Radioed Ahead

The inspector radioed ahead to Peterborough for someone to intercept Godfrey. At Reid St. and Parkhill Rd., he saw Godfrey pull over from the left side of the street and stop in the centre of Reid St. as Corporal Lloyd McClure signalled him to stop with a flashlight.

Corporal McClure said he saw Godfrey come around the corner at Reid and Stewart Sts. on the left side. He said Godfrey was "under the influence of liquor to a certain degree."

In the car with Godfrey were his wife and Miss Aileen Taylor and Miss Irene O'Connell. The officer said it was a toss-up whether he would charge Godfrey as a drunk driver or not, but decided to give him the benefit of the doubt.

Find Empty Keg

Constable Jack McKendry said he searched the Godfrey car and found an empty keg which smelled of alcohol in the trunk.

Godfrey said he had spent the Easter weekend in his father's home in Wilberforce. In the afternoon before he returned to Peterborough he drank four or five glasses of beer between 3 p.m. and 4.30 p.m.

As he drove home, he found the roads were full of holes. He said the road from the Chemong turn had bumps at spots and had some holes. He said he turned out to the left to avoid these.

Constable McKendry said there were no holes and no bumps in the road from the Chemong turn into the city.

Korea Needs Aid Missionary Informs Churches

HAVELOCK, April 4 (ENS)—Despite rainy weather, a large congregation assembled in Havelock United Church Sunday evening to hear a first-hand story of Korea from the guest speaker, the Rev. Elda S. Daniels, of Hamilton, who served as a teacher at Ewha Women's University in Seoul, Korea.

The evening service at Norwood United Church was withdrawn and the minister, the Rev. E. E. Pugsley, and a large number of his congregation attended, and in addition there were visitors from Peterborough, Marmora and Campbellford.

The Havelock WMS and Evening Auxiliary marched into the church in a body. The service was conducted by Mrs. G. W. Chiles, president of the local WMS. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Gerald Buchanan, president of the Evening Auxiliary, and Mrs. F. R. Vanderbergh offered prayer. The offertory was taken up by Mesdames A. Holland, G. Whitney, B. Johnson and R. Green, members of the auxiliaries.

The Rev. E. Daniels told a story of Korea, beginning with the treatment that country received under a Japanese regime of 35 to 40 years and dealing with its geographical position which made it vulnerable to aggression.

She said she would like to bring a beautiful story about Korea because all through the years there had been the longing for freedom and a new way of life, but she said that her story was one of suffering, privation and death. She stressed the urgent need of aid from the Western world for where privation exists, there the seed of Communism flourish.

She spoke of the 38th Parallel and the mistaken thoughts of the Communists that southern Korea could be easily over-run. There are now 4,500,000 refugees in South Korea in a section smaller than Southern Ontario. Miss Daniels made a strong appeal for clothing to be sent there through the United Church Overseas Mission service.

Prior to her sermon, Miss Daniels told a story of two Japanese children, during which she sang a verse of "Jesus Loves Me" in the Korean language. To illustrate her story, Miss Daniels dressed Ferne Emery and John Agnew in Korean costume. She was also wearing a silk Korean costume which had been given her by three of her girl students at the university.

The young people's choir of 36 voices led the service of song and sang two anthems, "Open the Gates of the Temple" and "Pass On the Torch." They entered the church in processional, singing "Raise Our Banner."

A period of fellowship was held in the Sunday school auditorium following the service at which short addresses were given by the visitors and light refreshments were served by the Women's Association.

The Rev. Elda Daniels was the guest of Mrs. G. W. Chiles.

$65,000,000 Ottawa Grant To Wheat Growers Sparks Major Political Storm Of Current Session

By GEORGE KITCHEN.

OTTAWA, (CP).—A $65,000,000 federal treasury grant to western wheat growers has provided the major political storm of the current parliamentary session—a storm that may erupt again and again.

It was voted on the day parliament adjourned for the Easter holiday—March 21—after an unprecedented Senate attempt to kill it was beaten back in that chamber.

The debate in both chambers added more than 200,000 words to Hansard records, brought demands that Agriculture Minister Gardiner should resign, and claims that he had implied a breach of faith by the United Kingdom government.

The grant makes possible an 8.3-cent-a-bushel final payment to the growers for wheat they delivered into a five-year wheat pool which the government set up in 1946 to fulfil the four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement. This agreement began operating with the 1946-47 crop year.

Opponents of the vote claimed the wheat growers were getting preferential treatment at the expense of all the taxpayers. Critics of the vote, mainly representing wheat areas, claimed it was not nearly enough.

Not Out of Proportion

Government supporters retorted that if all the various forms of aid to Canadian primary industries were taken into consideration this final settlement would not be out of proportion, that it was fair from both angles.

The four-year agreement with the United Kingdom, with the government's five-year pooling plan for stabilizing wheat export prices through operations of the Canadian wheat board, made up such a complicated situation that it was difficult to weigh and balance the various charges and counter-charges.

Growers Receive $1.83

The net result is that—with the 8.3-cent payment — the growers will finally have received approximately 1.83 for each of the 1,435,955,510 bushels of wheat delivered and sold during the pooling period.

During that period there were times when the world price was much higher. Had the situation been reversed, however, and the bottom had fallen out of the world wheat market, the Canadian grower would have been protected by a guaranteed floor price.

Though actually set up in 1946 the pool was made retroactive to the summer of 1945. This was because 1945-46 production was needed to fill British requirements in the first year of the contract—1946-7. The pool, and the contract, both expired July 31 last year.

The 1,435,955,510 bushels delivered into the pool were sold for $2,552,333,047, made up of $1,089,899, 013 from the British sales, $1,013,810,849 for other sales and $448,649,824 from wheat sold for domestic consumption.

Leaves 55 Million

So far, the growers have received payments amounting to 1.75 a bushel. This left $55,000,000 in the pool for distribution to them as a final payment. The addition of the $65,000,000 grant makes a total final distribution of $120,000,000—or about 8.3 cents a bushel.

What was all the shouting about?

The wheat contract was signed in 1946 and covered four crop years—1946-47 and 1949-50.

It provided that Britain would buy 160,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in each of the first two years and 140,000,000 in each of the last two years, making a total sale of 600,000,000 in the four years. Actually, the sales reached 631,000,000 bushels

It also provided that in the first two years the wheat would be sold at $1.55 a bushel, basis No. 1 Manitoba Northern in store at Fort William or Port Arthur. No price was fixed for the last two crop years, 1948-49 and 1949-50.

However, the agreement did provide that in the crop year 1948-49 the price would not be less than $1.25 and in the crop year 1949-50 it would not be less than $1.

The Key Clause

Then came the key clause. It said that in determining the prices for the last two crops years the U.K. government would "have regard to any difference between the prices paid under this agreement in the 1946-47 and 1947-48 crop years and the world prices for wheat in the 1946-47 and 1947-48 crop years."

Later, the two governments agreed on a price of $2 a bushel for those last two years. At the same time, they decided to get together not later than July 31, 1950—the date the contract expired—to reach a final settlement of any compensation which Britain might have to make under the "have regard to" clause.

In May, 1950, the British government reported that it felt it had discharged its obligation under the clause by paying $2 a bushel in the last two years. It did not, it stated, intend to make any further paymen as compensation.

Prairie farm organizations protested the British decision and Canada suggested the U.K. might wish to reconsider. The British government declined to alter its decision.

In March, the Canadian government announced that it would contribute $65,000,000 to the wheat pool. This means the cost will be borne by all of the taxpayers of Canada.

In making this payment, the government said it did so because it felt the prairie producers had a right to expect some extra compensation in view of statements made by British and Canadian cabinet ministers.

Views Differed

Prime Minister St. Laurent and other government spokesmen said they felt $65,000,000 was just and reasonable.

Some of the government's political foes contended $65,000,000 wasn't enough to make the difference between the contract price of $1.55 in the first two years and the higher prices paid at Chicago and those paid for Canadian wheat sold to countries other than the U.K.

As compared with the $1.55 rate, average wheat prices in Chicago were $2.09 bushel in 1946-47 and $2.46 in 1947-48 for No. 2 hard winter wheat, the nearest comparable grade to Canada's No. 1 northern. The average rate of Canadian sales outside the contract were $2.43 in 1946-47 and $2.88 in 1947-48.

Some opposition members argued that a payment of at least $330,000,000 — some estimates went as high as $1,000,000—would be needed to make up the difference.

Government's Reply

In reply, the government argued:

1. The American market was of no use to Canadian producers since there has been a ban since 1941 on Canadian wheat entering the U.S. The U.S. government has supported the U.S. price, and, in the post-war years, disposed of its big surpluses abroad either through outright gifts or through loans to Europe.

2. Only a small quantity—89,000,000 bushels — of Canadian wheat was sold to countries other than Britain in 1946-47 and 1947-48 crop years. Thus, the average prices of $2.43 and $2.88 were only "marginal" prices.

3. Without the British contract, Canada might not have had a market at all. The U.S. respected the contract and did not insist in 1949 and 1950, as it could have done, that the United Kingdom take American wheat through the Marshall Aid Plan. This would have closed the British market to Canadian wheat.

4. The $2 contract price in 1948-49 and 1949-50 was 20 cents above the $1.80 top in the then newly-inaugurated international wheat agreement. This, plus a five-cent-a-bushel carrying charge, gave the Canadian price a 25-cent edge.

Their Mistake

At one stage in Commons debate, Mr. Gardiner said the fact that the United Kingdom did not estimate future wheat price trends correctly "should not justify their refusal to pay."

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, contrasted that with another statement by Trade Minister Howe deploring any suggestion that Britain had not "played fair" with Canada. Mr. Drew contended that Mr. Gardiner had tried deliberately to leave the impression that Britain had not discharged its obligations.

He suggested that any minister who misled the House should be called upon to resign.

Mr. St. Laurent replied that there was no divergence of opinion in his cabinet. All were agreed on the policies and conclusions of the wheat decision.

Peculiar Strain Influencing Business Today

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Pictures of great activity, together with the peculiar stresses and strains of the times, feature business news these days.

It is estimated that business, industry, governments and institutions will spend a record $4,300,000,000 this year in maintaining and expanding plant, and building new facilities.

From Toronto, MacLean Building Reports, Ltd., states that building contracts actually let continue to run far ahead of last year.

March construction contracts of $176,467,500 are up $101,353,500 over March last year, and the total for the first three months is $457,250,400, up $260,669,000 over the same period of 1950. The rise shows in all regions and classifications.

In the meantime, against this background of activity, the current Monthly Commercial Letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce states that rising prices continue to cause grave concern.

Shortages Problem

"The continued rise of wholesale prices, particularly the prices of raw and semi-manufactured goods, is becoming increasingly influenced by shortages . . . There seems to be some hope that certain raw-material prices may become amenable to general control by international bodies, and such a development might seem to provide a greater measure of certainty with regard to the short- and the long-term price structure of raw materials. As yet, however, there is no relief in sight from the effects of rising raw material costs."

The Associated Press, reviewing conditions in the United States in the final week of March states that business and industry whipped along at a breath-taking pace, with steel operations at a record peak.

"But there were rumblings of rough going in many lines. Restrictions on raw materials brought factory layoffs. Credit controls and consumer resistance to prices put a crimp in retail sales. There were reports that inventories were beginning to build up in civilian items.

"The government reported meanwhile a drop of nearly one per cent in average prices of farm products. It was the first break, the government said, in the rising price trend that sent farm prices up 26 per cent since the Korean war began last June."

B.C. Scientist Tracks Down Plague Bacteria In Gopher

VANCOUVER (CP) — Russell Davis, 26-year-old science graduate, is tracking down bubonic plague, one of man's oldest and most horrible diseases.

He catches rats, which with the fleas that infest them, apparently even today in British Columbia carry germs of the "black death," the disease that once killed a quarter of Europe's population.

Davis is on a scientific team called the rodent plague survey. For 12 years this group has combed British Columbia's rat population in search of the plague germ.

Last summer they found the first, but refused to say where. They announced merely that the plague bacteria had been found in the flesh of a gopher "trapped somewhere in the interior."

Caution Needed

They said this was not a reason for alarm, but indicated the need of caution and continued research.

The provincial government took over the survey work last year. The research group is now under the department of Claude R. Stonehouse, chief sanitary inspector.

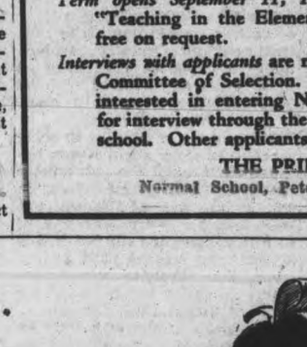
Russell Davis is the lone field man. Most of his testing is done in a Kamloops laboratory.

From May to September he tours the interior, trapping rats and shooting gophers. He kills the animals with cyanide gas, thus immobilizing their fleas at the same time. Then he combs the rodents' hair for the fleas and dissects the body for tissues to be studied.

Been Inoculated

He has been inoculated against the plague germ.

"I guess this is one of the most peculiar missing-person hunt yet," Davis said. "It often seems like looking for a needle in a haystack."



Authorities say they expect there never will be a recurrence of the dread disease on the scale of the great London outbreak in the seventeenth century. Twelve years of research has indicated the plague reservoir is small.

People now are cleaner than those of the middle ages and are less likely to be bitten by the germ, authorities say. New drugs can combat the disease and doctors today can recognize plague and isolate cases immediately to forestall an epidemic.

Believe Bones Of Explorer Now Recovered

By EWALDO CASTRO.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, April 4 (AP). — Orlando Vilasboas, leader of a government expedition, reported Tuesday he believes he has found the bones of the long-missing British explorer Col. Percy Fawcett, in the Brazilian jungle.

Fawcett, famous for his Amazon explorations, dropped from sight in 1925. He had set out with his 20-year-old son, Jack, and friend Raleigh Rimmel, lured by hopes of finding gold and diamonds, in a fabulous city of a lost civilization in the Mato Grosso jungle. He believed the Mato Grosso was the original Garden of Eden.

Vilasboas said the Kalapagos Indians killed the three explorers near the Rio das Mortes (River of Death). They threw two of the bodies in a lagoon and buried the oldest, whom he believed to be Fawcett.

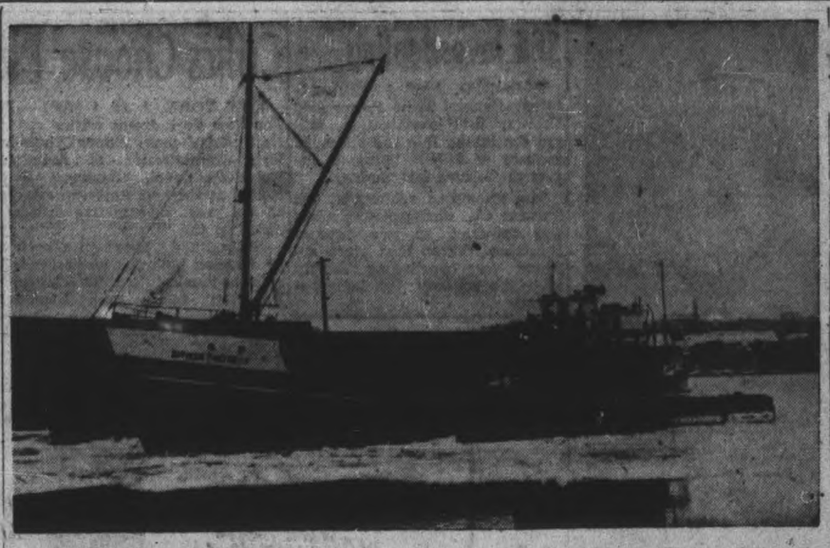
His message said the Indians, "after five years of reluctance," finally led him today to the burial spot, where he dug up a skull in perfect condition and other bones.

The skeleton, he added, has been removed to his base at Xavantina. He said the other two skeletons were not recovered because of the "strong desire of the Indians to leave the location."

Find Belongings

The National News Agency said some belongings of Fawcett also had been recovered.

"Taken by Kalapagos Indians, found woods where about 25 years ago they killed and buried white man," the message from Vilasboas said. "Everything indicates it is British explorer Fawcett, whose party comprised three civilized men."



A score or more of expeditions have sought a trace of Fawcett since he dropped from sight after sending a last message to the British Geographic Society, May 11, 1925.

Missionaries, trappers and explorers reported various conclusions—that he had been killed by the Indians, that he had been spared because of his blue eyes, that he had found a paradise on earth in the wilderness and decided to stay among the Indians as a sort of white god.

KITCHENER, April 4 (CP). — Strikers at Wunder Furniture Company have rejected management conditions of settlement of their four-week-old strike. More than 90 employees are involved.

The company told members of the Upholsterers' International Union of America (AFL) that it would only discuss settlement terms after the strikers returned to work. The company also has refused to recognize the union as bargaining agent for its employees.

Plans To Regulate Industrial Profits

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston is drafting a new price control directive fixing a "fair and equitable" standard of industrial profits, government officials reported Tuesday. It may be issued in a week or two.

It would rule out any price increase that would bring manufacturers' earnings above 85 per cent of average dollar profits in the three most profitable years from 1946 to 1949 inclusive.

The Johnston formula would require manufacturers to absorb increases in wages, materials and other costs until profits fall below the 85-per-cent level. Then upward adjustment would be permitted.

Conditions In Waterloo Days Start Argument In Britain

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, April 4—(CP)—A new twist on an old party line has resulted in some breathless research on what things were like in Britain 130 years ago.

Prime Minister Attlee started it last Saturday night. He said in a political broadcast he had just been reading a new book by Arthur Bryant, "The Age of Elegance." It dealt with the period before and after Waterloo.

Attlee quoted the book as referring to distress and unemployment in Britain after 1815. The author said because of its blind acceptance of false economic doctrines the Conservative government of that time allowed this misery to exist.

One of the arguments of post-war Britain is whether the country is better off than it used to be.

By now, the subject has been pretty well explored. But nobody before has gone back to the Napoleonic era, and unfriendly newspapers raced to the library to sweat up some counter-claims.

Came From Workers

The Daily Mail, always a lusty critic of the government, came out with a front-page editorial. In it the Mail admitted things were pretty bad in the early days of the industrial revolution, but said "Mr. Bryant himself" acknowledged in his book that the manufacturing men who caused so much suffering mostly came from the ranks of the workers.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, equally hostile to the Attlee administration, chided the Prime Minister for saying the general level of well-being is higher in Britain today than ever.

It turned to page 154 of "The Age of Elegance" and quoted from the budget of a Leicester wool comber in 1796. The wool comber earned enough to buy every week 10 pounds of meat, two pounds of butter, 3½ pounds of cheese, about 19 pints of milk and so on.

No Conditions

The wool comber's diet sounded convincing enough in this age of austerity, but the argument wasn't over. The Liberal Manchester Guardian rapped both the Express and the Mail, saying Bryans statistics came from a book published in 1797. Turn to page 228 of THAT book, the Guardian said, and it would seem that the wool comber actually earned about nine shillings a week; his oldest boy, a bricklayer's helper, drew £8 a year. The family spent more than it earned and, the Guardian editorial added, probably made up the difference from parish relief.

Loftily, the Liberal newspaper refused to draw any political conclusions.

"Not that this proves anything either for or against the Labor government; but we might as well keep the record straight."

Pay Out $671,805

TORONTO, April 4—(CP)—A total of $671,805 has been paid in 298 claims against Ontario's Unsatisfied Judgment Fund, Highways Minister Doucett announced Tuesday. The amount represented payments of $553,006 to 399 persons in judgments for deaths, injury or property damage arising from highway accidents against motorists unable to pay judgments.

Lewis Stone Actor For 50 Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 4 (AP)—After 50 years in show business, Lewis Stone admitted today he is keeping an eye on the new medium, television.

"Oh, I don't expect to get into it for some tim eto come," he added. "But I bought a set so I could keep an eye on television. It's not because I like it; I think the quality of entertainment is improving, but still has far to go. No, I'm watching it because it's a new phase of our business that I might have to know about some day."

Stone doesn't seem too pleased that MGM press agents have discovered this is his 50th year as an actor. (And that his current "Bannerline" is his 50th MGM picture).

"It's just a date on the calendar," he shrugged. "I think it's a bore. The only comment someone could make is 'so what'"

Chance Actor

Stone admitted that he had done pretty well for a man who became an actor more or less involuntarily. He told how it happened:

"My father's family was in the old theatrical troupe, the Bostonians, but I never had any great desire to act. I went right from high school to the army (in the Spanish-American war). When my outfit was mustered out . . . I found a story which I thought had dramatic possibilities. I worked out a play version and showed it to my uncle. He directed me to an agent who sold me on taking the place of an actor who had gotten sick."

Stone caught up with the company in Canada. He planned to stay with it only two weeks but was talked into taking another role. This continued for several years.

He drifted to the movies in 1916. During his years in Hollywood, he has played many notable parts. He laughed about how he is most often cast as a lawyer: "I probably know more motion picture law than any man alive."

GEESE ON WING—Greater snow geese, migrating from their winter feeding grounds in North Carolina, have arrived for their annual spring stay at Cap Tourmente, 70 miles east of Quebec. Late in May, the geese, numbering about 55,000, will continue to their breeding area in northwestern Greenland, returning to Cap Tourmente in mid-September. This flight is part of the colony, believed to be the only one in the world.

Desperate Shortage Of Sanitarium Beds

SUDBURY, April 4 (CP) — A "desperate" shortage of sanitarium beds in the rest of Ontario is holding up treatment of tuberculosis victims in the Sudbury district, Dr. J. B. Cook, health officer, said Tuesday.

This week, four active tuberculosis cases, two of them children, were waiting for admission to sanitariums wherever beds were available. Nearest facilities to Sudbury were at Gravenhurst and Haileybury, both full.

The seasonal increase in cases had jammed Ontario treatment centres to the doors, he said. Particularly difficult to place were children.

Ontario Legislature Hopes To Prorogue On Thursday

TORONTO, April (CP). — The Ontario Legislature today set its sights on Thursday as prorogation date for the 1951 session.

Only 12 bills remain for clause-by-clause study, already having been approved in principle. These bills, which include a measure to permit establishment of farm marketing pools, are expected to pass the committee stage today and be given final reading Thursday.

Debate on the budget is expected to be cleared up today with the exception of wind-up addresses by E. B. Jolliffe, CCF leader who heads the official opposition, and Premier Frost, who holds the provincial treasurer's portfolio.

They will conclude their addresses Thursday, possibly during a morning sitting, then the House will vote on opposition non-confidence motions, clearing the way for prorogation Thursday afternoon.

Another night sitting was held Tuesday night, and the House heard an attack on Hope Royal Commission recommendations dealing with the private school system of the Roman Catholic Church.

Aurele Chartrand, veteran Liberal member for Ottawa East, whose constituency includes a large part of Ottawa's French-speaking population, said citizens of Ontario would have been happier "if this commission had never come into being."

He was critical of the recommendation in the report which would reduce the number of grades for which private schools receive government grants. At present private schools are supported for eight grades; the commission suggested this be reduced to six.

Mr. Chartrand noted that the government had indicated it would not implement the commission's recommendations on the separate-school question.

A government measure aimed at ending a professional dispute between optometrists and opticians was given second reading—approval in principle. It changes the present board of examiners to a board of directors and enlarges its membership from five to 12, adding three opticians to the group which previously included only optometrists.

Repeats Demand

In the afternoon sitting, Mr. Jolliffe repeated a demand for a royal commission to investigate the operation of charities in Ontario. He spoke during debate on a government bill to permit investigation of the accounts of incorporated charitable organizations. He said some charity campaigns were undertaken "by men whose principal qualifications were that they were promoters of mining stocks." The bill was given second reading.

Earlier, Mr. Jolliffe said that when the bill is passed he will ask for an investigation of the operations of a charitable body known as the United Emergency Fund for Britain. He told the House last week his investigations showed the fund sent only $880 worth of food parcels to Britain from total collections of $593,000. The rest had been spent in promotion, advertising and other expenses.

The Legislature also gave first reading to bills to continue Ontario's present abstention from the income-tax field, and to establish a nine-man advisory board to the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Approval in principle was given to a bill to provide uniform tax assessment in the 13 municipalities of the greater Toronto area, paving the way to any amalgamation proposal that may be decided on by the Municipal Board now studying the question.

Still Investigating

TORONTO, April 4 (CP)—Attorney-General Dana Porter said Tuesday that investigations still are continuing into the attemped robbery of $10,000 in nickel ingots at Oshawa last Sunday.

The attempted robbery at the Skinner Co., nickel-plating plant was thwarted by two Oshawa constables. Three men were arrested for questioning shortly after the robbery, but later released.

Critics Choose Play Of Year

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP) — The New York drama critics' circle Tuesday chose Sidney Kingsley's dramatization of Arthur Koestler's novel, "Darkness At Noon," as the best American play of the year. Twenty-five critics make up the "circle."

"Billy Budd," based on a book by Herman Melville, was second.

In the musical field, the fable of Broadway taken from Damon Runyon's stories, "Guys and Dolls," won first place. Second choice was the recently-opened Rodgers - Hammerstein musical, "The King and I," starring Gertrude Lawrence.

The prize for the best foreign play went to the British author, Christopher Fry, for his "The Lady's Not For Burning." His show closed recently after about five months on Broadway.

During the business session with the president, Mrs. H. J. McNeely in the chair, entries were requested for the amateur night the association is sponsoring on April 13.

An invitation from the Lakefield Home and School Association to attend the school fair in that town on April 6 was read.

The attendance shield and prize of $1 was won by Mrs. Backus' room.

Refreshments were served.

Shorter Supply Of Materials

OTTAWA, April 4 — (CP) — George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, tabled a white paper on Canadian investment outlook for 1951 in the Commons Tuesday. It showed that Canada's business men, governments and institutions are planning to swell the country's investment boom to the highest figure in history—$4,300,000,000. In 1950, the investment was estimated at $3,791,000,000.

Mr. McIlraith also tabled a report outlining prospects for building materials in 1951. It said that the prospective Canadian home owner will have trouble building a new house this year. Shortages are likely for such essential home-building items as copper tubing, steel pipe and fittings, hot-water storage tanks and wire nails and spikes.

Anti-US Feeling Soars In India Over Kashmir

By HAROLD K. MILKS.

NEW DELHI, April 4 (AP).—Anti-American feeling among Indians has been roused to the point that some authoritative quarters fear violence against US officers serving at the UN cease-fire headquarters in Kashmir.

The feeling against the US developed because of its co-sponsorship of the UN Security Council's latest resolution on Kashmir and the hesitancy of Congress to vote an immediate food gift to India. It received fresh impetus Monday from Prime Minister Nehru himself.

Nehru said the Security Council resolution, which included a provision for arbitration of the Kashmir dispute between India and Pakistan, was extraordinarily objectionable.

The newspaper New Delhi Statesman reported that India may dissociate herself completely from the work of the UN representatives.

Criticism of the US over Kashmir has far outstripped criticism of Britain, which also sponsored the resolution. The resolution, adopted last week, provided for arbitration if a new mediator is unable to get agreement for a withdrawal of Indian and Pakistani troops and the holding of a plebiscite.

Takes Precedence

Most Indians apparently place the Kashmir issue above the question of food in their criticism of the US. President Truman proposed Feb. 12 to ship up to 2,000,000 tons of grain to India. But the measure has bogged down in Congress where some representatives resented Nehru's criticism of US. policy in Korea and Red China.

Communist China and Russia are attempting to make the most of the food situation.

K. R. Damle, a secretary in the Food Ministry, is leaving for Peiping in mid-April to explore Red China's offer to supply India 1,000,000 tons of rice and other grains.

Russia has jumped on the band wagon by offering to barter 500,000 tons of wheat for Indian rubber, jute and tea, Food Minister K. M. Munshi disclosed. Russia was said to have offered to supply the necessary shipping.

There is a shortage, however, of the things that Russia wants. Indian officials said they doubted that they could accept the proposed barter.

New Streets To Be Opened With 54 Lots

Start Job Mid-April In Southwest End Housing Subdivision

Don Ephgrave has already sold three houses that exist only in his imagination.

For some fifty others he has more than seventy enquiries. And work will not be under way until about the middle of the month.

These figures indicate that Peterborough's perennial housing problem manages to keep two jumps ahead of realtors and their cohorts of builders.

The new Ephgrave subdivision front on the north side of Braidwood Ave., and extends westerly to the property of Nashua Paper Company. It was formerly the site of the Scott Lumber Co., of which Hon. H. R. Scott was the head.

"There are 54 lots in the property," Mr. Ephgrave told the Examiner today, "and there will likely be that number of houses. They will be of brick veneer, and generally similar in type to the houses that have recently been built south of Cameron St., east of Monaghan Road. There are some others on Montrose Ave., north of McKellar, and also on Beverley St. in Ashburnham.

U-Shaped Street

"We laid sewers on the property last fall for 54 houses, and we are opening off Braidwood Ave. a 'U' shaped street to be called Ephgrave Boulevard. Another new street will be Lloyd Ave. It will extend up the centre of the 'U', making it look more like an 'E'."

Ground will be broken about the middle of the month on this development. Houses will be four and five-room bungalows and also a six-room storey-and-a-half gungalow type. The largest of the three has four bedrooms.

Mr. Ephgrave is one of the young partnership of builders who set the quality of their work in the houses erected on Arndon Ave. early in the war, and also early in the rapid and unexpected occupation of the expansive spread of land between Park St. and Monaghan Road, south of Lansdowne St.

Arnold Steele and Don Ephgrave—their first names provide the clue to Arndon—have built many houses around town since then, but have been separately engaged since the completion of the Arndon subdivision.

Stalled Motor Stalls Theft

A stalling motor cut short an attempt by an unknown man to steal a car Monday shortly after 5 p.m.

Magnus Laidlaw, RR 2, Omemee, reported that about 5:05 p.m. he parked his car on the west side of Water St. near Brock St. After he left it, a tall man got into the car and started it. He pulled out from the curb and started east up the Brock St. hill.

But half way up the hill, the car stalled and started to roll back down the hill. Edwin Finley of Lakefield, who had been standing on the corner at Brock and Water streets walked over to the car to see what the trouble was.

As he approached, the man jumped out of the car and ran between two houses on the south side of Brock St. and disappeared. The theft attempt was not reported to police until about 5:30 and a search then turned up no suspects.

Laidlaw explained that he had left the ignition key in the switch because it stuck there. Constable Andre Dalton investigated.

Radio Station In Offing For Lindsay

A radio station for Lindsay? It is only necessary for the licensing agency of the Board of Transport to give their assent. The Town Council approves of the project and passed the resolution at their Monday evening meeting. A financially-sound company is prepared to establish the station upon the issuance of a grant from the federal agency.

Mike Hopkins, newscaster of Foster Hewitt's Toronto station, addressed the Lindsay council on the matter. He was introduced by Chamber of Commerce president, David Thompson.

The Toronto company, Mr. Hopkins said, had been scouting around Ontario for some time for a suitable site and had finally decided on the iLndsay area as the best suitable spot.

If established, the station is prepared to broadcast morning and evening church services and give 10 minutes of free air time each morning to addresses by the clergy. It is also planned to cover all sports events and report coverage of important meetings of council and Board of Education.

The station will be in operation four months after the license is secured, officials say.

Special grants authorized for payment in the bylaw passed by the council Monday night, and introduced by Ald. T. D. Miller finance chairman, were:

16 Boys Face Court Charges For Ransacking Hospital

Sixteen boys have been charged with committing wilfull damage under the Juvenile's Delinquency Act in connection with the wholesale damage of the old Nicholls Hospital building. The boys, ranging in age from eight to 15, will appear in juvenile court, probably Friday.

An unofficial estimate put the cost of the damage at $2,000. The boys had smashed window panes, electric light fixtures, glass partitions, pulled down window blinds and scattered all sorts of debris, burnt matches and firecrackers throughout the halls of the second and third floors of the former hospital.

The building and the former nurses' residence are being sold to the Pentecostal Assemblies for a school. But the deal will not be closed until June 1. Until then the city still owns the property and buildings.

A committee of the city council held a special meeting March 22 to decide whether to prosecute the boys and attempt to get some restitution for the damage done.

They voted unanimously to prosecute without knowing the names of any of the boys concerned.

The destruction came to light that week when a private citizen happened to hear something of what was going on from one of the boys who went in.

25 Rounded Up

The police were notified and in a short time Constables Sherman Keliele and Jack Wilson had rounded up some 25 boys. Sixteen were eventually charged.

The two constables went through the hospital and made a detailed list of all the damage done. They reported that a couple of boys had climbed up a fire escape to the cupola on the top of the main section of the building and there broke a window to get in.

Inside they found some keys, one of which fitted a side door. From then on for about two weeks boys went into the building nearly every day after school.

No damage was done to the first floor or the basement. They were pitch black because the windows had been tightly boarded up.

During the time the boys were entering the hospital, men hired by the city had been going in from time to time to check some trouble with the plumbing in the basement, but they didn't visit the top two floors and therefore didn't find the damage.

Since the discovery, police have kept an eye on the buildings to prevent further damage.

4 Days From Australia

Mrs. W. J. Fletcher, 456 Manor Hill, received in Tuesday afternoon's mail a letter from Australia, postmarked 1 p.m. Brisbane, March 30. From Friday, March 30 to Tuesday, April 3, is little more than a long weekend.

The letter may perhaps have arrived earlier in Peterborough, but under the new one-delivery a day system, Manor Hill gets only an afternoon delivery.

At that, it is better than before, for only this week has postal delivery been made to the street. Formerly residents had to pick up their mail at the General Delivery wicket at the Post Office itself. Manor Hill is four streets west of Queen Mary school.

Despair Reared Communism B'nai B'rith Told

The philosophies of both communism and fascism were created to meet the needs of desperate people, Emmanuel Sonnenreich of New York city told a gathering of B'nai B'rith members and their friends Tuesday night.

Mr. Sonnenreich, present director of Membership for B'nai B'rith in District 1, installed the Peterborough lodge's new executive.

Before doing so he told his audience that they should carefully re-evaluate their spiritual faith in democracy in the light of present world conditions.

No one can refuse to face the problems of the moment saying "count me out."

"Nobody can fail to be impressed by the disillusion that has followed the Second World War," he said. "A shadow has fallen across the world and touched all of us."

He said communism was a philosophy that many Jews thought had in it the germ of a new hope. There was to be no discrimination according to the law.

Divisive Spectre

"But in 25 years the spectre of communism had grown to what it is today. It divides the world as it has never been divided before."

"Both philosophies (fascisms and communism) were created to meet the needs of desperate people."

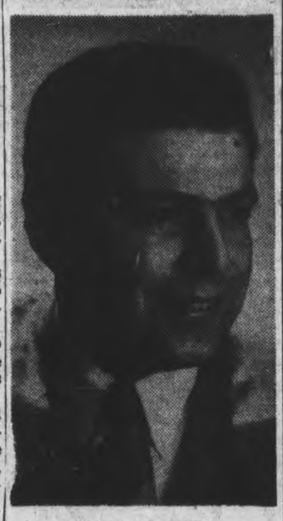
Mr. Sonnenreich paid tribute to the late Mahatma Gandhi "whose great force as a prince of peace is yet to be told."

The ideals of Christianity and Judaism are the source and inspiration of democratic faith, he said. But the democratic peoples, particularly those in North America, accept this without thinking about it.

He made a plea for militancy in the cause of democracy.

"Make no mistake about it," he warned, "the people who believe in communism are following their own Holy Grail. They don't all make sacrifices because there is a gun behind them."

Mr. Sonnenreich praised the local Jewish community. Before personally approving of a B'nai B'rith lodge in a community he always looked for two things: the neatness of the synagogue and attention that had been paid to it, and the quality of potential youthful officers. Both were present in Peterborough, he said.



He was introduced by Ben Schwartz and thanked by Jacob Low. President Morris Black was in the chair until the new president took over the gavel.

Executive Installed

The following executive members were installed: Harry G. Silver, president; Hy Smith, 1st vice president; Joe Rogow, 2nd vice president; Irving Moldaver, secretary; Morris Black, chaplain; Frank Petersiel, warden; Sam Goldbach, treasurer; and trustees Lou Snow and Irving Cipin.

Merit awards for the year's work, presented by Mr. Sonnenreich on behalf of the Grand Lodge, went to Irving Cipin for publicity, Jules Lovitz for athletics, and Max Beck for his work in recruiting membership.

The lodge also made a presentation to Mr. Black.

HARRY G. SILVER was installed as the president of Peterborough B'nai B'rith Tuesday night by Emmanuel Sonnenreich, of New York.

Hauled Bully During Riel Rebellion

Pioneer Prairie Farmer Mourned In Emily

William Franks of R.R. 1, Omemee was a man whose parents were pioneers in Emily township and a farmer who helped open up the wheatlands of the Canadian West. He died Saturday at Civic Hospital and his funeral services were conducted Monday by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, of Omemee's United Church.

Eighty-five years old, Mr. Franks retired in 1942 after an active life to live on the farm of his nephew, Alvin Franks, Emily Township, four miles north of Omemee.

At one time Mr. Franks was in the mainstream of the history of the Canadian west. He freighted provisions for the army that was fighting Louis Riel in the Northwest Rebellion of 1885.

When 19 years old Mr. Franks went west with his brother, James. Their parents, William and Alecia Franks owned a 100-acre farm in east Emily. His brother began farming at Tuxford, Saskatchewan, 16 miles north of Moose Jaw. The farm was enlarged gradually to 480 acres and Mr. Franks helped work it.

Pulled Army Supplies

When the Riel Rebellion opened, the brothers went into the freighting business, temporarily abanding the farm. They hauled bully beef and hard tack as well as baled hay and other supplies from Moose Jaw to Clark's Crossing on the Saskatchewan river. They used two horses to pull a wagon loaded with about 3,000 pounds. All the fighting was further north and the brothers saw only the wounded in 50 tents at Moose Jaw.

WILLIAM FRANKS

After the rebellion the brothers used the money from the freighting as their principal farm capital for three years.

After 26 years in the west Mr. Franks returned to the Peterborough district in 1911 when his wife, the former Mary Deyell, died. He purchased a 10-acre lot and began mixed farming near Jackson's Park. Then in 1942 he retired and lived with his nephew, Alvin Franks.

The funeral was held at the nephew's home. Pallbearers were James Shields, Herbert Darling, Melville Deyell, Fred Deyell, Harry Franks and Thomas Franks; flowerbearers were Nelson Davis, John Johnson, Ronald and Arthur Darling, Donald Franks, Joseph Moher and Boyd Windrim. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Body Of Man Found In Otonabee

Missing From Home Since January; Found By Trapper

The body of Leonard C. Brown, 71, 188 Dalhousie St., was found late Tuesday afternoon floating by the north bank of the Otonabee river, two miles west of Bensfort bridge. Mr. Brown, a one-time employee of CGE, has been missing from his home since January 4.

Death is believed due to a heart attack. Coroner Dr. Herbert Young is performing a post mortem later today.

Mr. Brown was last seen crossing the bridge over Jackson creek Dalhousie St., about 10 a.m. January 4.

He was found by John Johnston, Lot 12, Concession 15, Otonabee. Mr. Johnston was looking at some muskrat traps when he noticed the body between the branches of two trees, near the north bank of the river.

Called O.P.P.

He called provincial police and Corporal Joseph Hanson accompanied him to the spot. Because of the marshy land they were unable to remove the body overland and so they retraced their steps to Mr. Johnston's farm.

Corporal Hanson then obtained a boat, an outboard motor from Chief Constable John Thompson, and with fireman Don Bartley recovered the body. It was taken to Mather's funeral home, Keene.

Mr. Brown was born in Otonabee township, son of the late George Brown and Martha Kempt. Twenty-nine years ago he moved to Peterborough.

Surviving are his widow, the former Isabella Edwards; six daughters and two sons, Mrs. P. Woodcock (May), Mrs. J. Young (Mary), Mrs. G. Pinch (Gladys), Mrs. G. English (Caroline), George and William, all of Peterborough; Mrs. W. Kruger (Mabel), of Hamilton and Mildred of Ottawa. One brother and two sisters also survive, William of Toronto and Mrs. Thomas Manley of Rochester, N. Y., and Miss Minnie Brown of Keene.

The body is resting at Mather's funeral home, Keene, where service will be conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday by the Rev. C. W. Rowland. Burial will be in Keene cemetery.

THE BODY OF Leonard C. Brown, 71, 188 Dalhousie St., was found in the Otonabee river near Bensfort bridge late Tuesday afternoon by a farmer checking his muskrat traps. Mr. Brown has been missing from his home since last January 4.

Jobless Claims For Insurance Down In March

Employment conditions this year in Peterborough factories are better than a year ago, William Mellis, manager of the National Employment Office, said today when he announced the unemployment insurance claims figures for March. The number of men on short-time claims due to layoffs in local plants this year is smaller than last, reducing this year's claim load.

This year at the end of March only 1,357 men and women were on claims at the local office. Last year at the same time the claim load reached its peak for 1950 with 1,628 drawing unemployment insurance. In the city this year 752 men and 214 women were on claim, while 351 men and only 40 women were drawing money by the postal method.

Last year in Peterborough there were 755 men and 251 women drawing money; 416 men and 53 women in the district outside the city on unemployment insurance. Besides these regular claims the supplementary benefits introduced in February, 1950, allowed 153 in the city and county to obtain money through the insurance scheme. These brought the load to 1,628.

Extra Benefits End

Mr. Mellis pointed out that the supplementary benefit claims, amounting to 271 for city and county this year, were included in the 1,357 figure. This means that regular claims this year were only 1,086 as compared with 1,475 last year.

The supplementary claims clause was introduced last year to help those whose unemployment insurance was completely drawn. It was continued last year until late in April but this year was discontinued April 1. This means that the number of claims dropped this week to 1,086.

Fewer Applicants

The number of applicants registered at the office, who are looking for employment decreased this year also. Mr. Mellis said that the office has only 1,226 men and 246 women recorded this year as job-hunting. Last year 1,398 and 379 women were registered.

Job opportunities this year increased, but these vacancies are mostly available only to experienced persons. The office has positions available locally for 41 men who are qualified as draftsmen, machinists and toolmakers. For the women are 23 jobs as waitresses, domestics, and stenographers; all require experienced help.

The majority of the persons looking for work, said Mr. Mellis, are unskilled and classed as labourers. When construction work and other seasonal occupations open up, these will return to work.

Hughes Court Hearing Deadlocked

Women Claim Interest In Property; One Asks For $2,500

The expropriation hearing on the amount the city must pay for the Hughes' property, Monaghan Rd. south, was adjourned at noon today, the whole issue deadlocked.

Routine filing of documents began Tuesday morning. But documents were filed on behalf of two "execution creditors." Two women—one the former Nellie Zimmerman, Edmonton, and the other Mrs. Gladys Hughes, divorced wife of Tommy Hughes, now living in England, claimed through their solicitors an interest in the land being expropriated.

However the Zimmerman claim was withdrawn by Norman Crook in line with the minutes of settlement in a previous action.

Asks $2,500 Plus

But V. J. McElderry, K.C., insisted that Mrs. Hughes, because of her alimony payments, has a continuing interest in the land. She has put in a claim for slightly more than $2,500.

Judge S. L. Smoke, arbitrator, said it was not his function to decide points of law while acting in that capacity.

No less than eight solicitors have listened to this puzzling aspect of the arbitration. Usually seven have been present at any one time.

By noon today it was agreed that a "stated case" would be presented to Judge Smoke. A decision will have to be given on the extent of Mrs. Hughes' interest before arbitration can proceed.

Didn't Get Far

Mr. Hughes entered the witness box but he didn't get very far before the proceedings became deadlocked in legalities. Originally he asked $52,000 for his house, 19-acre property, and damages due to lack of business in his auto-wrecking business.

The city expropriated to get land for a veterans' housing project and a second collegiate. Mr. Hughes and the city were unable to agree on a price and the arbitration developed.

Appearing as solicitors have been T. J. Carley, K.C., and W. F. Huycke, K.C., for the city; W. J. Arthur Fair, K.C., assisted by Gordon H. T. Farquharson for Mr Hughes; V. J. McElderry, K.C., for Mrs. Hughes; and Norman Crook for Nellie Zimmerman. Tuesday A. E. McDougall appeared briefly to assist Mr. Fair, and Trevor Clarke to assist Mr. Carley.

Judge Smoke will hear the "stated case" later today.

Early Church Needs Repairs

VANCOUVER (CP) — One of the first churches of British Columbia needs a thousand dollars badly.

The Anglican Church of St. John the Divine at Yale—Fraser Canyon town 100 miles northeast of Vancouver—was opened on June 10, 1860. A rugged army of pioneers and frontiersmen worshipped there.

Today the church, still used by Yale residents, badly needs repairs.

With $900 on hand for the job, they need another $1,000 which they hope will be contributed through the Synod office by interested individuals.

The church is the second oldest in the diocese of New Westminster, and the oldest standing on its original site. It has seen fur traders, gold miners, CPR crews and Indians pass through its doors. Now the Trans-Canada Highway winds past nearby.

Once it was closely associated with All Hallows School—centre of learning in the west at that time — till the Anglican sisters left and returned to England in 1916. Hundreds of today's pioneer women were educated there.

Mrs. Harry Pollock and Mrs. Joseph Hoffman interviewed the council on behalf of the Havelock Women's Institute asking council to remove tile piled on the town hall grounds as that organization intended to set out a number of shrubs on the lawn. Their request was granted.

The council also passed a resolution that daylight saving time would go into effect in the village on Sunday, April 29.

GORE'S LANDING, April 4 — (ENS).—Former proprietor of the Rice Lake House at Gore's Landing, Alfred E. (Fred) Harris, died after a short illness on Tuesday at his home in his 73rd year. 30 People Executed In Red-Run Albania

ATHENS, April 4 (AP). — A foreign ministry source said 30 persons were executed in Communist-run Albania for the bomb explosion at the Russian legation in Tirana, the capital, several weeks ago.

This source said more than 300 persons were arrested and that the 30 were tried and shot the same day.

An Italian informant said in Rome Saturday that 5,000 persons have been executed for political reasons since Communist Enver Hoxha became Albania's premier five years ago.

The informant, closely connected with the "Free Albania" movement in Italy, said an additional 30,000 have been jailed.

Abortion Ring

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP) — Three doctors and four other persons were arrested early today as alleged members of a $500,000-a-year abortion ring. Sarnia Mayor Objects To 4 New Pumpers

SARNIA, April 4 — (CP). — Mayor W. C. Nelson on Tuesday night maintained his firm objection to expenditure of $61,000 on four new pumpers for the Sarnia Fire Department, recommended in a recent report of the Ontario Fire Marshal.

Over his outspoken objection and that of Alderman Paul Blundy, a recommendation for purchase of the four pumpers was pasesd on to City Council by the Fire Protection Committee.

The Mayor argued the city could not afford at present to purchase more than two new pumpers.

Ask Pressure Put On U.S. To Ease Boxcar Shortage

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP).—The Canadian Government should call on the United States for co-operating in easing this country's boxcar shortage, the Board of Transport Commissioners was told Tuesday.

The proposal came from the Canadian Industrial Traffic League, an organization of 400 companies that ship freight, in opposing a railway plan for tighter regulation of car loading and unloading.

The league, declaring the shortage is caused largely by the fact that car-hungry U.S. railways are not shipping Canadian rolling stock home as they should, said government intervention appears the only way to get the cars back.

Earlier, the railways had told the board they are doing all they can to get the cars home. They said that at March 21 there was an adverse balance of 15,000—twice normal—between Canada and the U.S. That is, there were 15,000 more Canadian cars in the U.S. than there were American units in Canada.

Only Solution

The railways have told the board the only quick way to make more cars available is to impose the suggested new regulations, similar to those used during the war. They would compel shippers to load cars closer to capacity and would impose stiffer penalties for delays in loading and unloading rolling stock.

A. K. Dysart, CNR counsel, said the situation amounts to an emergency, with grain, lumber and other products piling up at shipping points for lack of rail transport. There was terrific demand for haulage of materials to the defence production lines.

The Industrial Traffic League and other organizations countered with protests that, under the proposed regulations, the railways were asking the shippers to assume the burden of rectifying the car situation.

New Milky Drink Gives Energy To Patients

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

BOSTON, April 4 (AP) — One glass of a new milky drink gives sick people the energy from three pieces of pie with ice cream.

The drink is peanut oil, homogenized like milk. It has a sweet, milky taste, tinged with peanut flavor. One pint gives you 2,000 calories — about two-thirds the daily energy needs of the average man.

The fat drink works like a charm in supplying energy and helping people gain weight, Dr. Frederick J. Stare, chairman of the nutrition department, Harvard School of Public Health, reports in the journal of the American Dietetic Association. The emulsion is made by Upjohn Company, Kalamazoo, Mich., under the trade name Lipomul.

Tested On 300

The fat drink has been tested on 300 patients and 50 normal volunteers, Dr. Stare said. The patients were men and women who needed building up before or after an operation, who had little appetite or who were emaciated by tuberculosis arthritis and other diseases.

They gained from one to 22 pounds in a short time on the fat drink. Some gained a pound in the first two days drinking a half pint daily.

It is taken between meals or early in the evening. Dinking it just before going to bed might give you a stomach ache just as from overloading with pie or other rich food.

Investment Boom Hits Canada

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP)—Canada's business men, governments and institutions are planning to swell the country's investment boom to the highest figure in history—$4,300,000,000.

George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, Tuesday tabled in the Commons a white paper on the Canadian investment outlook for 1951.

The report said that an investment program of this magnitude, coming at a time when Canada is planning a huge defence program, may put "considerable strain" on available supplies of labor and materials.

The greatest detrimental factor is the lack of steel, particularly sheet, plate and heavy structural steel imported from the United States, it added. Some construction projects may be delayed.

The 1951 investment intentions of $4,300,000,000 are a half-billion-dollar increase over the $3,791,000,000 in 1951 and more than three times the $1,265,000,000 of 1945.

Saskatchewan Cabinet Minister Believes Conscription Needed

By The Canadian Press

A Saskatchewan cabinet minister believes conscription will be necessary in Canada to meet her commitments of armed forces.

Welfare Minister J. H. Sturdy told the Saskatchewan Legislature Tuesday conscription will be necessary to raise Canada's overseas army to the strength of one division.

Inadequate housing for veterans of the Second World War, the CCF minister said, is a major reason for shortage of armed forces volunteers.

A resolution asking the federal government either to assume responsibility for housing or to collaborate with provinces and municipalities was unanimously passed.

Two Budgets

J. G. Boucher, provincial secretary-treasurer, presented the New Brunswick Legislature with two budgets instead of the usual one, but no new taxation was announced. Two sets of estimates were necessitated by the changing of the financial year end from Oct. 31 to March 31.

Mines Minister A. H. MacKinnon told the Nova Scotia Legislature a mining expert may be appointed soon to decide the future of the government-operated coal mine at Inverness, N.S. It has shown annual losses ever since the government took it over.

Says Liberal Policies Giving Reds Chance

This was what the Communists wanted because they knew that inflation would sap the strength of Democratic economies and undermine them to the point where they could be "easy pickings" for Russia's military might.

A concise report on Wednesday's program at the convention of the Federation of Home and School Associations was read by Mrs. W. Amos, one of the delegates.

Guest speaker on the citizenship program was Mr. L. Bird of the teaching staff of Central School. He based his talk on his work with the handicraft group. "This is not a regular class," he explained, "but a group where each child requires and gets individual attention. These boys begin at their own level, and carry on at their own rate of speed. And by so doing, they realize the pride of success and achievement. They are definitely interested in their work, and by encouragement they are spurred on to do better day by day."

Besides reading, writing and arithmetic, Mr. Bird's pupils learn woodwork, metalcraft and paper-work. They take part in the school's sports program, and have proved to be valuable members of their various teams. Their behavior is good, and they are trusted by all, and it has been found that when they graduate from their group, and are placed in industries in our city, they are liked because of the attitudes they bring with them.

"These are our young citizens. Let us help them to become better citizens, proud of their city and their country, and in turn, their city and their country will be proud of them," he said.

Mrs. Davis thanked Mr. Bird for his splendid talk, and expressed the opinion of all when she said that she felt the boys in the handicraft group would be assured of understanding and fair treatment while under his care.

On behalf of the association, Mrs. Davis presented the gift of a radio for use in the school to Mr. W. Amos, a member of the board of trustees. Mr. Amos then handed the radio to Mrs. A. Leahy teacher, who accepted it on behalf of the pupils.

Regina Hockey Film Made By Woman

REGINA (CP). — Photography used to be the hobby of Ontario-raised Sue Spencer. Now she earns her living as a photographer and script writer in New York.

Miss Spencer is visiting Regina to make a movie short of juvenile hockey activities here.

The vivacious brunette was born in Midland, and went to school in Belleville. Her first job was as a reservation clerk in a Toronto airlines office. Later she went to an airline job in New York.

Through introductions of a friend, she entered commercial photography, working first with an advertising and fashion studio and doing free lance work on the side.

In her present job she co-ordinates motion pictures with stills, does a lot of script writing and spends a good deal of time in the dark room printing and developing.

This is her second trip to Western Canada with her present firm (Sinclair Associates.) The first was an assignment to take srots of skiing in Banff and of the British Columbia coast range.

While taking the hockey shots she froze her nose. It wasn't the March cold spell, she explained, but "that viewfinder." The metal equipment gets pretty cold outdoors "and when you have to keep your face pressed against it for some time—well . . ."

British Women Returning Sewing In Economy Wave

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—A reasonable facsimile of wartime's "make do and mend" is getting a post-war play in London.

In the Second World War, with fashion at a standstill and material at a premium, clothes that had already stood the test of time were hauled out again and again. Full swagger coats became shorties and long-service skirts were patched up and worn another day.

Now yesterday's necessity is today's fashion whim. Last year's models are being brought up to date by minor changes to suggest the "Dernier Cri."

Rush of Orders

The increase in clothing prices has been a factor too. "Making do" with the 1950 suit saves money. This, plus a forecast that prices will go higher still, has helped produce a rush of orders for firms doing alterations.

Many have a six-week waiting list for completed orders and find it hard to speed up service because of a shortage of experienced staff.

Some women, however, solve the problem by learning to become their own remodellers and dressmakers. In many walks of life, women show increasing interest in the varied ways of keeping a wardrobe up-to-date — without buying new garments.

Interest Keen

London County Council dressmaking classes and many private courses are already filled to capacity. Interest is keener than during the war as materials are now easily obtained from cheapest cottons to uncrushable seersuckers and heavy French crepes, satins and pure silks.

Women of all ages—some of whom started without knowing the difference between "cutting on the straight" and "cutting on the cross"—find to their delight, that the new slim-skirted dresses can be made from as little as 3½ yards of material.

With gay printed cottons and linens costing as little as 5s 0p (85 cents) this means that chic little dresses cost under £1 ($3). Sewing time is generally two to three nights at home.

The sudden sewing boom is manifesting itself in more ways than one. Sewing machine companies report increased sales of small portable hand-worked machines, cheapest of which cost only 69s 11d. ($10.50). Although these are tiny, light dresses can be made with ease.

Another source meeting increased demand is the "figure fitter." Mrs. Ann Bolton, representing a London firm that makes "made to measure" exact models of women's figures, said:

"We have had a terrific increase in business since September. Women who would ordinarily buy ready-made clothes are now determined to make their own."

SHE'S QUEEN—Verna Rousseau, 112-pound hazel-eyed brunette, is queen of Ottawa's multitude of civil servants. A secretary in the trade department, she won out over 25 contestants from the various federal government departments. Besides the honor of being queen, the former Cornwall girl gets a four-day, all-expense paid trip to New York.

What is this Thing Called Shine on Furniture?

Now you can give your furniture the amazing O-Cedar Dri-Glo beauty treatment — a smear-free shine that requires no hard rubbing and lasts for weeks and weeks — so hard, so dry, spills and fingermarks wipe off easily.

In polishing furniture and woodwork there are several kinds of shines—greasy shines that smear—shines that are here today and gone tomorrow — shines that require a lot of rubbing — oily, moist shines that attract dust.

Now with O-Cedar Dri-Glo you get a shine that has none of these faults. Entirely different, O-Cedar Dri-Glo contains magic, non-oily silicone.

Just wipe O-Cedar Dri-Glo on—let it dry—wipe it off! Thrill to the appearance of the loveliest shine you've ever seen. A mirror-like finish that lasts for weeks and weeks. A smear-free finish so hard and dry that dust cannot cling to it as it does with any ordinary polish.

Enhancing the natural beauty of your furniture, O-Cedar Dri-Glo Silicone Furniture Polish also preserves and protects it. The thrifty 98¢ container will last you a long, long time because you won't have to polish nearly so often. At grocery, department and hardware stores. SFP-01

Boiled Smoked Picnic Ham
Old-Fashioned Mustard Pickles
Piquant Spinach
Diced Turnip
Fruit Cup
Toasted Hot Cross Buns OR Whole Wheat Wafers OR Quick Scones
Swiss Cheese Coffee

✣ ✣ ✣

Directions

This is a delicious meal—whether the ham is sliced hot or cold. It is also a pretty combination of colors. Indeed, it is because it looked so attractive that I decided to lift it, in toto, for use in the column today.

It happens that we served the plates in the kitchen because one of our guests had to leave early and some time was saved that way. But when it is served at the table you may want to glaze the picnic ham after it is boiled. You may have seen the glazes I suggested for ham during Easter week.

To make Piquant Spinach wash it well and cook it with only the little water that clings to the leaves, turning it over three or four times during the first three or four minutes. Cook only until you can cut it with a sharp knife. Drain. Chop it coarsely. Add to each pound ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon each nutmeg, pepper and ginger, and 1 teaspoon sugar and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Reheat. If desired one or two tablespoons butter may be added.

To give the turnips a little face lifting we diced them in ¼-inch squares. To make sure the turnips was not strong we changed the cooking water after they had boiled 5 minutes, then added the salt and let them boil until tender. Margarine or butter for flavoring.

The fruit cup contained grapefruit and orange sections well-trimmed of that white skin, home-canned crushed pineapple, a few sliced maraschino cherries, and a few seedless green grapes we had on hand. No extra sugar was needed as we added some of the cherry juice.

✣ ✣ ✣

Scones (Baking powder method)

Two cups sifted cake flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ cup shortening—butter, margarine or vegetable shortening are all good, 5 tablespoons milk, 2 eggs. Sift the flour, baking powder, salt and 1 tablespoon of the sugar together. Cut or work the shortening into them until they resemble coarse meal. Add the milk. Separate the yolk from the white of one egg and reserve 1 tablespoon from this white. Now add the other egg to the mixture and the yolk and remaining white and mix all quickly. Roll dough out to one-half inch thickness on lightly floured board and cut into 3 or 4 inch squares. Cut these into triangles. Arrange on greased cookie sheet; brush top of each scone with some of the egg white and sprinkle with remaining sugar. Bake in very hot oven of 475 deg. Fahr. for about 8 or 10 minutes. Serve hot. Or if preferred save until the next day, split them, butter them and toast under broiler until golden. Serve at once.

DOROTHY DIX

Fiancee Of Soldier Owes Loyalty

DEAR MISS DIX: We would like to know your opinion about these three problems:

(1) A girl is engaged to a boy who is away in the army. Should she kiss the boys who take her out on dates? They mean nothing to her; she just likes to kiss.

Dorothy Dix

(2) How can a girl steal another girl's boy friend away from her? What are the methods used? He is a senior and the job must be done quickly.

(3) My boy friend always tries to make me jealous. What attitude should I take?

What advice would you give us in these matters? CO-EDS

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWER: (1) It seems to me that a girl who is engaged to a boy who is away in the army shows very little loyalty to him if she kisses every Tom, Dick and Harry who takes her to the movies. He is risking his life, and it can't be very comforting to him to know that she is holding petting parties with other men.

Any girl who kisses just because she likes to kiss isn't really in love with any one man. She lacks imagination and discrimination, and neither her sweetheart nor her husband can ever be sure of her.

Don't Be A Love Thief

(2) There are various and sundry ways by which a girl can steal another girl's boy friend away from her. But why do you want to do such an unethical thing? A love thief is just as dishonorable as any other sneak thief. Believe me, my child, honesty is the best policy in love affairs, as it is in business. You will find no happiness in parading around with the boy you have taken from another girl by nefarious tricks. It won't arouse envy in the breasts of your friends. It will fill them with contempt for you.

(3) When your boy friend tries to make you jealous, just laugh at him. Don't let him see that he has gotten a rise out of you. Be particularly friendly to the other girl, because what he is trying to do is to make you scratch out her eyes. If he thinks that you can take him or leave him, and that you don't even notice whether he comes around or not, he will be back trying to make up with you. The one thing boys can't stand in a girl is an attitude of indifference.

✣ ✣ ✣

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 16, and for eight years I have been taking piano lessons and I hate them. When my mother was a little girl she longed to play the piano, but could not afford to be taught, so she determined that I should be a musician. I have no talent, but I have been made to grind at it and to practice all these years. When other little girls were playing and going out in the afternoons I had to stay in and thump on the piano. Don't you think that after eight years of lessons I should be able to show some ability if I had any? I hate to disappoint my mother, but I loathe the piano! ALICE

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWER: Same here, Alice. My childhood was also sacrificed to my parent's misplaced ambition that I should be a musician when I could easier have learned to be to a steeplejack. I, too, know what it is to have to come in from play or to be torn away from the most thrilling part of a fascinating story to have to practice for the longest hour in recorded time.

Canned music may have many sins to answer for, but all of them should be forgiven for the millions of unmusical and untalented girls who have been emancipated from taking piano lessons.

There is something very pathetic in the desire of mothers to have their children fulfill their own ungratified ambitions, but they should be wise enough to accept the fact that Nature does not always reproduce the child in the mother's mold, nor give it the same talents and desires, and that Mother cannot make a musician of her daughter unless God made her one first.

✣ ✣ ✣

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young man and for more than three years have been going with a woman several years older than myself. At the time I thought I really loved her, but now I know that I do not care for her, and that there is no future for either one of us. I have tried to break away, but she has threatened to kill me if I do. What would you advise me to do? A.F.

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWER: Break away, anyway. Her threats are just a bluff to force you into marrying her. She probably hasn't the slightest intention whatever of doing you any harm.

The greatest injury that any man can do a woman is to marry her when he doesn't love her, because he can't possibly be a good husband unless he cares for her. He is bound to be miserable if forced into marriage against his will and to take out his spite on his wife. No woman who loved a man or who had any decent feeling of self-respect would force herself on a man.

Canada Shows Big Advance In Fur Styles And Output

By REUBEN CIPIN

TORONTO, (CP).—The emancipation of the fur coat into a big industry for women buyers is one of the chief Canadian fashion developments of the half century.

Tremendous advances in the art of breeding, processing and styling are responsible, says Louis Bender, who has been in the fur business for nearly 50 years, more than 30 as a manufacturer.

Canada has become one of the leaders in the fur manufacturing business although the value of dressed and manufactured furs now is only a portion of the total fur industry's value.

While the price of finished fur garments now is at a peak level it's hard to say whether the trend will continue. The fur manufacturing industry is subject to the whims of the fashion world, cycles of animal productivity and of course the willingness of the customer to pay the prices asked.

Bender says that a half century ago the fur coat was made mainly for men. "About 50 years ago men's fur-lined coats, fur cooats, hats and gloves, as well as women's fur stoles or shoulder pieces, muffs and collars were manufactured in Canada on a small scale. Women didn't care for the bulky, unglamorous fur coats men wore, and they favored mostly cloth hats trimmed with fur.

Skilled Newcomers

"Very few people in Canada then knew the art of fur manufacturing. Most men's and women's fur garments were imported from Europe. It dominated the dressed fur market at that time because the Hudson's Bay Company had the right to take raw furs out of Canada for auctioneering in England to buyers from all over the world.

At the turn of the century a few Canadian women wore fur coats, some made in Canada but mostly imported from Europe.

Between 1900 and 1910, however, many skilled European furriers arrived in Canada. With the aid of important scientific and mechanical improvements they were able to manufacture fur coats stylish enough to attract the fashionable woman. As a result, in the early 20s the first Canadian raw fur auction sales were held and women's fur coats were made on a comparatively large scale for the first time in Canada.

The fur industry now produces solely for women, says Bender, and it's unlikely that men's fur coats will ever again be fashionable. It is the ambition of most women however to own a fur coat, with muskrat, Persian lamb and Hudson seal the most popular, but fine coats of wild mink for instance may range from $5,000 to $50,000.

Through scientific cross-breeding and fancy dyes the fur industry has been able to keep pace with the demand for more and more stylish fashions. There are so many types of furs available now—each with different grades of quality — that no furrier knows them all.

Tried To Pass Bad $25 Cheque

Pleading guilty to a charge of false pretences by attempting to obtain $25 on a worthless cheque from the Don Smedmor Sporting Goods Store on Hunter St. Russell Albrough, 47, of Windsor was remanded for sentence for a week.

Police are investigating Albrough more thoroughly and checking to see if he has a criminal record.

Tuesday, police said Albrough went into the sporting goods store and ordered a tricycle priced at $13.95.

He paid for the tricycle with a $25 cheque and ordered the tricycle sent to a Hunter St. address which turned out to be the address of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Don Smedmor brought the man to the police station and while he was in the station telling police, Albrough left Smedmor's car. He was picked up by Constable Edward Niziol on Simcoe St. a few minutes later.

Marmora News

Mrs. J. Follis and daughter Elizabeth of Bancroft have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Pritchard of Peterborough visited Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Potts on Sunday.

EARLY SETTLERS

It has been estimated that the first generation of Norman settlers in Canada numbered 800 families with over 5,000 children.

Rip-Roaring Fun, Good Song In Lively Minstrel Show

"That's the stuff that livens you up," said a man in the audience as the Happy Daze minstrel show exploded into action with a group of lively tunes played by the orchestra in the Collegiate Auditorium Tuesday night.

A moment later, one of the cast chased another down the aisle toward the stage firing a revolver at him. The show scarcely let the pace flag from there until the end of the tumble-humored play that wound up the evening.

The minstrel show never wandered far from the city limits of Peterborough. The black-faced minstrel singers, wearing pyjama tops for suit coats, gave city officials and local institutions an unmerciful kidding. The men who are planning the non-existent Peterborough Memorial Centre were the butt of many of the quips. The large audience enjoyed every jibe and every song the many singers offered.

Rollie Johnston danced and sang his way through Golden Slippers to start off the parade of soloists and won himself an encore.

Slapstick Comedy

Stan McBride provided a large helping of slapstick comedy when he did an impersonation of Negro preacher who could be found only on a minstrel show stage, preaching to his congregation. He did everything from warning his congregation to stop playing crap in the back of the church after services to shooting a bat that flew into the church from the belfry.

Homer Lundy, dancing and singing like Eddie Cantor, sang If You Knew Susy. His singing and all the singing of the show were loaded with enthusiasm and shouted out with a good swinging rhythm.

Bernie Morin received a big hand for his singing of Carry Me Back to old Virginny, Who's Sorry Now and Some of These Days.

Muddy Marshall was next. Without hiding behind burnt cork, he sang If I Had My Way and It's a Sin to Tell a Lie.

Between songs, the black-faced men of the chorus swapped jokes in which no one, doctors or mothers-in-law, escaped.

George Bennett was next soloist with I'd Love to Wake Up in My Mammy's Arms and Lucky Old Sun.

Jolson-Style Hit

The biggest hit with the audience among the singers was Tony Burns. Singing in the Jolson style and stealing his famous gestures, he sang Jolson favorites, Mammy, Rosie, Toot Toot Tootsie and Carolina in the Morning. Ray Springham was master of ceremonies for the first half of the program.

In the second half of the entertainment, the black and white face chorus disappeared. Walter Farr started it of by singing two songs, including Be My Love.

Gordon Minty won a big hand for his Stephen Foster melodies played on his banjo. When he tried two Ukrainian songs, the audience like them almost as much. Herb Mullins and his orchestra played several popular numbers.

The Happy Daze Shakespeare Players almost started a riot when they presented a wild slapstick farce called Homer the Roamer. The curtain opened on a wedding in which Homer Pidgeon (Homer Lundy) was being married to Birdie Scuttlebottom (Stan McBride) by Rev. Montmorency Gilhooley. The rest of the farce contained scenes of the newlywed Pidgeons being photographed, arriving at their hotel and "one year later."

The best part of the whole show was the singing. The men put back their heads and sang out the songs long ago established themselves as favorites. It wasn't hard to imagine why minstrel shows were top entertainment for so many years, not so long ago.

Township Told Must Revise Building Bylaw

North Monaghan township council have been informed that their new building bylaw, that includes the building of motels, will have to be revised.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., solicitor for the township, told the council at the regular meeting that, in the opinion of the Municipal Board, regulations on the erection of motels should be included in a separate bylaw.

This will mean that the present building restriction bylaw, No. 1390, will have to be redrafted, eliminating the amendment permitting motels.

The council meeting was attended by Reeve Waterman and Councillors Brown, Patterson and Stenson.

Henry Batten was appointed assessor at an annual salary of $600. He succeeds Garnet Shields, now assessor for Otonabee. His appointment was confirmed in Dylaw 1391.

Boost Road Rates

A hike was also given in road rates after Oscar Dunford, road superintendent, said that the township would have to pay higher wages if it wanted men to work on the roads.

The new scale, approved on a motion by Councillors Patterson and Stenson, follows: road labor, 70 cents an hour; road superintendent, 80 cents an hour; teams, $1.25, and trucks $2.25.

Accounts totalling $332.09 were passed. They were relief and welfare, $105.50; sundries, $10.21; printing, etc., $34.43; public liability insurance, $90; roads and streets, $61.45; and sundry expenses, $30.50.

Citizens' Band In Recital

Presumably a large audience of the air listened to the half-hour concert by Peterborough Citizens Band broadcast by CHEX Tuesday night from 10.30 to 11 p.m. It was the first of three to be presented at the same hour on successive Tuesdays.

The programs were recorded in the band room at Ashburnham town hall. Solo feature was "The Lost Chord" by Bandsman Tom Best of the cornet section. The band, under the direction of Water Parnell, was in good tone and balance of harmony throughout its four numbers, with evidence of notable improvement in the reeds.

Mrs. James Wharry and W. Langan, of the Recreation Commission, spoke briefly on several phases of the work carried on at Dixon House.

City council received from the Commission this week an enquiry as to whether the $3,000 allocated to the band was a directive or only a recommendation. It was referred to the finance committee.

Carried Rifle In Reserve Man Fined $50

Osborne Seabrook, Havelock, was found guilty Tuesday in police court of having a rifle on the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve Nov. 7, 1950, and was fined $50 and $24.40 costs.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., had adjourned judgment in the case after hearing evidence in February. Seabrook was one of four Havelock hunters arrested Nov. 7 by Game Overseers Ray Simpson and Dougal McEachern.

Said Hunting

The game wardens said the party were hunting within the limits of the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve. The four men said they were not. In November one of them, Joseph Cosgrove, was found guilty of carrying a rifle on the game preserve. The two other men were Douglas Forsyth and Douglas Hill.

W. J. Arthur Fair, K.C., who was defending the four men, said in court after judgment was given against Seabrook, "If the cases are adjourned, they (Forsyth and Hill) will be here or I'll be here on their behalf and enter a plea of guilty."

Magistrate Philp said in his judgment that the east boundary of the game preserve was as Game Overseer Robert H. Trotter described it and he accepted Officer Simpson's and Officer McEachern's evidence that the accused was found west of the boundary, that is, in the preserve.

Can Find Posters

He said the boundary may not be easily seen, but hunters wishing to find it, could find posters and cairns which marked the boundary and by lining them up, could decide on the location of the boundary.

The game wardens told the court at the trial about seeing two men about a quarter of a mile inside the boundary on a high rock hill. They caught up to the hunters and while talking to them saw two more men about 200 yards east of their position. McEachern went to them and turned up with four men instead of the two.

Two of the men did not belong to the same party and they have since pleaded guilty to being in the game preserve and paid their fines.

All of the men were carrying rifles. On the way out of the park, the officers stopped on the boundary and pointed out a cairn and a poster marking the boundary. All of the men said they didn't see what the officer pointed at.

Posted Boundary

Officer Trotter said he had posted the boundary two years before, putting up about 12 posters in a mile. He said the game preserve east boundary was an extension of the seventh concession line of Methuen township.

John Pierce, provincial surveyor, said he had been with his father when they surveyed the boundary in 1937. He said at the time a path was made through the bush, but evidence was that it had since grown up to a large extent.

Roy Davis, a Havelock hunter, was called to give evidence for the defence. He said it was extremely difficult to find the boundary. He said there were not many posters.

Asked what precaution a hunter could take to make sure he stayed off the preserve, he said, "You would just have to take a chance as to whether you were on it or not."

Another native of the district north of Havelock, Ivan Ellis, asked how a hunter would know he was on the east limit of the preserve, said "You wouldn't."

Could Not Find Line

Forsyth said he and the other hunters who were arrested that day went back to the area to try to find the line a few days later, but couldn't.

They came across a man in the woods some distance south of where they had been picked up and he showed them the line and one sign. From the position of that line, they judged they were not on the preserve when arrested.

Cosgrove also said he was quite sure they had not been on the preserve, but said when they went back, they stopped quite a few miles from where they had been picked up.

Seabrook, in his own behalf, said he had an idea

Flame of Liberty Kept Burning Auriol Pledges

OTTAWA, April 5—(CP)—France, although her sole aim is peace in justice and freedom, is "not giving herself up to any naive neutralism," President Vincent Auriol said today. In a speech prepared for delivery to a joint meeting of the Senate and the Commons, Mr. Auriol said that "France, being the first country on the road of invasions and battles, knows perhaps better than anyone that security is indivisible." He spoke in French from the clerk's table in the Commons chamber, a few feet away from the speaker's dias.

Mr. Auriol, first president of France to visit Canada in an official capacity, paid tribute to Canada's efforts in the two world wars. He paid homage to the late Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, former Prime Minister, describing him as "one of the principal artisans of the common victory of the Allies."

"Every nation," said Mr. Auriol, "has the duty to preserve the liberty of man against all those who would or could attempt, from their own autocratic will, to impose their fanatical ideology and thus unleash the most frightful of wars.

No Frontiers

"Canada has understood this, for twice she has already given her material and resources, an enormous sacrificial contribution, to the victory of right and liberty . . . You knew that liberty has no frontiers; that if anywhere in the world light is extinguished, then the rest of the world is darker."

France regretted that the spirit of intolerance and the will to dominate had prevented United Nations from realizing the hope of world peace.

"Once again, one after another as before the last war, the free democracies have been smothered," said Mr. Auriol. "Vast countries are closed and hostile to the rest of the world. Violence has reappeared, is menacing, and even strikes. And so the great democracies enjoying civil liberties had to organize into regional defence pacts."

France had welcomed the North Atlantic Pact. The pact had established a powerful bond between Europe and America, a bond among the peoples united by the same civilization and by the same desire and anxiety to protect and defend it.

Solidarity Defence

"If the aggressors of 1914 and 1939 had known that France was not alone, that Europe was not alone, they would have retreated from the criminal folly of their enterprise," said Mr. Auriol. "History is the witness: solidarity in defence is a token of peace.

"France wants neither war nor servitude. Her sole aim is peace in justice and freedom. It is for common defence, but also for common prosperity that France strives to create a united Europe, to build a young and coherent federation.

"In the military field, a European army that will be integrated into the Atlantic bloc is the first link of collective security. In the economic and social field, the free association of productive forces—of which the Schuman plan is the first step—has to organize collective prosperity . . ."

UN Troops Aim Big Blow At Red Offensive

TOKYO, April 6 (Friday) — (AP)—Allied troops advanced in force north of Korea's 38th parallel Thursday, aiming to throw off balance a massive Chinese buildup for a new Red offensive.

Resistance ranged from stubborn to light.

The deepest penetration was a thrust nearly eight miles north of the old political boundary by an American task force on the central front. Spearheading the allied drive along a 40-mile-wide front in central and western Korea, it dispersed an estimated enemy company near Chail. That is on the Uijongbu-Kumhwa road.

Farther west, two American divisions, pacing an advance in a 10-mile wide sector, hit bitter Chinese opposition. These U.S. soldiers seized two hill masses by running over four Chinese positions. There was about a battalion (up to 1,000) Reds in each of the well-dug defence centres south of Chorwon.

[illegible]

Elements of the Chinese 39th and 40th field armies were reported fighting in that area. At full strength this would be upwards of 60,000 men.

It was on the central front, however, that the major Red massing was indicated, despite less resistance to the allies there.

AP correspondent William C. Barnard reported 18 to 24 Chinese divisions—180,000 to 240,000 men—were arrayed against the United Nations advance in the centre.

The United Nations ground commander, Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, joined his border-crossing troops.

Allied artillery blazed a path for the United Nations forces driving toward the biggest Communist troop mass of the war. Planes rocketed and fire-bombed the fiercely-resisting Reds.

The Communists fought back with mortars, artillery and small arms. On the western front they were defending a densely-fortified area.

A divisional staff officer commented:

Flood Waters Begin To Drop

MONTREAL, April 5 (CP). — Flood waters from the swollen St. Lawrence River off the eastern fringe of Montreal Island were reported to be receding today.

Officials of the stricken community of Pointe Aux Trembles said there was a "definite drop" in the river.

Meanwhile, bayonet-armed soldiers patrolled the town of 7,500 persons as a preventive measure against looting in the 125 evacuated homes.

A town spokesman placed an estimated $500,000 as the damage losses.

There were reports of floods from various other sections of the province, mainly along the St. Lawrence, but attention was focussed on the Ponte Aux Trembles area where the situation was most serious.

Two Men Re-Arrested In Oshawa Inquiry

OSHAWA, April 5— (CP) — Two men arrested and later released "for lack of evidence" were picked up again by police Wednesday in connection with an attempted robbery early Sunday of an Oshawa foundry.

Harry Swatz, 35, and Joseph Levy, 27, both of Toronto, were charged with assault with intent to rob.

Provincial police said they are still hunting for other men connected with the unsuccessful attempt to steal $10,000 worth of nickel ingots from the foundry.

Fire Sweeps Block In Guelph

$250,000 Damage Officials Say, 5 Stores Destroyed

GUELPH, April 5. (CP) — Fire, spread by a stiff wind, raced through a downtown business block early today, gutting five retail establishments and damaging others.

It was estimated that damage might be as high as $250,000 in the blaze which wiped out the Groat Feed Store, Pete's Restaurant, both on Macdonnell Street, and the Babylon Rug Company, Guelph Ticket Agency and Gillespie Photo Studio on Carden Street.

The fire started shortly before midnight and firemen fought for hours to bring it under control while protecting nearby buildings which included the daily newspaper plant of The Guelph Mercury and the Royal Theatre.

Water Damage

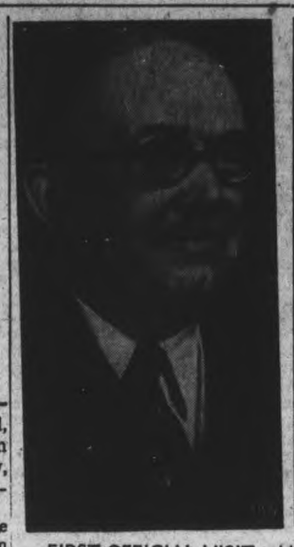
A fire wall protected the theatre while water sprayed on the Mercury building on the other side of the block kept flames from it. The newspaper plant was damaged by water but planned to publish normally today.

The gutted stores were in a four-storey brick and stone structure. Wooden beams in the old building helped the spread of the fire.

Guests in the nearby Royal Hotel were evacuated when the fire was at its height. There were no reports of anyone being injured.

Residents of the Balmoral Apartments on Carden St. left when it was feared that the northwest wind would send the flames toward them. Sparks from the fire landed on the roof of the Canadian National Railways station across the road but no fire was started there.

The blaze was watched by thousands of curious onlookers and ropes were put up to hold them back. The dense smoke covered the downtown area and reflection of the flames could be seen for miles.



Engine Crashes Into Oil Car

SUDBURY, April 5—(CP)—A Canadian National Railways' engineer and fireman narrowly escaped death today when their engine crashed head-on into a standing freight car loaded with gasoline and fuel oil on the main line near Sudbury Junction, four miles east of here.

Engineer C. Gateman and Fireman Clyde Woods, both of Capreol, rode the cab of the careening locomotive as it was hurtled off the track and onto its side. The freight car immediately burst into flames.

Neither man was injured. CNR officials immediately clamped down a news blackout on the crash and train crews were instructed not to give out information.

Crews both of the freight and the standing work train into which it crashed took shelter behind overturned box cars and the engine as flames from the fuel-laden box car shot 60 feet into the air.

FIRST OFFICIAL VISIT—M. Vincent Auriol, president of the French Republic, with Mme. Auriol, arrived in Ottawa today, making the first official visit ever made to Canada by a French president. He will also visit Toronto and Montreal.

Enthusiastic Ottawa Crowd Cheers French President

OTTAWA, April 5. (CP)—President Vincent Auriol of France arrived here today at 11:30 a.m. EST, on the start of a five-day official visit to Canada. The smiling 66-year-old president stepped from the special train that carried him from New York where he concluded Wednesday a seven-day visit to the United States.

Amid the flashing of photograph bulbs and the whirring of newsreel cameras, Mr. Auriol stepped along the red-carpeted platform to shake hands with the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, Prime Minister St. Laurent and members of his Cabinet, diplomatic and civic officials and representatives of the armed forces.

The president was followed by Mrs. Auriol and members of his party, including Hon. Robert Schuman, France's minister of foreign affairs.

The general public was barred from the station and a heavy police guard surrounded the president as he was accompanied to the street.

Rousing Cheer

As soon as he appeared to public view, a rousing cheer went up from a crowd of several thousand, swelled by civil servants and school children released early to welcome Mr. Auriol on the first official visit of a French president to Canada.

A snappy RCAF guard of honor presented arms while a band struck up the French National Anthem—La Marseillaise. In the background, an artillery salute boomed out over the Ottawa River.

Accompanied by Viscount Alexander and Mr. St. Laurent, President Auriol inspected the guard of honor. Not far in the distance stood the flag-bedecked parliament buildings where the flag of France flew alongside the Canadian ensign and the British Union Jack.

The inspection over, the president climbed into an open car at the head of a 12-car motorcade for the drive to Government House where he was the guest of Viscount Alexander at lunch.

Later, he was to address a joint meeting of the Senate and the Commons.

7 Israeli Police Killed In Clash

TEL AVIV, Israel, April 5 — (AP)—Seven Israeli police were killed Wednesday night in a bloody clash with Syrian troops near the frontier, and United Nations observers expressed fear today that broad-scale fighting might erupt.

The Israeli government was reported taking an "extremely serious" view of armed clashes on the southeast shore of the Sea of Galilee, charging that Syrian troops invaded Israeli territory and took up a post at the village of El Hamma in the demilitarized border zone. The UN armistice observers expressed fear that Israeli troops might decide to drive out the Syrians by force.

(In Damascus, a Syrian army spokesman said the seven Israelis were killed and one other captured after an Israeli unit penetrated Syrian territory and opened fire on a Syrian post.)

24 Cars Jump Track Badly Damage Station

TUXEDO PARK, N.Y., April 5 (AP)—Two dozen cars of an Erie railroad freight train jumped the track here early today and badly damaged the railroad station.

An Erie spokesman said no one was injured, but both main tracks of the line would be tied up for some time.

The cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

The spokesman said the derailed cars, in the middle of the 135-car train, contained "all kinds of freight, including sugar and merchandise."

Mines Kill 63

TOKYO, April 5 — (AP). — Floating mines, presumed from North Korea, killed 63 persons, injured 50 and damaged 2,000 homes along Japan's coast in the last four months, the Japanese Maritime Board announced today. Forty-three mines washed on to Japan's shores between December and March. Many exploded.

Rosenbergs Sold Data To Russians

Judge Says Crime Considered Worse Than Murder

NEW YORK, April 5. (AP)—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, husband and wife convicted of stealing American atom bomb secrets for Russia, were sentenced today to death in the electric chair.

"I consider your crime worse than murder," said Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman. He set the week of May 21 for execution.

Kaufman said the trial "indicates quite clearly" that an enemy country is employing "secret as well as outspoken forces among our own people."

Both Rosenberg, a 32-year-old electrical engineer, and his 35-year-old wife, showed little emotion at the sentence. Rosenberg's jaw muscles tightened. His tiny wife grasped a chair and breathed heavily.

Radar expert Morton Sobell, 34, a third defendant, was sentenced to 30 years in prison. Kaufman said his guilt was of a "lesser degree."

Former army Sgt. David Greenglass, 29, who pleaded guilty and gave testimony that helped convict Mrs. Rosenberg, his sister, will be sentenced Friday.

Will Appeal

Counsel for the Rosenbergs and Sobell said they would appeal the convictions and sentences.

In sentencing the Rosenbergs for offences committed in 1944 and 1945 while the United States was at war, Judge Kaufman appealed to Congress to tighten peacetime espionage laws.

He said that anybody convicted of transmitting secrets now "concerning the new type A-bomb or the hydrogen bomb" could be sentenced to no more than 20 years.

The penalty for wartime espionage is death or a maximum of 30 years in prison.

The Rosenbergs were accused of obtaining sketches of the so-called "Nagasaki" atom bomb and turning them over to Russian agents. They obtained sketches of the bomb from Greenglass, who was employed on the highly-secret atomic project at Los Alamos, N.M.

Electric Chair

U.S. Attorney Irving R. Saypol said that the federal law, under the judge's sentence, would require the Rosenbergs be executed in the electric chair.

Judge Kaufman told the Rosenbergs:

"Plain, deliberate murder is dwarfed by your acts."

The judge added that he had "searched the records and my conscience for some reason for mercy but I am convinced that I would violate the trust placed in me if I showed any leniency to the Rosenbergs."

Stating that the law when enacted, took no cognizance of vital secrets such as the atomb bomb, Judge Kaufman declared "it is time for Congress to examine the penal provisions of this act."

U.K. Hospitality Tops—Visitor

VANDALIA, Mo., April 5 (AP) —Take it from Abraham Lincoln Kilby, Britons can't be beaten for hosiptality.

That's what the 58-year-old rural mail carrier told the home folks who gave $1,308 so he could go to the United Kingdom and get a first-hand report on Socialism.

The Business and Profesisonal Men's Club had argued about the British system. They picked Kilby to find out because of his interest in current events.

Kilby, who spent seven weeks in London and provincial towns, reported last night to a meeting of the Vandalia club.

"Greater hospitality than that shown me while I was there I have never known," he said.

"The social gains that have been made in Britain are good to a certain extent, but the economic policies, if practised or continued long enough, will lead to utter economic collapse because incentive and private initiative will have been destroyed."

Cost of Living Up 4.5 Points, Labor Seeks Raise

OTTAWA, April 5. (CP)—The official announcement of a big jump in the cost of living has been quickly followed by renewed demands for price controls. Shortly after the Bureau of Statistics announced Wednesday that the February cost-of-living index went up a record-breaking 4.5 points to a new high of 179.7, two statements were issued, both containing demands for price control. One was from M. J. Coldwell, CCF Leader, the other a joint statement from President Percy Bengough of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and President A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Congress of Labor. Together the two head about 900,000 Canadian unionists.

The labor heads, in an interview, also predicted that the surge upward in the index will inevitably cause labor to demand higher wages.

President Mosher predicted "strikes, turmoil and trouble if the government does not take action."

Mr. Coldwell called for federal subsidies, particularly on key farm products, and a roll-back of prices.

Runaway Inflation

He said Canada now faces runaway inflation, and comprehensive controls over prices and rents must be undertaken at once. The situation was becoming worse "every day the government delays." Manufacturers and others, anticipating price control, were pushing prices up more rapidly than warranted by any cost increase. Profits were soaring.

Mr. Bengough said no one could say that the last two living-cost jumps—2.7 for January and 4.5 for February—were caused by increased wages.

"It's a crime! The thing is how soon are they going to curtail the activities of that public enemy No. 1—the profiteer?"

High Food Prices

The Bureau of Statistics reported that climbing food prices provided the main impetus for the soaring cost-of-living advance. But coal and coke, footwear, clothing, home furnishings, hardware, rents, as well as health costs and haircuts also went up.

In all, the index — based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100—has

Jet Crashes, Shakes Area For Five Miles

KOMOKA, Ont. April 5 (CP) —An RCAF jet plane crashed five miles west of here with a blinding explosion that shook surrounding communities within a five-mile radius

RCAF officers declined to reveal the identity of the plane or its squadron.

It is believed to have been one of four jets flying from Toronto to Centralia.

Provincial police said they did not know the type of craft, but had been informed by RCAF officers that it was a "hush-hush model."

Scattered Half Mile

The mass of wreckage is almost unrecognizable and is spread by the force of the explosion over an area half a mile square.

Parts of the pilot's body were found a quarter of a mile away from the plane.

The plane was apparently in trouble when it passed over Komoka and eye witnesses said black smoke was seen coming from it. A few seconds later it plummetted to the ground.

Komoka is 10 miles west of London.

India Declines Wheat Gift

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP). — India has decided to decline a gift of low-grade wheat from Canada, P. K. Banerjee, India's acting high commissioner, said in an interview today.

"The poor people of India would not have understood the gift," he said. "Even though there is hunger in India and more wheat is needed, we have decided to wait until high-quality wheat is available in Canada next fall."

Canada has informed India that at the moment there is no high quality wheat available.

Low-grade wheat was offered as an alternative, under Canada's contribution of $25,000,000 in the first year of the six-year Colombo plan for Southeast Asia.

Mr. Banerjee explained that under Canada's offer, the low-grade wheat would have had to be sold by the Indian government to its people under the government's rationing system.

"The people of India would have had to pay for the wheat in rupees. They might not have understood the goodwill of the gift. That is a difficulty we are trying to avoid."

Midas Touch At Race Track

Couldn't Pick Loser, L'il Arthur In Jail

LONDON, April 5 (AP).—The jail-house door clanged shut today on "Little Arthur" Clinton, a race track tout who couldn't pick a loser.

As related in the London Sessions Court, the troubles of Little Arthur began last Dec. 5. The tiny tout, a spruce and apple-cheeked 71, gave young Michael Green of Grimsby three straight winners at the Doncaster track.

Green's mother, enthusiastic, on Dec. 7 wired £35 to Little Arthur, with instructions to bet on any beast of his choosing.

He wired back that he was putting it all on a thing called Budore, which according to Little Arthur's best belief was strictly out for the air.

Budore won at 9 to 4.

Theoretically, Little Arthur now was holding £114 for Mrs. Green.

Mildly annoyed, he composed another telegram, advising her that the roll was going back on a steed called Whispering Steel. This one was a mortal cinch to be something like dead last.

Moves Up Boldly

Whispering Steel trailed in the early running, moved up boldly at the turn for home and won at 10 to 1.

The horse wasn't even sweating at the finish, which was more than could be said, by now, for Little Arthur.

On paper, Mrs. Green's original stake had mushroomed into £1,254.

Little Arthur feverishly scanned the entries and fixed on Hislet. "The only way this one could do it," he muttered, "is if they disqualify all the other horses."

He sent off another telegram to Mrs. Green telling her the whole wad was going on Hislet.

Scores In Canter

Hislet, bet down to 5 to 2 at post time, took the lead at the break and scored in a common canter.

Horrified, Little Arthur now was the non-possessor of a supposed £4,389 belonging to Mrs. Green.

When he failed to come up with the money during the next three days, Mrs. Green complained to the police.

Wednesday Little Arthur pleaded guilty to a charge of "fraudulently converting" to his own use his client's £35.

The judge gave the little tout six months to study his form charts in peace.

Silent On Manchuria

Danger Of 3rd World War As Great As Ever—Truman

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) —President Truman said today the danger of a third world war is just as great as it ever was.

The President told a press conference, however, he hopes there never will be a third world war and he is doing all he can to prevent it.

The President would not comment on a speech Wednesday by Speaker Sam Rayburn that large numbers of troops are massing in Manchuria and that they are not all Chinese Communists. He did say the Speaker is a truthful man.

As to the remark by Rayburn there is "terrible danger" of another world war, Truman said he had no further comment.

Then, pressed as to whether he thought there is still danger today of a third world war, Truman declared there was still as much danger today as there has ever been.

In New York foreign quarters found it hard today to reconcile Rayburn's remarks about a Red buildup in Manchuria with what is known by intelligence and diplomatic sources.

Rayburn refused to say whether he was talking about Russians but he declared his "firm belief that we are in greater danger of an expanding war today than we have been at any time since the close of the world war in 1945."

Intelligence sources in Tokyo suggested the answer could be Mongolian cavalry, some units of which already have fought in Korea.

Recent dispatches, delayed by censors, have reported Mongolian troops crossing the Yalu River—but details of these troop movements still have not been released.

Dairy Products' Price Boost Breach Of Law

TORONTO, April 5. — Recent boosts in the price of dairy products other than whole milk constitute a breach of the milk control legislation, Premier Frost told the legislature Wednesday.

During committee discussion of a last-minute amendment to the Milk Control Act, Opposition members said some of the distributors in Toronto had increased the price of skim milk, chocolate milk, cream and other fluid milk products.

In promising to look into the complaints, Attorney - General Porter said the price ceiling fixed by the milk board applied to all such commodities, with the exception of butter and cheese. He agreed to hold over the amendment until today to determine if the act were strong enough in its definition of the dairy products over which the board has price-fixing power.

The amendment provides that the board may, after a public hearing, set top prices for wholesale or retail sale of milk in any market. In the original wording of the bill wholesale prices had not been mentioned.

Some Test Cases

Commenting on the statement that some dairies had boosted the retail price of dairy products other than whole milk, Premier Frost said he had anticipated some attempts to circumvent the milk control legislation, but he was certain that it covered, with the exception of butter and cheese, all products. No doubt some test cases would arise from the situation, he said.

"Purpose of this legislation is not to make an unalterable price of milk," he said. "The price can be altered after a public hearing, but the board and the people of Ontario must be shown that there is good reason for an increase."

Offers To Supervise Skating Rink In 1952

Dr. Arthur Johnston, 1149 Clonsilla Ave., has offered to supervise next winter a skating rink west of the creek on No. 28 Highway, if it can be constructed by the parks department.

Armar Butcher was directed to interview Dr. Johnston about this proposal. He was also authorized in the parks committee report by Ald. P. J. Anglesey to buy a mower from Kingan Hardware Co.

A wading pool at Turner Park, High St. is suggested for discussion with members of B'Nai Brith on the basis that the club provide the materials and the city supply the labor.

AGREE ON PRICE CONTROLS

The United Electrical Workers and CCL unions don't often agree But both of them take a dim view of the soaring cost-of-living index, now at a record high of 179.7. Both are on record as favoring price controls on commodities without a wage freeze. Next Monday the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) meets and the subject is likely to come up again.

Demands Attorney-General Withdraw From Inquiry

TORONTO, April 5. (CP)—Campbell Calder, soft-spoken Liberal member for London, stirred up a tempest in the Ontario Legislature Wednesday night and it didn't subside until another member reminded participants that the whole argument was out of order. Mr. Calder suggested it was not proper that Attorney-General Porter should lead the legislative committee which is to investigate administration of criminal justice in Ontario.

"Having regard for his almost-judicial office, the Attorney-General should not be a member, let alone chairman, of the committee," said Mr. Calder. He would be in the unusual position of investigating his own department.

The suggestion that Mr. Porter withdraw from the position brought immediately sharply-worded replies from the Attorney-General and Premier Frost.

Won't Give It Up

"As long as I am the Attorney-General, I am to be the man to be chairman of the committee to investigate the administration of Justice," said Mr. Porter.

He challenged Mr. Calder to "stop these veiled insinuations" and say so if he thought the Attorney-General was "not fit" for the job.

Premier Frost accused Mr. Calder of making "a lot of silly insinuations." He described the speech as a "cowardly exhibition" and said Mr. Calder was "getting down into the gutter."

Mr. Calder said that rather than being chairman of the committee, Mr. Porter might more properly be called as a witness. He contended that the selection of the Attorney-General as its head had been done "so blandly and quietly" that opposition members had not realized the significance.

Justice Minister Garson would not make himself chairman of a committee to investigate administration of federal justice, Mr. Calder said. "I can see Mr. Duplessis as Attorney-General of Quebec doing that sort of thing."

The debate ended abruptly when G. I. Harvey (CCF-Sault Ste. Marie) reminded members that they were out of order since membership of the committee had been decided by the Legislature and nothing could change it.

Buyers Force U.S. Prices Drop

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—Americans are taking care of inflation for themselves in some lines by simply refusing to buy and forcing price cuts, defence mobilizer Charles E. Wilson told a congressional committee Wednesday.

He related one case in which he said the biggest manufacturer in a certain field had shown a high "degree of avariciousness" but bumped into the law of supply and demand and is getting ready to cut by more than 10 per cent.

He also emphasized he is really hopeful that appeals for voluntary co-operation in holding down credit will work. But if that method does not work much stronger mandatory curbs will be necessary within a few weeks.

Inflation can be controlled and if everybody works together it may be possible to take off emergency price and pay curbs in 1953.

He said, travelling north on Stewart St., he stopped at Charlotte St. and then started forward. He was watching a city bus going east on Charlotte St. and drove into the path of Gerard A. Doran, 482 Elm St., travelling west on Charlotte St.

Suggest Legislature Consider Pay Boost

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—The Ontario legislature recommended today that the House consider at the start of the 1952 session the question of more money for members.

The legislature adopted the report of a committee which recommended sharp increases in indemnities. W. H. Grummett (CCF—Cochrane South), a member of the six-man committee, did not sign the report.

Mr. Grummett said he is not opposed to the increases but objects to the recommendation the increases be considered at the next session.

"The enemy changed his tactics today. Instead of rolling with our punch as in the last few days, he was determined to stay in his positions."

Well Defended

AP correspondent John Randolph reported the Red positions "laced by trench lines on every hill and anchored in long-planned and well-built dugouts. Some of these dugouts have concrete walls nearly two feet thick."

Steep hills barred the path for the advancing allies both on the western and central fronts. Soldiers had to drive the Reds off almost every peak.

In two days of gruelling attack that carried four miles, the main body of the allied army drove 2½ miles inside Red Korea.

(An Australian patrol led elements of the 27th Commonwealth Brigade across the 38th parallel Thursday, Reuters News Agency reported. They were the first Commonwealth soldiers to cross 38 since the new year. They moved across the old boundary after an artillery barrage from New Zealand batteries crushed Chinese resistance.

Going Tough

(Pushing forward, however, they ran into stiff Chinese resistance. For the first time in many weeks they found barbed-wire barricades around which the Chinese had sown anti-personnel mines and booby traps. As the advance troops cut through the wire the Chinese peppered them with fire from ridges, Reuters said.)

Along the 40-mile front in the west and central sectors, allied assault troops stormed up hills a few paces behind exploding artillery shells. They killed Chinese and Koreans with rifles and grenades and stood firm against enemy fire.

Wants Harmony

France wants a democratic Europe, not created through the subordination of some nations to another, but through fruitful harmony. This free Europe would associate itself with the new world so that upon international economic and political co-operation enduring peace might be built.

"Let us not cease to proclaim the right and the principles of an enduring peace, but let us judge the sincerity of our partners by their acts and by their actual contribution to the easing of the international tension.

"France is not giving herself up to any naive neutralism, and whatever sacrifices our rearmament efforts add to our already crushing burdens for rehabilitation and re-equipment, we know that no sacrifice is as heavy as that of liberty."

Welcome Visit

Deputy Minister Dr. Rutherford Quits

TORONTO, April 5 — (CP)— Dr. F. S. Rutherford, Ontario Deputy Minister of Education, will retire because of ill-health on June 28, Education Minister Porter announced today. He will be succeeded by C. F. Cannon, Superintendent of Elementary Education.

Dr. Rutherford joined the Education Department in 1920 as organizer of vocational education, and became Deputy Minister in January, 1946.

Mr. Cannon, a former rural school teacher, became supervising principal of Oshawa Public Schools in 1926 and Public School Inspector at Oshawa in 1929. He joined the Education Department four years later as a Public School Inspector.

Time Is Money

LONDON, Ont. (CP).—Slow readers take note: it will cost more for that overdue library book here in future. The public library has increased the fine for overdue books from two to three cents a day. But the maximum fine remains at 75 cents.

Gardiner Begins Policy Talks

OTTAWA, April 5 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner returned from a western trip today and plunged into a discussion on agricultural policy with his advisory committee.

Main items on the agenda, it was learned, are the questions of price support for butter and cheese.

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture, represented on the committee, is urging a support price of 62 cents a pound for butter.

The support price, which ends April 30, is 53 cents. There is some indication that the new butter support price may run to about 60 cents a pound.

The government's cheese support price of 28 cents a pound terminated last Dec. 31. Ontario cheese producers, also represented on the committee, are urging continuation of the program at a higher support level.

Prices Climb Quietly On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, April 5 (CP) — Prices climbed quietly as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Volume for the first three hours, 552,000 shares, was about 91,000 fewer than the same period yesterday.

Industrial advances ranged from fractions to more than a point. Papers paced the list with a solid column of plus signs and steels, utilities, agricultures, constructions, textiles, liquors and refining oils showed a majority of gains.

Consolidated Smelters jumped 2⅛ to $140 to stand out in the firm base metal section. United Keno Hill, Sherritt Gordon, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, East Sullivan and Falconbridge were up fractions. Steep Rock and Waite Amulet went against the trend and eased.

Western oils slowly turned higher after mixed early trading.

Golds tended slightly lower in fairly mixed and dull trading.

advanced 78.3 per cent since August, 1939.

Outside of the February jump, the biggest increases since then were 2.8 points in August and September, 1947, and 2.7 points in January this year.

The labor leaders' joint statement said the latest increase "has made the case for price controls irresistible. The government should not hesitate a moment longer."

Never, after cubhood.
The long, slightly curved claws of an adult grizzly bear prevent him from climbing trees as the black bear does. While he is a cub though, the grizzly is a very adept climber! These majestic bears are spectacular Canadian features. They are becoming rare, and should be protected.

Plan More Aid For Pensioners And Families

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP).—The government proposed Wednesday to give a helping hand financially to war pensioners who can't work and to help children of pensioners to get higher education. War widows with children will receive substantial new help, too.

The first move, one to introduce an "unemployability supplement" was promptly assailed as one which brings the means test into war pensions legislation for the first time. Members of all three parties in opposition also complained that the government is restricting the scope of the first veterans commitee in three years.

Veterans Minister Lapointe told the Commons the government wants to establish a 31-member House committee to study bills which would do these among other things:

1. Provide for members of the Canadian UN force some but not all the discharge benefits accorded veterans of the Second World War.
2. Provide up to $40 a month for unemployable married pensioners and up to $20 a month for unemployable single pensioners to help them battle rising living costs. This would be in addition to the regular pensions which can run as high as $125 a month for married men and $94 for single men.
3. Provide more adequately for the children of pensioned widows. A widow now gets $75 a month for herself plus the usual pensioner's children's allowances of $19 for the first child, $15 for the second, $12 for others. Orphans get twice those allowances and it is quite possible that allowances for widows' children will be doubled, too, although Mr. Lapointe did not go into details.
4. Encourage higher education for pensioners' children. This is expected to be done by extending to 21 the age to which children's allowances can be continued as long as they are studying. The current cutoff ages are 16 for boys and 17 for girls with some exceptions.

MISS J. CORMACK, of the Red Cross Corps, tells a story to some of the children of flooded-out families who found shelter in the home of the Bien-Etre de la Jeunesse, near Pointe aux Trembles, Que. The Bien-Etre provided the space and the beds, the Red Cross helped out with food and blankets.

Store Boasts 195-Foot Shopping Aisle

Selkirk men's wear store will service Peterborough men with the longest shopping aisle in any men's wear store in Eastern Ontario beginning Friday morning. Then the new addition to the present store on George St. will open and shoppers will be able select men's clothes along the 195-foot store.

Selkirk's will celebrate their enlargement Friday with a gift for every woman purchaser and will hold draws for $300 worth of men's wearing apparel.

Everything for the man but shoes will be available throughout the store. In the new addition will be the made-to-measure and ready-made clothing departments, featuring suits, top coats, overcoats, trousers and sports jackets.

In the original store will be the men's shirts, hats socks, ties and other clothing as well as special departments for boys' clothing and men's working clothes. Selkirk's plan to furnish clothes for boys from six years to 16 years in all lines and carry a complete range in work clothes.

Verne A. Selkirk first opened a men's clothing store on October 1931 just above Hunter St. on George St. Since then the business has grown rapidly. Within a year-and-a-half the business outgrew the small store and Mr. Selkirk moved to a long, narrow store on George St. just north of Charlotte St. on the west side.

In July 1947 the store's expanding business again forced vacating the small store for larger premises and Mr. Selkirk moved several doors north. For the third time in 20 years business forced further expansion and the new addition was built.

With the expanding business the staff increased correspondingly. Since he opened his business in 1931 Mr. Selkirk's staff has increased to eight, including his son, Clayton, who now has five years experience in the men's wearing apparel business.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 5 — (ENS).—Provincial police in Napanee have wired Chief Constable George H. Hardy that they have recovered the 1945 truck stolen from a Campbellford implement shop Tuesday night.

Everett Smith of the Napanee detachment wired that the truck had been recovered, mired in the mud but apparently undamaged, on a sideroad near that town. The owner, Walter Jones, left immediately to claim the truck.

Chinese Captors Friendly Tattered Prisoners Say

ON THE CENTRAL KOREAN FRONT, April 5 (Thursday) — (Reuters). — Twelve US and two Soupth Korean prisoners-of-war were found wandering the Korean hills Wednesday in ragged, half-starved condition.

They were picked up by a US tank and infantry patrol just south of Parallel 38.

All members of the American 2nd Division, they had been captured by the Chinese two months ago near Hoengsong and Wonju and were set free within the last week.

Search for the men began 48 hours ago when a group of five ex-prisoners found the way to UN lines and reported the whereabouts of others.

Louse-ridden and emaciated, some without boots, the men rode on the backs of their rescuers to medical aid stations. They said they had been well treated by their captors.

"They gave us all the food they could — rice, beans, meal— and always a shelter," said one.

But the men said the North Koreans, unlike the Chinese, took every opportunity to club and beat them. They were kept on the move.

One said Chinese troops repeatedly shook hands with the Americans and told them they wanted to be friends.

Salute To The President

The first President of the Fourth Republic of France is in Ottawa today on his first state visit to Canada. He arrives from Washington and New York where he was given a vivid and cordial welcome. Ottawa will receive him with special warmth, if less flamboyantly. Canadians have fought in two wars for the liberation of France of which M. Vincent Auriol has been an honoured and characteristic patriot; and bilingual Canada has an especial fondness for the terre de nos aieux, which, in the Canadian anthem means French Canada, but is, in the heart-strings, the France from which Canadian civilization had its first life.

* * *

President Auriol is a man of his people, republican to the core, passionate for freedom and ardent in his love of French soil. He has been President since the elections of January, 1947, when the post-war constitution of France was promulgated. Despite his occupancy of the Elysee Palace, he is unpretentious and blends the dignity of office with a simple affability. He has been in municipal and national politics since 1914. The son of a prominent baker in a small southern town near Toulouse, he is a Socialist with a profound patriotism. He was one of the 80 members of the Chamber of Deputies who opposed the majority of 569 deputies who, in 1940, voted to give Marshall Petain plenary powers at Vichy, after the Germans had captured Paris. He hid from the Germans during the Occupation and served a year in the Maquis. In 1943 he was flown by an R.A.F. plane to Algiers where a Free French government was being established under De Gaulle.

* * *

Earlier this week, when speaking in Washington to a joint session of Congress he said that his people had learned from bitter experience that "isolation is death" and that "right without might is powerless." He declared that "neutralism" is "a moral absurdity" and "geographical and historical nonsense." His theme was no mere bow to American belief and present policy. His words rise from his own personal experience and his country's recent history. The French people who took the first shock of aggression almost alone in both 1914 and 1939 have learned that "neutrality, whether declared, armed, or disarmed, has protected neither Belgium, the Netherlands, Norway nor Denmark, and that an aggressor would never stop at a frontier post, even should it be surmounted with a dove holding the branch of an olive tree."

* * *

So long as France has President Auriol at its head, and so long as there are Frenchmen to remember 1939-45, France will not seek to hide behind a Maginot line or an imagined neutrality.

* * *

Today Canada welcomes this staunch patriot, the first citizen of France.

T 1 Short

April is the month for toting up one's income tax bill—and paying it. Most people are able to use the "T 1 Short" form: "For use by individuals whose earned income of any amount is solely from salary, wages or pension and whose investment income, if any, is not over $2,400." There is much clap-trap talked about the intricacies of filling out income-tax forms. It is rather a stale joke. The T 1 Short is short, and also simple and clear. It is well devised. It should present no difficulties to anyone who has had a grade-school education. One does not have to calculate even percentages; although, if one takes the trouble to use the "rates of tax" schedule at the bottom of page 4 instead of the generalized tax table on the same page, a few cents may be saved by figuring in percentages.

We take the trouble to mention the T 1 Short because almost all our adult, wage-earning readers will have to fill its blanks (or some other tax form) and send it to Belleville. Contrary to some slip-shod opinion, anybody who earns a dollar is required to complete an income-tax form, whether or not he (or she) thinks his income is insufficient to be taxable. The tax-gatherers reserve to themselves the right to decide whether an income is taxable. The point is that the income has to be declared. That is the law.

There may be some happy surprises in store for the tax-form-fillers. The overall rate is the lowest it has been since 1948. If a person's income has remained constant since then, he will have less tax to pay than in, say, 1949. Actually, the income tax is about the only thing on the face of Canada which has not increased in price during this inflationary period.

People may have by them their 1948 and '49 form duplicates for comparison. If the payable tax has increased it is because income has increased, and it must have increased substantially to incur any significant increase in the tax. For instance, the basic exemption in the 1948 bill was $750. It is now $1,000. The rate on $1,600 taxable income in 1948 was $291. Now it is $253, the same as last year.

The rates this year are exactly the same as last because the tax provisions of last year's budget were made retroactive to the first of the year; that is, to the first of 1949; this month we are paying 1950's tax. Thus income tax has remained constant during the last two years despite rising costs in every other phase of Canadian living.

There is little hope that the static rate will continue. The budget to be brought down on April 10th will tell the tale. It may not be as fierce as some gloom-doom prophets think, especially on lower incomes. But this year people should be able to fill out their tax forms with some enthusiasm. After all, wage and salary earners have already paid most of the tax, and, if they have their duplicate tax forms of the last five years to refer to for comparison, many can get consolation from the salary and wage increases which are shown in them.

The little slip which the employing office has given out—"T4-1950"—to attach to income tax forms, shows the total income from wages or salary during the year, before tax deductions. It should look reassuring to most Peterborough workers, when compared with, say, the wages or salaries of 1945-47.

Too Much Money

One of the signs of inflation is too much money chasing too few goods. This in itself increases inflationary pressure, for people with the money will pay higher prices so that they can get the goods. The situation is an incentive to producers and merchants to mark up their prices. If the people have not got the money, of course they will not pay higher prices because they cannot. Therefore one of the suggested remedies for inflation is to reduce the amount of money in circulation. The Government is doing this to some extent by curbing credit. Credit increases the financial ability to buy. For instance if a householder can get a refrigerator on a down-payment of $10 and thereafter by small weekly payments, he does not need to wait for the refrigerator until he has the total price collected, say in a year.

Under this kind of credit buying, twelve refrigerators may be sold where only one would be bought if spot cash were required. To limit consumer demand the Government has stipulated that, on cars for instance, the down payment must be fifty per cent. of the price, and the balance must be paid within twelve months. Formerly the down payment on new cars was a third, with the balance payable over 24 months. The tightening of credit reduces purchasing power.

One estimate has been made that the "surplus" money in circulation in Canadian hands amounts to $500,000,000—that is money surplus to the goods and services that are available. If this surplus were taken out of circulation the pressure of competition for the goods would be eliminated. Undoubtedly the Budget to be introduced April 10th will have something to say about reducing the money in circulation or, in other words, restricting consumer demand. Compulsory savings have been forecast. Additional taxes would also reduce purchasing power. But how can people meet new taxes, who are already hard-pressed to meet rising costs, and who themselves do not feel burdened down with 'surplus' money? If the effect of the budget is to lower prices or at least halt their rise, such new measures might be feasible.

There is another way to reduce the surplus of money in circulation. That is to make more goods available. Money will not be 'surplus' if there are enough goods to be had for it. More goods can be made available if production is increased, and not too much of it goes into national defence, where it is, of course, withdrawn from consumer use. If the threat of war lessens, the rate of re-armament may not be so heavy as to be inflationary. The Canadian production machine is already geared very high. The country's finances are sound, and Canada is rich in natural resources. It may be that Canada can afford the present re-armament and at the same time keep its standard of living, paying as it goes and living fatly as well.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A fashion fad in Paris is the wearing of one white and one black glove. The black one, we presume, is for shaking hands.

A trade bulletin says that more tea is drunk than any other known beverage. This excludes, of course, those unknown beverages which some restaurants serve when asked for tea.

We read in a Toronto paper that the Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi celebrated his 70th mirthday last Tuesday. Those Italians seem to get a lot of fun out of life, despite war and peace.

The Cups That Cheer

by
O. M. GREEN

SHALL we have more tea or less, better or worse, now that bulk-buying is finished and the Government buyers give place to the professionals? A million British families wait anxiously for Mincing Lane to find the right answer, while still there is not enough of this ambrosial herb in the world for the increasing number of tea-drinkers.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is an example of man's blindness to the best gifts of nature that even in China, the birthplace of tea, it was not till about A.D. 350 that tea-drinking became popular. According to legend, a Buddhist monk, having fallen asleep over his devotions, cut off his eyelids to punish himself on waking and threw them on the ground, whence grew tea bushes and the drink which wards off sleep. The Chinese word for tea is "tay" (or, in the Cantonese dialect, "tcha"). Some readers may remember old ladies who still spoke of a "dish of tay," as no doubt Mrs. Battle did when she had crushed her opponents at whist.

✧ ✧ ✧

CHINA also seems responsible for the compound "tea caddy," from "catty," a weight of 1½ lb. In the writer's family a small blue-and-white lidded jar was traditionally known as Queen Elizabeth's tea caddy. Unfortunately there was no tea in England then. If there had been, Shakespeare must have mentioned it: probably Banquo, when advising the Scottish nobles to put on some warm clothes, after they had been called from their beds by the murder of Duncan, would also have recommended a hot cup of tea.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE first public sale of tea in England was in 1657, when it cost from £6 to £10 the pound. In spite of its price, its merits were soon recognized, for only a year later the "Sultaness Head Cophee House in Sweeting's Rents by the Royal Exchange" was advertising sales of "that excellent and by all Physitians approved China drink called by the Chineans Tcha, by other nations Tay alias Tee."

✧ ✧ ✧

PRICES came down with the development of transport, taste, and the fashionable tea parties by Vauxhall, Ranelagh and Marylebone. The tea served by Emma Hart, "the tea-maker of Edgware Road" (better remembered as Nelson's enchantress), probably cost 30s. to 35s a pound. The China tea-clippers, Cutty Sark, Thermopylae, Ariel and Taeping, still further lowered the price. Then came the flood of teas from India and Ceylon; and eventually Tommy Lipton's famous shilling tea for the joy of humble homes around Bethnal Green and Walworth Road, where teapots brewed on the hob all day long and the tea came out quite black and reeking of tannin.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT the contributions of tea to literature and art one can only glance. Lu Yu, an eighth-century Chinese scholar, wrote a treatise on tea. Pepys in 1660 "did send for a cup of tee which I never had drank before"—one may be sure, epicure that he was, it was not his last. Waller wrote an ode to tea. Dr. Johnson "did not recoil from eighteen cups of tea" at a sitting. De Quincey "usually" drank tea from 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. Cowper wrote of "the cups that cheer but not inebriate." George Morland's painting of "The Tea Party at Bagnigge" in the British Museum is but one of many masterpieces inspired by tea. And craftsmanship seldom rose to greater heights than in the teapots made by the unrivalled British silversmiths of the eighteenth century, and in the lovely teacups of Worcester, Derby, and Spode. Now they are too precious to use but live in glass cabinets, while we drink our tea in heavy, soulless, off-white utility cups.

✧ ✧ ✧

ON how to drink and make tea, fashions and tastes vary as widely as in most things. Jan of the Windmill won the approval of Mrs. Salter, the farmer's wife, by the genteel way in which he stuck out his little finger when drinking. Dr. G. C. Williamson, the antiquarian, saw Queen Victoria drink her tea from the saucer into which she had poured it to cool. (But we were not allowed to do that in the nursery, or to put our elbows on the table like the ladies in old engravings.) Russians flavour tea with lemon and sugar, but these ingredients suffocate the real aroma of tea. And controversy rages hotly over whether milk should be put in first or last. There is much to be said for drinking tea without milk, asthe Chinese do.

The one indisputable rule is that tea must be made with fresh water at the exact moment of boiling. Any delay means flat water, which ruins the tea. "Hence," as one authority sourly observes, "the discouraging concoctions on steamships and railways."

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT the world needs today is a great deal more tea. Tea is at once energizing and reposeful, refreshing and tranquillizing; it soothes the nerves and induces an equable view of life and tolerance of all men. In 1917 "Life" remarked that the war had to be stopped every day at 4 p.m. while the British Army had its tea. Nobody could be quarrelsome in his cups if they were filled with tea. What may not Mincing Lane yet do for the peace of the world!

Industry Moves West

(Victoria Daily Times)

A huge aluminum industry on the Pacific coast not only will enrich British Columbia but will alter the economic balance of the nation. Up to now, because it enjoyed the power and cheap transportation of the St. Lawrence, and because it was protected by high tariffs at the expense of every Canadian consumer, central Canada has owned nearly all the nation's heavy industry. At last heavy industry is coming to the West. A top-heavy national economy is moving toward something like equilibrium.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

"Speaking of hens," remarked one man, "reminds me of an old bird my father once had. She would hatch out anything, from a tennis-ball to a lemon. One day she sat on a piece of ice and hatched out two quarts of hot water."

"That doesn't come up to a club-footed hen my mother had," remarked another man. "They had been feeding her by mistake on sawdust instead of oatmeal. She laid twelve eggs and sat on them, and when they hatched, eleven of the chicks had wooden legs and the twelfth was a woodpecker!"

Letters To The Editor

TRUTH NOT MONOPOLY OF ONE SECT

Sir: It must be most gratifying to you to be the recipient of so many letters congratulating and thanking you for the Scripture passages. You must have known, of course, that your query would evoke shoals of letters from the faithful, all urging the continuance of the insertions. After all, it doesn't cost anything, and I have remarked that most of the unworldly have their feet well on the ground when it comes to making money or getting something for nothing.

Should the Scripture passages be continued? By all means. Where the God-given beauty of articulate speech has become a series of grunts and mumbles any contact with the pure stream of Chaucerian English must be jealously guarded and preserved.

But let no one think that all truth and beauty is to be found in one volume or in the teachings of one sect. Dig your editorial ladle deeper into the "Pot of Gold" and give us some of the Divine truths as revealed to Gandhi, Graves, Voltaire, Shaw, Marx, Tennyson, Mahomet, Confucius and others of that "cloud of witnesses" who have contributed to man's spiritual existence.

Since the least understood and practised of the Christian virtues is tolerance and the last paragraph is heresy I sign myself,

Yours sincerely,
UNHOLY WILLIE.

HOLIER THAN THE LORD

Sir: "Child of God" is on thin ice when he turns to the Bible for support of his jaundiced views on drinking, smoking and the evils of enjoyment in general.

If he read the Good Book carefully he would also find pearls of wisdom like "Drink no longer water but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake." (Tim. 5: 23.)

The Pharisees called Christ a "wine-bibber" and it must give "Child of God" and his fellow-bigots a feeling of superiority to realize that, on this score at least, they are holier even than the Lord himself.

It is easy to imagine Child of God sitting down at the Wedding Feast and (after Jesus had gone to considerable trouble to change the water into wine) saying smugly "Not for me thanks—never touch the stuff."

So, despite the hellfire and damnation foretold for me by Child of God I, at least, will continue to take the Bible's advice to "Drink thy wine with a merry heart." (Ecc. 9: 7.), and to hope that some day your correspondent and all the other tight-lipped advocates of abstinence will "see the light" and settle down to enjoying the full fruits of all of God's products, including (in moderation, of course) "Wine that maketh glad the heart of man." (Psalms 104: 15.)

Yours etc.,
"HIC!"

EASTER EGGS

Sir: During the last week-end several references were made in the papers to Easter eggs in connection with the feast of the resurrection, but none of the writers seemed to know what connection the egg had with Easter. The reason that the egg is a symbol of Easter is that the chicken comes forth from the egg by its own power, by breaking the shell with its beak. In like manner Christ came forth from the walled-in tomb where His dead body was laid, by His own power, alive, glorious and immortal.

READER.

UNFAIR TO CLEAN FARMERS

Sir: In your editorial headed "The Boot on the other Leg," you showed the dairy farm in a very poor light, while showing only the better side of the margarine factory.

It is compulsory for all cattle to be T.B. tested, but it is not compulsory for factory workers to be so tested. Also your ad, picturing local packing house, might read "Have you ever smelled the packing house on a hot day?" They do make margarine you know—you might also scent your paper with that odour as you did recently for another local firm.

A CLEAN FARMER.

AGELESS, MATCHLESS PHRASES

Sir: The invitation to readers to express their interest in the Bible Message will, I hope, bring a good response. Whatever the origin of the practice it is surely a commendable custom to publish some portion of the Bible daily, and one which many, like myself, would not wish to see abandoned.

In these days of unrest, particularly, it is a satisfaction to have some of the ageless and matchless phrases of the scriptures meet the eye of the daily reader.

It was a satisfaction, too, to see your good editorial supporting the authorized version of the Bible, rather recently. It was, of course, only one of many Peterburians have come to expect from the Examiner.

Sincerely yours,
LEONE WALSH.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest, and desired of him letters to Damascus to the synagogues, that if he found any of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem. And as he journeyed, he came near Damascus: and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven: and he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks....

And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw no man: but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus....And there was a certain disciple at Damascus, named Ananias; and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias. And he said, Behold, I am here, Lord. And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called Straight, and enquire in the house of Judas for one called Saul, of Tarsus: for, behold, he prayeth, and hath seen in a vision a man named Ananias coming in, and putting his hand on him, that he might receive his sight. Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy saints at Jerusalem....

But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel....And Ananias went his way, and entered into the house; and putting his hands on him said, Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost.

And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales: and he received sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized. (Acts 9: 1-5, 8, 10-13, 15, 17, 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem: and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go as far as Antioch....

Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seek Saul: and when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves with the church, and taught much people. And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch. (Act. 11: 22, 25, 26.)

SAY WHEN

"And what brought you here this time?" asked the chaplain.

"Just run through the ten commandents, sir, and I'll tell you."

Everything New With A's But Players

By JACK HAND.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 5 (AP)—Everything is new with the Philadelphia A's except the ball players. For the first time since 1901, Connie Mack is not the manager. At 88, the grand old man has turned over the job to Jimmy Dykes, one of "my boys."

Dykes has the back-breaking task of prying the A's loose from the cellar. It will take more than a crowbar, but crushing the defeatism of other years is one of Dykes' main projects.

"Nobody is going to quit on this ball club," says Dykes. "We may get beat but we're not quitting. I think the guys are going to play ball for me.

"If Joe Coleman and Dick Fowler come around, the pitching will be pretty good. But we don't have the power towin those close games when you get the good pitching."

Dykes tried to do something about the club durjng the winter. Firstbaseman Ferris Fain was on the market for a slugging outfielder and catching help. Nobody would give up a front-line man, so the A's kept him.

Pitching Key

Pitching is the key to the A's hopes of escaping last place. When Coleman and Fowler came up with arm trouble last summer, the A's were strapped.

Coleman (0-5) rates himself 100 per cent improved over last spring. Fowler (1-5) has been throwing easily in exhibition games, showing promise that the bursitis may be working out of his shoulder.

Lou Brissie (7-19), Alex Kellner (8-20) and Bobby Shantz (8-14) form a solid front line of southpaw pitching. Kellner, a 20-game winner in '49, should do much better than last year.

Hank Wyse, (9-14), Bob Hooper (15-12) and Carl Scheib (3-10), impressive with a new side-arm delivery, also will take regular turns.

The rest of the club is set with Joe Astroth (.327) and Joe Tipton (.266) the only catchers.

Fain (.282) at first, Billy Hitchcock (.273) at second, Eddie Joost (.233) at short and Kermit Wahl (.257) at third form a capable but elderly infield.

The outfield is the club's strength, although the boys are moving up in the age bracket. Paul Lehner (.309) in left, Sam Chapman (.251) in centre and Elmer Valo (.280) in right are the regulars with 40-year-old Wally Moses (.264), oldest player in the majors, one of those available to fill in.

MOUND MURAL.—Bob Lemon winds up, brings the ball way back, fires with a twist of the wrist, follows through and another Indian opponent bites the dust. The converted Cleveland outfielder-infielder is warming up in Tucson, preparing for a fourth consecutive 20-game season. He bagged 23 last year.

Won't Get All Benefits

OTTAWA, April 5 — (CP) — Veterans Minister Lapointe said Wednesday members of the UN force for Korea for the present will be given some but not all benefits of the veterans charter.

That, he told the Commons, is the government's policy "until we have a much clearer picture of the situation."

The special force includes the Army's 25th Brigade, the Navy's three destroyers and the RCAF's 426 Transport Squadron.

Mr. Lapointe said a bill will be introduced in the House shortly to place on a legislative basis those veterans benefits which have already been accorded the UN force by cabinet order-in-council.

These include the right to pension, to reinstatement in civil employment, to unemployment insurance and, for those eligble, protection under the Civil Service Superannuation Act.

Won't Have All Benefits

The minister added:

"This legislation for the special force will not at this time be made to include all the benefits given to veterans of the Second World War.

"This decision is made because the situation is still far from being static and in the opinion of the government it is advisable that some degree of elasticity . . . should be be maintained and that permanent legislation in regard to certain of the benefits should not be placed on the statute books until we have a much clearer picture of the situation."

Veterans of the Second World War were entitled to land settlement, gratuities, re-establishment credits, University education and other benefits

Outside the House, Mr. Lapointe said the government is empowered to make more of these benefits available to the special force by order in council if that becomes advisable.

The New York Journal American said Wednesday Brooklyn Dodgers are contemplating trades that may involve 12 players and named St. Louis Cardinals as the main negotiators.

Mike Gaven, the Journal's Dodger correspondent said that the Brooklyn vice-president, Buzzy Bavasi, had instructed Dodger players not to sign leases for apartments in Brooklyn.

Bavasi said, "in view of our trade negotiations I would guess that at least 12 of the 32 players that we have left are not sure of their jobs.

Just a cleanup item on the puck-playing junior "B" IOOF-ers. In the 10 group playoff games they were in, Dean West led the way in scoring with 17 goals and five assists for 22 points. Bob Wyatt and Lefty Doris were also potent with 17 points apiece, the latter leading in assists with 13. Ray Douglas was good for 15 points, two more than Jim Morrow. Roy Armstrong came next with eight, as Ken Floyd and Brian Robinson each had seven. Then Ab Buckton clicked for six, with Stewart having four, and Clapper, Dean Wasson, and G. Robinson three apiece. Some of these graduate from junior now.

In a double-barrelled shot aimed in the general direction of the Petes, more than half of the senior OLA clubs are bringing up two amendments at the OLA annual in Toronto a week Saturday. One is to form a three-man dictatorship committee to handle senior "A" affairs, the trio to have pretty sweeping powers. Each officer to be in for a three-year term on a rotating system. They settle all transfers and disputes and may "set aside any agreements clubs may make which, in the judgement of the commission, may not be in the best interests of lacrosse." Their decisions are governed by OLA rules "and good common sense", as the amendment puts it. Pretty sweeping, eh?

* * * * * *

So Much On The Hoof

The other business is putting senior players on a pro basis where releases are concerned. In other words, charging for the guy. The suggestion is that clubs grade their players, bracket "A" having six fellows whose release value is $400 each. "B" has six at $300, "C" four at $250 and "D" four at $200. Juniors graduating will be worth $200. Clubs must not, under pain of a fine, negotiate with a player on another club without clearing it through the commish and paying the proper amount. Certain exceptions can be made on job transfers, but only with the approval of the commission.

* * * * * *

In the long run, the few places like Peterborough which have large well-coached minor lacrosse associations will benefit as they will bring up their own players for free and have surplus material to "sell", as it were. But right now, five of the eight senior "A" clubs are yelling about the Petes bolstering up to Mann Cup standards. These amendments have to be voted upon at the OLA annual and local interests should have all voting delegates possible on hand, and mayhap do some lobbying, too. But, if the amendments pass and become effective at once, the Petes will have to put out some money. If they can raise enough, we believe they should do it—as they'll get it back in increased crowds to see a winning club.

* * * * * *

But It Would Be $800

At the moment, we believe they would have to pay—provided the amendments pass—for two. No doubt about it, Lloyd (Moon) Wootton and Harry Wipper would be in the top bracket at $400 each. Curly Mason was brought in last fall by the Petes' puckists to play hockey, and should not be considered a lacrosse import—though Heaven knows how the disgruntled Owen Sounders will argue about that. Ike Hildebrand is a free agent, having been out west last year. We will not presume to advise the senior lacrosse officials, but we feel the fans should know the argument building up for the OLA annual and the possible result as it affects the Petes. The other clubs are afraid of us this year, and that's why they're gunning for us.

Just three clubs represented last night at the first meeting of the Industrial Fastball League, Mount Pleasant, Quakers and Woollens. Hence, not a great deal could be done. However, hopes are high that another successful circuit will leave the starting gate sometime in May as the past two seasons were okay financially and a lot of chaps enjoyed keen competition on the various diamonds. Prexy Bill Gunn is calling another league meeting for this coming Monday night at 7.30 in the YMCA when all teams interested in the Fastball League are asked to have representatives on deck. In Quaker Park, this softball—or fastball—loop has one of the finest layouts in the city.

A. Ingram Rink Captures Curling Crown

By HERB. MARTIN.

With the playing of several final games last evening, curling for this season is about finished, though there are one or two nights left yet for odds and ends.

In the club championship game between A. Ingram and R. F. Downey, it was a one-sided affair. The Downey boys got a big three on the first end—but that was all. The Ingram quartet came right back with a three to square the game, and from then on it was a procession.

In the Neill Trophy final, Dr. R. Clark took a commanding lead 8-1, but by the time the eighth end was reached, the C. Lawrence boys, by steady curling, had the game tied. But the doctor came back with a couple of nice ends, and that was that.

The Neill Consolation event — played Tuesday night—was a repetition. M. Hardill started off well, but along about the sixth end V. Brown's boys helped themselves to a big six, and that just about settled the issue. His rink won by quite a margin.

Could Not Finish

The final of the vice-skips' bonspiel between L. Scott and F. Hollowell ended a tie, but as skip L. Scott received a foot injury on the ninth end and could scarcely stand, the Hollowell rink declined to take any advantage and declared the Scott rink winners. It was real sportsmanship on the part of F. Hollowell's rink, and goes to show that there is something in curling besides winning.

Congratulations to all.

Just as reminders: Don't forget the men's bonspiel tomorrow night at 6:30 and 8:30.

Monday evening is the night set apart for the club banquet at the Aragon Club. Keep the date, boys.

NBA Says Louis Logical Title Contender

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) The United States National Boxing Association said Wednesday that former champion Joe Louis is the only logical contender for Ezzard Charles' heavyweight title.

In releasing its quarterly ratings, the 47-State body gave Detroit's Brown Bomber the nod over Lee Savold, Jersey Joe Walcott and Rex Layne, the sensational young heavyweight from Utah.

The ratings extended recognition to Joe Maxim as lightheavyweight king and to Ike Williams as lightweight champion but made it clear these were "conditional."

The NBA said its executive committee will announce shortly, probably next week, whether the two champs will be stripped of their crowns for failure to defend them within the time specified by the group, which exercises control over professional boxing in all States except New York.

Maxim, reported to sign today for a heavyweight title go against Charles in Chicago May 30, and Williams, who agreed to defend his title May 11 in New York's Madison Square Garden against Jimmy Carter of New York, were ordered last February to defend their titles by March 31, 1951, or face possible dethroning.

Lamotta Dropped

The NBA dropped Jake Lamotta to the outstanding boxer classification and said there is no logical contender for Robinson's middleweight crown.

Cuba's Kid Gavilan, who goes after Johnny Bratton's NBA-version welterweight crown May 18, was ranked top contender for the title, with England's Eddie Thomas next. Also in line were Billy Graham, Charlie Fusari who lost to Bratton, Joe Miceli and Fitzie Pruden, a Canadian newcomer from St. Catharines, who made a good showing in New York not so long ago.

The ratings:

Heavyweight: champion, Ezzard Charles. Logical contender, Joe Louis.

Light-heavyweight: champion, Joe Maxim. Logical contenders, Archie Moore, Harry Matthews, Bob Murphy, Bob Satterfield.

Middleweight: champion, Ray Robinson. Logical contenders, none. Outstanding boxers, Jake Lamotta, Dave Sands of Australia, Laurient Dauthille of France.

Welterweight: champion, Johnny Bratton. Logical contenders, Kid Gavilan of Cuba, Eddie Thomas of England. Outstanding boxers include Fitzie Pruden of St. Catharines.

Lightweight: champion, Ike Williams. Logical contenders, Freddie Dawson, John L. Davis (retired).

Featherweight: champion, Sandy Saddler. Logical contender, Willie Pep.

Indians Camp In Turmoil Over Simmons Plan To Quit

HOUSTON, Tex., April 5 (AP) The announced resignation of coach Al Simmons—and then his denial—had Cleveland Indians' camp in somewhat of a turmoil today.

The big question seemed to be: "is he through or isn't he?"

Simmons said he hadn't written a letter of resignation and didn't intend to. But he summed up his status with the club with these words:

"As far as I'm concerned, I'm through and that's that."

Tribe manager Al Lopez said he was completely surprised by Simmons' statement. He had reported earlier that the third-base coach quit because of ill health.

Lopez didn't say, however, whether he now might consider keeping Simmons on his staff. It appeared possible that Simmons and general manager Hank Greenberg might meet in Dallas and thresh the matter out.

Just before the Indians left Tucson Wednesday, Simmons told reporters that he had "just asked permission to leave for a while so I could go see my personal physician."

He's Sick Man

"I'm a sick man and I want to find out what the trouble is. I thought maybe if I felt better later on I could come back. I thought maybe I could rejoin the club in Cleveland."

But Lopez shook his head and said he just couldn't understand it.

"He came to me the other night and he was terribly upset," the pilot declared. "He said, 'Al, I'm quitting. I just can't go on like this any longer.'

"We sat and talked for a long time. He was nearly in tears. I tried to tell him that he should find out what the trouble is and then decide whether or not to quit the club."

Lopez said Simmons thanked him but replied he didn't want it this way. "He said he had definitely decided to quit and have a complete physical check-up."

The husky tutor came to the Indians at the start of last season after serving as a coach with the Philadelphia Athletics. He was one of baseball's greatest hitters during his playing career with four American League and two National League clubs.

Jimmy Nolan Vacates Welterweight Title

CALGARY, April 5 (CP). — Calgary's Jimmy Nolan, who won the western Canada welterweight title over two years ago, announced Wednesday that he is vacating the title.

The popular fighter stated that he is no longer able to make the welterweight limit of 147 pounds, and as a result now will go shooting for the vacant western Canada middleweight crown, formerly held by the current Canadian middleweight champion Roy Wouters.

Nolan won the welter title Jan. 20, 1949, in Calgary when he knocked out Johnny Roberts of Winnipeg in the ninth round. He successfully defended the title twice against Hal Robbins of Vancouver and Benny Geary of Edmonton. Both were knocked out in the fifth round.

Don't Like Movie

CANNES, France, April 5 (Reuters)—A Canadian movie shown on the opening day of the Cannes Film Festival Wednesday was frigidly received by the critics. The Canadian effort, "Les Anciens Canadiens," a documentary dealing with French pioneers in Canada, raised barely a handclap.

M. Caccavella Leads

M. Caccavella hit high three of 886 as J. Denault led in singles with 331 this week in the Major Bowling League. Plazas rolled high pinage for the season with a 3608 smash, including top game of 1314. Bickell blanked Kawartha and Caccavella whitewashed Bassell's, as 4-2 wins were marked by McLeod, Kingsmen, Selkirk, Edgewater, Hunt, McWilliams, Cherney, Mongraw, Odeon and Plazas respectively over Posties, Crowley, Modern, Campbell's, Wonder, Calvert, Wood, E & B, Parkway and Wade.

Good scores included: R. Suddards (330) 864, M. Mackey (322) 813, E. Reynolds 799, J. Breakspear 752, H. Legrow 766, K. Mills 735, J. Denault 733, A. Caccavella (320) 726, J. Wade 721, W. Harris 719, J. Goodhew 708 and singles of 327 and 303 by M. Caccavella.

Hollywood Stars Steal Show

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP) — The greatest show on earth was practically overshadowed on its opening night Wednesday night by Broadway's version of a Hollywood premiere.

Into Madison Square Garden for its first show of the 1951 season came Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's circus.

But the elephants, clowns, seals and beautiful girls swinging from high wires yielded the spotlight to stars of stage, screen and radio.

The ranks of the clowns was a favorite hiding place for such famous folk as Jack Dempsey, Don Ameche and Buddy Rogers.

Opera star Lily Pons turned up as the inexpert trainer of an imitation leopard and was carried kicking in the arms of the leopard out of the purple sawdust-bedecked arena.

The guest stars turned out for the benefit of the New York Heart Association which got all the receipts. Boxes sold for $1,000 each and the "house" was estimated at $250,000.

Wings Favorites Over Leafs To Take Cup

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, who left no doubt during the regular schedule that they're the best in the National Hockey League, rate as favorites today to reach the Stanley Cup finals.

But hockey observers give Leafs little chance of winning the cup, unless they play a lot better against Detroit than they have so far in the best-of-seven series with Boston Bruins.

Leafs have a 2-1 lead in games, but their performance in Tuesday night's 3-1 win at Boston was hardly an indication of the mastery Toronto has wielded over Bruins all season.

Bruins, who just squeezed into the fourth playoff spot, looked the better team for more than the first half of the game, and a couple of questionable goals provided Leafs with their victory margin.

Toronto came home Wednesday, spent the night here, and today headed for St. Catharines, to hide out before the Saturday night game. Leafs won't appear in Toronto until about an hour before game time, then will head for Boston immediately after for what may be the last game of the series. If a seventh game is necessary, it will be here next Tuesday.

Individual Stars

While Leafs haven't shone as a team thus far in the playoffs, there have been some individual performances which rate praise. Veteran Turk Broda, who has had a remarkable average of 2.04 goals a game in 101 professional playoff games, is probably the chief factor in Toronto's edge.

A magnificent pay-off goaltender, Turk, at 36 the league's oldest player, is all but making Toronto fans temporarily forget about injured Al Rollins, the rookie who shared regular-season duties and won the Vezina Trophy.

Another bright performer has been Howie Meeker, 26-year-old right-winger from Kitchener. General Manager Conn Smythe said he is "very happy" about Meeker's play.

Max Bentley, 31-year-old centre from Delisle, Sask., also rates mention. A money player from way back, Bentley has scored two goals and assisted on three—taking part in five of Toronto's seven goals to date.

Not Out Yet Boston Warns

BOSTON, April 5 (AP).—With the odds definitely against them, Boston Bruins today prepared to leave for Toronto, where they will play the Maple Leafs Saturday night in the continuing semi-finals of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup series.

Leafs have a 2-1 edge in victories and two of the next three (if necessary) games in the best-of-seven series are carded for Toronto ice.

Bruins, however, stormily reject any suggestion that they should be counted out.

"We haven't been outplayed yet," challenged coach Lynn Patrick, "and if we can get the breaks instead of having them go the other way we can win."

The players had a complete day off Wednesday and will take it easy today until they board a train which will get them to Toronto about 8:30 a.m. Friday.

A light loosening-up practice is scheduled for Friday at Maple Leaf Gardens. The layoff will help captain Milt Schmidt, who has two badly-injured knees, and winger Vic Lynn, who has a bad charlie horse. Hal Laycoe also has an injured foot.

Barrie Bows To Marlies In 7-4 Tilt, Wins Argument

TORONTO, April 5 (CP). — Barrie Flyers won an argument but lost a hockey game Wednesday.

The Ontario Hockey Association upheld Barrie's refusal to play a Sunday game in their best-of-seven final Junior A series with Toronto Marlboros in committee rooms but lost to Marlboros 7-4 the same night.

The Marlies, whose insistence on the Sunday game drew from Barrie coach Hap Emms the statement his team would withdraw from the league next season, hammered home five goals in a sizzling third period to draw even, a game each, in the series.

Emms intimated several other league teams would not take the Barrie withdrawal without action. He suggested Windsor and Guelph as examples.

Emms added during the discussion regarding the Sunday game —which now will be played next Saturday instead—that the decision probably would cost Barrie its sponsorship by Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

But in Boston last night, Weston Adams, president of the Bruins, said his club has no intention of dropping its sponsorship. In Toronto, General Manager Conn Smythe of the Maple Leafs denied a report that the Leafs had forced an end to the Boston tie-up with withdrawing permission for the Bruins to sponsor a team within 50 miles of Toronto.

An NHL regulation permits any club to withhold permission from rival clubs wishing to sponsor farm teams within a 50-mile radius of its home rink.

May Try Kitchener

Reports here indicated Boston might shift its sponsorship to Kitchener, expected to enter an A club next year.

Parker MacDonald and Wally Maxwell put Marlboros in an early lead in Wednesday night's game with goals in the first five minutes. Real Chevrefils made it 2-1 with his marker to end the period.

Flyers controlled the play in the middle stanza. Chuck Wood tied the score 2-2 and Doug Towers put them in the lead near the close of the frame.

In the third period Marlies came roaring back. They rifled three quick goals. Earl Balfour, Danny Poland and Ron Stewart pulled the triggers.

Leo Labine whittled the lead a trifle before Marlies whistled back with two more.

Maxwell scored from Stewart for the first and then Stewart sniped one on a pass from Maxwell. Later a cross check from Labine sent Maxwell to hospital with a bruised eye.

Twice in the dying stages of the game Marlboros were penalized for holding up the game.

A crowd of 7,612 alternately cheered and booed as the teams battered their way through 20 penalties.

Soo Beats Owen Sound 8-4

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 5 (CP).—Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds Wednesday night went one game up in their best-of-five Ontario Senior A hockey playoffs defeating Owen Sound 8-4 in the opening game.

More than 5,000 watched Greyhounds take a 4-2 lead in the opening period and add four in the final stanza. The second period was scoreless.

The two Ontario finalists meet here Friday night. The scene then shifts to Owen Sound for the balance of the set.

Rightwinger Ronnie Lay led the winner's attack hitting for three goals, all in the final period.

Billy Visinski had two goals for the Hounds and Terry Biocchi Walter Zuke and Jimmy Mosienko added singles.

Jack Ingoldsby had two goals for Mercurys while Gillespie and Tommy Burlington rounded out the scoring.

Referees Farrell and Nummela handed out six penalties, five going to Owen Sound.

B.C. Decides To Take Over Rent Controls

By The Canadian Press.

Nine of Canada's 10 provinces will retain rent controls when the federal government vacates the field April 30.

British Columbia became the last to announce its plans when Premier Johnson told the Legislature in Victoria Wednesday that the province will take over rent controls on a year-to-year basis when federal regulations lapse after 10 years.

Premier Johnson said rents will be maintained at present levels but any inequalities between landlord and tenant will be dealt with and adjustments permitted where necessary.

The only province which won't control rents after the end of this month is New Brunswick, which has decided to do without them.

Newfoundland has never been subject to federal regulations, having had its own controls in force since before becoming part of Canada.

Legislation has been passed in Quebec, Ontario, Prince Edward Island and Alberta. Manitoba and B. C. Legislatures are still to have legislation introduced and a rent control bill is still before the Nova Scotia House.

Discussions in the legislatures Wednesday covered a variety of topics, ranging from agriculture to law enforcement.

Minimum Wage

In Halifax, CCF leader Russell Cunningham pressed for proclamation of the male minimum wage act in Nova Scotia. Labor Minister MacKinnon said a survey is being made after which the government will decide whether to put into operation the act which was passed in 1946.

A report tabled in the New Brunswick Legislature recommended that the province take full responsibility for providing, maintaining and administering all jails. The report was prepared by Judge J. Bacon Dickson, who held public hearings in New Brunswick and visited Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia before writing it.

In Edmonton, the Alberta Federation of Agriculture asked the government to set up a marketing board for agriculture products which would make some attempt to bring stability to prices and supply of eggs.

The Saskatchewan Legislature unanimously approved a resolution urging the federal government to appoint a transport controller with power to allocate boxcars to ensure the movement of 1950 wheat. The resolution also suggested that the controller have power to allocate lake tonnage.

Epicurean Thief

CALGARY (CP). — A thief broke into a confectionery shop here and stole two rolls of salami, two roast chickens, a 10-pound ham, three pounds of tea and a pound of chocolates. To top off the meal he has $34 worth of cigarets.

Costs Increasing

SASKATOON (CP)—Increased building costs are expected to boost the estimates for Saskatoon city hospital's proposed new centre building to between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. Original estimates ranged between $750,000 and $1,000,000.

Raise Standards

VANCOUVER (CP).—In its campaign for higher professional standards the British Columbia Teachers Federation has recommended excluding all normal school students without senior matriculation. Screening of candidates for suitability was recommended.

Cornwall Voters Favor Sunday Sport

CORNWALL, April 5 (CP) — This Eastern Ontario city and the township of Cornwall Wednesday voted in favor of Sunday sport.

The vote in the city was yes, 1,985, no, 993. In the township the yes vote was 1,726 and the no vote 993.

There were 6,468 votes cast out of 18,000 eligibles. The city and township councils now will pass by-laws outlining the sports to be permitted on Sundays.

Sues Plant

JERSEY CITY, N.J., April 5—(AP)—A chemical worker Wednesday sued his employer for $450,000 damages charging he had been rendered impotent through chemicals. The suit was filed by John Stepnowski, 32, and his wife, Mary, against the Specific Pharmaceuticals, Inc., of Bayonne. Stepnowski's suit charged that he was "poisoned by a substance which brought about effemination or transformation of his gender from masculine to feminine and as a result he had been rendered impotent."

APRIL 10 DEADLINE—Finance Minister Abbott keeps his uncompleted 1951-52 federal budget safely tucked under his arm in his office on Parliament Hill. The budget, to be brought down in the Commons, April 10, is expected to include heavy tax increases.

The Canadian Family owes much to . . . Holland

A Tribute from Calvert to Canadians of Dutch Descent

SETTLERS from almost every country in the world have come to Canada, the land of opportunity, during the last two centuries. Much of our strength and vitality comes from this blending of racial and cultural heritages.

Canadians are justifiably proud that so many races, without sacrificing their national characteristics, have united themselves into one great citizenship — the Canadian Family.

Dutch settlers and their descendants have left an indelible mark on the pages of Canada's history. The name Van Horne is synonymous with railroads while Kreighoff, Panabaker and Lampman are known and respected in Canadian art and literature.

The Dutch are a devout, thrifty and industrious people and, among other things, their model dairy and cattle-breeding farms have contributed much to Canada's progress.

Calvert, head of the famous Calvert family, founded one of Canada's first colonies in Newfoundland in 1622. The Calvert ideals of freedom and tolerance helped set the pattern of the democracy we now enjoy.

Lucky Escape

RAINIER, Alta., April 5 (CP)—Carried 500 feet under water and ice before emerging still conscious at an open spot, 40-year-old Larry Donovan is recovering in hospital. Donovan, foreman of an irrigation ditching crew here, fell into the Antelope Creek spillway while hacking a channel in the ice and was swept under the ice.

THIS MASSIVE ICE JAM that settled less than 10 feet from one of the Point Aux Trembles homes caused flooding of entire village. When it finally settled the water backed up behind it and roared about the homes of defenceless home owners. Officials said the waters might remain high for days.

Couple Making Fair Living Raising Goats

By AUSTIN ADKINSON

CHARLESTON, S.C.—(AP)—The hermit of Big Goat Island and his wife have found a way to get away from it all—or most of it anyway.

They have been living next to nature on a remote island in the inland waterway near here for more than a decade. Their only neighbors are 200 or so goats.

Self-sufficient and inhospitable, the couple asks only for people to leave them alone. For their purposes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holloway have hit on the ideal existence.

Holloway, 75, had to make a rare visit to the county courthouse here recently to swear he would not claim squatter's rights to the island. State law lets a person claim land on which he has resided for more than 10 years without the owner's objection.

Big Goat Island, which has about 300 acres of high land and considerable marshlands, is being sold to a Charleston lawyer. He has agreed to let the Holloways stay.

Two Strings To Bow

County Probate Judge Clarence F. Lunz, a principal owner of adjacent 420-acre Little Goat Island, told Holloway he could live there if he ever has to leave his present home.

"Then I've got two strings to my bow," Holloway declared.

"Don't be uneasy about me taking the island," he assured his new landlord, "because I ain't got the money to pay taxes on it."

The Holloways decided to leave town when hog prices plunged from 22 cents a pound wholesale to seven cents retail. They went first to the Isle of Palms, were evicted in 1940 and came to Big Goat.

Busy Couple

Holloway estimates they sold 70,000 goats in their first five years on the island. Now they sell none, but kill about 150 a year for meat and hides. They make rugs, curtains, picture frames, handbags and upholstery from the skins and sell them in Charleston.

They grow tomatoes, onions, cucumbers, cantaloupes, watermelons and other produce, making their own fertilizer from animal bones. Rain water is their only beverage. They flavour it with syrup and goat's milk.

There was a house on the island when they arrived, but they soon tore it down and lived in shelters of leaves and boughs. Their present living quarters have no roof and are encircled by a series of fences made of old lumber, wire, burlap and castoff clothing.

"We never feel cold," Holloway said. "Animals are guided by inborn biological instincts and have tailor-made suits furnished by God. God didn't give man a house."

An amateur photographer, he develops and prints his own pictures of island scenes. At one time he had 1,120 pictures of his goats.

The couple said they found but one flaw in their island life. Boats on the inland waterways have a habit of sounding their horns and whistles as they pass.

"It's getting so my wife and I can't sleep for the noise," Holloway complained.

Thieves Damage Tobacco Shop On Romaine St.

Thieves broke into the tobacco shop and barber shop of Norm Bowler on Romaine St. Tuesday night and stole about $100 worth of goods, mostly cigarettes and did damage Mr. Bowler estimated at about $200.

Magazines and merchandise of all sorts were scattered all over the floor of the shop. It appeared as though it was someone with a grudge against the store owner or destructive youths who were responsible.

His store had been broken into previously about two weeks ago.

A lighted electric clock was pulled from the wall and trampled on the floor. In the basement, Mr. Bowler found half-smoked cigars and about six bottles of pop opened.

Chocolate bars and other merchandise were taken, but no cash had been left in the store.

The thieves broke in by kicking through a panel of a door into the basement of the small building. Mr. Bowler, who found the theft when he opened up his shop this morning, said his brother-in-law had gone past the store at midnight and the clock was still lighted at that time.

Detective - Sergeant W. A. (Bud) Clarke and Sergeant William Aggas, identification officer, investigated.

James Ewing Warns Japan Grabs Markets

BRADFORD, England, April 5—(AP). — The boss of one of the world's largest textile finishing firms warned Wednesday that Japan is fastening an unshakeable grip on the world's cotton and rayon fabric markets.

James Ewing, chairman of the Bradford Dyers' Association, speaking at his company's annual stockholders meeting, said:

"It is patently impossible for any country with Western European standards of living to compete with costs of production possible under conditions ruling in Japan."

Ewing said Japanese labor costs last May were reported to be only one-fifth of those in Britain.

Japan's exports of cotton and rayon cloth last year, he added, topped those of Britain by 28 per cent although her output was only three-quarters of that reached in Britain.

"Japan is getting a grip on consumer markets which will be practically impossible to loosen," he declared.

Election Date In Campbellford May Be Changed

CAMPBELLFORD, April 5 — (ENS)— The question of changing the date of the municipal elections will be investigated by council, after a decision reached at the regular monthly meeting held in the council chambers on Monday night.

Councillor Free said the practice of holding local elections on New Year's day or thereabouts was not practical, due to the fact many people who should vote were out o ftown. Council in general agreed with this and a report on a more suitable date will be suggested next meeting.

Tax collector J. C. Birmingham reported collections down about $2,000 compared to last year at the same period, but that collections were still good.

Mrs. Euphemia Hollings again addressed council demanding the town move a portion of sidewalk off her property. There has been much discussion between Mrs. Hollings and council regarding this and the question was left up to the road and bridge committee to bring in a report at the next regular meeting.

Asks For Sewer

Sam Dainard addressed council regarding installation of a sewer on a piece of property he had recently purchased on Church St. This was also left up to the road and bridge committee.

A request from the chairman of the Children's Aid Society for a grant to help furnish the new office building in Port Hope was heard. He said money granted would be used for the sole purpose of equipping the new office and beautifying the grounds. Dr. McKechnie of the Society also spoke to council, and told of the necessity of building the new office. He said $8,000 was still needed to complete the building. Reeve R. J. Locke made a motion that this grant be taken into consideration, along with other grants that are pending, when the tax rate is struck for the year.

On a motion by Councillor W. A. Kingston, the property committee will investigate all insurance carried on town property, and make a report and recommendation at the next meeting. It is felt insurance coverage is not sufficient on some property.

To Lock Chambers

A motion by Reeve Locke to have the council chambers locked at all times when it is not in use was carried. The key to the chambers will be given to the town clerk and parties using the chambers must get the key from him and return it to him. Small items have been missing from the room for some time and it is believed children are responsible.

A resolution was passed to have a by-law drawn up rescinding former by-laws placing a time limit for the construction of buildings on lots purchased from the town. It was felt that this in many cases was a hindrance to the property owner, when men and materials were scarce. It has forced much hardship on property owners in past years.

A special meeting of council will be held Saturday afternoon, April 14 at 2 p.m. at which time the tax rate will be struck for the coming term.

Urge Canadians Put Money In Own Country

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Canadians often are told that they don't invest enough money in their own country.

They are told that they are allowing American money to do the major job in developing Canadian resources;' and that they are missing opportunities to share in the ultimate profit from these developments.

They are not told this with the idea that American money should be kept out, but with the idea that they should increase their own stake.

Various investment firms have been conducting educational programs to each people that investment is not onty for well-off people, but is for anyone able to embark on a modest and balanced savings program.

The subject will get particular attention at the annual meeting of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada at Jasper, Alta., June 11-14, when a full session will be devoted to a forum on public relations and education. Firms which have taken part in lecture courses across Canada will be heard from, and an examination made of the best ways of making Canadians more investment-minded.

Sugar and Publications

Canadian farmers received a record $17,242,000 for their 1950 sugar-beet crop, says Sugar Facts published by Canada and Dominion Sugar Co., Ltd., Chatham.

The crop totalled 1,115,699 tons from which 299,727,165 pounds of sugar was produced—by far the largest output in the Canadian industry's history, and one-third more than from the 1949 crop.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has published "Canada 1951," described as an "official handbook of present conditions and recent progress." There are special articles on "Our Latest Frontier—the Canadian North" and "Moving Alberta's Black Gold to Market." Illustrations, some of them in color, show activities across the country.

Half-Ton Truck Stolen At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, April 5 — (ENS)— After moving a heavy farm tractor out of the way, a thief or thieves made off with a 1945 model half-ton pick-up truck from the rear of the implement shop operated by Walter Jones on Queen St.

The truck was not missed until the proprietor arrived at the mill and implement shop about 9 a.m. Tuesday. A neighbor who lives next door to the shop said she heard the truck motor start up and heard it being driven away about 1:30 Tuesday morning, but thought nothing was amiss. Mr. Jones said the tank was almost full of gasoline, and with their seven and a half hour start, the thieves could be quite a distance away. The truck had been taken in on a deal recently, and the name "M. Ray, Belleville" was still painted on the door. The keys had been left in the vehicle all night.

Police in neighboring municipalities have been asked to watch for the truck, a dark blue 1945 model, bearing license C-58860.

School Board To Build Fence On Yard

LAKEFIELD, April 5 (ENS)—The Lakefield Public School Board met Monday evening in the school.

A tour of the school was made to view the new lighting system in principal E. G. Sloan's room, Mrs. Mary Martin's room and the renovating in the basement.

The Board decided a fence should be erected along the south side of the yard and grass seed planted to improve the grounds.

It was moved by trustees S. Richardson and Dr. R. Campbell that the village council consider the construction of a sidewalk on Ermatinger St. from Concession St. to Edward St.

Principal Sloan and trustee Richardson were named to represent the Board at the council meeting.

Mrs. M. Wilford was appointed to find out how it might be possible for Grade 8 to view the parliamentary procedure of the provincial parliament in Toronto.

The principal's report showed an enrolment of 278 pupils; average attendance 247.18. During the month $17.17 had been collected for the Red Cross.

An invitation was received from the Home and School by the board to attend the School Fair Friday evening.

Postpone Action On Used Car Lot

"That consideration of the application of Harry Goodman for a licence to operate a used car lot at 210 Hunter St. be postponed is quoted from the finance committee report read by the chairman, Ald. T. D. Miller at the council meeting Monday night.

In committee there appeared to be a feeling that this application by Mr. Goodman through his solicitor W. B. Gordon should not be carried through council as a report from a committee from which four or five members were not present.

Mr. Gordon's application was held up in the first instance for enquiry. The information was obtained, and the application was not granted.

In the meantime Mr. Goodman has carried on business and has a provincial licence. When Mr. Gordon interviewed the council in support of Mr. Goodman, council asked Chief of Police Thompson for a report which recommended the granting of the sales licence, and the committee recommendation followed.

But, some of the members of the council were away on a few weeks winter vacation, and it was finally felt that the decision should be made when all the members were present.

New High School Cost Set At $308,800

LAKEFIELD, April 5 (ENS)—Estimated total cost of Lakefield's proposed new high school is $308,800, the district high school board was told Wednesday night by James Craig, of the architects' firm, Blackwell and Craig.

Cost of the building itself was estimated at $247,000, with other estimated costs as follows: architects' fee (six per cent), $14,800; land, $8,000; equipment (15 per cent of building cost), $37,000; miscellaneous, $200.

It was moved by trustees J. G. Bell and George McIlmoyle that the plans be accepted and forwarded to the Department of Education for approval.

Mr. Craig gave the board two estimates of the cost of the building—one based on a cubic foot rate, and the other on a rate per square foot. At 90 cents a cubic foot, cost would be $242,100 (for 269,000 cubic feet), and at $13.50 a square foot of floor space, the cost would be $245,700 (for 18,200 square feet.)

Road Impassable

Advised by bus driver Sherman Pearson that the Buckhorn-Lakehurst road was nearly impassable, the board decided to ask the Department of Highways for action. Board members remarked that Harvey township council had already been notified about the road's condition, but had done nothing.

The board received a letter from Miss H. Elliott, offering her resignation. It was accepted. Principal R. E. Sutton was authorized to advertise for a new teacher.

Contract for the new Apsley school was accepted from Blackwell and Craig, and it was moved by trustees Ed. Everett and M. C. Tucker that it be signed by the property committee.

Principal Sutton's report showed that attendance was down slightly because of the 'flu.

House Of Commons Sets Up 31-Man Veterans Committee

OTTAWA, April 5—(CP)—The Commons Wednesday established a 31-man veterans committee—its first in three years—and got from Veterans Minister Lapointe a review of the legislation to come before it.

Opposition members promptly attacked the committee's terms of reference, suggesting it should be given more scope, and introduced two amendments to widen its authority. Both were ruled out of order.

Mr. Lapointe said he could not agree that the committee's terms of reference were more limited than those of past committees. It would have authority to deal with all of the veterans' legislation that the government expects to introduce at this session.

To opposition members who expressed fear that the government plans to apply a means test to the Pensions Act, he gave assurance that the administration has no such intention.

Legislation Planned

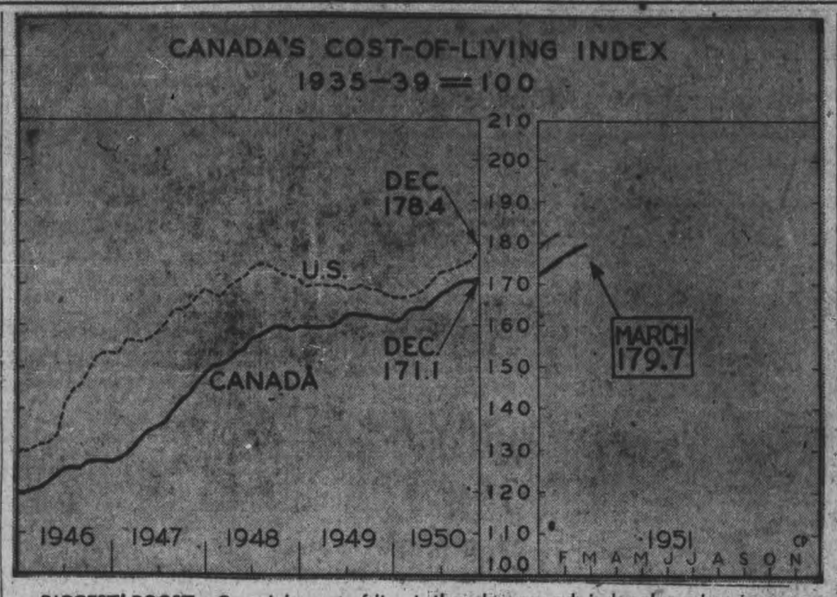
The legislation he forecast will do these things:

1.Give members of the army's special force, as an interim measure, some but not all of the discharge benefits accorded veterans of the Second World War.

This will be the policy until a "clearer picture" is obtained.

2. Provide up to $40 a month for unemployable married pensioners and up to $20 a month for unemployable single pensioners to help them meet rising living costs. This will be in addition to regular pensions, which can go as high as $125 a month for married men and $94 for single.

3. Increase benefits for children of pensioned widows. A widow now gets $75 a month for herself, plus the usual pensioner's children's allowance of $19 for the first child, $15 for the second and $12 for others. Orphans get twice these allowances. Mr. Lapointe did not detail the new proposals.



4. Encourage higher education for pensioners' children. This might be done by extending to 21 the age to which children's allowances can be continued while they are studying. At present, they end at 16 for boys and 17 for girls.

Opposition members renewed a call for a permanent committee on veterans. Mr. Lapointe replied that the government always formed a committee when it had major veterans' legislation coming up for consideration.

Howard Green (PC, Vancouver-Quadra) attacked the proposed "employability supplement" as what he called a "means test handout" aimed at getting around the necessity of increasing the pension scale as a whole.

Col. A. J. Brooks (PC, Royal) and Percy Wright (CCF, Melfort) both moved amendments to widen the scope of the committee's operations, only to have them ruled out of order.

Victor Quelch (SC, Acadia) urged that something be done for recipients of war veterans' allowances, which are paid to aged and needy veterans. They were inadequate in the light of today's high cost of living.

BIGGEST BOOST—Canada's cost-of-living index took the biggest jump in history during February, rising 4.5 points to a record 179.7 as of March 1. Higher food costs were the main factor in the boost, although every sub-index showed an increase. The solid line represents the Canadian index, while the dotted line shows the U.S. Consumers' Price Index which stood at 181.5 on Jan. 15. Figures are not directly comparable, but merely indicate trends.

Opposition Raises Furore Over Equal Pay Measure

TORONTO, April 5. (CP)—In a rush to clear the order paper for prorogation today, the Legislature Wednesday gave final reading to five bills and hustled 14 bills through committee stage to prepare them for final reading today. Among bills given final reading were the Government's rent control legislation and a bill to launch coordination of the Province's rural telephone systems under direction of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

An amendment to the Farm Products Marketing Act permitting establishment of pooled or average prices for regulated farm products was put through committee stage without debate, as were two bills revamping election procedures.

Two private members' bills dealing with traffic laws—both directed to increasing safety for school children—were defeated on recorded votes of 42 to 33.

A provincial general election this year was forecast by two members during debate on a government bill to establish a nine-member advisory board to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. The bill was approved in pricple.

"Window Dressing"

Farquhar Oliver, Liberal House leader, and A. A. MacLeod (Lab.-Prog.-Toronto Bellwoods), termed the bill "window dressing."

Mr. MacLeod said the measure paralleled legislation passed in 1947 under the then premier, George Drew, which had never been put into effect. That Act provided for appointment of five members to the Hydro Commission.

Mr. Oliver said the bill was "brought from among the mothballs to serve a particular purpose at a particular time, on the eve of an impending general election."

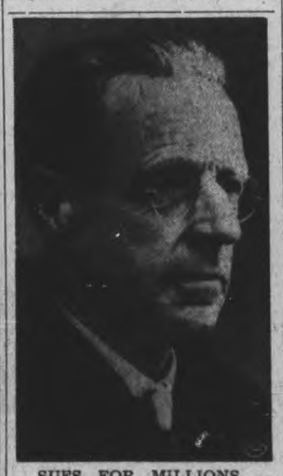
Premier Frost said the government fully intended to put the bill into effect.

Dispute Over Bill

The government's bill to ensure against employment discrimination was given final reading earlier Wednesday in a parliamentary dispute whose outcome put the labor-minded CCF opposition in the position of voting against it.

The dispute arose following a recorded vote on a motion by Mr. Calder that the bill shouldn't be given third reading. He wanted it refererd back to committee and amended to provide for equality in all employment terms between men and women.

The motion was defeated 43 to 33, with the CCF voting with the Liberal group. Mr. Jolliffe immediately asked that a recorded vote to be taken on the bill itself.



"Members must be allowed to make their position clear," he said. "Some may want to vote for the bill, as well as for the amendment."

The speaker ruled, however, that defeat of the motion meant that the bill was carried. He said he would review his decision and explain it further today. Premier Frost said he would decide then on Mr. Joliffe's request that the House give its unanimous consent to having a recorded vote on the measure.

Can't Go Too Far

Mr. Frost said it was "positively unthinkable" to extend the bill to cover the complicated relationships of men and women in employment. It would mean that an employer could not give job preference to a family man if a single woman had asked for the job first.

A government bill to ensure women equal wages as men doing the same work in any establishment had already been passed, and the government could go no further.

SUES FOR MILLIONS — Largest damage suit ever filed in U.S. courts is being pressed by Harry Ferguson, above, tractor and farm implement inventor. He is suing the Ford Motor Co. and associates for $341,000,000 in a Federal Court in New York, charging Ford with a conspiracy in violation of anti-trust laws and seeks treble damages. Ferguson and the late Henry Ford operated together for years under an oral agreement "sealed only by a handshake."

Rifle Bullet Pierces Hip Of Girl

Out Shooting Pigeons Gust of Wind Blows Rifle Over

A freak shooting accident near Omemee, Wednesday afternoon, ended in a Toronto girl being taken to Civic Hospital after a .22 calibre rifle bullet pierced her left hip.

The bullet went through her hip and lodged near the backbone. Hospital authorities say she is resting comfortably and her condition is not serious.

Dolores Parker, 18, of 43 Alton Ave., Toronto, is the injured girl. She and a friend, Mat Scott, 20, also of Toronto, were shooting pigeons on the farm of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dick, RR 1, Omemee.

Scott hit one of the pigeons that was perched on the barn roof. He leaned the rifle against the barn foundations while he went to get the dead pigeon. There was a high wind at the time and it is believed that a strong gust blew the rifle over.

Standing 20 Feet Away

It discharged and hit Miss Parker who was standing about 20 feet away.

Scott, together with the girl's cousin, Larry Barjarow, assisted her into Scott's car and they went to the office of Dr. William Earle, Omemee. And Dr. Earle brought her to hospital where she is expected to be for a few days at least.

Because of the location of the bullet it is unlikely she will be operated on.

Miss Parker had been at her uncle's farm for about a week. She and her friend are regular visitors there, taking advantage of nearly every holiday to come up from Toronto.

OPP Constable Fred Rawlings of Lindsay investigated.

MODERN HEADQUARTERS for the OPP in Cobourg are shown ABOVE. Guilty 4 Counts Passing Rubber Cheques

Marvin Armstrong, Lakefield, was today sentenced to four months in the Ontario Reformatory on charges of false pretences involving worthless cheques passed to district merchants.

He was sentenced on four charges of which he was found guilty, two Tuesday and two last week.

On one charge involving a $30 cheque cashed by Oliver J. Linton of Havelock, Armstrong was sentenced to four months. On three other charges he was sentenced to three months each. The sentences were to run concurrently.

The other cheques, all less than $25, were cashed by John Louton of Norwood; Charles Flynn, reeve of Harvey township; and R. H. Tranter of Burleigh township.

21 To Start With

Originally there were 21 charges against Armstrong. Eleven charges of forgery in connection with the same cheques were dismissed when Armstrong's mother testified that she had given her son permission to write cheques on her account, signing her name.

One false pretence charge was dismissed and five were withdrawn by the crown Tuesday when Armstrong was found guilty of the fourth false pretence charge.

Armstrong had pleaded not guilty to all of the charges and was prepared and obviously determined to plead guilty to each of the five remaining charges. He said that he fully believed there was money in his mother's account to cover all of the cheques.

W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, who did not defend Armstrong on the charges spoke in court this morning for clemency because he said Armstrong was the sole support of his mother. He also said that Armstrong had already spent two months in jail because he had not been able to raise bail.

J. C. N. Currelly acted for Armstrong on all but seven of the charges. He ceased to act for the accused man after Armstrong was convicted on two of the false pretence charges last week.

'Dismal', Poorly Lighted; Grand Jury Deplores Home

COBOURG, April 5. (ENS)—Conditions at the counties home for the aged at Cobourg, were soundly rapped by the grand jury in its report at yesterday's sittings of the spring assizes. The grand jury inspected all the institutions in the counties and on the whole their reports were favorable with the exception of the counties home.

The grand jury report pointed out that the members of the jury found the place "dismal" and in need of redecorating and better lighting. Every bed sagged and appeared uncomfortable and the beds needed replacing with more suitable ones because many of the inmates spent a great deal of time in their beds.

There was a lack of diversion for the inmates and the women sat around the walls on hard-backed chairs with hands folded in their laps. There was a scarcity of suitable reading material and a need for newspapers and magazines. Another need was recreation for the old people.

There was a total lack of ventilation and the four fans which had been installed were not sufficient. It was difficult to understand, said the grand jury report, how government inspectors would allow such conditions to exist.

Okay Training School

The grand jury found the boys' training school at Bowmanville quite satisfactory but the teaching staff only received from $1,600 to $2,700 a year as compared to $1,800 to $3,000 for outside public school teachers. The Children's Shelter at Port Hope was a good home and efficiently operated. The counties jail was satisfactory and had good ventilation.

Cobourg General hospital met with satisfaction from the grand jury but more fire equipment appeared to be necessary and the grand jury learned from the superintendent that some was on order. The Ontario Hospital was spic and span and the patients satisfied. The boys' training school at Cobourg was still unsettled because they had only been recently transferred to Cobourg from Galt.

The town hall was overcrowded. The court room was draughty and there was a need for separate quarters for the crown counsel and witnesses.

His Lordship complimented the grand jury on the thoroughness of its report. It bore out what he had said in his remarks to the grand jury when they were first empanelled, when he observed that the inspection of institutions supported by public funds was an important duty for grand juries.

He declared that everything within reason should be done to keep the old people contented at a county home. They should have comfortable chairs and plenty of reading material, he said. The 100-year-old town hall was a fine old building and a great credit to the people who in building it, saw in it something to be proud about. It was a temple of justice and steps should be taken to see that the building did not continue to be the subject of criticism, His Lordship said.

Warden Replies

"The references made by the grand jury to conditions at the counties home come as a complete surprise to me. The report appears to have been the result of hasty and poor judgment. Actually we have one of the best government reports of any county in the province," Warden George Walton of Newcastle said today.

Dealing with the criticisms of the grand jury, item by item, the warden said: "It is not dismal. We have done some redecorating and have installed fluorescent lighting in a number of rooms. The beds are regular single beds and I don't know if any of them are sagging as described by the grand jury.

"It is true that some of the old ladies sit around with hands folded in their laps but they are senile and are not interested in their surroundings. We have to accept senile people because there is no other place to send them. The place is ventilated satisfactorily.

"It is true that we do not have easy chairs for the inmates and as a matter of fact the question of chairs has never been considered by the board of management. There are two sitting rooms one for the men and one for the women. There are radios and reading material but many of the old people are not interested in reading. There is one morning and one evening paper daily. I have frequently brought magazines and papers for them to read. We have 100 inmates at the counties home and it is overcrowded. Conditions are not as described by the grand jury. If they were the inspector would certainly have seen that the conditions were corrected,' the warden said.

Col. G. D. Greer Dies Age Of 63

Lt. Col. George D. Greer, M.D. of St. Catharines died on Wednesday at his home at the age of 63 years. He was born at Coldsprings, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. T. Newton Greer. His father practiced in Peterborough for many years and was a former coroner here. Col. Greer was raised in this city and received his primary education in city schools. He was a graduate of Queen's University in Arts and of the University of Toronto in Medicine.

Col. Greer served overseas in the First World War with the First Division and remained on permanent Army staff until 1937. During that time he was district medical officer at Kingston and Toronto. During his army career he was awarded the Military Cross and the Croix de Guerre and Palm. Col. Greer was a Knight Commander of the Order of St. John and a member of the Masonic Order of Kingston.

He leaves his wife, the former Flora Taylor, one son William and a sister, Mrs. Ernest E. Irons of Chicago. Funeral will be held in St. George's Church, St. Catharines, on Friday and burial will be at Victoria Lawn cemetery.

Add 275 Acres Ganaraska Plan

Two hundred and seventy-five more acres of land will be added soon to the property of the Ganaraska River Conservation Authority, it was reported at the authority's first 1951 meeting.

This will bring property owned by the authority to nearly 5,000 acres within the boundaries of the proposed Ganaraska forest. On this land, 1,500,000 small trees have been planted, and hundreds more acres remain to be forested.

Land is to be purchased from the following: 100 acres from W. E. Thornton, Clarke township; 75 acres from Albert Mitchell, Hope township; and 100 acres from Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, Hope township. Approval was given by Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests.

Zone forester, M. D. Kirk, told the meeting that the authority was somewhat ahead of its buying schedule. He reported on several other properties, some including stands of timber on which he was instructed to obtain options.

Arthur Runnalls of Welcome and T. A. Reid of Orono were elected chairman and vice-chairman. They have held these posts since the authority first met in October, 1946.

Ralph Carey Sentenced To 20 Years

Very Dangerous Man To Be Loose Judge Tells Prisoner

COBOURG, April 5. — Ralph Carey of Port Hope was sentenced this morning by Chief Justice McRuer to twenty years in prison on the trial jury's verdict of guilty of the capital crime of rape against a young housewife and neighbor.

His Lordship said in his address that he had given some thought to a life term.

Crown evidence presented by John A. Bradshaw, KC, of Peterborough as special prosecutor showed that in the early hours of February 10, Ralph Carey, 26, a married man and funeral undertaker, broke into the house of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagar in Port Hope while the husband was absent on night time employment.

Revolting Crime

Before sentencing the prisoner, and as a preface to his pronouncement, Mr. Justice McRuer said: "The crime you committed was a most revolting one. You entered by stealth the house of a neighbor, when the husband of the woman you attacked was at work. The young parents have a baby, and there you attacked this woman, where she was asleep in her bed.

"Up to that time they had trusted you. The assault was brutal beyond description. I saw the delicate featured woman in the witness box, and how you with all your might could beat her as you did is hard to understand, except that you were possessed of some sort of sexual sadism of which we, on occasion, find evidence in court, and which makes the measure of sentence by a judge difficult to estimate.

"You showed cunning indicating something that was not done on the spur of the moment. You appeared masked and in coveralls, and after you were recognized, it was only her word against yours. So, you wiped off the door handle and came back for the gloves that might identify you.

"You are a very dangerous man to be loose among people. I have a duty to you, to the public, and to the women with whom you might come in contact.

"At one time in considering your sentence, I seriously wondered whether I dare let you out again and whether you should be imprisoned for life. Perhaps when you do come out science will by then have devised some effective treatment that will make it safe for you to be at large.

"The sentence of this court is that you be imprisoned for twenty years."

When he heard that penalty, Carey swallowed once, but remained in the calm demeanor he exhibited throughout his trial.

After Carey was escorted out of the court room, Chief Justice McRuer said to Mr. H. R. S. Ryan, counsel for the prisoner, that he had put up a strong defense and had maintained the high traditions of the bar in difficult circumstances.

NOW REQUIRE TWO CENTS

Purchasers of one-cent stamps at the post office this week are being told that they are practically a thing of the past. Open envelopes for circulars and advertising matter, as well as postcards, now require two cents for mailing. First-class mail rates remain the same as before.

HOME BY HELICOPTER

In a helicopter similar to those used for forest protection the Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, will land at Nicholls Oval at 7 p.m. from Toronto. The helicopter is owned by the Photographic Survey Corporation of Toronto who have just completed photographing 150,000 square miles of forest area and the last map of the survey will be delivered to Mr. Scott.

INSPECTOR McNEILL LEAVES

Staff Inspector E. V. McNeill who has been temporarily in charge of OPP District "8" since Inspector C. W. Farrow resigned to become chief constable of Windsor, left Peterborough today He will return to his regular duties at OPP headquarters, Toronto. Inspector James Allan Stringer is the new head of the district.

Not That One!

A brazen car thief, equipped with a tow truck, trundled a car from the market square in broad daylight this morning.

The car's owner, a restaurant waiter, reported excitedly to police that he had seen his car being taken away and he gave them the name on the side of the truck. The name was that of a well-known garage operator.

Constable William G. Scott went to investigate. Certainly, said the garage operator, he had taken the car; he bought it a short time before. The former owner told him to pick it up on the market square. Unfortunately there were two cars on the square of the same general description. The garage operator got the wrong one.

Toronto Ignores Offer To Supply 30 French Flags

Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto has so far ignored a Peterborough firm's offer to supply his city with French flags for the visit to Toronto Friday of French President Vincent Auriol.

J. E. Dyble, in charge of the J. J. Turner flag-making department, wired the mayor Wednesday, offering from 20 to 30 flags by tonight. He has had no answer.

On Wednesday a Canadian Press story from Toronto cited the difficulty that city was having locating samples of the French tricolor to display for M. Auriol's visit.

"I wired the mayor to the effect that I noticed he was having difficulty securing French flags, and offered to supply him with 20 or 30 by tonight," said Mr. Dyble.

In Toronto Wednesday, French consul Paul Martin declared he had warned Toronto stores that there would be "a good demand for the French flag." The same day, a check revealed the stores still had no tricolors, and only a few were available inprovincial government buildings.

Parbleu and gadzooks! What will M. le President say when he sees no tricolor?

Two Youths Face Theft Charges

Two Norwood youths were charged in police court here today with breaking into the store of Arthur Carberry in the north outskirts of Norwood and stealing a gold watch valued at about $80 and about $20 worth of cigarettes.

They were Kenneth R. Clark, 18, Norwood, and Bernard Reynolds, 20, RR 2, Norwood. They were remanded without election or plea on $500 bail until Tuesday.

Provincial police reported that the store was entered by sliding back a rear window. The theft occurred about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Mr. Carberry who lives in a house a short distance behind the store was unaware of the break-in until the morning.

Provincial Constable Jack McKendry arrested the two young men and recovered the stolen property. Included in the booty were several cooked cold meats, bacon, package cheese, butter, and margarine.

In police court today, the youths gave the police permission to return the perishable goods to the grocery store when it was explained to them it would not harm their defence against the charges.

Band And Choir To Give Concert

Under the direction of Albert Croasdale and Melvin J. Curtis the PCVS concert band and choral club will present Friday night their fourth anual concert in the school auditorium.

The program will be in two parts. The choral club with a mixed choir and barber shop quartets will present the first portion and the band the second.

Early last fall Mr. Curtis formed several barber shop quartets and now 15 boys are taking part.

Miss Lorna Stewart and Vyrtle Sisson will be heard in a duet, and Miss Phyllis Hart a solo, in the first half of the program. During the band's presentation Ann and Murray Mander will present a marimba duet.

See Expropriation Hearing Stalled Until June; Must Settle Point Of Law

Question of Law Goes Before Appeal Court; Hughes' Ex-Wife Claims $2,500 Plus Interest In Southend Property

It will probably be late May or June before the hearing on the expropriation of the Hughes' property, Monaghan Rd. South, resumes. The Ontario Court of Appeal must settle some points of law before the arbitration, presided over by Judge S. L. Smoke, can proceed. Deadlock in the expropriation proceedings was reached Wednesday. The city has taken over the house and 19 acres of land, formerly the property of Tommy Hughes, who ran an auto-wrecking business. The expropriation bylaw stated that the property is to be used for veterans' housing and school purposes (i.e., the building of a second collegiate).

Mr. Hughes originally asked for $52,000, including $10,000 for loss of business.

Snag Arose

The snag in the proceedings arose when V. J. McElderry, KC, counsel for Mrs. Gladys Hughes, who is the former wife of Mr. Hughes, entered a judgment against the land.

She is legally entitled to alimony and her counsel claims she has a continuing interest in the land.

The tricky question of law is how to determine the amount of Mrs. Hughes' interest, if any. It must be decided by the Appeal Court. Judge Smoke is arbitrator, and it is not his function to decide questions of law.

Consult With Judge

To break the deadlock counsel have consulted with Judge Smoke to "state a case" to the Court of Appeal. When that body has decided on Mrs. Hughes' interest then it will be Judge Smoke's function to decide how much, if anything, it is in dollars and cents.

Until then the arbitration case is stalled.

W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, acting for Mr. Hughes, assisted by Gordon H. T. Farquharson; T. J. Carley, KC, and W. F. Huycke, KC, represents the city; and Mr. McEldery represents Mrs. Hughes, now living in England.

HIT-RUN VICTIM BETTER

Philip Metcalfe, 65, of Asphodel, is improved but he is still not out of danger. Mr. Metcalfe was knocked unconscious last Saturday night by an alleged hit-and-run driver as he was walking along Highway 45, two miles south of Norwood. His injuries included a skull injury, internal injuries, and two broken legs. Provincial police are still trying to learn the identity of the driver.

Skull Fractured When Baby Falls Out Of Bed

After 10 minutes deliberation, a Fenelon Falls coroner's jury Wednesday night reached a verdict of "accidental death" in the death March 22 of three-months-old Roger Gerald Windover.

After hearing evidence of the boy's fall from bed, the coroner's jury brought in a verdict of accidental death but attached a rider recommending a mental examination of the 61-year-old father.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gerald Windover, Harvey township resident.

Foreman L. V. Hartle of Fenelon Falls said the cause of death was a fractured skull with a brain hemorrhage.

Evidence showed that the boy tumbled out of bed and landed on the floor while his father was changing the diapers about 11 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Windover was away at the time.

The boy seemed none the worse for the fall until 6 p.m. and then he had a convulsion.

The parents said they tried to get a doctor in Bobcaygeon but were unable to do so. They then continued on to Fenelon Falls where the boy died at 10.30 p.m. before he could receive medical attention.

Coroner Dr. W. D. Thomas of Bobcaygeon presided at the inquest.

Site Of Signing Magna Carta Sparks Argument In England

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

EGHAM, England —(Reuters) The gong has sounded and the boys are sparring in the centre of the ring in the first round of the Magna Carta championship bout—a fight to the finish between two historic towns.

The contest is to decide where King John put his seal to Magna Carta—the "Great Charter"—England's first enactment of civil liberties.

Was it on the meadows of Runnymede or on Magna Carta Island in the River Thames nearby that the wicked monarch was forced to sign more than seven centuries ago by his rebellious barrons?

Heavyweight contender, south of the river, is this Surrey town of Egham, population 25,000. Egham relies on the last words of the Great Charter: "Given by our hand in the meadow' which is called Ronimed between Windsor and Staines."

Lightweight opponent, north of the river, is the Buckinghamshire village of Wraysbury, population 3,350.

Each claims the right to tell visitors to the Festival of Britain, opening next May, the Magna Carta was signed within its own boundaries.

Egham urban council is preparing a booklet for the Festival asserting that Magna Carta was sealed at Runnymede—now part of Egham.

Wraysbury is preparing a large sign to be put up on the village green declaring:

"Within the boundaries of this parish were laid the foundations of English liberty by the signing of the Magna Carta in the year 1215."

Signed on Island

Reginald Watson, Wraysbury's parish clerk for 20 years, landed a body blow for the village. He said today:

"We rely on Gyll's history of Wraysbury, published in 1862, and other authorities for our belief that the Magna Carta was sealed on an island in the parish of Wraybury."

Magna Carta Island is within the parish.

Watson added the village will present a pageant May 14, when a copy of the Magna Carta will be sealed "in this parish and no other parish."

Next into the fray came Harold Smith, clerk to Egham council, who declared:

"As the last words of the Magna Carta refer to Runnymede meadows, it is clear that the document was sealed on the south side of the Thames."

Into the ring in support of Wraysbury bounded Sir Patrick Hannon, former Conservative MP and owner of Magna Carta Island.

"The Magna Carta was sealed on the spot where the chapter room of my house stands," he said.

For additional ammunition Sir Patrick dived into the chronicles of Matthew Paris, 13th-century historian.

"Paris stated that the barons gathered at Runnymede, but King John went to the island to execute the document on neutral grounds," said Sir Patrick.

The battle continues.

Highway Link Said Too Costly

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—J. B. Millar, Ontario Deputy Highways Minister, said Wednesday that a highway link between Matachewan and Swastika in the Kirkland Lake area might cost more than $300,000.

Commenting on reports that a delegation from Kirkland Lake district planned to press for completion of the road, he said such a project would entail construction of about 16 miles of roadway.

"Road-building costs are about $20,000 a mile at a minimum—I am speaking of a road, not a trail—and in some parts of the province, especially around the north shore of Lake Superior, they have run around $100,000 a mile."

It had been suggested that the Blanche river, which the proposed road would cross, could be spanned by a Bailey bridge.

"But we can't find enough Bailey bridges to go around with all the demands that have come for them with the new hydro project."

Mr. Millar said he was aware of Matachewan's situation but there were numerous other demands for northern roads.

"We did start on a section of the (Matachewan-Swastika) road a couple of years ago and the idea has been to continue progressively as we can handle it."

BLAST ARMY—Lt. Cmdr. Otto Sporrer, Roman Catholic Naval Chaplain back from Korea, charged in San Diego, Calif., that some US Army units in Korea are cowardly and under poor leadership. Sporrer said the 31st Regiment of the 7th Army Division ran wildly from the Reds, leaving their dead and wounded behind. At the same time, he said, the Marines met and held the same Chinese attack. He said part of the responsibility was "officers' failure to lead" the men.

Urges Railways Get Protection

TORONTO, April 5 (CP) — Government protection to railways from "unfair competition" of truck and bus transportation was urged in the Ontario legislature Wednesday night by J. F. Edwards (PC—Perth).

Extension of trucking services was giving highways a "terrific beating" and putting railway men out of work, Mr. Edwards said during the budget speech debate.

The government back-bencher said the Canadian National Railways was proposing to end its passenger service between Palmerston and Kincardine. He suggested the railway provide a competitive service that would maintain its passenger revenue on the line.

Mr. Edwards also dealt with rural hydro service which, he said, went "hand in hand" with farm prosperity. Wider adoption of a flat rate for hydro power supplied municipalities would help smaller centres attract industries.

He suggested that a river control authority similar to the Thames valley authority at St. Marys be established in the Listowel area.

Mormon Leader George Smith Dies

SALT LAKE CITY, April 5—(AP). — George Albert Smith, president of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church, died on Wednesday, on his 81st birthday. He was stricken with a virus infection several weeks ago.

The spiritual leader of more than 1,000,000 Mormons became president May 21, 1945, a week after the death of his predecessor Heber J. Grant.

President Smith was a distant relative of Joseph Smith, who founded Mormonism in New York State in 1830. Leadership of the church now reverts to the Council of Twelve Apostles.

Industrial Firms Check Business Trends By Census

By HAROLD MORRISON.

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP) — Business men everywhere will be watching the results of Canada's 1951 census with a keen eye to business changes.

For to them, the census can provide the key to what the future may hold in profits and losses, new markets and new industrial development.

Many advertising firms may re-work all their future advertising campaigns based on what the census discloses; regional shifts in population, swings in buying tastes and buying power.

In fact so important has the census become to Canadian business that many requests have been made to cut the time-lag between surveys from 10 to five years. But that, say census officials, would be too expensive. So the 10-year survey likely will continue for decades to come.

Mainly, the census will provide a tri-pronged service to Canada's business, expanding at trigger-fast speed.

1. It will show of the changes in buying habits and trends of the Canadian consumer.

2. It will give the business man an idea of how he is faring, compared with others in the same business.

3. It will bring to the practical business man a final touch of realism to the saga of Canada's amazing industrial growth in the last 50 years.

Key To Markets

Most of the business men will be anxious to know just which way the markets are shifting. Where is the purchasing power being built up? Vancouver? Montreal? Halifax? Are civil servants in Ottawa losing their purchasing power? Who has more money to spend: the farmer or the white-collar worker?

These questions are important. They lead to intensified advertising campaigns in those areas where selling prospects look good. And, of course, they may lead to establishment of new branch stores, new factories in those areas where marketing is perking up.

Study Patterns

Almost as important to the business man is a detailed knowledge of how the patterns themselves are changing. Is the general store becoming a thing of the past? Are grocery stores changing more and more to combination stores? Is the "cash and carry" trend continuing to expand in wholesale trade? How big is the growth of the super-market?

Those are kinds of questions the census will tackle in a comprehensive survey of the distributive trades: Wholesale, retail, and service establishments.

Says the Bureau of Statistics:

"Since only a census of distribution can provide a complete and comprehensive picture of the distributing trades, it is not surprising that the use of the census data to study and analyze this general picture is exceeded in importance only by their application in market analyses."

PIGEON-HOLE PARKING —Auto parking gets a big lift in Spokane, Wash., with the operation of this automatic parker which is half trolley and half elevator. Powered by special motors and controls, the car parker runs on a track in the middle corridor, lifts the auto to the desired level and deposits it in one of the "pigeon-holes."

Soviet Offers New Proposal

PARIS, April 5 — (AP) — The Soviet Union made a new proposal for a foreign ministers' agenda today. At first examination a Western official said it seemed to come "very close" to meeting the Western point of view.

The proposal was made by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at the 23rd meeting of the foreign ministers' deputies.

It includes many of the suggestions, and often the same wording, as the Western countries' newest proposal.

The essential differences, a Western official said, are:

1—The Russians have put demilitarization of Germany as their first item.

2—The Russians seek to discuss a disarmament limited to the four powers, whereas the US, France and Britain would like to talk about world-wide disarmament.

3—The Russians have emphasized disarmament by the four powers, the West has stressed that "the existing level of arms should be one of the principal subjects discussed by the foreign ministers."

UK Commander Transferred

LONDON, April 5 (Reuters) — Brig. Basil Coad, one of Britain's top commanders in Korea, will be switched to Germany in June, the War Office announced Wednesday.

He will relinquish command of the 27th British Commonwealth Brigade, part of the United Nations forces, to take over the 2nd Infantry Division in Western Germany.

War Minister John Strachey told the House of Commons on Tuesday that it was planned to relieve the 27th Brigade, which has spent seven months almost continuously in the line.

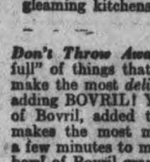
Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, April 5th—When daddy comes home from the office, there's great excitement among the Small Fry . . . and if your youngest could talk, he'd like to tell daddy about the good dinner he's had! HEINZ STRAINED BABY FOODS, of course! Babies just love them . . . and mothers do, too! For Heinz Baby Foods are so good for baby—and so easy to prepare! They can be whipped up in a jiffy while the grown-up meal is cooking. Just take them from the tin, warm them up—and serve. M-mmm! Three luscious Cereals and a yummy variety of strained meat products, soups, vegetables and desserts—all cooked to baby's taste 'n' tummy in Heinz gleaming kitchens. You know they're good because they're Heinz!

Don't Throw Away That Precious Vegetable Water! . . . it's "brim-full" of things that are good for you . . . and you can make the most delicious soup easily and instantly—by adding BOVRIL! Yes, the beefy flavour and goodness of Bovril, added to hot vegetable or potato water, makes the most marvellous soup—and it takes just a few minutes to make. It's simple, too, to make a big bowl of Bovril gravy by adding flour, extra hot water and Bovril after you've cooked your meat. A luscious way to make meat taste like more—and so very economical! There's no doubt about it—in these days of high meat prices, Bovril is wonderfully kind to your budget . . . it gives you more meatiness with your meals—for so little cost! Bovril comes in three handy forms—Cordial, Concentrate and Cubes.

"An Important Discovery!"—That's how you'll feel about it when you discover the extra comfort of 2-PLY tissue handkerchiefs. You may not realise it, but there are only two plies in ordinary tissues . . . and I'm told by druggists that the only 3-ply tissue hankie they sell is FACE-ELLE! This extra thickness means extra softness and absorbency . . . the extra strength you need for "sneezy" days and to prevent shredding when you use Face-Elle for make-up purposes. What's more I've found that the times when I use only one 3-ply Face-Elle instead of perhaps two—or even three—ordinary tissues—means a worthwhile saving! And for discovery No. 2, I've noted that, while Face-Elle is sold only at drug and toiletry counters, grocers offer the same 3-ply quality in Gibson's 3-Ply, Gibson's Tinted Tissues or Man Size Gibson's.

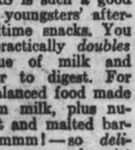


Even When I Whispered . . . George could hear every word I said! Such a welcome change from the days when his deafness isolated him from all the fun. Have you heard of the "SUPER-X-EAR" by ACOUSTICON? George says it picks up every sound—I could hardly believe him. It's such a tiny gadget sitting on the wrist . . . I call it his unseen ear. It's so small he can even wear it as a lapel pin. Whether you wear a hearing aid or not, I suggest you find out about this new device—with it you choose the receiver best suited for you. For complete free information or tryout for yourself, a friend or relative—write me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.

Chat About Child's Play! . . . Manning a bucking, chattering drill—hoisting heavy blocks of ice—ploughing a 10-acre field . . . these he-man jobs certainly aren't child's play! Yet research shows that a child at play burns up more energy than a hard-working man! That's just one good reason why HORLICKS is such a good drink for your youngsters' after-school and bedtime snacks. You see, Horlicks practically doubles the energy-value of milk and makes it easier to digest. For Horlicks is a balanced food made from full cream milk, plus nutrients of wheat and malted barley. And—in-mmm!—so delicious! Get it from your druggist or food store next time you're shopping!

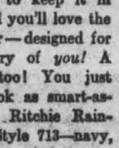
Blue — Coral — Yellow — Green. Yes, those grand C-I-L SPONGES now come in four lovely pastel shades to blend with your bathroom and kitchen colour-schemes and accessories! You'll love them! For these C-I-L Cellulose Sponges are velvet-soft when wet — ideal for baby's bath and yours. They float. Hold twenty times their weight in water. They're chemically pure — long-lasting. And just think! — now that they come in colours, every member of your family can have a "personalized" bath sponge! Ask for C-I-L Coloured Sponges — at department, drug, variety, grocery and hardware stores. And be sure to look for the C-I-L label. It's your assurance of quality!

Now I Enjoy April Showers — because they give me a chance to look smartly dressed in a shower—in my new LOU RITCHIE RAINMASTER! And, when the sun comes out, the Rainmaster is still the smartest coat on the street! A slimly, sleekly tailored rain and shine coat of wool-'n'-rayon gabardine with matching satin lining and hymo interlinings to keep it in perfect shape! And you'll love the new Johnny Collar—designed for fashion-wise flattery of you! A matching beret, too! You just can't help but look as smart-as-Spring in a Lou Ritchie Rainmaster! Ask for Style 713—navy, grey, Hunter's green, beige, rust or teal blue . . . for just $29.95!



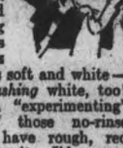
Blouses Take A Bow when you take to suits this Spring . . . and here's a wonderfully inexpensive way to make your last year's blouses look like new! Remove old color with Tintex Color Remover . . . then, for just a few cents the "magic" of All-fabric TINTEX TINTS AND DYES will give you a blouse in this Spring's most fashion-wise shade. Orchid (Lavender) or Old Rose or Navy Blue might be your choice. But whatever the color you choose, you can be sure it will be right if it's Tintex! Yes, Tintex eliminates all worry and guess-work from home dyeing. Small wonder I hear of more and more women who keep their homes and their wardrobes looking like new with Tintex! Costs just 15c a package at your drug, department or variety store!

Perhaps You Want to make a very special cake for a birthday . . . or a cake that's "out-of-this-world" for dinner-guests. Or maybe you're like me—and hate to waste good ingredients on any cake that's a failure. That's why—for always good cakes I always use SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR! Don't take chances when you're cake-baking! To all those precious eggs and butter—sugar and vanilla—add Swans Down! Swans Down is made of softest winter wheat, milled by expert flour-makers. It's sifted and resifted 'til it's 27 times as fine as ordinary flour! Yes, Swans Down matches your best cake-making ingredients—quality for quality—with truly praiseworth results!



Have You Ever felt like Old Mother Hubbard — with your cupboard bare of strawberry jam! Strawberry goes first always — because everyone loves the taste of strawberries! Lucky for us, we can enjoy WAGSTAFFE PURE STRAWBERRY JAM all year round. I like to spread it on plain bread, toast or hot biscuits — and taste its real concentrated strawberry goodness! Wagstaffe captures the luscious taste of strawberries picked ripe and red! So wholesome, too — made the real home-made way from fresh-picked, sun-ripened berries cooked with pure sugar. Enjoy that delicious Wagstaffe flavour today! Also try Wagstaffe Pure Black Currant and Wagstaffe Pure Raspberry Jam, too. You can always depend on Wagstaffe for quality.

"Look Me—No Rubbing!" My neighbour's daughter was fascinated! Imagine just spraying Windex on windows and wiping them sparkling clean in a matter of minutes instead of hours! Of course . . . only WINDEX SPRAY can give such gleaming results with so little effort in so little time. What a boon it is when housecleaning! I clean all windows, mirrors and picture glass with Windex . . . saving work, time . . . and money! Choose the big 20-ounce refill size . . . use it sparingly for best results, and you'll agree you pay less than half as much for Windex—a cleaner twice as wonderful! Your grocer and housecleaning supply centre have Windex Spray for you.



As Every Happily Married Woman Knows, it's the "little" things that are important in married life. That's why so many wise wives agree that ZONITORS are the perfect answer to an important problem—intimate feminine cleanliness. They're the modern method of feminine hygiene. Zonitors are greaseless, stainless, snow-white vaginal suppositories—powerfully germicidal, yet absolutely safe to delicate tissues. And they're so dainty and convenient to use! Ask your druggist for Zonitors—and for some important facts about feminine hygiene—write to me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q. You'll receive a free booklet in a plain wrapper.

Treat Your Favourite Husband to this side salad with his dinner tomorrow. It's the lemon dressing that gives it zest. Just mix ½ cup of fresh lemon juice, ½ cup salad oil, 1 tspn. salt and paprika and 2 tbspns. sugar. Add garlic clove if you like. Pour it over crisp salad greens. Wonderful! Our family loves a fresh lemon flavour in everything from drinks to sauces to desserts. Lemons are good for you too . . . lots of Vitamin C! An extra tip . . . always ask for SUNKIST LEMONS for full value in juice and quality—I'm never without them.

One Of The Exciting Adventures Of Spring—shopping for the lovely, lightweight materials we'll be wearing come Summer! Yes, No. 702 is small, fine and wonderfully flexible. It will nestle almost invisibly within the soft folds of your dress! Such a smooth look — and, such a smart look. Yes, Lightning Fasteners have an exclusive locking device. They lock where they stop . . . no "sticking" — no "slipping"! Remember, there's a Lightning for every fashion-wise costume in your wardrobe — right size — right colour — right fit!

Now That We All have Spring Housecleaning on our minds, I'd like to tell you about some of the best housecleaning helps I know! . . . LIN-X HOME BRIGHTENERS! For hardwood floors, I use Lin-X Paste Wax (59c)—and for linoleum or composition floors—Lin-X Anti-Slip Self Polishing Wax (59c). I get a better, longer lasting polish from these waxes every time! Why? Well, because their principal ingredient is Carnauba, the world's most valuable natural wax. And I've found no better way of making fine furniture look even finer than with Lin-X No Smudge Furniture Polish (43c). Does three jobs in one — cleans, polishes and protects! Ask for Lin-X—at grocery, hardware and department stores everywhere!

Margie Wouldn't Believe Me when I said I'd just done a big washing. "But look at your hands!" she said. "So smooth and white!" It's using DUZ that does it! . . . Yes, Duz leaves my hands soft and white—yet gets my washing white, too! If you've been "experimenting" with some of those no-rinse chemicals and have rough, red hands to show for it—I'd suggest you switch to Duz—for white, white washes without red hands! You see, Duz combines great quantities of rich, real soap with two active detergents — gives you clean, sweet-smelling washes and marvelous care for your hands! I know, once you've tried it, you'll agree that Duz does Everything—beautifully!

Historic Paper Given To Archives

TORONTO—(CP)—A copy of the Gazette Litteraire published at Montreal Feb. 17, 1779, is an important new addition to the Ontario archives. Dr. G. W. Spragge, provincial archivist, received it from Dr. Sugmund Samuel of Toronto, noted collector of Canadiana.

The four-page paper, tabloid in size, was the third to be published in British North America. It was preceded by publications at Halifax and Quebec. Long-term predecessor to the Montreal Gazette, it was published by Montreal's first printer, Fleury Mesplet, and only two copies are believed in existence.

Mesplet was born in France and emigrated to Philadelphia. In 1776 he was sent to Canada by the Continental Congress to establish a free press and Dr. Spragge said that at that time the American revolutionists had reason to hope that Quebec would join the revolting American colonies.

Remained In Montreal

"This did not come to pass," Dr. Spragge explains, "but Mesplet remained in Montreal. His editor, Jautard, was hostile to the government and the newspaper came under suspicion. The issue of May 26, 1779, contained four articles criticizing certain actions by the judges. Mesplet and Jautard were both arrested, taken to Quebec and imprisoned.

"The newspaper had lasted less than a year. Although it was printed during a civil war there was no news from the battlefront —no news in fact from anywhere. It appears to be, as the title suggests, purely a literary journal. But doubtless in what was printed there were allusions to political matters which it is difficult for the student of today to recognize, but which would be understood by contemporary readers."

"NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF A WOMAN"—This unidentified New York City woman detective, passing a downtown loft building, noticed two suspicious-looking youths who fled at her approach. She investigated the building and succeeded in arresting the pair. Here, she holds them at gunpoint for the patrol wagon.

U.S. Day Of Mourning For Paper's Death

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP).—American newspapers and radio stations in growing numbers are declaring a day of mourning on Friday for the Argentine newspaper La Prensa forced to close last January by a dispute with government - dominated labor unions. Many will lower flags over their buildings to half-mast.

So far as known, no Canadian newspaper plans to make Friday a day of mourning. A cross-country canvass showed a uniformly "no" answer.

Citizens Blamed

MONTREAL—(CP)—Montreal police are becoming irked at failure of citizens to give prompt co-operation. Police Lieut. Robert Connolly said in one case at least four persons heard a thief break down a garage door and steal a car without saying anything about it.

50-To-1 Shot

KIRKLAND LAKE, April 5—(CP)—Four Kirkland Lake men drew "Gallery," a 50-to-1 shot, in the Irish sweepstakes on the Grand National steeplechase to be run Saturday in England. Dr. Geoffrey Charlewood, Jim Harling, Will Matthews and O. E. Andrews clubbe dtogether to buy the ticket.

I feel so well now and am so happy that I sincerely hope every other sufferer will learn of SARNAK."

SPRINGHILL
Mrs. Carroll Filmore of Springhill, N.S., writes: "I have suffered for years with arthritic pain in my arm and shoulder. The relief and comfort I obtained from SARNAK is very gratifying and I feel better now than I have for years. SARNAK helped relieve my stomach upsets too and you can be sure I've told all my friends about this fine medicine."

Rheumatic, arthritic, neuritic pains, sciatica, bilious dizzy spells, backache, some kidney and liver and stomach upsets ... indigestion, heartburn, bloat, getting up nights, lack of energy, nutritional anemia and nervousness and sleeplessness due to these symptoms.

Tries To Cash Rubber Cheque

CAMPBELLFORD, Aprjl 5 — (ENS)— Campbellford police are on the lookout for a man wanted for forgery, after receiving a call from the local branch of the Bank of Montreal Tuesday morning. A man walked into the bank and attempted to cash a cheque drawn on W. F. Scott, local cattle dealer, for $300.

The teller became suspicious of the signature on the cheque and left the cage to telephone Scott. In the meantime, the man fled on foot. Chief Constable George Hardy and Provincial Constable Donald W. Erskine traced the man's movements to the outskirts of town, but there they lost track of him. He is still missing.

No one could remember ever having seen the man before, and bank officials said the signature was a poor imitation.

Truman Has Punches Ready To Deliver

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP). — Author John Hersey quotes President Truman as saying he is "saving up four or five good, hard punches on the nose" for persons who have written "lies" about his family.

"And when I am out of this job," Truman was said to have added, "I am going to run around and deliver them personally."

Hersey said the President made the comment to him in a conversation last year. Hersey tells the story in the first of a series of articles on Truman appearing in the New Yorker Magazine.

Names of the persons on Truman's list were not revealed.

Slot Machines Fascinate Italian Lad

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 5 (AP)— How does the United States look through the eyes of a nine-year-old Italian boy? It's a wonderland of slot machines, television and Gene Kelly.

The boy is Guido Martufi, a lad with a dark, expressive face. He arrived from Italy a few days ago with his father, Amerigo Martufi. Amerigo, so named because he was nearly born in Brooklyn (his parents moved back to Italy shortly before his birth), is barber for the movie crowd in Rome. "I cut the hair of all the actors and directors," he said, "all except Roberto Rossellini; he has no hair." Because of his connections, he has been able to get movie jobs for his sons, Guido and Roberto.

Guido landed a good role in the recent "Teresa" and has been brought to Hollywood for a part in "Westward the Women." He speaks no English, so his interpreter is Johnny Indrisano, who told me that Guido's chief passion since his arrival is slot machines.

"When he got off the plane, he saw a cigaret machine and asked what it was," Indrisano related. "I showed him how it worked and he was fascinated. Now he wants to put money in every one he finds, just to see what comes out.

"I took him up to see a television set in a store in Hollywood and he was amazed. When I turned on a baseball game, he started looking around the store to see where the players were."

No Kelly

On a studio tour Guido had one disappointment: "I met Clark Gable, I met Esther Williams, I met Fred Astaire, but where is Gene Kelly?" He is wild about Kelly.

What does he like about Kelly? The translation is roughly: "He's so simple, so plain, so down-to-earth."

NO WASH, NO WIPE TONIGHT!
NEW DREFT DOES BOTH AND DISHES SHINE

ALL YOU DO IS RINSE even pots and pans glisten!

YOU DON'T WASH ... instead of washing dishes just let them soak in warm Dreft suds for 2 minutes. Dreft floats grease and food particles away. Your hands barely touch the dishwater. All you have to do is rinse the dishes, giving a swish of the cloth where needed, and presto! They're done!

YOU DON'T WIPE ... New Self-Washing Dreft leaves no dishwater film. It washes dishes and glasses so clean, they shine—even without wiping.

YOU DON'T SCOUR ... Even pots and pans soak clean. Dreft's amazing "float-away" action gets under grease ... lifts it off. Then grease rinses away ... without scouring.

BEAUTY TIP! New Dreft is so mild, and your hands are in water so little, it leaves hands beautifully white and soft!

Writer Says Mean Woman Can Not Be A Good Cook

By LYNNE O'B.
Courtesy of Mary Moore

DEAR MARY MOORE:

You are doing a wonderful job with your column. You would be greatly flattered to know the many people who are clipping every column.

As a cook I have always been on the alert for "that something more" in each dish, and hence I feel this morning, the urge to write you, in the spirit of sharing some of these points with you—thence—the readers.

The recipe for Pizza did it—and please do not feel I am in a critical mood.

1. Condensed tomato soup never gets away from a sweetish taste, and often ruins tomato sauce flavor. One secret is to use with plain canned tomatoes, salt, pepper, chopped onion, celery or peppers. But to 1 can tomatoes add 1 teaspoon powdered ginger—2 or 4 cloves and 2 slices (rind and all) of lemon—always Worcestershire sauce and garlic.

In Italy the dough is made as for rolls. The cook takes a big handful, pats it flat, then begins pressing the edges out and out turning it quite quickly, then puts it on the palm of his hand and gets it spinning fast. When it is really turning he throws it into the air and catches it along with a gay shout or song. It is then placed on a wooden board. Then goes on the tomato mix—handsful of cheese, then—according to your order—chopped Italian salami or 2 chopped anchovy and 3 chopped mushrooms, etc. etc. Pizza pie out of biscuit dough lacks the real pizza texture.

The Pizza is baked under the broiler—about 4 or 6 inches. (May Emem have the luxury, at this point in this charming letter, of an alibi? I know Pizza is made of roll yeast dough—but in a little campaign to popularize this delicious "pie" I started out with biscuit dough, and was going to suggest using refrigerator dough for it in a week or so. M. M.)

In your oxtails, the real Hungarian flavor is given by also adding to your tomato the ginger, lemon, clove, garlic, etc. Highly spiced.

A most perfect spaghetti sauce is made from the ultra rich gravy leftover from the oxtails or the leftover barbecue sauce from spareribs—used as a basis. You just can't get a richer more appetizing dish than by using such a rich seasoned sauce—from meat dishes.

✧ ✧ ✧

My favorite speed trick with biscuits is one I wish you could give to busy housewives.

1. Ue a floured canvas on the table. This can be folded edges in, then each end also, so no guilty flour can fall out—no cleaning up of the mess of a bread board.

2. Press the dough out in an oblong about 12 inches long and 5 inches wide.

3. With a long bread knife floured, quickly cut through centre (lengthwise).

4. Then diagonally cut both ways watching for a true bias. In less than one minute your biscuits are cut. No biscuit cutters. No waste of leftover dough to be worked over.

For a fact, without the doughy mess to clean up women would do biscuits much more often.

(Please see conclusion of Lynne O'B's letter on Monday, April 9.)

TAKEN ABACK? — You should be if you met Fianca Botindrai on the sands at Ostia Beach, Italy. Wearing a sketchy outfit, Fianca displays the season's rage among Italy's pretty bathing beauties—caricatures on the flesh. This one, for obvious reasons, it titled "Spring Motif."

Longshore Job Easier Than Housework

TORONTO, April 4.—A longshoreman's job is easy compared to housework, said Miss Jean Clarke Thompson of the Public Relations Bureau of the American Gas Association Tuesday at a press luncheon given by the Consumers' Gas Company.

In a household where there is no hot water heater the housewife carries about 12,000 pounds of water a month, she computed, and where there are not yet the new mechanical dryers mother totes two and a half tons of wet wash a year, besides carrying it in dry.

Miss Thompson was born in Ottawa and worked on Canadian newspapers before joining Time Magazine as Foreign News Research and Canadian expert. She has been in New York since 1939, appears on radio and TV programs and does a column, Kitchen Memo, which appears in 2,000 newspapers.

As well as pointing out the merits of the many new household appliances, Miss Thompson and other home service experts try to help women take the drudgery out of housework by more efficient kitchen and work planning. She said yesterday that a survey showed that 70-80 per cent of women cook all their meals on the top burners, a habit which they hope is disappearing.

Smart fashions in spring clothes were combined with the smartest in kitchen equipment in an amusing presentation at the afternoon session.

Present for the family dinner party at their home Tuesday was Mrs. Jewell's only sister, Mrs. W. B. Ainsworth of Toronto. Yellow roses and daffodils decorated the house for this event and an iced anniversary cake centred the table.

Line-Up Awaits Turn For Queen Alexandria Tea

The annual Daffodil Tea of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, taking place Wednesday afternoon in the Kindergarten room, as usual attracted a huge crowd, representative of all the associations in the city.

Seats around the tea room were filled at the opening hour of three-thirty and a waiting line formed in the hall, which, in half-an-hour, had nearly reached the outside door.

These waiting patrons were perhaps responsible for clearing the home baking table which was in the hall, attended by Mrs. H. Hutchinson, Mrs. F. Shaw, Mrs. Ray Hetherington and Mrs. Jack Arnott.

The classroom where the tea was served was well decorated with colorful posters and cards made by the children and served to make the atmosphere gay and happy, though it was a dull, rainy day.

Music throughout, interpreted in turn by Mrs. Ivan Morgan, Mrs. Art Bacon, Mrs. K. McVeety and Mrs. Art Black, was pleasing to the ear.

General convener of the tea arrangements was Mrs. Dion Snelgrove, Mrs. Les Welsh selected the tea assistants, Mrs. G. Norris convened the refreshments and Mrs. Jack Arnott was responsible for the decorations.

Daffodils were used, of course, arranged in a wide silver bowl on the tea table, and highlighted when the pastel colored pencil tapers were lighted. A white cloth with cutwork design at the corners was used and green tulle made an effective colour accent around the centrepiece.

Past presidents of the Home and School Association at this school were pouring tea, Mrs. R. Parnell, Mrs. E. S. Kingdon, Mrs. H. H. Graham and Mrs. Telford.

Serving were Mrs. K. McVeety, Mrs. K. Tedford, Mrs. Ralph Selby, Mrs. Herb. Mason, Mrs. Ken Kingston, Mrs. Fraser Dunfield, Mrs. C. Boate, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. G. Perry, Mrs. Phyllis Kingdo, Mrs. C. Greensides, Mrs. O. Anford, Mrs. L. Bateman, Mrs. F. Shaw, Mrs. R. McIlmoyle, Mrs. S. Whitton and Mrs. W. Dorrington. Mrs. G. Gatfield and Mrs. T. Cheetle were replenishing plates and teapots.

A welcome to the tea was extended by president Mrs. P. S. Dallin and vice-presidents Mrs. Art Black and Mrs. C. G. Law.

The ticket takers were Mrs. G. Coleman, Jr., and Mrs. B. Baker.

Guests were able to leave their children in another room while attending, and they were looked after by Mrs. Ray Delahaye and Mrs. L. Hiscox.

Mrs. Wm. Wright was appointed film convener.

The post-war convener, Miss I. Shearer, reported that a work meeting had been held recently at the home of Mrs. L. Routley, and the next one will be held at Miss M. Benson's home.

It was decided that the monthly meetings of the chapter will be changed to the fourth Tuesday of each month, commencing with September meeting.

Final plans for the spring tea, to be held on April 14th at the YW, were discussed, and there will be home-cooking, candy and hand-made articles for sale.

Miss B. Pogue and her committee served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. J. D. Taylor Woman Of Year

HAMILTON, April 5 (CP). — Mrs. J. D. Taylor, a member of the Senate of McMaster University, and mother of three children, Wednesday night was chosen Hamilton's woman of the year.

Mrs. Taylor was praised for exemplifying high standards of conduct and helping maintain the privilege of the best in education. She was awarded the Nora-Frances Henderson Memorial Trophy, named for the late woman civic leader, at the annual dinner of the Hamilton Women's Civic Club.

Travelogue Given Trinity Band

About 70 members of Trinity Baby Band Mothers' Auxiliary were at the church Wednesday evening for a meeting and program which was so enjoyable they stayed until nearly the midnight hour.

Guest speaker was Donald Kennedy with an illustrated travelogue of his trip to Europe. On the projected pictures he showed, about one third of those he took during the trip, Mr. Kennedy pointed out beautiful landmarks and interesting places in the old world. He also displayed his unique collection of souvenirs from each country.

Mrs. J. A. McNeill sang four solos at the appropriate points in the travelogue, By Yon Bonnie Banks, White Cliffs of Dover, Cheri Beri Bin, and The Last Time I Saw Paris. Mr. Kennedy accompanying at the piano.

Mrs. M. Elliott was chairman for the program and her group members took part. Mrs. W. White offered prayer and Mrs. Fred Stenson read scripture and gave a short discussion on the verses.

The meeting was opened by president Mrs. Eric Edmondson with a call to worship and prayer. Mrs. L. W. Thompson was pianist for hymns.

Business included completing plans for the Blossom Time Tea on May 2 and for the Baby Band Rally on April 18 at St. James Church.

A new member welcomed at the meeting is Mrs. W. F. Swayne.

Mrs. Glen Archer expressed appreciation to the speaker and soloist.

The group in charge served refreshments after the meeting.

Hair Tinted To Match Gowns

MOOSE JAW, Sask.—(CP)—Glittering "Kipper Blue" rated tops for evening wear at an exhibition of hair stylings by Moose Jaw coiffeurs.

The show was put on during the convention here of the Saskatchewan Barbers and Beauticians Association. Models displayed the most flattering coiffures for each type of face.

Contrasting charmingly with a red velvet evening gown was a model's dark hair complemented with a dusting of green flecked with gold.

Another model displayed the beauty of red tints in her fair hair, while auburn lights gave special lustre to a brunette's hair.

Models showed how, for youthful looking women with grey hair, silver sheen rinses bring out hidden beauty.

For daytime stylings, the new chignon modes for short hair were most popular.

April Weather Is Damper To Grace WA Tea Crowd

Almost every home in the south west section of the city has been interested in the spring tea which took place Wednesday afternoon in the basement of Grace United Church, Howden Ave., with the Women's Association as hostesses.

Attendance therefore was very pleasing to general convener Mrs. J. B. Jackson. Had the weather not been so typically Aprilish there is no doubt the crowd would have been larger but friends can hardly be blamed if they didn't come out in the rain especially when sidewalks are lacking in the district and roads are muddy.

The Association president Mrs. G. Close was assisted in welcoming to the tea room by Mrs. E. W. Rowland whose husband is in charge of the church services. Mrs. H. W. Glover was taking the tickets.

Quartette tables made the problem of serving in small quarters simpler. Each was attractive with a bud vase in the centre containing a red double tulip.

The double tulips combined with daffodils made a striking bonquet for the tea table at which Mrs. J. Bailey and Mrs. R. W. Harrison presided. The tea assistants were Mrs. H. Corner, Mrs. G. E. Ireland, Mrs. E. McKinstry, Mrs. F. J. Hudson, Mrs. G. Frederick, and Mrs. E. Druery.

Tea maker was Mrs. A. Tripp and Mrs. F. Marsden replenished the plates. Mrs. G. Gilbank, Mrs. W. Anderson Sr., and Mrs. B. Gash also assisted with the dishes.

The home baking table, though well stocked for the opening hour had to borrow from kitchen supplies to meet the customer's demands. Mrs. D. Montgomery and Mrs. R. Wright were in charge of the sales. The bazaar table attended by Mrs. W. H. Gerow displayed a variety of hand-made articles, and Mrs. W. Lunn had a table of stationery and cards for sale.

Younger members of the congregation have recently been organized in CGIT and Explorer groups and they are allowed to have a booth at the tea. With assistance of their leader, Mrs. B. Sherry, the girls sold a quantity of home-made candy and did well with the embroidered pillow cases, garment-hanger covers, towels, decorated book marks and knick knack holders, etc. Marlene Constable and Betty Laird of CGIT and Marjorie Sherry and Judith McClellan of Explorers were in attendance.

DOROTHY DIX

Patience Advised In Case Of "Boy Crazy" Girl; 14

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a daughter of 14 who is a problem to us. She is rather silly and quite boy-crazy. She thrives on the attentions of the opposite sex and stops at nothing to get them.

Dorothy Dix

She is quite confident of her ability to attract young men, and thinks and dreams of nothing else. Although her mental capacity is not above normal she wishes to appear older and more mature than she actually is, considers herself very worldly wise. Will this lead into more complicated channels? And what can we do to prevent it? BEWILDERED MOTHER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Every mother who has a 14-year-old daughter has a problem that keeps her awake nights and turns her hair grey, so you are not alone in your anxiety and uncertainty about how to deal with it.

Girls of 14 all have acute attacks of "boyitis," when they think of nothing else on earth but boys and dates and going places. Also, when a girl is 14 she yearns for age, as we oldsters do for youth. The highest complimnt you can pay her is to tell her that you thought she was 20. Her ambition is to look like a sophisticated woman of the world and to be painted like a barn door, and her greatest earthly desire is for a black velvet evening dress.

Be Patient

It is a phase of adolescence and it passes, and the important thing is for the mother to realize this and to deal with it with patience and humor. Try not to take it too seriously. Don't make issues of unimportant things. If Sally spends hours doing up her hair like some movie actress; if she is bound to have her fingernails look like blood-red talons, and if her heart is set on wearing clothes too old for her, let her do it. She will drop it when somebody laughs at her. Don't forbid the boys coming to the house. She will meet them on the street corners if you do. Just string along with her the best you can, laughing her out of some of her follies, ignoring a lot of others, and trying to steer her in the right way.

Don't worry over her too much and don't despair of her. We have all been 14 and boy-crazy, but most of us got over it and have made pretty decent women.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A man has asked me to marry him. He can provide for me very well and offer me nearly everything in the material way. However, we are of diametrically opposite backgrounds and religion. Mentally we are entirely different. I am interested in everything pertaining to politics, education, the theatre, books etc. Sports are of more interest to him than they are to me. My problem is: Can I make a successful marriage with this man, or shall I take my chances on meeting one who will be more intellectually compatible? I am in my late thirties.

✧ ✧ ✧

SUZANNE

ANSWER: No marriage can be happy in which the husband and wife are not congenial. No material comfort that a husband can bestow upon his wife can atone to her for his not giving her sympathy and understanding. No physical attraction can keep people together who differ in their opinions and tastes and habits. The one indispensable thing in marriage is that a husband and wife must like to do the same things, must enjoy the same things, must have the same points of view.

Hence it is always taking a long shot at happiness when two people of different backgrounds and different cultures marry. The final touch of danger is added when two people of different religions marry.

In your particular case this hazard would be augmented by the fact that you evidently consider yourself much superior to the man you are contemplating marrying. No woman is ever happy with a husband she looks down upon. Nor is any man ever satisfied with a wife who treats him as her inferior.

But one mistake women frequently make is in undervaluing a man's intelligence. They forget that it takes a better brain to know how to make a living than it does to write a paper for a women's club.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What do you think of single girls going with married men? W.J.J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think they lack both heart and brains. They show their lack of heart in being willing to steal a husband away from his wife and to break a sister woman's heart and orphan little children. And they show their lack of intelligence by not realizing that they are wrecking their own lives by giving their youth and their beauty and their love to a man they cannot marry.

Receive Confirmation Mao Visits Russia

PARIS, April 5 (AP)— Confirmation has been received in Paris that the Chinese Communist leader, Mao Tse-Tung, has recently been in Moscow, a French foreign ministry spokesman said today.

"We do not know just what Mao asked for," said the official, "but our reports are that he was in the Soviet capital for some days to talk about the Korean war."

The official said that despite the report of Mao's Moscow trip, active Russian participation in the Korean war at this time is being discounted here.

He added, however, that credit is being given to reports that the Chinese Communists have asked for more Soviet aid in the Korean conflict.

Find 419 Employees Guilty Of Corruption

HONG KONG, April 5 (Reuters)—Shanghai under Communist rule has found 419 municipal employees guilty of corruption and has sentenced to death the former judge and prosecutor of the Shanghai court on similar charges.

This was reported in a Shanghai Communist newspaper, Sin Wen Jih Pao, which reached here today.

These crimes, the paper said, cost the government large amounts of money, rice, cloth, gold and other property.

The general Communist purge appears to be continuing as well. The Chinese Nationalist defence ministry on Formosa today said the Communists have arrested 15,000 persons and executed more than 2,100 in Kwangsi province since the middle of December.

The ministry said the Reds seized 10,000 at Lichow and 5,000 at Kanhsien. They publicly executed more than 2,000 at Lichow and more than 100 at Kanhsien, the ministry added.

Hastings Church Clubs Plan United Meetings

HASTINGS, April 5—(ENS)—The young people's societies of Trintiy and St. Andrew's churches met in Trinity Sunday school room on Sunday evening. The Rev. J. M. Ritchie presided.

It was revolved that the two groups meet in a series of united meetings during the next few weeks, meeting alternate evenings in either church.

Officers for the united groups as follows: President, Andree Crate; vice president, Barbara Lloyd; associate secretaries, Boyce Orr and Betty Dainard; associate treasurers, Mrs. Don Leach and Joyce Chrysler. These officers, along with Mrs. S. Whitred, form the executive.

The Rev. N. Cole provided the program with comments on slides of the Life and Journeys of St. Paul.

Mumps Showing Sharp Increase

Mumps and measles seem to be the rage amongst Peterborough's younger set during the first days of April. Chicken pox is also taking its toll but not as many as the other two diseases.

During March the Department of Health reports measles gradually began to decrease. March's 323 cases brought the total for the three months well above the previous high of 1,440 in 1948.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, said today the measles are disappearing because most of the children are now immune. The few cases in 1949 and 1950, not more than 50 each year, allowed the number of children not immune to increase.

During the first three days of this month, 11 cases of mumps, more than twice the number of cases as in March. Today there were three new cases reported before 10 a.m.

The medical health officer said that parents should report as soon as the swelling appears and after 16 days the child may return to school with a department certificate. No placard is required.

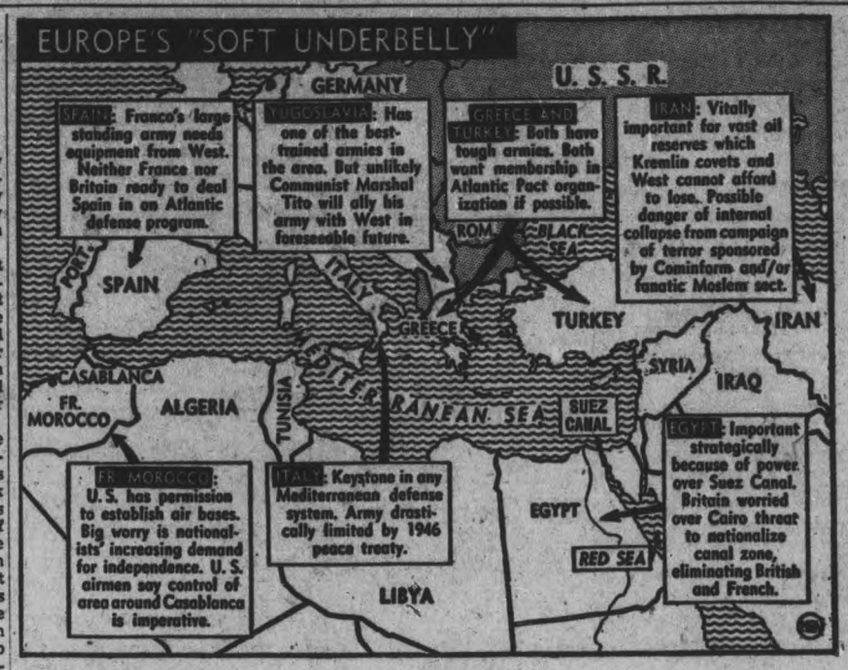
An epidemic of mumps may now exist in one of the junior grades at Confederation school. In the class 14 boys and girls either failed to return after the Easter holidays or have dropped from classes in the past three days. Only several other cases are reported throughout the school.

Jack G. Nichols, principal, said that he believed the infection began during the Easter holidays. Parents have notified the school that their children have mumps but he added some of these might have only swollen glands.

"We were just getting back to normal after the measles," he said.

During March chicken pox cases amounted to 35 and so far this month nine case have been reported. Dr. Kelly said that chicken pox "is usually with us most of the time. A good way to have it." He explained it reduces the chances of an epidemic.

FOUR GENERATIONS in four families attended the 80th birthday party of Mrs. A. Madely of Toronto, for many years a resident of Peterborough. The party was held at the home of Mrs. J. McIlvride, 489 Donegal St., and altogether about 70 relatives and friends attended.



Use Lift Lock On Road Map

Appreciation of the publicity given to Peterborough by the Imperial Oil Company in its new road map is expressed by the city council in a motion by Aldermen E. C. Braund and H. T. Rehill.

Folded into convenient pocket size, the map features on its cover the familiar picture of the Lift Lock at Peterborough. On the inside and adjacent to the local area on the map, there is further detail of the Lift Lock with a photograph of the same canal scene which is presented in color on the outside of the folder.

The information beside the two-inch square photograph inside is: "The front cover of this map shows the hydraulic lift lock at Peterborough. The lock raises craft 65 feet, the greatest lift of any of its type in the world. The Trent Canal, 240 miles from Trenton (Lake Ontario) to Port Severn (Georgian Bay), follows an old French and Indian canoe trail. The painting is based on material furnished by the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity."

"This map will be distributed far and wide," Ald. Braund said Monday night. "It means a great deal of publicity for Peterborough, and it should be a big benefit. It also directs more attention than usual to the Kawartha Lakes district. I think we should write Imperial Oil Company and thank them very much for this publicity which is their gift to us, because it isn't costing us anything."

THE NEWSMAP above tells why western strategists consider the Mediterranean area and Middle East to be the weakest flank of the free world's defenses against threat of Soviet expansion. Nationalization threat to Britain's oil fields in Iran emphasizes the need for organization to guarantee control of vital Mediterranean line stretching from Spain to Iran in case of war. Major stumbling block is France, which has refused to participate in Mediterranean defense planning unless given a full partnership with Britain and U.S. in conferences on the matter.

Curb Fraternity

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y., April 5 (AP).—Hostra College authorities have cracked down on a student fraternity's right to pledge new members, as a result of its "tar and feathering" of initiates. The fraternity, Crown and Lance, is accused of smearing 13 pledges with molasses and cotton Tuesday night, then taking them to far-away places and leaving them to make their way back to the Long Island campus on foot.

W. A. Mowry Officer Molders' Conference

The annual meeting of the Ontario conference board of the International Molders' and Foundry Workers' Union of North America was held in Tronto on Saturday, and was one of the most successful held in many years, with some 43 delegates in attendance.

The following officers were elected: President, Berpard Dunn, Toronto; vice-president, Charles Johnston, Cobourg; district representative, Ernest Fish, Brantford; secretary-treasurer, W. A. Mowry, Peterborough; recording secretary, H. Campbell, Carleton Place; trustees, J. R. Nicholls of Woodstock, Austin Spooner of Preston and Earl Wilson of Toronto; doorkeeper, W. V. Hillyer, Owen Sound.

Ralph Carey

The chief justice commended the predominantly farmer jury on its verdict which it returned on Wednesday afternoon, and in announcing the remand for sentence until today, stated he wished to consider carefully his decision.

"When one considers what a dreadful case this is, one wonders whether Dr. Tennant (Ontario Government psychiatrist) may not have something to contribute," Chief Justice McRuer said. He added that he always felt such cases came within Dr. Tennant's field, and with consent of counsel stated he would consult with the psychiatrist by telephone in the hope that he might explain "what would bring a man to do what he did."

The jury considered its verdict for three hours and 10 minutes while a packed courtroom awaited the decision.

Crown's Case

During the Crown's presentation of the case earlier, the 24-year-old mother of a 19-month-old girl told a cleared courtroom the details of a brutal sex attack and beating at the hands of a predawn intruder of her home last February 10. She unhesitatingly identified her attacker as Ralph Carey, 25-year-old Port Hope undertaker, who for over two years had been a neighbor.

While she and Mrs. Carey had visited each other often, she said their husbands had met infrequently, mainly because her husband worked nights as a telegraph operator.

Her husband had gone to work about 10.30 p.m. on February 9, she related. She received a telephone call from Ralph Carey at 11.30 p.m. He asked if her husband had left yet, as he had a couple of letters he wanted him to post. During the conversation Carey told her that he and his wife were having differences.

Footsteps Wakened Her

Some time later footsteps wakened her and she believed her husband was coming in from work. The covers were ripped from her and a flashlight shone in her face. In the dim light she said she recognized Ralph Carey, although a white cloth covered his lower face.

"At first I thought it was a joke and reached over to turn on the light," she testified. "He slapped my hand away and when I tried again hit me on the forehead with the flashlight. I was terrified and began screaming."

Baby Cries

In the struggle which ensued the two fell to the floor and the blind went up so that the room was partially lighted by a street lamp, the witness said. She was then kicked and beaten and her assailant bit her on the foot. The baby started crying in the next room.

"He said to me it was either me or the baby in the next room," she said. "It seemed like hours and I started pleading with him."

While sitting on her stomach on the bed, her attacker had pulled her pyjamas off. He then attacked her twice, she swore in a low, clear voice.

"Did you co-operate?" asked Crown Attorney J. A. Bradshaw, special prosecutor.

"No sir. I scratched him on the face and bit his right index finger," she said.

After he dressed, he told her not to tell her husband and gave her a "casual kiss" before leaving. After watching him walk to the street she immediately telephoned her husband to come home. This was at 6 a.m.

"What intimacy had there been between you and accused prior to this?" asked the Crown. "Absolutely none," witness replied emphatically.

Unlike Friendly Neighbor

Under cross-examination by Stuart Ryan, Port Hope counsel, she said that during the attack Carey was completely unlike the man she had known as a friendly neighbor, except for his physical appearance. She had never before heard him utter an improper remark.

The father of Ralph Carey had taken the stand in his son's defence Thursday night and quietly and firmly attested to the good character and reputation of his boy.

"To my knowledge his reputation couldn't be better," said the strapping, 6-foot 3-inch witness who has for many years been Cobourg's chief of police.

Casey's Testimony

Testifying in his own defence, Carey swore that on the night of Feb. 9 he had visited friends and was going upstairs to bed when he heard a knock on his door. When he went to the door he saw someone running down the street in the darkness. He threw a stone at the fleeing person, he testified. The time was 2.45 a.m.

Then he went to bed after setting the alarm clock for 6 a.m. and because he had to go to Toronto on business. He slept until the alarm went off.

He swore he had not gone to the victim's home at any time that night. After dressing he went to make some coffee because he "wasn't feeling so good."

Because his car wouldn't start in the cold weather, he telephoned the husband of the victim and asked him to come up and give him a tow. "He was very gruff," he said, "so I hung up."

Robert E. Pearcy

Funeral service for the late Robert Edward Pearcy, age 10, of 262 Dalhousie St., was held today at the Belleghem funeral home. Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edward Pearcy, died on Tuesday following a year's illness. The Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church officiated and pall-bearer were Thomas, Albert and Gerald Bradley, Raymond Fowler, Donald Poineil and Harry Lambert. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Two Trucks Collide

Two trucks collided on George St. as one was turning across the street into a lane north of the CPR tracks.

Bruce Waddell, 648 Gillespie Ave., had been parked on the west side of the street, facing north. He said he looked before crossing the street into the lane, but when nearly across, his truck and a truck being driven north by Herbert Tripp, RR 1, Fraserville, collided.

Most damage was done to the truck driven by Waddell. Constable Edward Niziol investigated.

WILLIAM NICKLE, 16, of Dover, N.J., admitted to police that he killed two aunts and an uncle because they wouldn't let him go out on dates after dark. The youth was arrested in Delaware.

President Truman's Attacker Will Die In Electric Chair

Puerto Rico's Liberty Not Plea For Life Made By Doomed Man

Collazo Sentenced To Die October 26 For Assassination Attempt, Guilty of Two First-Degree Murder Counts

WASHINGTON, April 6. (AP)—Oscar Collazo today was centenced to die in the electric chair Oct. 26 for the slaying of a White House guard in an attempt last November on the life of President Truman. Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough asked whether Collazo had anything to say. Collazo said he did not want to plead for his life but to plead for liberty for Puerto Rico. At his trial, Collazo contended he and a companion, Griselio Torresola, were only demonstrating for Puerto Rican independence when they attempted to storm Blair House last Nov. 1. Torresola and a White House guard, Leslie Coffelt, were killed in an exchange of Pistol shots.

The death sentence was mandatory from a jury's verdict March 7 that Collazo was guilty of two counts of first degree murder. Both murder charges were based on Coffelt's death.

When Goldsboorough gave Collazo permission to speak he shouted:

"Whatever I did, I did it for a just cause I did it for my country."

Goldsborough explained that he set the execution date for next fall because Collazo's court-appointed lawyers have given notice of an appeal.

Chinese Withdraw In Surprise Move UN Troops Push On

TOKYO, April 6. (AP)—A surprise Chinese withdrawal on the Central front Thursday night left a "no-man's-land" in front of United Nations forces today north of Parallel 38. AP correspondent John Randolph said Chinese who had been fighting stubbornly for two days suddenly broke contact Thursday night and retreated. A field dispatch said Allied units along the centrol front pushed ahead Friday against resistance ranging from stiff to none.

Thai and Greek soldiers forged ahead against intense Communist rifle and automatic weapons fire.

Commonwealth units driving northwest of Chunchon scored sizable gains against a surprising lack of opposition.

On the east coast, two South Korean divisions ranged 15 miles north of the border.

All but a few Chinese and Red Korean stragglers had been driven from battered South Korea.

The die-hards blocked the Haggye-Inje road east of Chunchon on the mountainous central front.

Reds On Ridge

Americans battered up that road behind heavy artillery fire, but they still were south of Parallel 38. The Reds controlled ridges on both sides of the road.

Once the road is opened to Allied traffic, the front will extend from the Imjin River in the west to the Japan Sea on the east—all of it in North Korea.

Allied forces on the western front have bumped up against solid concrete fortifications. Communist defenders were guarding the flank of a massive Communist build-up for an expected spring offensive.

On the central front, Chinese forces launched several minor counter-attacks Thursday night against U.N. troops north of the border. The Allies hurled back the attacks and drove slowly ahead.

Bradley Calls Alexander Great General

NEW YORK, April 6 (CP). — Viscount Alexander, Canada's Governor-General, is described as the outstanding general's general of the European war in a new book by Gen. Omar Bradley of the U.S. Army.

The first instalment of a condensed version of Bradley's book The War America Fought, appeared today in a magazine. Bradley, new chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, served under Gen. Eisenhower in North Africa and in Europe during the Second World War.

Field Marshal Alexander was transferred in 1942 from command of British forces in the Middle East to command all Allied ground forces in North Africa.

"There," writes Bradley, "he not only showed the shrewd tactical judgment that was to make him the outstanding general's general of the European war, but he was easily able to comport the nationally minded and jealous Allied personalities of his command.

Unique Position

"By the fall of 1943, with Tunisia, Sicily and now Salerno behind him, Alexander occupied a unique position in the Allied high command. He was our only army group commander and therefore our only experienced one. At the same time he had demonstrated an incomparable ability to fuse the efforts of two Allied armies into a single cohesive campaign."

Bradley writes that Eisenhower as supreme commander of the Allied force that was about to invade Europe, wanted Alexander to command the British 21st Army group in that operation. But the British asked instead that Alexander be retained in Italy "to spark that peninsula campaign." Eisenhower settled on the then Lieut.-Gen. Bernard Montgomery.

"Had Alexander commanded the 21st Army group in Europe, we could have avoided the petu-

Dairies Agree Roll Back Price

TORONTO, April 6 (CP). — Toronto dairies have agreed to roll back last Monday's increases on products other than whole milk, Mayor Hiram McCallum said Thursday night.

Dairy representatives conferred with the Milk Control Board on Thursday following criticism of their action in the Provincial Legislature.

William Dennison (CCF-Toronto St. David) said in the Legislature Wednesday the government's legislation to control retail milk prices had been broken and that skim milk had gone up as much as two cents a quart. Premier Frost said he expected the legislation would be tested, although he felt it was wide enough to provide necessary control.

J. E. Houck, secretary-treasurer of the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association, said the Milk Board set a price on whole milk, but other grades of milk and other milk products were not frozen.

$25,000 Fires Set By Boy 9, Police Say

ST. THOMAS, April 6 (CP)—A homeless nine-year-old boy with a child's passion for fire engines has been charged with setting two recent fires that caused more than $25,000 damage.

Apparently he has no place he can really call home, Fire Chief Alex Sutherland said today, adding that the lad has wandered about Ontario finding haven in homes of kind-hearted people.

Police said they had seen him roaming through streets late at night alone. No one seems to know where he comes from, although he has stayed briefly in Toronto, London and other southwestern Ontario cities in his aimless travels.

Charges were laid after investigation of theatre and mill fires last month. He will appear in juvenile court Friday.

Get 24 Years For Robberies

MONTREAL, April 6 (CP). — Three men who confessed to armed robberies today were sentenced to at least 24 years each in penitentiary.

Judge Rene Theberge sentenced Clifford Williams, 20, to 28 years and Robert Lambert, 24, to 25 years. Both pleaded guilty to nine armed robbery charges.

In another court, Judge Eugene Lafontaine sentenced Jean Paul Fournel, alias Michael Boychuk, to a total of 24 years consecutively. Fournel pleaded guilty to robbing four banks.

Conservatives Retain Seat In By-Election

ORMSKIRK, Lancashire, England, April 6 (AP).—Britain's Conservative party retained a safe seat in the House of Commons by an increased margin over labor.

Results of Thursday's by-election here showed Conservative candidate Sir Arthur Salter received 24,190 votes to 8,969 for the Labor standard bearer, Lt.-Col. H. A. Kelly, and only 686 for Fred G. Barton of the Independent Labor party.

The election was caused by the appointment of Sir Ronald Cross, who won the seat in last year's election, as Governor of Tasmania.

Retention of the seat by the Conservatives reduces the Labor party's working majority in the Commons to seven.

Greet Auriol Quietly In Toronto

Frost Gives President Fishing Rod At Ontario Legislature

TORONTO, April 6. (CP)—This predominantly English-speaking city today was host to President Vincent Auriol of France. In Canada on a five-day tour, M. Auriol came here by train from Ottawa where he was given a rousing welcome Thursday. His reception in the capital overshadowed his welcome here.

Only a few hundred people turned out to welcome him at the station where he was met by the Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Ray Lawson, and Premier Frost. Large crowds greeted him at the Legislature and at the cenotaph.

He placed a wreath at the city hall cenotaph and stood for a moment in silent tribute to Canadians who lost their lives in the First and Second World Wars.

On the city hall steps the president said in an impromptu speech in French that in placing the wreath at the cenotaph he thought of "all the children of Canada" who had gone to France's aid in the two world wars.

"France," he said, "is duly grateful."

Then, pointing to Hon Robert Schuman, France's Minister of Foreign Affairs who is accompanying him on the tour, M. Auriol said that together they would work for a united Europe.

Gets Fishing Rod

The president also spoke in French at the Legislature where Premier Frost introduced him to members of the Ontario cabinet. Mr. Frost said this is the first time a president of France has ever visited Canada in an official capacity.

"Our association with your country is very great indeed," said Mr. Frost, speaking in English. As a result of the visit he looked forward to "even closer association with France."

M. Auriol said he was touched by the warmth of the welcome. Looking around the Chamber, he said he felt at home in such a democratic setting.

In an unscheduled move, the Lieutenant - Governor presented M. Auriol with a fishing rod—a fly caster. The president is an ardent fisherman.

At the station, the president, flanked by dignitaries and an RCMP bodyguard, walked through a thin line of people who applauded politely. He inspected a guard of honor on the street while a 21-gun artillery salute boomed in the background.

Fresh Meat Ration Increased In Britain

LONDON, April 6 (AP)—Food Minister Maurice Webb today announced an increase in the fresh meat ration, which he said was made possible by increasing quantities of domestic supplies.

As of April 15, Britons will be able to get their entire 10 pence (about 12 cents) meat ration in fresh meat. At present, each person is entitled to eight pence worth of fresh meat and two pence worth of corned beef.

Last Hamilton Street Cars Played Out By Pipers

HAMILTON, April 6. (CP) — The soulful wail of the lament played by Highland pipers will set the musical background today for the last clattering ride of Hamilton's streetcars.

When the last trams, loaded with dignitaries and veteran operators, roll over the belt line and pull into the car barns they will mark the end of a transportation era in this rapidly-growing industrial city of some 170,000 population.

The rumbling streetcars and their clanging bells will be replaced by diesel buses which will fill in until Hamilton gets its trolley buses into operation.

Streetcars have been the major means of public transportation here since Dr. Lewis Springer and John Irwin started their trolley system back in 1874.

For the first 20 years horse-drawn cars were used. In those days it wasn't unusual for the driver to stop his car and obligingly wait while a householder ran into a grocery store or butcher shop to pick up the family order.

The horse-drawn era ended in 1892 when 25 electric cars went into operation. The new-fangled cars were startling for a time to both passengers and horses.

One of the wildest episodes in Hamilton's transportation history was in 1906 when employees went on strike, demanding increased pay and union recognition.

When strike-breakers were brought in, the men pelted the cars with stones and sticks and even fired shots. Cavalry troops were ordered from Toronto and the Riot Act was read by the sheriff to clear the streets.

Today, after special ceremonies, the last two streetcars will start out on their final run from Gore Park. While the pipers play their lament, the cars will clatter along with 16 operators who have reached, or are nearing, their age of retirement and have no intention of stopping to drive the new yellow-and-red buses.

Imprisoned Prelate Urges Compromise

Stepinac Believes Yugoslavian-Vatican Differences Can Be Solved

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LEPOGLAVA, Yugoslavia, April 6 (AP)—Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac, imprisoned spiritual leader of Yugoslavia's 7,000,000 Roman Catholics, says a compromise solution of diffrences between the church and this country's Communist government could and should be worked out "in the interests of both."

The 52-year-old prelate expressed this conviction in an hour-long interview this week with the Associated Press. The reporter saw Archbishop Stepinac in his private cell, which he entered nearly 4½ years ago after conviction of wartime collaboration with the Germans. He was sentenced to 16 years.

In firm tones, he emphasized there could be no compromise with one basic point—a clearcut division between church authority over spiritual matters and state control over temporal affairs

"The Catholic church cannot be enslaved by any state," he said.

Obviously in good health, Archbishop Stepinac had just returned from his evening prayers in a tiny room adjoining his cell which has been set aside for use as his personal chapel. Earlier in the afternoon there had been a visit from his sister.

The interview dealt largely with relations between the church and state with little refrence to the tense international situation. But prison authorities quoted him as saying in private conversations that the Roman Catholics of the country should fight side-by-side with the Serbian Orthodox Church in the event war again comes to Yugoslavia.

He spends his days reading and studying the history of the Catholic church.

He reported the prison food he receives as "good," that he has no complaint generally about the treatment he receives, that he receives books from outside although they must pass through prison censorship.

"I feel well," he said.

Holy Land Truce May Snap As More Clashes

TEL AVIV, Israel, April 6. (AP) —United Nations observers feared today that continuing clashes between Israeli and Syrian forces in the border area near the Sea of Galilee might completely shatter the Jewish-Arab Holy Land truce. Israeli war planes bombed Syrian troops in the area and across the border in Syria on Thursday night killing seven Israeli policemen Wednesday. Describing the bombing as "completely successful," an official Israeli spokesman said targets included the El Hamma police station in the border zone as well as "a number of fortified positions a few metres inside Syrian territory proper," from where the Israeli policemen were fired upon and killed.

The Syrians, he said, did not return the fire.

(A Syrian Army spokesman in Damascus said the Arab forces did fire on the eight Israeli planes in the raid and possibly damaged two of them. He said there were no Syrian casualties from the bombing.)

Urgent Matter

At United Nations headquarters in New York, Abba S. Eban, permanent Israeli representative to the U.N., handed a letter to the security council drawing its attention to the border clashes as a matter of urgency.

He described the Syrian actions as "deliberate and flagrant violations of the armistice agreement" of 1948 which followed the Arab-Jewish Palestine war.

Earlier this week, Syria sent a letter to the security council charging Israel had violated the armistice by its activities in the demilitarized border zone.

Thursday nights' bombing was the climax of a series of incidents in the zone.

The 30-mile-long area was made a demilitarized zone between Syria and Israel in the cease-fire agreement of 1948. Though belonging to Israel, it is patrolled jointly by Syrian and Israeli police, serving under UN supervision.

The clashes originated with Israel's project to drain the Huleh swamps. The UN observers called the project worthy, but urged it be postponed until settlement of disputes with Syrian land owners. Israel ignored this recommendation and continued the work over Syrian objections.

U.K. Compromises On Suez Demand

LONDON, April 6 (AP). — Informed sources today said Britain has agreed to withdraw her troops from the strategic Suez Canal zone—but only during times of peace.

The proposal, reported agreed upon by the cabinet Thursday, was described as a compromise offer to Egyptian government demands for outright removal of British troops.

Sir Ralph Stevenson, Britain's ambassador to Cairo, sat in on Thursday's cabinet meeting. The foreign office said later that he would return to Cairo Saturday with Britain's reply to the Egyptian demand.

The proposed compromise is staid to provide for withdrawal of British troops from the vital link between the Mediterranean and Red Seas on condition that British installations be maintained in state of preparedness in case of a threat of war. It would provide further for the quick return of British troops to take over defence of the canal.

5 Kinds Of Wine, Ducklings Feature Auriol Banquet

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, April 6. (CP)—A beaming chef, digging deep into the mysteries of his art, Thursday put the finishing touches on the most sumptuous meal of his career — the Vincent Auriol state dinner.

"Voila, it is almost finished," said the proud Claude Boujard, a brilliant, roly-poly master of the cook book, as he took this reporter on a grand tour of the bustling French Embassy kitchen.

Milling with scurrying cooks and their assistants, the room was an epicure's delight. Fifty different kinds of French pastry were stacked in wooden shelves along the walls.

Rolls of Canadian veal were sizzling in iron ovens. To one side was a box of yellow roses and green leaves, perfectly moulded out of sugar. Outside in the embassy's backyard were fat little ducklings, covered with tiny goose livers and jellied dressing, cooling in a truck.

"Not enough refrigerator space inside," said Claude and laughed.

Touch Of France

"Every dish I prepared has the touch of France in it. I can cook dishes of any nation. I can cook a Chinese dish better than can the Chinese."

These are no empty boasts, for Claude comes from a long line of French chefs. He has served the cream of society in the best hotels in France, England, the United States and Canada.

He won't tell his age, but his hair is turning white and there are rows of wrinkles on his friendly face. He has been in the cooking business, his friends said, 32 years.

He lives in Toronto with his wife, but at home, he says:

"My wife won't let me into the kitchen."

Envoy's Choice

Claude was appointed for this special feast by the French ambassador, Hugert Guerin, who tasted his food in the King Edward Hotel and immediately fell in love with Claude's cooking. He brought six cooks from the hotel to help him prepare the feast. Topping it off is a special cream for dessert built into a circle and filled with fresh, jumbo-sized strawberries.

"Viens, I will show you the room," said Claude. The room was the embassy's second-storey dining room, site of tonight's state dinner.

The layout was princely. Gold and silver dishes, brought from France, were piled at a table to one side of the main hall. A gigantic tapestry, 600 feet square, covered one wall.

At the main table were grey leather chairs and others of wicker painted with gold. Five different kinds of crystal stemware, to take five different kinds of wine, were at each of the 66 table places. Even the wines were brought from France for the occasion.

Besides the wines, 10 different brands of cognac were brought across the Atlantic. Some were 60 and 80 years old.

Hundreds of hors d'oeuvres were prepared for a reception for 1,200 to precede the state dinner. In another room were legs of ham and thick slices of salmon for 40 invited newspapermen.

Hamilton Soldier Acquitted In Death

LEWISTON, Idaho, April 6—(AP)—Gnr. Donald Gower, 29, of Hamilton, was acquitted Thursday night by a Canadian Army court-martial in the death of Earl B. King, 50, of Clarkston, Wash.

Gower was accused of manslaughter. King died after a street fight here Dec. 26, when Gower was at Lewiston on Christmas leave, while his unit was in Yakima, Wash., in trainig. It is now at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Gower's defence counsel, Maj. D. J. Gillis, his battery commander, said in his final remarks to the court-martial that the acts which led to the fight and King's death were "excusable'. Wednesday, Gower said he had attempted to avoid fighting King and that the latter had hit him in the face as they stood in a beer tavern.

Call Armistice In British House

LONDON, April 6—(CP)—Opposition Leader Winston Churchill and Home Secretary Chuter Edo have agreed to come to terms over the House of Common's gruelling night sessions.

An exchange of letters, released Thursday night, showed the government and opposition spakesmen have agreed to talks likely to begin early next week, in an effort to avoid nightly endurance tests.

Churchill's opposition forces, held in check by a Labor majority of four, have debated incessantly over normally minor issues, hoping to catch weary Labor members napping with a snap vote which might upset the government.

Mother Shot QuebecManHeld

RIMOUSKI, Que., April 6 — (CP)—A 55-year-old man today was charged with the murder of his 85-year-old mother. He entered no plea and a mental examination was ordered before the case was adjourned to April 14.

The victim's name was given as Mrs. Cyrice Rioux and her son's as Louis-Philippe Rioux. Police said the two were the sole dwellers of a comfortably furnished home.

The shooting was discovered when two women in the village, 32 miles west of this lower St. Lawrence River centre, noticed Mrs. Rioux's son behaving "strangely" in the street.

They went to the Rioux' house. They found the elderly woman dead. Police said she had been shot twice in the head with a .32-calibre rifle.

When police arrested Rioux he resisted. Sgt. Eugene Morin and Det. P. E. Ferland reported Rioux cried out:

"Je l'ai envoye au ciel"—"I have sent her to Heaven."

Police said no motive was apparent for the shooting.

Cobourg Soldier Back From Korea

VANCOUVER, April 6 (CP)—A plane carrying eight Canadian fighting men from Korea landed here early today.

It carried six casualties, a youth under regulation fighting age and a member of the Canadian Navy on compassionate leave.

The under-age soldier is Pte. Michael Lambert of Toronto, who won't be 18 until October. He was in the front lines for a week.

PO. Charles Brown of Winnipeg, who served aboard the destroyer Athabaskan, is on leave. His father, who lives here, is seriously ill.

The other men are "walking wounded," accident casualties and victims of illness. The army listed them as:

Sgt. Harry Anaka, Vancouver; Pte. Jim Boyle, Cobourg; Pte. Richard Robinson, Toronto; Pte. Rodney Howitz, Coaticook, Que.; L. Cpl. Charles Young, Prince Edward Island; and Pte. Andy Back, Timmins, Ont.

$30,000 Fire Razes Large Resort Hotel

TROUT LAKE, Mich., April 6 (CP).—A $30,000 fire today destroyed a large resort hotel and an adjoining building and for a time threatened the rest of this upper peninsula town 50 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie. Faulty wiring was blamed for the outbreak.

State police said the blaze levelled the Ostrander Hotel and the neighboring building, both owned by Gerald Ostrander. The flames scorched many homes in this small resort and communications centre in the heart of the deer-hunting forests of northern Michigan.

Hint Reduction In Some Rents Ontario Plan

TORONTO, April 6—(CP)—A Toronto paper says today that the Ontario government may reduce rentals on some residential properties when it enters the rent-control field May 1.

In a newspage story, the paper says the province will extend the scope of present Federal regulations to cover some properties freed from controls when the Canadian government relaxed its regulations during the last few years.

On the other hand, the story forecast "a better deal" for landlords whose premises have been subject to controls since 1941 when the province takes over.

Travel Minister Cecile, appointed chairman of Ontario's newly-formed Rent Control Board Thursday, said it will be at least a week before the board holds its first meeting.

But Attorney-General Porter said today that "exorbitant rents" charged by some landlords will receive serious attention from the government and the Legislature's select committee on rental regulations and that "action will be forthcoming shortly."

Leading Sailor Gets Shore Job

OTTAWA, April 6 (CP). — Capt. Jeffry V. Brock, DSC, Canada's top sailor in Korean waters for eight months, comes home Saturday with his ship Cayuga with a shore job ahead of him.

The Navy announced today that the 37-year-old Winnipeg and Vancouver officer "will come ashore to take up the appointment of naval member of the directing staff at the National Defence College in Kingston," starting Aug. 1.

The destroyer Cayuga is due back at Esquimalt, B. C., Friday. She was one of three destroyers which left there last July to join the U.N. forces in Korea. Capt. Brock was in command of the three-ship flotilla and more than once had ships of other navies under his wing as well.

On May 25, he will turn over command of Cayuga to Cmdr. James Plomer, DSC and Bar, of Winnipeg and Saint John, N. B. Cmdr. Plomer will also become commander of the Canadian destroyer division on the Pacific coast.

MacArthur Sets Off More Fireworks

Washington Red-faced as General Puts His Foot In It Again

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP). —Gen. MacArthur has proved again that he is one of the Truman administration's hottest potatoes.

His latest challenge of administration policy and Washington authority was burning fingers today at the White House, the State Department and the Pentagon, military headquarters.

MacArthur's letter to a Republican leader, Representative Joe Martin of Massachusetts, warmly endorsing Martin's demand that the thousands of Chinese Nationalist troops on Formosa under command of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek be used in action against the Chinese and Korean Communists, had potentialities in at least three fields:

1. Domestic politics.
2. International politics, including the United Nations program in the Far East.
3. Military strategy.

On The Spot

While MacArthur's letter promptly raised speculation about disciplinary action against the General, there was serious question whether the White House would risk a bitter fight in Congress by removing him from command or promoting him out of it.

After reading MacArthur's letter to the House Thursday, Martin made it evident that here was the material for an issue. He said:

"I think it is high time that the administration and the Pentagon came clean with the Congress and the American people."

The State Department, which has been openly unhappy on previous occasions over MacArthur's frank and free discussions of diplomatic affairs, obviously was chagrined again. The General's latest writings had come to light at a time when American diplomats were trying to quiet the worry of allies over Chinese reaction to a new push into North Korea. Nor could they fail to note MacArthur's comment that "here we fight Europe's war with arms, while the diplomats there still fight it with words."

The military high command winced at this new pronouncement from the Tokyo command.

Britain-U.S. Said Split Over Korea

Truman Decides To Abandon Policy Statement

WASHINGTON, April 6. — (AP)—Britain and the United States are reported to have split sharply over a proposed statement of Korean war aims and peace hopes. It was to have been issued here by President Truman.

While responsible informants here today said the way is still open for talks to continue, the project has been virtually abandoned as far as a statement by Truman is concerned.

What now appears more likely is an early Washington speech by State Secretary Dean Acheson defining the political problems and purposes of the Korean conflict.

The difference between Washington and London is said to have come over how far to go in trying to induce the Chinese Communists to open peace talks now.

Would Try Again

Britain is said to favor an appeal for Chinese participation in peace talks, while the U.S. has insisted that many doors are already open to the Chinese and that the UN countries would not really advance by showing what Washington considers to be political weakness.

The whole affair, reflecting the considerable difference of attitude between London and Washington on Far Eastern policy, is involved with the widening rift between Gen. MacArthur and Washington over the conduct and broad political strategy of the Korean war.

Several weeks ago as United Nations forces began approaching the 38th parallel, political representatives of the 14 countries whose troops are fighting in Korea began debating the wisdom of crossing or not crossing the parallel.

Had Compromise

The U.S. and Britain, after some hotly-discussed differences (Britain originally opposing any crossing of the parallel) had a compromise political - military agreement. It was to the effect that MacArthur's troops could cross the line for tactical reasons but not for the broad strategic purpose of trying to reconquer all North Korea.

About the time the policy discussions were coming to a climax it was suggested in the 14-country council that a public statement would be desirable for two main reasons: First, to try to use the fact that the war had returned to the North-South dividing line in Korea as a device for nudging Chinese Communists into peace talks; second, to inform people all over the world of the aims and desires for peace of the United Nations coalition.

Better Furniture For Mayor

Furniture for the new city hall was decided upon Thursday when the city council committee of the whole adopted almost intact a report by city advisor Roland Winter and city clerk E. A. Outram.

The committee made two exceptions to its agreement with the choice made by Mr. Winter and Mr. Outram. The councillors want better quality furniture for the mayor's office and the mayor's reception room.

The council will call for new tenders for this equipment and are notifying local suppliers they want much superior furnishings.

Architects F. Marani and M. Allan, who attended the meeting, reported that they had inspected the work being done on the city hall and were very pleased with the progress that is made.

The council learned that the Utilities Commission have approved of a plan to add lights to the poles now situated in front of the new building. The lights will throw a soft light on the building so that it will shine out of the darkness. The clock tower will be illuminated from the inside of the building.

U.S. Army Buys Meat Behind Iron Curtain

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 6—(AP)—The American Army has been buying meat from behind the Iron Curtain and paying dollars for it, German wholesalers disclosed today.

They said they have imported beef from Hungary for United States occupation personnel in Germany and have been promised help by American officials in obtaining pigs from Poland.

There is no embargo on non-strategic trade with Russian-dominated Eastern Europe. The U.S. State Department, however, tries to discourage the flow of dollars to Iron Curtain countries, which use them to obtain scarce war materials on the world market.

Asked to comment on the shipment of livestock from Hungary, American officers at Heidelberg said:

"This headquarters has no knowledge of transactions of this nature."

U.S. Senators Deal Truman Stinging Slap

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP) The United States Senate closed out its debate over troops for Europe with a defence of Congressional powers that amounted to a stinging slap for President Truman.

For most of the Republic's 150 years, Congress and the President have been disputing their respective prerogatives — frequently over the same argument as to how much power the President has to deploy troops.

While Truman got approval of his decision to assign six American divisions to the North Atlantic defence forces, it was accompanied by a rebuke of his claim that he has the right to station troops as he sees fit.

Make Amendment

This came in an amendment by Senator John L. McClellan (Dem. Ark.) calling for Congressional approval of any U.S. contributions beyond the two divisions already assigned to Gen. Eisenhower's command in Europe and the four to be sent from the United States.

The Senate's decision was in the form of an advisory opinion which has no force in law.

Technically, then, the President could ignore it completely. Morally he may feel bound to make more than a mere gesture to Congress.

Short of a Russian attack, which would bring the North Atlantic treaty's mutual assistance provisions into action and free all restrictions on the movement of U.S. troops, the best bet is that Truman won't ignore Congress on any decision to send additional ground forces.

About 200 persons are temporarily homeless as a result of the creek flood. RCMP patrolled the area in a boat to prevent looting.

European Airmen Like Canada's Flying

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I., April 6 (CP)—Pilots who flew against the Allies in the Second World War are sold on Canada's flying ways.

Here at Canada's crack navigational training school you can find airmen of half a dozen nationalities. They all agree that navigation and flying, as taught under the North Atlantic training organization plan, is "the best in the world, even better than home."

A month from today the first group of navigators to graduate under the plan in North America will leave for their respective countries. It is made up of Belgians, Norwegians and Italians. They will instruct in their own air forces.

Their graduation will mark the end of a 30-week course of study and training. A second class, composed of French fliers, is presently in the advanced stages of navigational training.

Mounties Investigate Jet Crash

Plan To Continue Production Of Secret Aircraft

KOMOKA, Ont., April 6. — (CP)—Mounties today investigated the crash of a CF-100 Avro Canuck jet plane which exploded during a test flight Thursday, killing its pilot and an engineering observer.

An official of A. V. Roe, which manufactures what it describes as "the most powerful fighter in the world," said the company is working with the RCMP in the investigation.

The twin-jet, all-weather long-range fighter turned out for the RCAF crashed into a swamp about 11 miles west of London, Ont., carrying to death Flt.-Lt. Bruce Warren, 29, of New Toronto, the pilot, and Robert Ostrander of Brampton, the observer.

Flt.-Lt. Warren, native of Nanton, Alta., married and the father of two children, had been with Avro since last July when the air force released him on a two-year loan.

Care For Families

A spokesman for Avro said the families of the two men killed in the crash would be provided for. All flying personnel on test flights of this kind were "heavily" insured, he said.

The spokesman also expressed doubt that the crash would hold up production of the CF-100 Canucks. The plane had sufficient tests to warrant confidence despite the crash.

The plane that exploded was the second experimental model produced. It had been flying since last July 15 and had travelled 638 miles an hour on a flight from Toronto to Montreal. Its designers said it could go faster than that, although its maximum speed is an air force secret.

The plane took off from Malton airport, 18 miles northwest of Toronto, at 11 a.m. for an endurance test flight. It was due back three hours later. About 130 miles west it began to gush black smoke, then plunged almost straight down into the swamp. An explosion rocked the countryside for miles around and left a deep crater.

Frank D. Clancy, 40, Canoe Salesman Dies

One of the best-known and most-liked employees of the Peterborough Canoe Company, Frank D. Clancy, of 89 Bennett St., died suddenly at his home on Thursday at noon hour.

He had served his company for more than 25 years, for many of them as chief stock keeper and latterly as sales manager. He was 40 years of age and had had a heart condition about a year ago but came back to work in the late fall and has recently been normally employed.

Mr. Clancy was born in Hastings, son of Michael Clancy and the late Mary Shaughnessy, and has lived in Peterborough for more than 25 years.

Besides his father he leaves his wife, the former Kathleen Powers, one daughter Jean Marie, 2½ years, and a son, Karl, 1½ years of age. There is one sister, Mrs. Leo Whibbs (Agnes) of Douro and two brothers in the city, Harry and Charles Clancy. He was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Funeral will be held from the residence on Saturday morning at 8:40 a.m. to St. Peter's Cathedral where requiem mass will be said at 9 a.m. Burial will be at St. Peter's cemetery.

Can Make Bomb

CAIRO, April 6 (Reuters). — Prof. Harold Urey, prominent United States atomic scientist now visiting Egypt, said Thursday he believes Britain has the capacity to produce an atomic bomb. He had no doubt that Russia possessed an atomic bomb and he was afraid of an attack with atom bombs on American harbors by foreign ships before war was declared, he said.

Strike Of Growers May Cause Shortage

CHATHAM, April 6—(CP)—A strike of 5,000 vegetable growers in Southwestern Ontario continued Thursday and as a result, the province may have a shortage of late tomatoes.

The farmers in Essex and Kent counties refuse to sign contracts with canners on the basis of arbitration board prices.

Growers and processors have been dickering for about three weeks since the arbitration board set a minimum price of $27 a ton for ungraded tomatpes, $3 below the amount sought by the growers.

Even if the two get together soon, it will be too late to sow enough to meet the bumper demand, growers said.

There is virtually no surplus left from last year in processed tomatoes. Less than five per cent of the growers have signed contracts and many who have signed are returning them.

The Cost-of-Living Index

Ten years ago few people had heard of a thing called the Cost-of-Living Index. It was a plaything of government economists. Now it is a household word and worry, and in some businesses and industries, wage rates are linked by contract with the rise and fall of the index. Yesterday a new peak was announced by Ottawa: 179.7. That was the index for February, and it had risen in the biggest hop yet by 4.5 above January's rating. The index ten years ago was 111.7. Fifteen years ago, in 1936, it was 93.1, almost two below the average cost-of-living in the years 1935-39. Now the cost is 79.7 higher than the average for the last five pre-war years.

* * *

The Ottawa figures are statistical confirmation of what wage-earners and housewives knew when they bought February's food, clothes and fuel. Prices are soaring and inflation is rampaging. Never before has there been such a big jump in the index. In the autumn of 1947, when the September index was made public, it seemed that the sky was falling because the index had risen in the one month by 2.8 points to a shudderingly high peak of 139.4. Now from our undesired new eminence of 179.7 we can look back on September 1947's figure as a comfortable plateau.

* * *

We make no claim to special insight into such matters, but we did warn in these columns last December that the index of wholesale prices pointed to severely higher retail prices later. On January 25th we noted that the pressure of capital expansion, re-arming Canada and allies, and the unprecedented demand for goods would bring about a crisis, perhaps as early as March when "extraordinary effort and regulations" would be required to save the economy from debilitating inflation. March has passed. Incidentally, the cost-of-living index for March has not been compiled yet; it may have as grave news as February's index. The crisis is at hand. There have been no extraordinary efforts and regulations to meet it adequately. The Government can no longer hum and haw. What are we paying an army of economic experts at Ottawa for if they cannot make up their minds how best to advise the Cabinet to deal with the situation? Surely they do not admit that the economic basis of Canada is unsound? Or have they given firm advice on which the Government has balked? We look anxiously for the budget terms next Tuesday, and for strong parliamentary action on the problems.

The Menace Of The Indirect Sales Tax

Last autumn the Federal Government did a dicker with the Provinces. It was a bare-faced bribe. In effect it amounted to this: if the Provinces would agree to give Ottawa jurisdiction over certain labour and social matters so that Ottawa could legislate on these for the whole country, Ottawa would, through an amendment to the B.N.A. Act, give the provinces the right to levy an indirect sales tax. This deal is in the process of being put into legislative terms.

If it is carried out it will be a national scandal, for two outstanding reasons. An indirect sales tax, being indirect, is a menace, and it provides for double taxation. Secondly, Ottawa in offering to give this taxation right to the provinces is renouncing the responsibility placed in the Federal Government by the British North America Act.

Premier Frost has said that if the provinces do get the right to impose the sales tax, Ontario will not use it. That is not as reassuring as it sounds. The Ontario Government may not use the right this year or next, but, as sure as doom, some Ontario government will, and it would not wait a decade to do it. No government can resist using a hidden tax which is as easy to administer and collect as a turnover three per cent. tax on retail sales.

If the tax goes on it would have to be paid by the retailer as a net levy on his turnover. The result would be that across the board the increased cost to the consumer might average four or four-and-a-half per cent. This would increase the cost of goods by four per cent. or more, and raise the general cost-of-living.

The provinces are as much to blame in asking for this taxing right as the Federal Government is in offering it. If Premier Frost does not intend to use it, why does he ask for it?

We feel that the Ottawa Government is guilty of abandoning its duty to the whole people of Canada in even considering such a constitutional barter as this is. The tax would in effect be a double one, imposed by the provinces on top of Federal sales and excise taxes. A country which allows overlapping taxes, one mounting on the other, is not a happy or secure one. Further, the permitting of an indirect provincial sales tax in ten of the provinces variously levied on a variety of goods and produce creates ten customs borders within one country and sets one province at the throats of another. It is divisive, not cohesive.

It is Ottawa's responsibility to try to legislate to weld Canada together into one nation, not to cut it apart into ten principalities. Therein is the most lasting, destructive implication of the proposed three per cent. turnover tax, to be levied indirectly on retail sales. We have opposed the tax deal repeatedly in these columns since it was first bruited. The matter is so important to the welfare of the country that we make no excuse for hammering at it again.

Drunken Driving In Sweden

The Vancouver Sun remarks that Swedish drivers who drink do not drive. They have not adopted this sensible habit because of pious appeals to their good sense through the slogan which hits Canada before every festive season: "If You Drink, Don't Drive." Swedish drivers have been forced into it because their police have an inexorable scientific test, the authority to apply it and the law to convict on the basis of the test.

If a Swedish police officer suspects that a driver has had more liquor than is safe for streets or roads, he is taken to the police station for a blood test. If it shows more than .15 per cent. alcohol the driver automatically goes to jail for 30 days.

In the ten years since the test has been made law, Swedish drivers have become so conditioned to the rigidity of the routine that they leave their cars at home if they are setting out for a cocktail party or a pub. The Sun remarks that drunken driving is now so rare in Sweden that the police have time to inspect drivers leaving places where they are likely to have been drinking.

The Swedish system has proved effective, and there is no public outcry that it has unfairly restricted personal freedom or been an unbearable imposition. Why should the Federal Government not enact similar legislation? It is charged with legislating for the social welfare of the country.

The Examiner has discussed this Swedish regulation—there is a similar one in Norway—several times in the last two years, and urged its adoption in Canada. It is a rough and ready method, but it works. It is better to be rough with drunken drivers than continually menaced by them, as Canadians are now.

All Should Be Interested In Commission Report

Since the Royal Commission on Arts and Science was established in 1949—the Commission headed by the Right Honourable Vincent Massey—it has heard briefs from one end of the country to the other, and made a detailed as well as general study of the condition of letters and science in the Dominion. Its hearing have been concluded and the Report is being finished to present to Parliament this month.

The tabling of the Report and its recommendations should be of lively interest to all Canadians. Never before in Canada's history has such a thorough examination been made of literary, artistic and scientific Canadian matters. The ability of Mr. Massey gives the survey special value. The assessment the report will provide, and the recommendations it will make should have a profound influence.

Canada has advanced materially almost beyond recognition in the last two decades. But material progress is itself neither a sure nor a valid proof of health and quality of a people. How has the advance been in mind and culture? What direction is it taking? What are the goals and how are they to be attained? These are questions which the Massey Commission has considered and will report on this month, it is expected.

Victoria Park Fountain

The base for the refurbished fountain in Victoria Park was laid last autumn, after a whole summer of removing the old and preparing for the new. The figure which is to surmount the fountain—a boy fishing—has been modelled and is ready for casting, but, as far as we know, it has not been cast. Until it is the fountain will not be erected. It is now spring. The parks will soon be put into shape. Must we wait until mid-summer, or even another year before the fountain is set up and put into working order? Incidentally, we again repeat the suggestion made on this page a long while ago, that, in some way the name of the late Fred. M. De la Fosse, city librarian for many years, be coupled with it. It is situated across from his home and it was he who constantly urged that the Victoria Park Fountain be made a real fountain again.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR ALPHA: One doesn't have to be a "Higgins" to notice the following pronunciations in this area: Warsuh, Cal'ford, Nor'ood, West'd, Bo'ville, Peeboro. Why?

ANSWER: People, being lazy and slovenly, continually make things easier for their mouths. This is a prime reason for the changes in English pronunciation which spelling and schoolmasters catch up with only after several centuries. For instance: Worcester, pronounced Wu'hster, extraordinary pronounced extrordnary.

This generation, equipped with dictionaries, schools, and punctilious teachers, still evades careful enunciation. It is chiefly due to slovenliness ('Tranta' for Toronto), but partly to inverted snobbishness. Some people seem to think that it is arty, effete and weak-kneed to say their words with care.... They feel that they are letting the he-man, democratic side down if their phrases show some attention to grammar, intonation and pronunciation. Almost everybody in Peterborough and the rest of Ontario drinks "wadrr".

The majority of Peterborough and Ontario people speak poorly and are a pain in the ear. Do they never hear themselves, never listen to the effect of their own voices? Yet these same people will take great care with their dress. They want to look well in other people's eyes, but do not seem to care if they sound well in other people's ears.

The flat vowels, and the hard, unrolled r's in local speech seem to be very Irish. Actually, as my ear tells me, the accent and pronunciation of Ontario are more Irish than English or Scotch.

It could be argued that sloppy pronunciation indicates sloppy thinking. Have you ever heard poor enunciation from a workman or college professor who thinks clearly and knows what he wants to say?

On the way up from Port Hope the other day I gave a ride to a decently-attired hitchhiker, aged about 30, I guess. He was not riff-raff. He had been stranded in Port Hope.

I never saw the man in full light nor did he me. I asked him what he did; he asked me what I did. I said I raised budgies and occasionally wrote things for the Examiner. He said: "Oh, I thought you were a school-teacher". Why? Because I spoke more clearly than other people he knew. It has come to a bad state of affairs when a responsible citizen who has been through our schools believes that the only persons who speak clearly are school-teachers. For one reason, some teachers I know, even though they may enunciate distinctly, have horrible intonations—nasal, hard and saw-edged—and their voices are without harmonious cadence.

LOCAL RHYMES: Two books of Peterborough verse have been under my eye for several weeks. The one was published in 1887 by J. R. Stratton (the Hon. J.R.) "Printer and Book-Binder, Examiner Office". The other, a brochure, paper-covered, was printed in 1946 by the Baker printing company.

The booklet of twenty-three pages is called "Songs for Sighs," by Rosa Bateman McGee, 218 Rubidge Street. I like seeing such bits of ephemeral print. So few people, the products of compulsory literacy, manage to set one written word against another, that it is delightful to know that Rosa Bateman McGee of 218 Rubidge Street (a name only to me) has not only done this but also had the words printed, presumably at her own expense. The introductory eight lines indicate her purpose, her prosody and her poetic achievement:

"Tho' we may never rise to heights
Of power, wealth or fame
We each can love and strive to serve
The sick, the blind, the lame.
And tho' we never hope to write
A song the world will sing,
We surely can a little cheer
Or gift of gladness bring."

✦ ✦ ✦

THE OTHER BOOK of local verse is a hackney of another shape. This fellow aimed at big things. His green-covered bound book of 1887 has 152 pages of double columns of verse on every conceivable subject, on every occasion, together with an APPENDIX of four pages containing a letter received by the Author from Mr. Robert H. Thomson of Chicago. Mr. Robert Thomson was, 'tis said, a Scotsman by birth "but had been a resident of Chicago over forty years, and was for many years connected with the largest hardware business in the city. He took a lively interest in Canada. His brother, William G. Thomson, was for many years a member of the House of Commons of Canada. He died about two years ago, while holding the seat, I think, of Welland," says William Telford.

William Telford was the poetaster, the author of this collection. R. H. Thomson of Chicago was his admirer "who spared neither pains nor expense" to have "many" copies of the poems printed and distributed all over the world, it would seem. William Telford of Smith, "Bard of Peterborough's St. Andrew's Society" was born in Berwickshire, Scotland in January 1828 and died in Smith township in April, 1895. He came to Canada in 1850 and at the time of his death owned a farm on the Communications Road. He married Miss Hannah Nicholson and had three sons and three daughters: John, Robert and William of Smith, Mrs. John Logan of Peterborough, Mrs. William Nicholls of Bridgenorth and Mrs. John Grant of Smith. A brother, Thomas Telford, lived in Peterborough.

The obituary notice of the time states that "He was of reserved character, and did not aspire to any public position." Needless to say of the "Bard of Peterborough's St. Andrew's Society," William Telford was a Presbyterian. He was buried in Little Lake Cemetery and the Rev. A. McWilliams of St. Andrew's Church conducted the funeral services. Pall-bearers were Messrs. John Fowler, Charles Cameron, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Caldwell, William Menzies and Alex Gibson.

✦ ✦ ✦

I HAVE TAKEN up so much space saying things about Mr. Telford that I have little left to comment on his verse. Perhaps Mr. Brumwell (who has lent me his copy) will let me keep it by me for another few weeks. Mr. Telford aspires to the muse in a modest way, even though his one collection (including many verses previously published in the local papers) is quite hefty.

"I never stood in high school class or college,
God, books and nature, true sources of my knowledge.
If high your learning, kindly condescend—
Some pity show, to your less learned friend . . .
Education seldom is obtained by stealth;
Learning requires no small amount of wealth;
My humble parents wished, and nobly tried,
To give to me what poverty denied."

There is no poetry in the book, as far as I have been able to discern. There is pleasant, affable versifying and a facility in rhyming. Its significance is this: that here was a farmer with little formal education, and busy with his farm work, who won for himself many friends and found time and had the literacy to write rhymes for the enjoyment of those friends in an Ontario era when few other farmers or townsfolk were articulate.

The biographical sketch which introduces the book, "contributed by an admirer" ends: "He has followed bucolic pursuits with marked success, amassing a comfortable competence, besides settling his sons on excellent farms, and the following pages show that he has also met with liberal success in his poetic pursuits."

✦ ✦ ✦

FOR THE RECORD: I noticed the following placard advertisement in a show-case at a downtown cigar store:

Have Your Baby's OWN Shoes
ETERNALIZED
in Gleaming Bronze, Sterling Silver or 22 Kt. Gold
Mounted on Cherry Base, Book Ends,
Picture Frames, Ash Trays

There may be other ways to mount the eternalized shoes, but the bottom of the card was obscured by three snap-shots: a baby; next, Eternalized baby shoes on book-ends, and next, shoes, simple silver. In front of these snapshots was an actual eternalized pair in Gleaming Bronze. They were real shoes, too, for the leather showed inside. Really, I'd not be fussy about having my baby's shoes done up eternally (I wonder if they would withstand the atom bomb?). If Canada had any invaders, the bronze, silver or 22 carat gold ash-tray shoe might be tempting loot and also tempt them to look for baby, presumably in the hope of finding her to be a teen-ager then. Of course, I could fool them and produce my wife.

The merchants of eternalizing are missing a good thing. If they could give my shoes the everlasting treatment (my feet have stopped growing) I would be eternally grateful for so practical a money-saver, though the shoe repairers and stores would not.

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR

Letters To The Editor

CHILD PUT OFF BUS

Sir: The letter signed "Passenger on a Bus" is like something I also witnessed on a Peterborough bus. A child deposited five cents, and was told she should add another five cents which she did not have. This was a cold day in winter. After many loud words, and abuse, she was put off the bus, minus her five cents, and told she could get her money by going to company office.

I suppose the theatre should also charge admission by the height of the child. It would be just the same attitude as the bus company arrives at if they did.

Does the bus company ever think of the large number of children who are forced to stand up because adults push them around?

Lastly, any adult can confuse and upset a child, but grown men who use that on children should have other jobs besides driving a bus.

"ANOTHER PASSENGER ON BUS".

ONE GOOD, WINNING TEAM

Sir: I would like very much to hear your comments relative to the merits of having two senior "B" hockey clubs in Peterborough.

From the comments I hear passed by dozens of fans in the city, I think that people are somewhat fed up with the idea of two clubs in the city and would be more than willing to support one good winning team.

Last year's Legion team which went right through to the finals against Brantford and then were eliminated in seven games, could certainly have won the championship had they possessed a bit more player strength. This year's Petes club which went down to defeat at the hands of Owen Sound in four straight games, could have made a much better showing had they been a bit stronger.

The answer is quite apparent, and that is one good senior club. Besides that, one club would have the united backing of all hockey fans in the city instead of support being sharply divided as it is now. Not only that but from the rivalry which exists between our two clubs comes bitterness and ill feeling—not so much perhaps from the players but from friends and spectators.

Then, and very important too, there is the financial aspect of the situation. I understand hockey has been a losing venture with both clubs for the past several years. This is unnecessary and instead of losing money, one good senior club should be made to operate at a substantial profit and with proper handling could certainly do so.

You also hear the argument advanced that if there were only one club—too many good senior "B" players would be unable to play hockey here. Well, if the Owen Sound-Petes series was any criterion—a combination of both the Petes and Eagles players would still have to be augmented with about four imports to ice one top notch senior "B" club to represent Peterborough.

It's most discouraging for the fans to see the clubs battle all year and then get knocked out early in the playoffs. Also, the fans pack the rink to see the Petes and Eagles play and then stay away in droves the rest of the time. I can't see how this can be regarded as a healthy situation. All over this league, as well as from Owen Sound fans, you could hear the same questions—"When are those Peterborough clubs going to get together and produce one good club?" As I see, it our situation here gets more ridiculous every year. Why not let's go all out for one good senior hockey club in Peterborough?

HOCKEY LOVERS.

MUCH TO OUR CREDIT

Sir: I am replying to the question asked on the editorial page of March 26th issue, namely; "Does Anybody Read the Bible Message?" I for one do, in fact it is nearly always the first item on that particular page that I do read. You mention, "that most newspapers have dropped their Bible Corner; we have not done so."

It is very much to your credit that you have not and I along with many, many more hope to see it in its usual place. And again you say, "For if nobody reads it we can use the space for more popular matter."

I would like to think that it is a minority not the majority or yourself that thinks that that space could be filled by anything more popular than the Bible Message.

Yours truly,

H. JUDE

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then was Jesus led up to the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungred.

And when the tempter came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stone be made bread. But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God....

Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sneweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; and saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me.

Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Then the devil leaveth him, and behold, angels came and ministered unto him. (Matt. 4: 1-4, 8-11.)

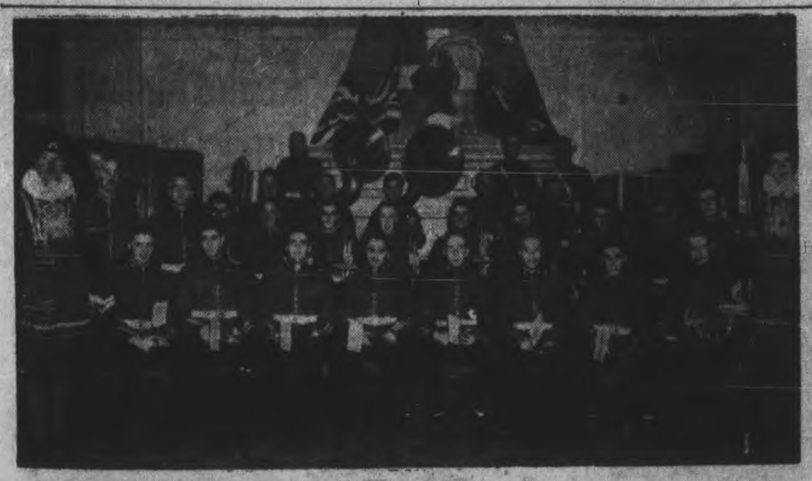
✦ ✦ ✦

That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ....

This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all. (I John 1: 3, 5.)

Grand Banks Fishing

(St. John's News)



Prolific (in fish) the Grand Banks may be but they are not inexhaustible. Nor is it the case that their exploitation is systematic and fully cognizant of the importance of conservation.

Certain types of foreign trawlers have been accused of doing almost irreparable harm to the fishing grounds. The use of small mesh by all trawlers and draggers has meant that often millions of pounds of small fish have not been thrown back into the sea.

It is clear that international agreement about the fishing of the Grand Banks cannot come too soon and Canada, with the greatest stake of all in the preservation of these great fishing grounds, must take a much more aggressive part in bringing about a satisfactory arrangement for their proper conservation.

U.S. Puts New Price On Wool

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—The United States government Thursday issued a new price regulation for wool yarns and fabrics, and officials predicted it would bring higher prices for wool garments next fall.

The order, issued by the office of price stabilization, directs manufacturers to establish new ceiling prices based on their pre-Korean selling prices from March 24-June 24, 1950. To these prices they will add increased material and labor cost between the outbreak of the Korean war and Dec. 31, 1950.

Wool prices have been frozen under the general ceiling price regulation of Jan. 26. The new price order is effective Monday.

The youth was arrested a few hours after Miss Viola Hansen of Cambridge Mass., was robbed of $10 in U.S. currency.

Patronage Dividend On Wool 5c

TORONTO, April 6—(CP)— A patronage dividend of five cents a pound on wool handled for growers was approved Thursday by delegates to the annual meeting of Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Ltd.

This will mean distribution to patrons and shipping associations of $150,000 in addition to returns made at the close of the 1950 selling season.

The Co-Op said the dividend was made possible by advancing prices for wool in the last half of 1950, as well as from profit from other operations. The Co-Op handled and graded more than 70 per cent of Canada's shorn-wool clip.

Vehicle Shipments Reach High Figure

OTTAWA, April 6— CP)—Factory shipments of Canadian-made motor vehicles in February reached 40,592 units—third highest monthly figure on record.

The latest figure, the bureau of statistics reported, compared with 30,137 a year ago; 41,383 in June, 1950 and the all-time peak of 41,901 units in April, 1929.

Passenger cars for sale in Canada totalled 27,466 as against 21,006 and commercial vehicles numbered 10,393 compared with 6,977. Passenger cars made for export totalled 1,775 against 1,453, and commercial vehicles 958 against 701.

Hornets Whip Hershey 5-1

PITTSBURGH, April 6 (CP)—Pittsburgh's stinging Hornets Thursday night moved into the final American Hockey League Calder Cup playoffs, defeating Hershey 5-1 in a best-of-five series.

It was Pittsburgh's sixth straight playoff win and the third in a row over Hershey.

Pittsburgh now meets Cleveland Barons in a best-of-seven series for the AHL championship. The first game is scheduled in Cleveland Saturday.

Eddie Kobussen gave the Hornets the first goal in the initial period. Four minutes later Hershey tied it up on an angle shot by Joe Schertzl.

Chuck Blair put the Hornets back in front in the second, and goals by Ray Hannigan, Andy Barbe and Frank McCormack finished Hershey off.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

When the key is turned in the front door of the curling rink tomorrow night, curling as far as our club is concerned is over for this season. That is just a reminder to the boys and girls to remove their sweaters, tams and shoes from the club for another year.

Correction: The draws for tonight's bonspiel are set for 6:30 and 8:00 o'clock. Please note the time.

Tomorrow's program:

Men's bonspiel at 2:00 p.m.

In the evening the centre ices are being reserved for skating—for curlers and their families — the outside ices to be used for curling.

Five mixed rinks from Keene and two mixed rinks from Lakefield paid the club a visit last evening and enjoyed a friendly game. They were entertained to lunch in the club's parlor after the game. We don't know who won, and we have no score records; but that made no difference—they were all enjoying themselves.

Robinson Pounds Out 10-Round Decision

MIAMI, Fla., April 6—(AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson pounded out a 10-round unanimous decision over tough and aggressive Holly Mims of Washington, D.C., Thursday night in his first fight since winning the middleweght championship.

The 23-year-old Mims, who had to drink several glasses of water at the weighing-in ceremonies to come in over the 160-pound limit, opened an old cut over Robinson's eye in the first round and surprised the champion several times by coming out of a crouch and scoring with lefts and rights to the jaw.

Ray scored his only knockdown in the second round with a right and left to the head but Mims was not seriously damaged. Mims was the aggressor all the way.

Robinson weighed 159½ and Mims 160½.

3-Goal Spurt Gives Flyers 4-2 Victory Over Marlies

BARRIE, April 6 (CP)—A three-goal spurt in the third period Thursday night gave Barrie Flyers a 4-2 victory over Toronto Marlboros and a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven games Ontario Hockey Association final.

Next game of the series is slated for Toronto Saturday.

It was bad man Leo Labine who scored the winning Flyers' goal. Before that he spent a good deal of time in the penalty box, on a major for cross-checking Eric Nesterenko in the first period and two minors in the second.

Real Chevrefils led off for Barrie less than four minutes after the game got going, but Ron Hurst tied the score before the first period ended. Neither team got a shot home during the second.

Not Dull

The middle period was not dull, however. Labine's rough attack on Nesterenko caused five stitches and almost instigated a repeat performance of the knock-down and drag-out affair in Toronto a month ago.

Marlboro coach Bob Davidson got himself chased off the bench for rushing onto the ice to keep his players out of trouble during the melee.

Bill Hagan and Jack McKnight scored close on Labine's heels once Flyers broke ahead in the third period. By the time Danny Poland got to scoring the second Marlboro's goal, there was less than two minutes to go in the game.

The first Marlies' goal came out of a rather weird pile-up in front of the Barrie goal. Hurst and Earl Balfour brought the puck down the ice, but it was the prostrated Flyer goalie, Lorne Howes, after two vain stabs, who finally poked the puck in.

It was a rough, sometimes wild game. The penalty box never got lonely. Barrie had a slight edge in territorial play, but both teams looked a shade weary.

Say Australia May Give Up Olympic Games

MELBOURNE, April 6 (AP) — Australia, which won out in spirited bidding with other countries for the 1956 Olympic games, may give up the great international sports carnival.

The Sydney Morning Herald's Melbourne correspondent wrote Thursday that a closed conference of political leaders has been called for next Tuesday at which time a decision is expected.

The story said that State Labor Leader John Cain "will tell the conference he has very grave misgivings about the desirability of proceeding with the games."

Victoria's premier, John G. B. McDonald, is known to hold the view that the entire situation should be reviewed and Thomas T. Holloway, leader of the opposition, has expressed similar sentiments.

If the Australians decide to reject the games, a decision on a new site undoubtedly will be made at the meeting of the International Olympic Committee scheduled for late May in Vienna.

Thinks Senators Stronger Team

By JACK HAND

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 6 —(AP)—Manager Bucky Harris rates his Washington Senators a better fifth-place club than last year. That just about tells the story.

Harris, of course, aims toward the distant first division. Everybody does in the spring. But he is realistic about a 25-game gap between fourth and fifth last season. Only a complete collapse up front could ease Washington into the select four.

"We're going to have better balance," said Harris. "Irv Noren, Gil Coan and Eddie Yost all should improve. And Mike McCormick will be a big help.

"I think the race is among New York, Boston and Cleveland. A few breaks and any one of the three could win it. I think we'll win more games than last year. We have a real good spirit."

Catching is the Senators' weakest department. Unless Clark Griffith makes a deal before opening day, the club will go into the season without a proven first-line receiver. Mickey Grasso (.287), a fine rookie last season, is the nearest approach.

The infield should be stronger than last season with first-baseman Mickey Vernon (.281) and second-baseman Cass Miachaels (.266) available from the start. Bucky didn't get Vernon from Cleveland until June 14 and Michaels from Chicago until May 30.

Marg Behan Leads

Marg Behan led the ladies of the Mercantile Bowling League this week in singles as her triple of 709 also was high. All wins were 3-1 affairs, for Braund's No. 2 over A. & P., Bond's over Lift Lock, Loblaw's against Utilities, Austin's over Braund's No. 1, and City Hall over Prudential.

PCVS midgets are in a four-team OABA midget tournament here tomorrow. It goes in the afternoon and evening at the Collegiate gym. Toronto Adam Becks play the local cagers at three in the aft, and the other semi-final has St. Kitts in against St. Mary's of Western Ontario at 4.30. The finalists then tangle at eight for the title. Perhaps a consolation between the also-rans at seven p.m. These are district winners in this tourney from the various sections of Ontario, and some keen basketball ought to be seen ere the season is wrapped up. Still a junior girls' city series to be run off before the hoops are hidden till next Fall.

Kitchener item reads: "A Sacramento baseball player is being charged with 'so negligently manipulating his bat as to create what is known as a foul ball' in a $15,000 damage suit filed by a San Francisco fan. The plaintiff, naming San Francisco and Sacramento clubs as defendants, asks damages because he was struck on the head by a foul tip on April 4 last year. He claims concussion, shock, bruises and lasting headaches resulted. He also charges that the 'Frisco team 'negligently failed 'to cover the grandstand.' If he collects on that one you'll undoubtedly see a rush of patronage for the open bleachers, and a scramble every time a foul comes over, with people trying to get their noggins in the way."

* * * * * *

At Their Own Risk

As a foul ball is unintentional and uncontrollable, we say fans view games at their own risk where fouls are concerned. But apart from a flying hockey puck—which usually cuts—we know of no other missile used in sports which can hurt like a baseball hit or thrown hard. It has been known to kill. During some 20 years around the sports scene we've been hit on the head or face by a puck, a baseball, a softball and a lacrosse ball. The baseball just about knocked us goofy — or should we say goofier? And the puck gave us a two-week shiner. The India rubber lacrosse ball didn't hurt too much and only a slight headache resulted in stopping a hard-pitched softball on the side of the beano.

* * * * * *

In fact, when pitcher Dave Wilson (who used to chuck a fast one) came over and asked: "Are you hurt?" We burned him up by saying: "No, not by that slow pitch!" Tennis, football and basketballs, of course, are easy, but we wouldn't care to put the scarred head in front of a teed golf ball or a fast-bowled cricket one. As for fans, not many get hit at ball games, but we've noticed a lot of the payees getting banged by a puck at Civic Arena the past two winters. Scarcely a game without one or two getting hurt. Maybe the boards aren't high enough, or else the fans are seated too close to the ice for the present scrambly style of hockey. It's hard to figure.

Port Hope Captures Junior C Title

PORT HOPE, April 6 — Port Hope held off a desperate last-ditch stand by Collingwood to claim a 2-1 victory in the first game of a best-of-seven series for the OHA Junior C championship here.

John Fisher scored the winning goal at 14:38 of the third period. Attempting a passout from behind the Collingwood goal, he fired a shot which glanced off goalie Don Hudson's stick and into the net.

The Panthers were never behind. After two goalless, tight-checking periods they went into the lead on Coon Medhurst's goal, result of a three-way passing play. Albert Walmsley took a pass from Bob Meek for Collingwood's only tally.

PLC Puckists Win

Overpowered in the third period, Kesco Electrics lost an exhibition game to the Peterborough Lumber Company Wednesday night 7-4 at Civic Arena.

At the five-minute mark of the first period, Lonsberry went in alone for the lumbermen's first goal and they followed up with a second 10 minutes later when Davis slapped in Lonsberry's pass for a 2-0 score in the first.

Kesco returned with a pressing attack in the second period which paid off when they took the lead 3-2. Alberico scored first unassisted, and then Heard tied the score on a pass from Harrison. Ron Hehn put the Electics up one goal when he scored on Harris' pass.

Tied The Score

In the first minute of play in the third, G. Payne tied the score three-all and nine minutes later Clements worked with G. Payne for the fourth lumbermen's goal. But a minute later Alberion slipped in Heard's pass to once more tie the score, four-all. From there in the game was Peterbrough Lumber.

Thirty seconds after the faceoff Lonsberry scored with G. Payne and Clements assisting. Lonsberry followed up a minute later with G. Payne helping again and two minutes later Lonsberry scored his third with aid from Clements and E. Payne.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Nels Stewart finished his first season's campaign in the National Hockey League 25 years ago tonight with a two-goal performance that gave Montreal Maroons the deciding victory over Victoria Cougars in the Stanley Cup final. Stewart led the league with 34 goals that year and won the Hart Trophy for the most valuable player to his team.

Monarchs Head West In Cup Race

TORONTO, April 6 (CP)—The immediate horizon and the distant future both are clouded for Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs, headed west in pursuit of the Alexander Cup—Canada's major hockey championship.

Ahead is a series starting Tuesday against Saskatoon Quakers, Western Canada's best. Winners play Eastern Canada's title-holders, currently sought by four survivors. Valleyfield and Quebec are struggling for Quebec supremacy and Charlottetown and Sydney are locked in the Maritimes battle.

Besides wondering whether they'll pass Saskatoon, Monarchs know that only one of two teams from Toronto this year will return to the Ontario Hockey Association major league wars next season. Toronto Maple Leafs, sponsors for both Toronto's entries in the four-team league this season, announced this after scanning all-too-plain evidence of poor attendance.

Still in doubt is whether Monarchs or Toronto Marlboros — the latter finished third in the playoffs with Hamilton and Monarchs—will be back.

No Announcement

Hap Day, assistant general manager of the Leafs, said before the season ended that whichever of the two Toronto teams won "probably" would get support next year. But there has been no announcements since.

Ten of the Monarchs were on last year's team at Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast Professional League, which folded because of poor attendance last year.

They include Matt Mesich, Johnny Arundel, Dusty Blair, Frank Mulligan, Bill McCracken, Tom Fowler, Sam Kennedy, Johnny Ubriaco, Jack Meldrum and Ken Watson. Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty is from Pittsburgh Hornets, where he played for 10 years. Last season he was assistant coach.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

At Columbus, O., Australia-born John Marshall Thursday night swam the fastest 1,500 metres in history when he negotiated the free-style marathon in 18:10.8.

The time, far under the world record of 18:19 set by Hironoshin Furuhashi of Tokyo, cannot be recognized as a new mark since it was made over the short course of Ohio State's 25-yard pool.

Marshall is a Yale sophomore.

Laurent Dauthuille, Montreal middleweight, Thursday night knocked out Claude Ritter in the second round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Paris to build Dauthuille as a worthy opponent for champion Sugar Ray Robinson of New York.

Dauthuille weighed 159¾ pounds and Ritter 160.

The Thoroughbred Racing Association Thursday expelled Sportsman's Park of Chicago from membership after directors first had voted not to lift the track's suspension.

The Chicago track, suspended Oct. 23, 1950, was not represented at the meeting.

No specific reason was given, although the TRA resolution said the action stemmed from "certain information brought to the attention of the board of directors with regard to questionable activities of officers and employees" of the track.

Fire destroyed part of the stands at Pelican Stadium, New Orleans Thursday and the Chicago Cubs-Pittsburgh Pirates exhibition game was called at the end of the sixth inning with the Cubs leading 2-1.

Part of the stairways in the stadium and a portion of the roof were destroyed by fire. No one was injured.

Walter Eckersall, a frail-looking 145-pounder who starred at quarterback for the University of Chicago in the early 1900s, has been named to the pivot slot in The Associated Press all-time all-America poll.

Sports writers and sportscasters picked Eckersall for his feats of brilliant kicking, passing and running.

Rollins Makes Quick Recovery, May Play Soon

TORONTO, April 6 (CP). — Al Rollins, the lean rookie goaltender for Toronto Maple Leafs, may again see action in this season's Stanley Cup playoffs.

The 24-year-old, six-foot, two-inch backstop from Vanguard, Sask., made a double-quick comeback from the knee-ligament injury he suffered in the first game of the best-of-seven semi-final with Boston Bruins.

He'll rejoin the team in St. Catharines today and, says Dr. Jim Murray, "he'll be ready for action in a week's time."

Rollins, who won the Vezina Trophy while sharing net duties with Turk Broda this season, suffered his injury in a collision with Pete Horeck of Bruins. He has made the progress in one week that normally takes two or three.

Leafs currently lead Boston 2-1 and meet the Bruins here Saturday night. They haven't indicated definitely, however, whether Rollins will appear again in either the current series or the final which they are favored to reach.

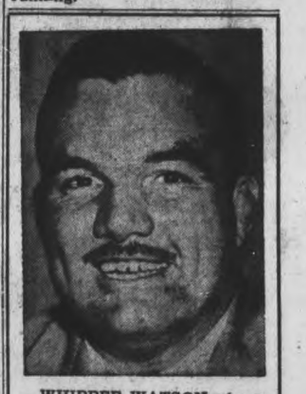
Broda, 36-year-old veteran of Brandon, Man., has been doing a terrific job in the Toronto goal.

Give Him Chance

While there might be some hesitation about taking Broda out, the team might decide to put Rollins in if only to bolster his chances of winning the Calder Trophy, annual rookie award. Rollins and Detroit Red Wings' goalie, Terry Sawchuk, are the chief candidates for the trophy, and an exceptional performance in the playoffs by either goalie might make the difference.

In any case, Broda will be in the nets Saturday in a game which Conn Smythe, Toronto general manager, figures is the big one of the series.

"Whichever team wins that one will be in the driver's seat the rest of the way," Smythe said.



Bruins, due in Toronto this morning, will have a new source of talent following elimination Thursday night of their American Hockey League farm team, Hershey Bears, from the playoffs. Coincidentally, it was Pittsburgh Hornets, Leafs' farm team, that put the Bears out.

Need Help

Bruins need the help they can get from Hershey, particularly since Johnny Peirson, Winnipeg-born right-winger, is a doubtful starter, and veteran centre Milt Schmidt, is limping with a couple of gimpy knees.

In addition, Vic Lynn and Horeck have severe charley horses and Hal Laycoe's foot is sore.

Leafs, practicing at St. Catharines, will arrive in Toronto an hour before Saturday night's game. Both teams will leave for Boston immediately after for the sixth game Sunday night. The seventh, if necessary, is scheduled for Toronto next Tuesday. If an eighth game is necessary it will be in Toronto in the form of a replay of last Saturday's 1-1 tie which was called because of the Sunday curfew.

WHIPPER WATSON, above, won two points in securing a return match and a special referee for next Tuesday's mat card at the Brock Arena. Watson and Flanagan will meet O'Toole and Atkins in the feature spot. Whipper claimed he was "rigged" by Referee Bert Maxwell so the Ontario Athletic Commission met his demand for a new man and a special arbiter is being appointed for this return match. The remainder of the card will be announced tomorrow.

WONDER WHAT JACK ADAMS said to goalie Terry Sawchuk, both pictured above, (and the rest of the Wings), last night as the Detroit Red Wings were downed for the third time right on home ice by a 5-2 score by Montreal Canadiens, who took a three to two game lead in the Stanley Cup finals. Adams had high praise for Sawchuk in Montreal after winning both games there.

Canadiens Make Comeback Slap Down Detroit 5-2

By HARRY STAPLER

DETROIT, April 6 (AP) — "Who's doing the chasing now?"

Boisterous Dick Irvin, coach of the Montreal Canadiens' surprising hockey team, shouted that as he and his comeback lads headed today for home ice, needing only one more win over the Detroit Red Wings to land in the Stanley Cup finals.

Montreal, manned by a few veterans and 10 eager rookies, moved ahead in the semi-final series Thursday night with a spectacular comeback in the second and third periods to beat the Wings 5-2.

A sell-out crowd of 14,221 watched Detroit's defending cup champions ram in two goals to take an early lead. Then the Canadiens, sporked by rookie Berni (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, punched home five goals to win easily.

Montreal now leads three games to two in the best-of-seven semi-final series. The clubs play Saturday night at Montreal and, if needed, Tuesday at Detroit—with the series winner facing the Toronto-Boston victor. The seventh game originally had been set for Sunday but was moved back because of the long train ride between Montreal and Detroit.

Things Have Changed

Coach Irvin, whose club finished in third place during the regular season while Detroit won the National Hockey League title, taunted the Red Wings after the game:

"After Detroit beat us two games at Montreal to square up the series at two wins each, Jack Adams (Detroit manager) boasted he 'had us on the run.' I'd say by looking at the standings today that he's still chasing us, wouldn't you?"

Montreal has met Detroit in four previous semi-final series but has never won.

Irvin said that the punch which Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, Montreal scoring ace, landed on the face of Detroiter Ted Lindsay during a fracas near the end of the first period was the turning point.

"When Richard threw the punch Lindsay went down and it took all the fight out of the Red Wings," he said.

Richard went to the penalty box for seven minutes. Detroit led at that time 2-0, thanks to goals by Gordie Howe and Sid Abel.

Couldn't Connect

"With Richard still in the penalty box they still couldn't score on us early in the second period, and they realized they were whipped," Irvin said.

Billy Reay and Bert Olmstead rammed in goals for Montreal from close in to tie the score midway through the second period.

Geoffrion then put the Canadiens ahead to stay with a zooming 55-foot shot that Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk couldn't get.

Richard and Calum (Baldy) Mackay added goals late in the third period as the roof literally fell in on the badly-outrushed Wings.

Three penalties were called against Detroit and two against Montreal by Referee George Gravel. Sawchuk stopped 25 Montreal shots and Gerry McNeil halted 26.

1st Period Fight Turning Point In Detroit Game

DETROIT, April 6 (AP). — The turning point in Thursday night's Detroit-Montreal's National Hockey League semi-final playoff game was the first-period fight between the Wings' Ted Lindsay and Canadiens' Maurice Richard. That was the opinion of jubilant coach Dick Irvin of Montreal.

Canadiens had just staged a spectacular comeback with a 5-2 victory over Detroit and move within one game of taking the best-of-seven series.

Fiery Richard drew a major for punching Lindsay and received an extra two minutes for charging. The Wings were leading 2-0 and appeared to be a cinch to take the game.

"But Detroit couldn't capitalize on our shortage of one man," said Irvin. "And when our Billy Reay scored at the start of the second period with Richard still off the ice, that took all the fight out of the Red Wings."

Midway in the second period, Montreal's Bert Olmstead tied it up and then Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion whipped in a 55-foot shot that put Montreal ahead. "Give a lot of credit to our third line of Geoffrion, Paul Meger and Billy Reay," said Irvin. "It was their spark in the second period that put us over the top."

In the Detroit dressing room Lindsay was nursing a black eye and a deep cut under the left eye. He said he didn't see Richard's punch coming. The two had tangled along the boards and were joined by several other team-mates.

Detroit manager Jack Adams and coach Tommy Ivan, whose club won the third and fourth games after losing the first two, said little. They offered no excuses.

Pleads Guilty To Theft Counts

Pleading guilty in police court today to four charges of theft, three of them laid by Brockville police, William Burleigh Joslin, alias Kenneth Abbott, 28, 291 Stewart St., was remanded for sentence to Tuesday.

A Brockville police officer is coming to Peterborough to give evidence against the man Magistrate W. R. Philp K.C., was asked by the Brockville magistrate to hear all the charges.

Joslin is charged by city police with stealing two suitcases and contents owned by a Jane Dowd from the Empress Hotel.

Giving evidence, Detective Sergeant W. A. (Bud) Clarke said that the night of March 29 he received a report that two suitcases had been stolen from the hotel. Hotel employees gave him a description of the man and the name William Joslin.

He got a search warrant and found the clothes that had been in the suitcases in Joslin's home. He also found another suitcase and a radio that had also been stolen from the hotel.

The next day a man turned over two other bags to him that he said he had won from Joslin matching coins.

The clothes were all recovered except one small article and they were identified by the owner.

Dies After Amputation

WINDSOR, April 6 (CP). — Mrs. Henrietta MacKenzie, 61, died in hospital Thursday an hour after her legs were severed by a slow-moving train on the Essex Terminal Railway tracks near her home. Labour Council Asks Publisher Intervene

ST. CATHARINES, April 6 — (CP) — The St. Catharines and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL) passed a resolution Thursday night setting up a delegation to visit the publisher of the St. Catharines Standard in order to press for a settlement between The Canadian Press and The American Newspaper Guild.

A second resolution asked the publisher to use his voice in CP "to put a stop to its union-busting campaign, and to direct Canadian Press and Press News managements to negotiate a just agreement with the American Newspaper Guild."

Ben Rose, secretary of the Guild's Toronto local, told the meeting "the campaign waged against the union by CP is the most vicious and hypocritical ever engaged in against a union in this country.

The Guild was certified a year ago as bargaining agent for editorial employees of CP and Press News Limited, its radio subsidiary.

Not Safe Anywhere

BOSTON, April 6 (AP). — Lawyer Elias Sakey carried his wife's $1,000 diamond-studded wrist watch to court Thursday rather than leave it at home while his wife was away. Just before he entered the courthouse he told police he felt in his pocket to make sure it was there. It was. Shortly afterward he felt again —and it was gone. Police quoted him as saying that he couldn't remember whether he was jostled —a favorite trick of pickpockets —in the courthouse.

Mrs. S. O. Shields Re-elected Society Head

Mrs. S. O. Shields was elected for her second year as president of the Peterborough Humane Society Thursday night at the annual meeting. Morley Powell was chosen first vice-president and Mrs. E. Stratford Martin second vice-president. Others elected were: treasurer, Miss E. Wood; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. A. Young; secretary, Miss June Fraser; assistant secretary, Miss B. Garside; auditor, Fred Holmes.

The executive for 1951 includes: Mrs. R. N. Stuart, Mrs. Morley Powell, Miss M. Collins, Mrs. Fred Holmes, Mrs. M. Burnham, Miss Ethel McFadyen, Miss Helen G. Lytle, Mrs. E. MacDonald, Mrs. S. Hamilton, Miss May Denne, Miss Phyllis Denne, Mrs. Charles Pilon, Mrs. Thomas Smith and Mrs. Sidney Weaver.

Morley Powell presented Gerald A. Dunford, who has been inspector for the society for 14 years and now is leaving, with an electric wall clock and to Mrs. Dunford a bouquet of flowers. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Dunford for their work.

Terry Graham showed three films, Adventure Parade, Land of the Ski-Hawk and Hunting Without a Gun.

During the past year 779 dogs and 859 cats were humanely destroyed, Mr. Dunford reported. Altogether the inspector handled 2,125 animals from dogs and coats to horses, skunks, squirrels and rats.

Besides the dogs destroyed, Mr. Dunford reported that 97 were killed on the city streets and another 169 picked up off the city streets for various reasons. More than 100 dogs were returned to the owners.

Sixty-four cats were killed by cars and only 11 were sent to homes.

A variety of other animals were humanely destroyed. These included 25 skunks, five rabbits, five pigeons, an owl, a white rat and eight squirrels.

In 1950 the society had 29 dog cases in court and reported that 1,006 dog tags were sold. During the year 19 farms were visited and resulted in four cruelty to animals cases of which there were convictions in three. Five lame horses were ordered off the street.

Free Highway Picnic Tables Impressed Mrs. Gouzenko

TORONTO (CP).—Picnic tables along Canadian highways without a placard demanding gratitude to the Government that provided them, astounded Mme. Svetlana Zouzenko when she first saw them.

The wife of Igor Gouzenko, former Russian embassy employee, whose disclosures precipitated the 1946 Canadian espionage trials, tells in Saturday Night of her life since coming to Canada.

Since fleeing the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, the Gouzenkos have lived under a new name in a new community. Most of Mme. Gouzenko's time has been devoted to bringing up their children. To them she feels that the happy spontaneity of Canadian holidays and festivals brings a great deal of joy. They help to develop "children into kind and loving people with a heart and soul, and not as empty automatons who repeat slogans of the party from their childhood."

The instance of the picnic tables was to her a striking illustration that in Canada the needs of ordinary people are supplied in a business-like way. "In Russia," writes Mme. Gouzenko, "even for the right to breathe the air, a man must thank Stalin from morning till night."

Hobbies Surprise

Canadian hobbies came as a great surprise to the Gouzenkos. The idea of employing spare time in ways both pleasant and profitable emphasized in their eyes the "unlimited productivity and intense briskness of a free people."

Her tastes in house furnishings changed during her years in Canada. They bought a second and plainer rug for their hallway largely as a result of magazine reading. The extraordinarily large number of magazines has provided her with not a few ideas.

Mme. Gouzenko comments on the high level of material well-being of the population in Canada and considers their cultural level very high.

Wash-Day Blues Handicap British Women Check Show

LONDON — (CP) — A study group which toured Britain diagnosing wash-day Monday blues found plenty of reason for woe.

Researchers for London's School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, in their first report, indicate that British housewives have little reason to face blue Monday with the happy smile of a soapsuds advertisement.

They found that the average woman spends between 4½ and 5½ hours doing the weekly wash —2½ to 3½ over the tub and two hours over the ironing board. They also noted, and commented on, a considerable array of outmoded equipment, cramped washing quarters and unsuitable conditions. In extreme cases, there was only the bathroom for washday chores.

For this season, the group said it was unable to assess the outlay in money and strength needed to improve, or make tolerable, present-day conditions.

"We will continue our research and hope to arrive at a figure soon," said Prof. J. M. MacIntosh, head of the researchers. "We may also be able to assess the real effect of washing on the health of a housewife."

Equipment Expensive

Another criticism in the present report is that today's prices for washing machines and laundry services are too high for the average pocket. Launderettes, where women can take eight to nine pounds of wash, charge from 2s 6d. (38 cents) to 3s a time and the scarcity of these premises often means a long trudge with a heavy load.

For housewives in outlying districts with no such facilities, resource to laundry services means a heavy jolt to the weekly budget. To the 1939 prices which laundries still use, a Government surcharge of anything from slightly more than half to almost 100 per cent. of the total charge is added. The percentage is worked out to Government ruling and varies with the district.

In its references to badly-designed accommodation, the report says many housewives have to wash in the kitchen. This means irritation from the comings and goings of the family and steamed-up kitchens which affect food stored there.

A tempting comparison is drawn between Swedish and British facilities. In Sweden rubber fittings enlarge the sinks and stop splashing. Pulley clotheshorses are over the bath instead of dripping above the kitchen floor and a hot towel rail supplies drying heat.

For the British housewife, said one newspaper here, the bathroom is the next coldest place to the refrigerator—if she has one.

YMCA Team Seeking Volleyball Title

The YMCA senior volleyball team will be after its second senior Ontario championship on Saturday night in Toronto when the six-man outfit plays in the Ontario tournament. In 1945 they brought the senior crown to Peterborough.

On the Peterborough team are Donald McTavish, Nels Stanger, Joe Stewart, Bill Edger, Gord Burns and Errol Hanbidge.

Next Saturday the intermediate Ontario tournament will be held in Toronto. A dozen teams are expected to enter including a local representative. Twice since 1944 the Peterborough YMCA has brought this championship home, in 1944 and 1946.

Playing with intermediates are Steve Csumrik, Barney Dundas, Lloyd Ash, Stanley Payne, Howard David, Ken Kingston, Fraser Wade and Ab Dryland.

Tom Gard's Note Book

Spring always seems to drag at this time of the year. Perhaps it is just my impatience to get outside after having been cooped up in the house all winter that makes me so restless. Unless I can line up one job after another to keep my mind occupied during my spare time, I'm as edgy as a racehorse.

One task on the agenda right now is copying an idea picked up in the last issue of my favourite garden magazine. You may have seen a bulletin board used in the kitchen or a blackboard hung for the children, but have you ever seen a combination of the two? Mine will hang right by the back door so orders of the day can be posted and hasty notes scribbled without searching for paper.

Record Holder

Santa Claus contributed a small record player to make the joy of last Christmas complete for the children. All went well until the records started piling up. Each one of the four has to have his or her favourites handy — varying from Teddy Bears' Picnic to the latest jazz creation — and separate from the rest. The easiest way to keep peace was to promise each a record holder. I'm going to use sturdy butter boxes. They are ideal for the purpose and will double as seats when the whole flock is congregated about the machine.

Don't Hide Your Light

Still another unfinished project that is on the go right now for the summer cottage is making bases for electrical lamps. The wiring was finished last fall and I promised the family to make the lamps myself. Some of the patterns being used are shown.

In case there is still time on my hands I have promised to help Herb, my neighbour, with his foundation planting now that his lawn is finished. With these tasks lined up, it looks as if I'll be busy!

Tully Holstein Herd To Be Sold At Auction....Junior Farmers' Spring Dance Wed., April 11 at Club Aragon....Sale of Herefords Here in May....Peterborough Club Begins New Season.

"Our boys and girls are our most important crop; their club projects are only incidental."

That was the theme of E. F. Pineau of production service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, at the district club leaders' conference last week at Normal School.

Mr. Pineau appealed to rural communities to recognize the importance of the voluntary local leaders who accept and carry through to achievemen days the undertakings of our farm boys and girls in youthful club enterprise.

Said Mr. Pineau in his talk to the Central Ontario district leaders: "Years ago when club work was started, attention was focussed on bacon hogs, dairy or beef calves, poultry, grain and other projects with which the club member was working. It is true that club work has done much to improve production in all fields where it has functioned.

"However after 30 years of club experience, we have come to realize that the benefits derived by our boys and girls far overshadow the improvement in agricultural production."

Sees 60,000 Members

Club membership in Canada reached 54,081 in 1950, and will likely be close to 60,000 by the fall. Club enrolment in Ontario was 13,667 last year, the largest membership of the provinces. This does not take into account the 13,000 Junior Farmers of Ontario.

In other words, these junior clubs are expanding, agricultural representatives cannot give all the detail of leadership that is required.

Hence, Mr. Pineau said, local districts must asume more responsibility for the successful operation of club work.

It is encouraging to observe the assistance that is being given by voluntary local leaders.

"This is a healthy sign as it indicates that local people realize that club work is a medium through which they can improve young people of the district, the county, the province, and the nation as a whole."

Mr. Pineau strongly recommended that club work should not be only seasonal, but should be a twelve months' endeavor, with at least twelve meetings a year.

Boys' and girls' clubs are now being organized in April, continuing to Achievement Day in late September. Mr. Pineau cited the 4-H Club program as he saw it in effect in Michigan a few years ago. Their program called for a full year's activities. Monthly meetings were held when the moon was at the full for better travelling conditions.

Should be Year Round

"With the expansion of membership in club work, it is essential that the local community assume more responsibility for the administration of clubs. The community should designate a voluntary local leader, and preferably a couple of assistant leaders who will take charge of the club."

"In carrying on club work, the leader should call upon other competent persons in the community to give him a hand, for example, school teachers, clergymen, the medical doctor, the lawyer, a successful farmer, and others in the locality."

The essence of this plea is that club affairs should have active community support. It is not enough to enlist the interest of parents to the point of encouraging their children to join clubs. That is largely the basis of family, whereas Mr. Pineau contends that rural communities which can make such a fine success of Farm Radio Forums for example, should not be indifferent to the boys and girls' clubs.

Juniors Complimented

Club leaders in this county are graduates of club experience followed by the practical interest of the Junior Farmers' group.

Peterborough Junior Farmers adopted club leadership as a policy and project. Mr. J. D. Moore of Ottawa, public relations officer of Canadian Council on Boys and Girls' Work, complimented the local Juniors last week on this initiative. He said it was being adopted by Junior Famers elsewhere.

Plans for the organizing of eight project clubs are taking shape, as reported by Robert E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative.

They are two forestry clubs, one in the Fowler's Corners area and another at Apsley; a tractor maintenance club; fall wheat club and one of beef calves; and one swine club. Mr. Bell said he expected a total membership of approximately 175 boys and girls. He is directing the general program, under the supervision of Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative.

Local Club Leaders

The club leaders who are continuing their successful work of last year are: Irvine McIntosh, tractor maintenance, assisted by Reg Ferguson; John Edmison and Keith McIntyre, dairy calf clubs; Lorne Pimmett, beef calf club; Alan Drummond, grain club; the swine club leader is yet to be appointed; Ron Frankish is in charge of one of the forestry clubs.

Don Milburn, former president of Peterborough Junior Farmers, has moved out to the provincial executive.

NORWOOD CONTEST RULES

Again sponsoring a field crop competition in Beaver oats, East Peterborough Agricultural Society (Norwood Fair) is combining with it a demonstration on members' farms of the economical value of commercial fertilizer in the maintenance of soil fertility.

Its draft of rules admits any paid up member of the Society or one of his family.

There will be two sections to the competition, (a) senior; (b) farmers' sons and daughters between 12 and 20 years inclusive. Same rules will apply in each section.

The field (entire area within its fences) must have at least three acres. Soil should be uniform in regard to type, fertility level and cropping practices in past years.

In preparing field for competition the entire acreage should receive the same treatment in preparing seed bed, kind and grade of Beaver oats sown, also rate and date of seeding.

A competitor must sow registered seed or seed grown by him from registered Beaver oats purchased in 1950 and providing he is able to show the 1950 seed tag as proof of registration. At least one acre running the full length of the field must be given an application of 250 lbs. of commercial fertilizer at time of seeding of the crop. The analysis recommended is 2-12-10 but where practical, it should be determined by a soil test. In scoring the field the judge will walk the full length of the field preferably in the centre of non-fertilized area, return up centre of plot fertilized in estimating yield in bushels per acre on each strip.

For every estimated bushel increase on fertilized plot over the check strip a bonus of one point will be awarded the competitor on regular score card. Contestants will be required to have an exhibit at the Norwood Fair consisting of five inch sheaf and bushel lot from competing field. Substantial prizes to be awarded and 250 lbs. commercial fertilizer of suitable analysis will be donated free to each entrant to treat the first acre. Fertilizer for any additional acreage sown to be purchased by owner.

LAMBTON COUNTY LIBRARY

Lambton County Library Co-operative distributed 82,275 books last year to 21 rural and community libraries and 162 schools. This is the only library service of its kind in Ontarno.

From 1932 to 1947 Lambton Co-operative was quartered in Sarnia city library, and then had a full time manager and more space than the city library could spare. It was transferred then to a school room at Wyoming, and last year moved into its own building.

The county library now has 19,000 volumes, a staff of three, headquarters office and library building, and travelling library van.

Its circulation, which was 34,000 in 1947, is now 82,275. In that time budget has increased from $8,812 to $12,350.

GRUBS OF THE WARBLE FLY are coming out for air, digging their way through hides of cattle in a strange life cycle. Farmers of seven Peterborough counties are going to take a lot of zing-g-g out of the warbles this season by the present concerted campaign of greeting them with a spray of rotenone. Cattle owners invoked Ontario statute to make these lethal treatments compulsory. George Carey, special inspector in Otonabee, is soaking the back of a cow in the barn of Elmer Oliver at Stewart Hall.

Crews Spraying Cattle To Control Warble Fly

The cattle of seven Peterborough townships will do less gadding than usual this summer. Possibly they will graze the fields in comfort, free from the torment of the warble or heel fly, peculiarly a terror of the herds.

Spraying crews began this week saturating the backs of cattle, excepting young calves, with rotenone as a lethal greeting to the larvae or grubs of the warble as they emerge through the hides. For good measure, there will be a second treatment probably in three weeks, and the provincial legislation, optional with farmers is designed to apply to every animal in all the herds of cattle in the seven townships.

Farmers themselves petitioned their councils for this official compulsion after meetings of general discussion, leading to planning and now reaching effective reality in Harvey, Ennismore, Smith, Otonabee, Asphodel, Douro and Dummer.

Life Cycle Of Warble

As explained recently to the spraying inspectors and operators, April and early May is the season of the maturing of the warble grub or larvae under the hide of infested cows. They stay in the back for weeks, growing to a rather large size. After arriving there at the end of a migration through the animal's body, they pierce the skin with their sharp hooks to obtain air, and finally make holes for escape.

That's when the spray of a solution of derris powder, and the rotenone as the active killing agent, does its work of riddance. Left to themselves, these grubs drop to the ground usually after the cattle are in the field. Those which drop in the stable are not likely to mature, according to the booklet of information issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture as a manual for the township inspectors.

The larvae that fall in the field, enter the soil, and after a resting or pupal stage, emerge as male or female flies. They mate, and the female lays her eggs. She may develop as many as eight hundred.

To continue that life cycle of the warble fly, the female settles only on the short hairs of the animal's legs, or the under part of the body, pushes her "ovipositor" or egg-laying tube down to the roots of the hairs, lays her eggs, and is off immediately. That is one explanation quoted from an English trade pamphlet.

The manual says, after the eggs are laid they change in form to small maggots which burrow through the skin. These grubs gradualllly wander through the animal's body. Many of them reach the gullet by fall. About Christmas time they are found in the region of the heart, lungs and other parts of the body, and by early spring they have come to the end of their course under the hide of the back, just as they are these days.

Again, quoting the manual: "It will be seen from this life history that grubs which come out in February and March are not likely to survive, and that only a few will come out after May. Therefore, April and May are the best months for treatment."

The warble or heel fly stays close to its natal locality. Its flight is only to the nearest cattle, and it does not travel any distance over water. It prefers bright sunlight. That is one reason why the hum of the warble starts the cattle for the shade and any available watering hole.

Losses From Gadding

This pest, about the size of a honey bee, does not sting or bite. When the cow feels a tickle on the heel or hears the hum of the warble, she takes fright and high-tails it for a water spot, and plunges in right up to her hocks or higher.

That reaction is what farmers call "gadding." If she is of a dairy breed, she is down in her milk at the end of the day. The beef breeds lose valuable weight. Farmers used to say "the flies are bothering them," and endure the loss in milk and meat, and perforated hides.

They are not doing it this year in the seven Peterborough townships. They engaged inspectors and operators, and they bought power spraying machines for this opening war on the warble. Later on the municipalities as owners of the machines in some instances can use them for killing weeds by the spray treatment.

George Carey of Drummond's station has been appointed inspector in Otonabee with Harold Mather of Mather's Corners as operator.

They were working on the west side of the township Wednesday afternoon. The Examiner's photographer, with Frank C. Paterson and Robert Bell, caught up with them at Elmer Oliver's.

The truck with its power spraying machine had been to Harold Dawson's place, then to the William Hutchinson farm, but mud forced them to back out of the lane of the Dennis Driscoll place, and leave it for another call. From Oliver's they went on to the River Road.

Reeve Dick Stewart went along for part of the afternoon as an observer, and got stitched in to the work getting the truck out of that lane. The municipal job manifestly isn't all sitting at the head of a council table in comfort and out of the weather.

That is an Otonabee glimpse of the work that is now in progress in seven townships. Reeve Gifford said yesterday that Ken Hunt of L. Cadesky's Louada Manor Farms in Harvey was using a jeep for conveyance in Ennismore.

Finally from the manual: "Cattle undisturbed by warble flies in the summer and free from grubs in the winter will graze peacefully, produce 10 to 25 per cent more milk, make greater gains as beef cattle, and give one-third more hides what are not riddled by grub holes. For the investment of a few cents per head, returns from warble control are counted in dollars."

Burt Criticizes Living Costs

CLEVELAND, April 6 (CP)—George Burt, of Windsor, Canadian regional director of the United Auto Workers (CIO), said Thursday living costs have risen more than twice as fast in Canada as in the United States.

Addressing the UAW convention, he reasserted the demands of Canadian delegates for stringent price controls to spike the rise in the Canadian cost-of-living index.

"Apparently our stupid government isn't willing to listen to the voice of the Canadian people," he said.

Burt and other Canadian delegates said auto workers will join other Canadian Congress of Labor unions in an appeal to the Canadian cabinet for control legislation. He announced that the UAW will spend $72,000 annually in Canada for "legislative political action."

Walter Reuther, president of the UAW, assured Burt that "we are pledging our complete support to our Canadian brothers and sisters to see that they get justice on their side."

The union has 60,000 members in Canada.

Charles Boyer Sheds Great Lover Tag

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, April 6 (AP)—It was a hard fight, but Charles Boyer figures he has finally shed the "great lover" tag.

The reluctant Lothario started a campaign four years ago to escape type-casting after a decade of film love-making. It wasn't easy. Every radio comic and night club imitator was mocking him with lines like "come wiz me to the casbah."

Boyer stayed off the screen for three years rather than play in movies he thought were "silly."

"I'm not against romance," he commented. "But I am against playing in the same silly love stories. I may do a love story in the future. But it will be as a mature lover, not as a dashing romantic."

Boyer eschewed romance when he returned to the screen. He first played a Roman Catholic priest in "The First Legion." Then he did a character role in "The 13th Letter."

Boyer is currently playing another non-romantic role—that of a Maharajah's secretary in "The Rage of the Vulture." He is delighted to leave all the love-making in the film to Alan Ladd.

Touring Country

The Frenchman has been seeing a lot of the United States lately, as a member of the first drama quartette. The others in this hardy little band are Charles Laughton, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Agnes Moorehead. They have been touring the country in a forum version of George Bernard Shaw's "Don Juan In Hell."

"We were a little worried about how it would go over," Boyer said.

"But the results have been amazing. So far we have played 50 engagements, mostly college towns and the business has been capacity. We have appeared in huge auditoriums before 4,000 and 6,0000, many of whom could not even see our faces."

Pilots' Wives Need Courage

TORONTO, April 6 — (CP) — "Being a test pilot's wife, you just have to keep your courage in both hands," Mrs. Lois Warren, 28, said Thursday on learning her husband, Flt. Lt. Bruce Warren, was killed in the crash of a jet plane near London, Ont.

"Bruce left at 8 o'clock this morning," she said. "It was just another day's work for him." She was holding her baby, Douglas, in her arms. Douglas was crying.

The Warrens bought a house here last October. "Now it looks as though I'll have to get a buyer," Mrs. Warren said, beginning to cry.

She said she will take the baby home to Wetaskiwin, Alta., where she and Bruce Warren went to school together and were married five years ago.

COSTLY ACCIDENT

Estimated cost of freeing the U.S. battleship Missouri from a Virginia mudbank in January, 1950, was $130,000.

Decline Of Sheep Tragic—Watson

TORONTO, April 6—(CP)—The decline of Canada's sheep population was described as "tragic" Thursday by W. P. Watson, livestock commissioner for Ontario.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Ltd., Mr. Watson said that under present conditions, particularly on Ontario farms, it is necessary to concentrate on larger flocks and making sheep husbandry a specialized business.

There was plenty of room for expansion. One reason was the need for more meat to meet demands of Canada's higher standard of living.

Senator Ill In Hospital

OTTAWA, April 6 — (CP) — Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader, is recovering from an illness in a Montreal hospital but is expected to be restored to health soon, Senator Norman Lambert (L, Ontario) told the Senate Thursday.

Senator Lambert, acting as government leader in the absence of Senator Robertson, said the government leader was operated on last Monday. His condition is good.

Senator Lambert did not disclose the nature of Senator Robertson's illness.

The Upper House adjourned to May 1.

Rail Witness Fights Seaway

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—A railroad witness said Thursday he believes backers of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway have failed to prove it economically justified.

Gregory S. Prince, assistant general counsel for the American of American Railroads, also told the House of Representatives public works committee the waterway and power project would not be justified as a defence measure "over the long pull."

The association opposes the joint Canadian-United States $1,000,000,000 project which four cabinet members have stated is necessary from a defence standpoint.

Under questioning, Prince conceded the basic opposition by the railroads is because the seaway would be "subsidized competition."

Frost Says No Election Being Planned For June

TORONTO, April 6 — (CP) — New legislation affecting employment discrimination, women and farmers highlighted the session of the Ontario Legislature which ended Thursday.

In the last recorded vote of the nine-week session, the Legislature gave unanimous approval to its 123th bill, which makes it illegal for unions or employers to discriminate against men or women for race, color, creed or nationality.

The 90 members, who held a morning sitting for the only time since deliberations began Feb. 1, pushed through last-minute business in time for Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson to give Royal assent to their legislation.

Final word in the budget speech debate, which ended in a 48-34 vote against a CCF non-confidence motion, was for Premier Frost. He told the House that a provincial general election is not being considered for June, and that he will call members back for a special session as soon as the federal government implements the proposed federal-provincial old-age pension agreement.

Women Affected

Several of the Legislature's most important bills of the session will affect women.

One new act provides that a woman doing the same job as a man in any establishment will receive the same pay. A second gives women the right to sit on juries.

A change in the Mothers' Allowance Act extends the age limit for help to children from 16 to 18 years, provided the child is a satisfactory student. An amendment to another act will bring runaway fathers back from anywhere in Canada to face court action for support of their families.

Of Interest To Farmers

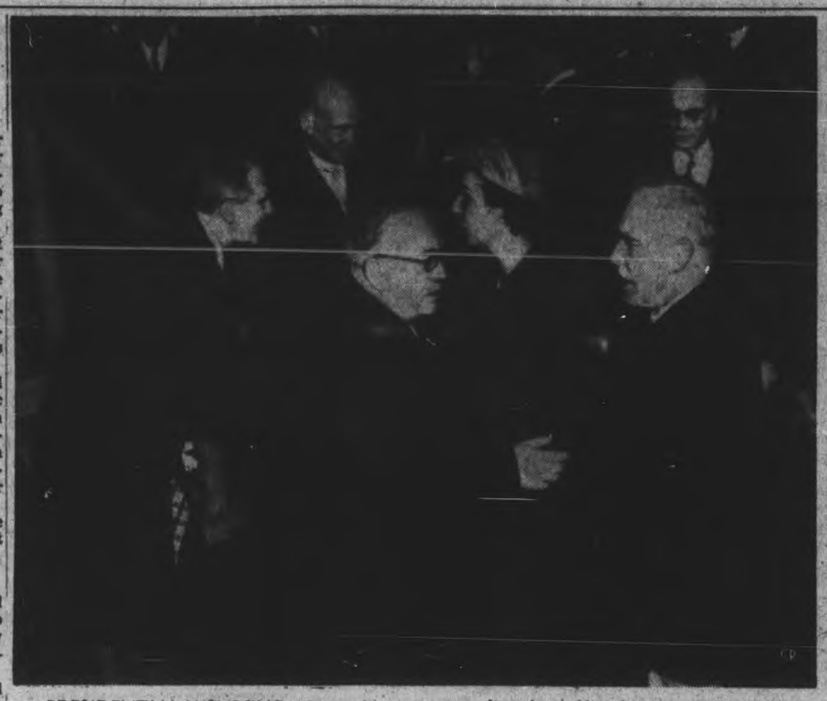
Of chief interest to farmers are two new measures—one to permit establishment of pooled prices for regulated farm products, the other to launch a study by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission into improving and co-ordinating rural telephone systems.

Premier Frost's budget, brought down in mid-session, provided for a record $265,000,000 expenditure and a $598,000 surplus in the coming year. It called for no new or increased taxes and a 2½-percent reduction in the hospitals amusement tax.

Among new expenditures listed were $2,000,000 for free public school text books, $1,500,000 in hospital grants to help pay for indigent patients, and construction grants of $1,000 per bed for old-age homes built by charitable or religious organizations.

Two important select legislature committees were named to meet after the session.

To Name Committee



The government has announced it will appoint a committee of up to nine persons as an advisory group to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

One mportant measure—drafted and passed in near-record time to meet a threatened milk price increase—named a consumer representative to the Milk Control Board and gave the board power to set maximum wholesale and retail prices on milk and milk products, except butter and cheese.

Amendments were made to the Workmen's Compensation Act to reduce the waiting period for benefits from seven to five days, increase the maximum wage on which payments can be made from $3,000 to $4,000, and increase death benefits for dependents of workmen fatally injured on the job.

Ottawa Plans Legislation For Uniform Freight Rates

OTTAWA, April 6—(CP)—The government plans legislation for uniform freight rates across Canada, and may have it before parliament at this session.

Rate equalization has No. 1 priority among recommendations of the royal commission on transportatin, the Commons was informed last night by Transport Minister Chevrier. He said experts of his department now are drafting railway act amendments to put it into effect.

The complex legislative proposals will take some time to draw up, the minister said, and it will not be known until later if they will be ready for action before parliament rises in early summer.

The royal commission's proposals on equalization of rates call for a series of measures, the eventual effect of which would be to level up the differences existing now between different areas. Protests against existing differentials have been insistent from the west and the maritimes.

Not Ready Yet

The first debate on the royal commission findings since they were made public last month, Mr. Chevrier indicated in the House that the government is not yet ready to announce action on any other recommendations.

Specifically, he said it has not yet had time to consider proposals for a capital revision of the Canadian National Railways and for a national transportation policy of co-ordinating all forms of transport under federal cntrol.

However, he did say that, as far as he knows, the government is prepared to accede to a recommendation calling for no action—the retention for the present at least of the west's statutory, low "Crow's Nest Pass" freight rates on grain and grain products.

Mr. Chevrier's announcements on the commission recommendations were made to a thinly-attended night session, with many members present at a reception for President Auriol of France.

Earlier, the House saw unsuccessful attempts by members of three parties—Liberal, Progressive Conservatives and CCF—to open up a cost-of-living debate based on Wednesday's announcement of a new high of 179.7 in the government's living-cost index.

Cabinet members objected to a debate at the time, and speaker Ross MacDonald ruled it out after the government had promised to open up an opportunity to discuss the living-costs issue Monday.

Important Topic

Attempts were made by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and J. S. Sinnott (L-Springfield) to move that the Commons sidetrack all business to talk of the high cost of living as a matter of "urgent public importance." M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, also had a motion of his own ready but supported Mr. Drew's when the Progressive Conservative leader got the floor.

Mr. Drew's motion said the new index record called for government action to halt inflation, hold down the cost of living and "restore confidence in the Canadian dollar."

Trade Minister Howe, Finance Minister Abbott and Works Minister Fournier, Liberal House leader, joined in descrying the urgency of an immediate debate.

Mr. Howe contended further that the necessary urgency was removed from the issue by the fact that the index figures were "four or five weeks old."

Top Priority

Mr. Drew retorted this was the first chance the House had to debate them. There was nothing affecting Canadians that called for such urgent consideration as the "runaway inflation." Members should be given the chance to express their views on whether the living-cost trend should be dealt with by the government.

Mr. Coldwell contended Wednesday's figures were some weeks old but added "since then (Feb. 1) we've had more of this runaway inflation." It affected the welfare of the great mass of the Canadian people.

Mr. Fournier said it was not urgent for members to tell the government that the cost-of-living index had gone up 4.5 points.

"It's not by your speaches that you make the government take action," he said.

"Parliament goes out the window," interjected Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel), deputy Progressive Conservative leader.

Approves Inquiry

ALBANY, N. Y., April 6 (AP) —A $50,000 investigation of the narcotics problem in New York State was approved Thursday by Governor Thomas E. Dewey. Dewey signed a bill he said would authorize a study by the Attorney-General to "seek the cause for the alarming increase in the use of narcotics and to determine the reason for the present inadequacy of our law-enforcement efforts."

Bills Rebound

TORONTO, April 6. (CP) — Every bill which the Ontario Legislature dealt with this session—161 of them—rebounded on members' heads Thursday as soon as the session was prorogued. Following tradition, the Legislature press gallery cleared its desks of nine weeks' accumulation of bills and order papers by dumping them over the gallery rail on members beneath.

The cattle run was 5,102 compared to 5,849 a week ago. Early trade was dull under liberal offerings, but the market firmed at the close as supplies dwindled. Medium to good heifers were $31-$32. Fed yearlings sold mostly at $31-$34. Good cows were $27-$28, with canners and cutters bringing $18.50-$23. Comes Home Advises Wife About To Die

More Than $2,000 Found In Shoe Following Death

Oron Deschane, 75, a retired farmer living in Marlbank, stoically announced to his wife Wednesday afternoon that he was about to die And before she could summon help he was dead.

Marlbank is 12 miles southeast of Tweed.

Mr. Deschane had just returned to his home after a trip to the village barbershop where he had a haircut and a chat with his neighbors.

For some time he has had a bad heart and apparently the uphill walk back to his home, a distance of about two city blocks, was too much for him. He felt the attack coming on and informed his wife he was going to die.

She could find the money for burial, he said, by taking off his shoe. In the shoe was more than $2,000.

Easter Seals Yield $4,842

Subscriptions amounting to $4,842 to the Easter Seals campaign of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, Toronto, and Peterborough Rotary Club, have been received at the Bank of Montreal.

This report today was obtained from Mr. Ford Warren, manager, showing an increase of about $200 over the sum announced by President H. F. Waddell at Rotary Club luncheon Monday.

The further increase this week is an indication that this appeal to public sentiment and generosity is still in the thoughts of citizens.

Ald. Waddell said the total last year was $5,200, and it was the hope of Rotary that present contributions would at least reach that amount. The most convenient way of helping is at the Bank of Montreal.

A $45,000 SCHOOL, S.S. 5, BRIDGENORTH, was officially opened on Thursday evening by Gordon K. Fraser, MP. The modern two-room building, UPPER photo, adjoins the small original structure. In addition, junior grades have had to use the basement of Bridgenorth United Church, LOWER, for the past three years. Pupils in both buildings will move into the bright new rooms on Monday, school principal Bruce Patterson hopes.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Vacant House Preferred To Gas Station

18-Man Delegation Opposes Building New Service Station

A large determined deputation effectively squelched a bid by an oil company to get permission to build a service station on the south-east corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Sts.

The 18-man delegation that filled the committee room of the city hall, made their protests to the Peterborough Town Planning Board Thursday night.

The old crumbling Dunsford house now stands on the property but the delegation spokesmen said they preferred the old house rather than a service station which would be a continuing source of unpleasantness.

36 Owners Sign

The delegation submitted a petition signed by 36 home owners in the neighborhood both on Dalhousie St. and Aylmer St.

"We the undersigned are definitely opposed to the erection of a garage or service station at 196 Aylmer St...." the petition said.

Spokesmen for the neighborhood were Fred Holmes, Roland Wilson and W. J. Wibb.

They pointed out that the district had always been a respectable and well-cared for residential area and that a service station in the middle of it would decrease the value of their property.

There was already a great traffice hazard at the intersection as several accidents showed. A service station on the corner would only increase the danger.

The delegates also felt that the lot was too small for the purpose.

Although they didn't like the tumbling house on the corner, they felt there was always a hope that something would be done about it.

Oppose Application

The Board, with James Hamilton acting as chairman in the absence of James Dutton, passed a resolution that "in view of the present residential nature of the neighborhood and the opposition of the residents" the Board recommended to the city council that the application for a licence from the Trinidad Leaseholds Ltd., the oil company concerned, be turned down.

The Board also turned down another application for a service station licence before the application was actually made. A letter was received from a real estate firm asking that the northeast corner of Perry and George Sts. be zoned for a service station.

The property was owned by an estate which would be able to sell the property if the Board re-zoned it for a service station.

There was no one present to speak in favor or against the request. However, the Board decided in a motion that under the present zoning regulations, a service station was not a permissible use for the corner. And they showed no inclination to change the regulation.

Thankless Child

A driver recently found that he could tell his wife what to say, but his daughter was a different problem.

Constable Roy McMillan said he followed a car on George St north from Lansdowne St. and found it was going 35 miles an hour. He told the driver to stop and asked:

"Do you know how fast you were going?" "Thirty miles an hour," was the answer.

The couple's five-year-old daughter was standing in the back leaning over into the front seat.

"Did you see how fast your daddy was going?" the officer asked the youngster.

"Thirty-five," she lisped.

"Oooh! My own flesh and blood, too," the driver exclaimed.

Son Returned To Custody Of His Mother

The Ontario Court of Appeal has returned five-year-old John David McCreery to the custody of his mother, Mrs. Mary McCreary, Fagan Ave.

This upsets a judgment of last November when Judge S. L Smoke awarded custody to the father, James W. McCreery, for a year or until the mother made another application.

Culmination of trouble between husband and wife came in April, 1950, when the father picked up the boy while he was playing on a street in Peterborough and took him to Toronto, to a place unknown to the mother.

Until that time the parents and the child occupied an upper apartment at the house of the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McCreery, Gilmour St.

Usurped Child

According to the mother, the grandparents usurped the child and undertook to direct its upbringing. They regulated the conduct of both the child and herself, she claimed.

When the five-year-old boy was whisked away from Peterborough to a Toronto address, the grandmother went along. They stayed at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Keeley, York Ridge Rd.

Between April and September, 1950, the mother testified she did not see the boy or know where he was. The father said that he was away on a "long holiday."

Mr. Justice Laidlaw, the presiding justice with Messrs. Justices Aylesworth and Gibson concurring, said he thought the root of the trouble was "the unreasonable interference by the paternal grandmother and in the readiness of the father to accede to the domination of his mother."

Chest Drive Still $3,340 Short

$85,000 Objective Still Attainable But Chances "Slim"

The Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund is $3,340.73 short of its $85,000 objective at the end of 34 days since the campaign started March 3. Total received to date is $81,659.27.

If the campaign fails to reach its objective this year it will be its first failure in the 14 years it has been conducted. On April 5, 1950, the campaign went $1,000 over its objective.

Reports from division heads reveal that at present $83,603.21 is the highest amount that can be hoped for.

R. L. Dobbin, chairman of the community fund, was at once pessimistic and optimistic when approached this morning.

"We may have aimed too high this year," he stated. The campaign committee set the original objective at $80,000, but the directors thought that the people of Peterborough would rise to a $85,000 objective.

"Slim Chance"

"We are sorry that the objective has not been reached as yet," he continued, "but there is still a slim chance and we are hoping that eventually we will be able to end the campaign with the objective reached."

At present only one of the four divisions have reached their objective. The successful division is the women's headed by Mrs. J. P. Watts who have topped their $5,000 objective by $1,708.85.

Gordon Matthews, chairman of the special names division, reported this morning that his division has high hopes of reaching its objective of $25,000. At present this division has collected $23,575.

Will Come Close

Chairman of the retail division, Ben Myers stated that this division hopes to reach $16,000 of its $17,000 objective. At present $15,501.06 has been collected, but there are more cards to come in.

The industrial division, has ended its campaign with $35,341 of its $38,000 objective.

Mrs. S. J. Black, campaign secretary, and her committee have been on duty every week day at the campaign headquarters since the fund opened. This group is still hoping that the objective will be reached and are remaining on full time duty until April 20 to give citizens their last chance to contribute before the campaign is officially closed.

Vandals Smash 220 Panes In Warehouse

About 220 panes of glass valued at approximately $200 were smashed by neighborhood boys in the warehouse and office on Erskine Ave., of Harold J. Keats, 511 Aylmer St.

Mr. Keats said he had been away from his warehouse three days and came back Thursday night to find about 200 panes in the warehouse smashed out and the frames torn out. Twenty windows in the office were smashed.

The vandals ripped open a rear door and apparently went inside where they threw building materials of all kinds all over the floor. Mr. Keats had a wide variety of material stored in the building and the articles were thrown in a wild conglomeration of debris.

Nothing Taken

Apparently nothing was taken from the building. He said the glass alone will cost him about $200 to replace.

Mr. Keats said he had trouble with the boys of the neighborhood before this. They had broken panes of glass and he had chased them off the property. When he returned Thursday night from Toronto he made a routine check of the building and discovered the destruction. Detective Sergeant John Stevenson is investigating.

This is the second report of large-scale vandalism within the last three weeks. This morning in juvenile court 16 north-end boys, eight to 15, were charged with wilfull damage under the Juvenile Delinquency Act in connection with the wholesale damage done to windows and light fixtures in the former Nicholls Hospital building.

New School At Bridgenorth Opened By Gordon K. Fraser

BRIDGENORTH, April 6. (ENS)—"Some of the greatest of men—Abraham Lincoln, for example—obtained their learning from small, one-room schools," Gordon K. Fraser, MP for Peterborough west, told 200 residents of Bridgenorth and district at the opening Thursday night of the new Bridgenorth school.

"There is a great challenge for education today," Mr. Fraser said. "A girl or boy cannot go out and get a job without a fair education and we should see that every child, no matter what his standing in life, is given equal privileges and chances of getting a good education."

"Education today is a chance to instil into the minds of our children the way in which they will grow as individuals amid the ever-changing problems of their lives," he concluded.

The crowd that thronged to inspect the new school which is SS 5 of Smith township, was greeted at the door by Mrs. Earl Blewett, president of the Bridgenorth Home and School Association; Mrs. Ray Harding, vice-president, and Mrs. W. G. Ray, convener for the occasion.

Two Classrooms

Bridgenorth's new school is a two-classroom school, modern in every way. It is furnished with modern lighting fixtures colored tiled floors, and in the classrooms are pastel tables and chairs.

The teachers' room in the building is furnished with colonial maple furniture and has a rust and green color scheme.

Chairman for the evening was Major E. C. Anderson, school inspector for Peterborough west. He said: "Tonight is the main night in the life of the children of Bridgenorth, to see the completion of this project and to be able to stand in this beautiful building to be dedicated for the purpose of education and to the young people of the community."

The teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Patterson, were introduced by the chairman. Mr. Patterson, teacher of the senior room, is principal of the school.

The Rev. D. P. Morris of Bridgenorth United Church, led in the dedicatory prayer. He dedicated the school to education "that knowledge may be fully enjoyed and all can learn, flourish and abound."

Rabbi Joseph Mayer of Beth Israel Synagogue, Peterborough, spoke briefly, saying that the main purpose of teachers and adults is "to make a child indispensable to himself as soon as possible. We want to give a child a set of principles and ideas with which he will meet the problems of maturity."

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

FLOOD DAMAGE—Combined assault of flood water and ice crushed these homes in Point aux Trembles on the western tip of Montreal Island. Several of the wooden houses floated out into the St. Lawrence River as 125 families were made homeless. Early estimates of the damage were $250,000.

Simons Stresses Need For Training Soldiers

OTTAWA, April 6. (CP)—Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the general staff, said Thursday a lot of people, including some war veterans, forget what a long and difficult job it is to train a soldier to battle fitness.

He told Ottwa's Canadian Club the 25th Brigade will go into battle in Korea "as well trained as the men can be short of battle itself" and said "there is not the slightest doubt that they will acquit themselves in accord with the best traditions of Canadian troops in the past."

(The brigade is expected to sail this month for Korea. It was recruited last August and September.)

In his first public address since becoming head of the army, Gen. Simonds said the 25th Brigade "will be as good as any brigade in the world."

But he noted that the brigade had been able to call on a lot of veterans, including excellent commanding officers for the units. He said "we may find that if further expansions of the army are necessary in the future it will be difficult to get, the same experience" to come forward from civilian life in the same proportion.

Over-Optimistic ...

He had found that a lot of people, including veterans, were over-optimistic in thinking of the time it takes to train a soldier or in feeling that an army can be built up and maintained more easily than is the fact.

They forgot the growing pains of the Second World War when the army started with practically nothing and forgot the great training facilities Canada built up between 1939 and 1943.

At the first in 1939 Canada was dependent on the United Kingdom to train the 1st Division. By 1942 or 1943 Canada had built a good training framework and since the war Canada had fortunately been able to retain much of that framework.

However, soldiers needed a higher standard of physical fitness than the average civilian, particularly now that Canada was becoming more urbanized. They had to become mentally adjusted to military life and to become skilled in use of arms.

Then they had to become members of a fighting team and he was a great believer in the regimental system in maintaining the high morale of the Canadian Army.

There was finally a great necessity for discipline, particularly for those soldiers going abroad. He had tried to impress on his soldiers the idea that their conduct could undo and vitiate all the respect they had built up for themselves in battle.

Gen. Simonds said he wished to stress the fact that a man can't be taken in off the street and turned quickly to show up well in battle.

Time Ripe For Peace Bid

OTTAWA, April 6 — (CP) — Robert Schuman, French Foreign Minister, said Thursday the time has come for action to bring peace to Korea.

Even though Communist China remains silent, he told a press conference, those countries who desire peace should press ahead with discussions of the problem and do whatever can be done to end hostilities.

The time had come when those countries who wanted peace must be active.

He said he is "really hopeful" that France will soon be able to conclude an agreement with Canada and other countries to get newsprint. He would probably discuss this matter with Trade Minister Howe while here.

Approve Program Protect Hemisphere

WASHINGTON, April 6 (CP)—The American Foreign Ministers Conference virtually finished its work Thursday by approving all points of a military and economic program designed to protect this hemisphere against aggression.

Each of the 21 countries will build up its armed forces. Special units of these forces may be used both to protect the Western hemisphere and to support United Nations efforts elsewhere. Approval was unanimous on this question.

Must Carry Extra

TORONTO, April 6 (CP). — Dr. Brock Chisholm believes Canada must carry an extra load for people who can't carry their own share. The director-general of the United Nations world health organization told the Empire Club Thursday that emotional tension is increasing because poor nations are beginning to realize the riches of others.

Break Up Ice Jam

MEDICINE HAT, April 6 (CP) —The South Saskatchewan River at Medicine Hat Thursday was unimpeded by ice obstructions which for almost a week held a flood threat over the city. Army demolition forces broke up the main ice jam, five miles downstream, with dynamite and were returning to the city. Emergency flood headquarters were closed.

Cost-of-Living Worrying Legislature

By The Canadian Press.

The sessions of two legislatures, Saskatchewan and Ontario, ended Thursday.

Two other legislatures, Prince Edward Island and Quebec, prorogued for 1951 a short time ago, leaving six still in session.

Provincial C. M. Fines told the final sitting of the Saskatchewan House that wages of the province's 5,000 civil servants will cost an extra $600,000 in the coming fiscal year because they are tied to the cost-of-living index.

He said the Legislature would have to approve supplementary estimates of at least $600,000.

"I consider the cost-of-living increases one of the greatest problems facing Canada at the present time," he said. "No apparent steps are being taken to remedy the difficulty."

Referring to a news story announcing a 4.5-point climb, he added: "This item alone will do more to develop Communism in Canada than all the work their organizations could do in the next six months."

Eight New Industries

The annual interim report of the Nova Scotia Department of Trade and Industry revealed eight new industries in that province last year. Considerable progress was also made on a $4,500,000 fisheries development.

The New Brunswick Legislature's municipalities committee approved 10 bills, including one that extends redemption date of some Saint John school-board debentures from 25 to 40 years. A second gives the common council power to increase the membership of the Saint John Transportation Commission from three to five.

The Alberta government's bill to permit export of natural gas to Montana for essential defence purposes passed through clause-by-clause consideration in committee without a single change. It now requires only third reading in the legislature and royal assent to become law.

Decide Shooting Just An Accident

UXBRIDGE, April 6—(CP)—Provincial police said Thursday night the fatal shooting of Ronald Brunell, 16, Tuesday in the bedroom of his home was an accident.

Police believe the boy was raising his .22 calibre rifle to fire at a bird when he tripped, discharging the rifle which sent a bullet into his head.

Join In Mourning

TORONTO, April 6 (CP). — The Toronto Men's Press Club will drape black ribbons on the front door of its club rooms today in mourning for La Prensa, Buenos Aires newspaper seized by the Argentine government. At the suggestion of the National Press Club of Washington, D. C., many newspapers and radio stations in the United States will fly flags at half staff for La Prensa.

PORTIA WHITE

Noted Singer Coming To City

Portia White, brilliant young Canadian contralto, will sing a special concert in Peterborough on Wednesday next at the Collegiate auditorium.

Miss White, whose voice was termed "wonderfully rich" by the New York Times, will appear at the collegiate under the auspices of the Mr. and Mrs. Club of Trinity United Church, and the choir of that church.

She was born in Truro, Nova Scotia, and later moved with her family to Halifax, where her father was minister of the Cornwallis Baptist Church.

In 1944, Miss White made her debut in New York, returned to Canada, and after appearing in a command performance before the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice, gave her second Town Hall recital in New York.

The New York Herald Tribune spoke of her voice as "a magnificent vocal instrument . . . and she has sufficient musicianship and intelligence to do what she wishes with it."

Millbrook News

Mr. Wilfred Moncrief, Fowler's Corners, a student teacher from Peterborough Normal school, is teaching this week at Cork school, Cavan, under the direction of Mrs. Aubrey Hunter. Miss Betty North of Millbrook is at the Lake school, South Monaghan, where Mrs. Montgomery is the teacher.

The many friends of P. I. Bentley, county clerk, who has been ill in St. Joseph's hospital for two weeks, will be glad to know he is on the road to recovery.

Discuss Defence

SAINT JOHN, N. B., April 6 (CP).—Civil defence preparations were among subjects discussed Thursday at the annual meeting of the Dominion Council of Professional Engineers. The public relations report submitted for the Ontario association by W. H. M. Laughlin, stressed importance of the profession in the present industrial defence program. The profession could serve even better if it were better understood by the public, the report said, and a program of closer press and radio relations was outlined.

Sure Of Victory If Given Home Freedom

LONDON, April 6—(AP)—The Daily Telegraph said Thursday General MacArthur believes the UN forces could defeat the Chinese Communists if politicians would "take the wraps off" and authorize his forces to do the job.

The newspaper said this in a dispatch from its military correspondent, Lt.-Gen. H. G. Martin, telling of an interview with MacArthur before Martin left Tokyo for Hong Kong Wednesday. The dispatch quoted MacArthur as saying it was time politicians faced up to realities. The politicians were not named.

The despatch coincided with reports from British officials that the Communists in Korea were stepping up their air war against the UN forces, although the sources said there had been no evidence that the Russians are giving the North Koreans and Chinese help in an openly actice way.

New Offensive

Martin's interview with MacArthur also disclosed a forthcoming Communist Korean offensive. Martin wrote that the Chinese Communists are preparing to deliver a haymaker designed to throw UN forces out of Korea. He said the UN advance, covered by superior firepower, had thrown the Chinese off balance and delayed the planned counter-offensive, adding that now it is probably planned for May.

The dispatch attributed only a few statements directly to MacArthur, but it was written as a summary of information Martin obtained from the UN commander.

"For the first time in his military career he found himself in a war without a definite objective," the dispatch said. "Apparently referring to recent pronouncements about the 38th parallel, he said it was not the soldier who had encroached on the realm of the politician, but the politician who had encroached on that of the soldier.

"The true object of a commander in war was to destroy the forces opposed to him. But this was not the case in Korea.

"The situtian would be ludicrous if men's lives were not involved. South Korean casualties, however, already amounted to 230,000, and U.S. casualties, 60,000.

"Every month there were between 6,000 and 7,000 more U.S. casualties . . ."

Organized Labor Helps Mobilization

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Organized labor Thursday made its first move back into the mobilization program which it bolted five weeks ago. Union chiefs agreed to serve on President Truman's 17-man advisory mobilization board.

Union leaders said they hoped it would lead to a solution of the problems which led to their boycott of the program Feb. 28 because of alleged "big business" domination.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Send Leaflets With Cheques Tell How To Stretch Money

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, April 6 — (CP) — Pamphlets fluttered recently from envelopes containing family allowance cheques—telling Canadian mothers how to stretch their food dollars.

The green sheets held the Health Department's recommendations for bucking the rising cost of living. There were several economizing hints. Housewives were urged to make their own relishes and salad dressings; supplement whole milk with skim milk, fluid or powdered; use Grade B eggs for baking; serve fish, eggs, cheese, beans, liver, kidney, heart or tongue instead of roasts and chops, and do their own baking.

Distribution of the first several thousand pamphlets evoked letters from only nine recipients. These included one from a bakery firm which complained about the home baking recommendation.

The Health Department does not make a habit of including pamphlets with its family allowance cheques. In fact these bulletins are not distributed more than once or twice a year. It wouldn't be psychologically sound to distribute them frequently.

Those in the know say it's human nature to pass up reading material that's always there. On the other hand an occasional pamphlet whets the immediate interest.

Diet For Elders

Nutrition experts in the Federal Health Department say it's time to get away from the "toast and tea" idea when considering the diet of older persons.

"We think very strongly that old persons need more protein than they are accustomed to eating," said one official. He explained this partly is because of a "slowing down" of metabolism.

"Old persons rationalize themselves out of their protein," he said. "They say meat is hard to chew, cheese is constipating, milk is for the babies . . ."

While they should be eating a variety of foods, they tend to "narrow their diets down more and more."

High Ovens

Do you prefer a stove with a high oven to the low ones that manufacturers now are putting on the market? It would seem most women do.

The Canadian Association of Consumers has a survey under way to determine family preference on this matter. It grew out of complaints from several housewives that they are unable to buy any "high oven" stoves.

Memebers still are flooding CAC headquarters with their views, and so far most of them favor the high ovens.

Suggestions from Canadian housewives soon may be cutting kitchen capers in the industrial design committee of the National Gallery. At the suggestion of this committee the CAC asked its 13,000 members for ideas on improved design for household articles, and they're getting plenty.

One housewife asked for "an egg-beater that doesn't fall out of the bowl." Another suggested "plastic lamp-shades without cotton trimming" in order that all parts of the shade may be washed."

Edith Berardi Weds L. V. Cupik, RCAF

At the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church last Saturday morning, nuptial vows were pledged by Edith Teresa Berardi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Berardi of Peterborough, and Mr. Laurence Vincent Cupik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cupik of Toronto. The mass was said by the Rev. Dr. F. M. Grant who performed the ceremony.

Lilies and daffodils decorated the church for the wedding. Mrs. C. O'Donnell was at the organ and Mr. Anthony DeNoble was soloist. During signing of the register he sang "Ave Maria."

The bride was wearing a beautifully modelled gown of Chantilly lace over white satin. The fitted bodice was finished with a Queen Anne collar and fastened at the back with tiny self-covered buttons and the sleeves were long and pointed. The flared skirt extended in a long graceful train. A Queen Anne neaddress held her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mr. Berardi gave his daughter in marriage and her only attendant was her sister Miss Mary Berardi. She was frocked in pink taffeta, designed with sweetheart neckline, and her matching hat was in Normandy style. She carried a nosegay of daffodils.

Groomsman was Mr. Joseph Berardi, brother of the bride.

The reception was in the Sacred Heart club room where the bride's mother assisted to receive dressed in navy and white figured crepe and wearing navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

When leaving later on a wedding trip to Montreal the bride wore a tan gabardine suit with brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Cupik will make their home in Montreal where the groom is stationed with the RCAF.

Conroy-Clark Nuptials Held At Sacred Heart

A wedding at the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church Saturday morning, performed by the Rev. John G. Maskey, was of Teresa Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark, 512 Chamberlain St., to Mr. Joseph Clare Conroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Conroy, also of Peterborough.

Easter lilies and springtime flowers decorated the altar. Mrs. Marion Aman played the wedding music and Mr. Anthony DeNoble sang during the ceremony and signing of the register.

The bride was attired in a navy gabardine suit and wore a grey straw hat with flower trim and grey accessories, and had a corsage of pink roses. She was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Helen O'Reilly who was wearing a grey suit with navy straw hat and navy accessories and pink roses in a corsage.

The groom's brother Mr. Eldon Conroy was his attendant and ushers were Harry Clark and Gerald McGillis.

The reception was at the Kawartha Country Club where the bride's mother received in a dress of grey gabardine with blue straw hat and corsage of red roses. The groom's mother also received wearing a navy ensemble and navy straw hat and red roses. Guests were present from London, Hamilton, North Bay, Lindsay and Campbellford.

As her going-away outfit the bride wore a grey flowered dress, black velvet hat and black accessories and a wine shortie coat. After a honeymoon in the United States the couple will live at 701 George St.

Miss B. Carnochan Bride Of Vernon O'Brien

In a double ring wedding ceremoney at the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church Saturday morning, Blanche Norma Carnochan became the bride of Mr. Vernon Elwin O'Brien with the Rev. Gerard Sullivan officiating and saying the nuptial mass. The bride is daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Carnochan. The groom is son of Mrs. O'Brien and the late Michael James O'Brien, all of Peterborough.

The floral setting at the altar was Easter lilies and snapdragon. Rev. Sister Armand played the wedding music and Miss Joy Christian sang "On this day" and other hymns.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Alex Johnson, the bride wore a gown of white satin with yoke of lace and the bodice gathered with seed pearls. The skirt was trimmed with a lace peplum and fell into a flowing train. Her train-length veil of embroidered net was caught to a tier of white satin with lily of the valley and her bouquet was of sweetheart roses with maidenhair fern.

As matron of honor, Mrs. M. Pelland, the groom's sister, wore a yellow embossed nylon frock with mittens and picture hat of matching net and lace. Bridesmaids Miss Lillian Dack and Miss Barbara Cranley wore frocks on similar lines of pink and blue with mittens and hats to match. They carried old-fashioned nosegays of roses and carnations.

Groomsman was Gary Roscoe and the ushers were John O'Brien, brother of the groom, and Raymond Schell.

At the reception in the Colonial Room, Mrs. Alex. Johnson, the bride's sister, received in a dress of grey gabardine, wearing green accessories and a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore navy and grey crepe with matching accessories and white carnations.

Leaving on the honeymoon trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls the bride was wearing a navy gabardine suit with powder blue topcoat and accessories and her corsage was of red roses.

On return, Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will live at 431 Stewart St.

Oriental Costumes Add Color To Missions Meeting

Each member of the Trinity Women's Federation, as she entered the home of Mrs. Charles Huffman, Charlotte St., Wednesday evening, was surprised to be received by attendants gowned in Chinese and Japanese costumes. These gowns reflected the theme of the meeting which was devoted to christian missions.

Mrs. James Clark was in charge of the program which included a skit, outlining the missionary work now done by the United Church, and possible future endeavors. Those taking part were Mesdames R. A. Philp, James Clark, Charles Huffman, Robert Dimma and K. Gibson. Mrs. James Turnbull read the scripture.

President, Mrs. Stanley Johnston presided over the business meeting.

Suzanne Huffman brought the evening to a close with her fine playing of "Valse Miniature."

Mrs. C. L. McIntyre moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and all those taking part on the program.

Refreshments were served.

Mr. Johnston was warden of Peterborough county in 1947 and was for several years reeve of North Monaghan.

"Canadian Women Most Beautiful" Beauty Expert

North American women — and especially Canadian women— are among the most wholesomely beautiful n the world, accordng to Miss Gwen Foster who conducted a beauty school in Peterborough Thursday.

Miss Foster, who has travelled over a major part of the world in the interests of beauty, told a class of 18 ladies from this city and surrounding district, that the common sense approach to personal beauty is the one which suits Canadian women best.

Two main reasons why women of this continent are held in such high esteem for their beauty were given by Miss Foster. "Our standard of living in Canada is among the highest in the world" she said, "and this automatically means that you reflect this high standard in your own appearance."

She told her class the other reason Canadian women are so highly attractive is because more and more is being done to educate them in the proper use of skin care and make-up. As an example of this, her own famous English company sent her to Peterborough to teach the ladies behind the cosmetic counters how they may help women properly select the correct cosmetics.

Miss Foster's beauty school was open only to the cosmetic saleslaadies who were sent by the stores where they are employed.

Speaking of the 1951 Canadian woman, Miss Foster says she will be the busiest woman in peacetime history. "She will have less time for beauty—but she will not want to be less beautiful."

Miss Foster's own beauty treatment routine is a simple one. She washes her face with soap and water, follows with a cleansing cream, a quick massage with a night cream, and then a toning lotion. She says it is not necessary to spend "hours" on skin care. Any woman should be able to find 15 minutes or so a couple of times a week to serve her own best feature—her beauty.

Asks For Clothing For Bale To India Mission

WMS of Knox United Church met on Thursday afternoon in the church parlors for the Easter thank-offering meeting, which was well attended. President Mrs. Ernest Mesley presided and Mrs. Harold Lewis was pianist.

An invitation to attend Helen Roger Auxiliary meeting in May was read by Miss Susan Summers. Mrs. Fred Milburn gave an excellent report on incoming supplies for a bale to an Indian mission. Mrs. Milburn made an appeal for good used clothing and contributions for shipping expenses for a bale to be sent to Greece and Italy. It was moved and seconded that $5 from the expense fund be sent to the Cancer Society.

Mrs. Howard Clegg, convener of program committee for missionary Sunday extended an invitation to the ladies to attend the service to be held on Sunday evening, April 15, when Mrs. Col. Ritchie will be guest speaker, and will also lead in a song service which she will accompany with a guitar.

Mrs. Cecil Gertley, associate members' secretary, conducted the worship service, assisted by associate members; Mrs. Joe Lancashire led in prayer; Mrs. George Hutchinson read scripture; Mrs. James Marchen and Mrs. Lewis sang a duet, "Go Home and Tell" and were accompanied by Mrs. Harry Williamson. Mrs. Jack Allen took up the offering.

Mrs. Major Everitt Sr., guest speaker, likened the church to a garden. "A church like a garden is separated. Its people are to be a separate people. A church like a garden is protected by the power of God. Christ-like characters of the church are likened to beautiful flowers in the garden, bringing healing to hearts in need," she said.

Mrs. Everitt illustrated her talk with timely stories, and also dramatized a playlet, "Christ's Cross and Mine."

Mrs. Percy Killingbeck moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Everitt for her very fine message.

Art Teacher Urges Using Talent

MONTREAL, (CP). — Mrs. Peter Douet, Montreal artist, says too many people are content to sit back and watch instead of developing their own talents.

She told a women's group here that nearly everyone has some creative talent. It perhaps only needs to be stirred up a bit. Mrs. Douet, who teaches art with her husband, said the association for physical and health education and recreation has found "spectatoritis" on the increase and this is not good.

An example, says Mrs. Douet, is one business man who attended a few of her art classes. He told her he never realized what fun and relaxation there was in painting. And painting is one thing that just about everyone can do, she says.

They don't have to be master painters. They can get plenty of satisfaction daubing away at a canvas with their own creations.

These are designs intended to make a young matron look her prettiest on Mother's Day. Two-piece jacket dress (above) is pale blue, has top in cotton lace.

Dress with bolero (left) is pure silk print in iris and forget-me-not blue. Pure silk shantung (above) is golden tan worn with chignon cap in natural straw.

Of Interest to Women

Subtle Flattery Featured In Mother's Day Styles

By GAIL DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— The prettiest girl on the avenue on Mother's Day will be, of course, mother. She'll wear fashions designed especially for the trim, mature figure.

Pure silk shantung, a fabric that's well-loved this spring, makes a dress with diagonal lines in a warm golden tan. A diagonal closing begins at the neckline and, with self buttons, continues to the hem. The collar is cut double. A large, cuffed, elephant-ear pocket adds skirt interest.

The delicate colors of one pure silk print would make it exactly right for the mother with a fragile look. In shades of iris and forget-me-not blue, it has slim lines and a brief bolero jacket. Both jacket and neckline of the sheath dress under it are sprinkled with twinkling blue sequins in various shades of blue. The bolero has a flat notched collar and three-quarter-length sleeves.

Pale blue, a lovely color for the young matron whose hair is blonde, is used for a trim two-piece dress. The belted jacket is in cotton lace with collar, cuffs, belt, front binding and pocket flaps in the linen of the straight skirt.

DOROTHY DIX

Complaining Mother Hard Woman To Make Contented

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My mother is a middle-aged woman, a widow. She has a small income which my brother and I augment. She complains of ill-health, but we think it is just a mental condition. My husband and I both work. We have tried every way we know to make mother happy and comfortable without avail. She has been in rooms, with strangers, has lived with and old lady, has lived with us and we have lived with her, and she is not contented with any of the arrangements. What is my duty to her as a thankful, appreciative daughter, and yet as a loyal, helpful wife, for my mother objects strenuously to my husband and I pooling our earnings in a common fund? How can I balance home and husband, mother and career without losing my mind? X

Dorothy Dix

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWER: Evidently your mother is one of the querulous, ill-balance, neurotic, selfish women whom nobody on earth can please and who would not be satisfied and contented under any conditions, so it is folly for you to wear yourself out in the vain attempt to make her happy. She doesn't want to be happy. She wants something to complain about, some grievance to whine over, and she gets a sadistic pleasure in making other people as wretched as she thinks she is herself.

Wants to Wreck Your Marriage

Your mother's grievance now is that her children are married and her home is broken up, and so she is trying to break up your home and dissatisfy you with your husband and make you feel that he isn't dealing fairly with you on the money question — though the fifty-fifty joint checking arrangement is generally considered to be an equitable way of settling the money problem between husbands and wives.

Under such circumstances, when your mother is always fault-finding and pecking at your husband and your husband naturally resents it, it will be disastrous for you to have her as a member of your household. So the best arrangement you can make is just to make her a monthly allowance and let her live where she pleases. She will be far better off among strangers than she will be with either of you children because she will have to control herself when with others.

Probably all of her ill-health is imaginary. Why don't you have a competent physician make a thorough examination of her, so that you will know whether you have cause to be really anxious about her or are worrying unnecessarily? But you have my sincere sympathy A woman who has to act as a buffer between her husband and her mother gets some mighty hard knocks.

✣ ✣ ✣

DEAR MISS DIX: Can a plain-faced girl become as popular as a pretty one? When a girl has a date with a boy, what should she talk to him about and how should she act? Should a girl meet a boy halfway in being friendly and be the first to speak when they meet. A SCHOOLGIRL

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWER: Certainly a plain-faced girl can be popular. Some of the most popular girls I know haven't an atom of good looks to bless themselves with, but they have other qualities that attract people to them. They are bright and interesting to talk to. They are good-natured and friendly. They are good dancers and good at outoor sports.

No general rule can be given for a conversational line. Talk must be spontaneous and inspired by the time and place and circumstances. You won't make a mistake, though, when you talk to a boy about himself and when you get him started on his own hobbies and interests.

Be friendly to boys. Show them that you enjoy their society, but don't gush over them. It is always good policy to keep a boy guessing.

✣ ✣ ✣

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Is it fair for my husband to look at television every minute he is in the house? Television is all he cares about. He hasn't taken me out in the evening since we got the set. He never even talks anymore. Please give me some encouragement, as I am about ready to give up. MRS. S. F. S.

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWER: Many another woman has a husband who is a television hound and wishes he would take to drink or any other vice, but no one has as yet found any method that would wean an addict from his program. The only suggestion I can make for your relief is to become addicted yourself or put on your hat and go out to the movies.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

When Six Pound of Butter Used To Fry Dozen Eggs

Listen girls — every day in every way things are getting better.

Imagine how you would jump on my head if I ever so much as dared suggest using one-quarter pound of butter to fry a dozen eggs.

I quote from Hannah Glasse's "Servant's Directory or Housekeeper's Companion" published in England about 1747.

"If I have not wrote in the high polite Stile I hope I shall be forgiven, for my Intention is to instruct the lower sort—(sort of undemocratic of the old party, isn't it?)—and therefor must treat them in their own way. In many ways the great cooks have such a high way of expressing themselves that the poor Girls are at a loss to know what they mean; and in all Receipt books yet printed there are such an odd Jumble of Things as would quite spoil a good dish. I have heard be dropped into bubbling hot bacon fat or butter so that the edges of a Cook that will use 6 pounds of butter to fry a dozen eggs, when every Baby that understands cooking knews that half a pound is full enough .....But then it would not be French. So much for the Blind Folly of this Age, they would rather be impos'd upon by a French Booby than give encouragement to a good 'English cook.'" End of quote. The bracketed interpolations are Emem's.

It's enough to make a body bitter, Hannah—now we will proceed with our not-so-blind-folly of the Age.

Did you ever hear anyone describe a fried egg as standing up? I have a friend who wants her fried eggs "standing up" or "high"—and she does not mean that she does not sit down to eat them or that there is a stench about them either. They must of the white immediately cook and bubble and shrink in close to the yolk.

Eggs Fried in Butter or Margarine

For six eggs to be fried in a pan 8 inches in diameter at the bottom use 4 tablespoons butter or margarine and heat until it bubbles but is not brown. Slip the eggs in quickly keeping heat high until the butter is reheated for the eggs cool it. Sprinkle the eggs with salt and pepper, cover and then reduce heat as much as possible. It takes 5 minutes on my electric stove to cook a thin film of white over the yolks on top. That is how the Moore family likes them.

Eggs Fried a La Suisse

For six eggs put three tablespoons each butter and cream in hot frying pan. When it bubbles, slip in eggs, and when they are a little "set" baste them with the creamy butter, tipping the pan to do so. When they are cooked enough to please you and your family serve on a round of white bread toasted, and pour the cream remaining in pan over each egg.

New School

The Rev. V. J. Gillogly of Enismore, told the audience that "we have been living in the past too long and we must expand and live for the future."

Other Speakers

Best wishes for the success of the school came from Dr. Ralph Honey, chairman of the Peterborough board of education; John Doyle of the Peterborough Separate School board, and Mrs. Harold R. Scott, wife of the Minister of Lands and Forests.

Reeve Ross Harrison of Smith township brought greetings to the school board and the Home and School Association. The board and the H. & S. were also complimented on their work by R. F. Downey, former school inspector for Peterborough west. Mr. Anderson, the chairman, read the regrets of Premier L. M. Frost, and Leo Copp, principal of Peterborough Normal School.

Readings were given by Mrs. John Hardill and Mrs. J. Smith, and a solo, "Bless This House," was sung by Roy Wilfong. A violin and piano medley of Irish tunes was given by Mrs. Clayton Telford and A. Seidel.

Mr. Fraser was introduced by K. O. Birken, inspector of schools for Peterborough east, and thanked by Don McKay, member of the Bridgenorth school board.

Two four-year-old girls, Linda Connors and Carolyn Lillow, dressed in the school colors of green and yellow, presented Mr. Fraser with a letter, telling him a bouquet of flowers had been sent to Mrs. Fraser.

Buffet lunch was served in the junior room, and tea was poured by Mesdames W. S. Ray, L. Richardson, and James Johnson, and Miss Mary Pringle. Convener was Mrs. A. Connors.

Vandals' Target

PORT ARTHUR—(CP)—Acting Mayor George Wardrope called for "drastic action" against vandals who break the glass in parking meters here. In one day recently the little glass windows were broken in 14 out of 17 newly-installed meters.

British Doctor Demands Ban On Bread Bleach

HULL, England (CP)—A drive for an official ban against the sale of bread made from "agenised" flour has been launched by Dr. John Coghlan, a Hull practiontioner.

Thousands, he says, have died as the result of eating the chemically-treated bread, while the health of thousands more is menaced. He has appealed for six human "guinea pigs" to help him prove that his warning is well-founded.

Agenisation, in which flour is mixed with nitrogen trichloride to give a larger and whiter loaf, has been a general practice in Britain for more than 25 years. Discontinuance of the process was recommended last year by a joint committee of the Ministries of Health and Food. At the time, however, it was declared that agenisation had no harmful effects on human beings.

Acts Like Heroin

Dr. Coghlan disagress. Agene, he says, is poisonous and has the same effect on the heart and brain as heroin. A two-pound loaf of bread, he claims, contains about 25 milligrams of agene, while tests had proved that two milligrams, the amount of three ounces of bread, was sufficient to kill a ferret.

"Experimenting with human guinea pigs I could show in a week, unknown to themselves, they have become drug addicts through consuming agene," Dr. Coghlan said.

A spokesman for the Ministry of Health said use of agene-treated flour would continue until chemists have found a satisfactory substitute.

"Although we decided against agenised flour, there has never been any reason to fear its effects on the public," he added. "There has been no reason why a decision on agene-treated flour should be made in haste."

Church Fellowship Club Meets At Ida

CAVAN, April 6—(ENS)—The April meeting of the St. John's Fellowship Club was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Brown, Ida. The president, Clare Winslow, conducted the meeting, which was opened with the scripture reading and prayer by the Rev. A. A. Chote. The secretary, Mrs. T. McCamus, gave a report of the March meeting. This was followed by a business discussion. It was decided to make some improvements to the parish hall and a committee was appointed to contact the building committee regarding this work.

A panel discussion was held, the subject being, "Resolved, that Sunday school class system was a better way of teaching children than junior congregation." Mr. Chote upheld the affirmative and Mr. Winslow the negative. The discussion ended in a tie, each side having the same number of points. Mr. Chote closed the meeting with prayer. The hostess, assisted by the social committee, served lunch. Mr. Roy Lough moved a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Brown for their hospitality, and Mr. and Mrs. Chote invited the club to the rectory in Millbrook for the May meeting.

Son Returned

the mother, echoed a phrase that was used by Judge Smoke at the original trial that Mr. McCreery was "tied to his mother's apron strings."

Counsel said the mother had refused to accede to the grandmother's wishes on feeding, care and treatment of the child. Mr. McCreery always sided with the grandmother when these disputes arose.

While in Toronto the grandmother took the boy to Dr. Allan Crisp, a psychiatrist.

Dr. Crisp found that the boy had a kind of mother-child complex, described as "pre-schizoid." He broke out in bursts of wild profanity, the doctor said, and unless action were taken he would become insane.

"Mistreated Boy"

Mr. McCreery contended he removed young David from his wife's care to "preserve the mental health of the child." He said his wife mistreated the boy and taught him the profane language.

Mr. Justice Laidlaw said he was astounded by Dr. Crisp's conclusion that Mrs. McCreery should not be allowed to raise her own child. He said the doctor only took evidence from the grandmother, whom he described as "venomous in her attitude to the mother of the child."

"Very little weight should be given to the psychiatrist's evidence in this case," said Justice Laidlaw. "There was much evidence to indicate unfairness toward the mother, not only by the father but also by the parents of the father to the child."

Parents' Control

In awarding custody Justice Laidlaw said the court hoped the father would divest himself of the control of his own parents had over him. With the child away from the grandmother's influence, he hoped the parents would be reunited.

In the original trial, held in the Surrogate Court, Peterborough, Judge Smoke found that both father and mother should shoulder some of the responsibility.

The father, he said, was "tied to his mother's apron strings," and the mother was "far from easy to get along with and made too much of incidental matters."

"Profanity From Mother"

"It is my opinion that the mother-child relationship was responsible for the outburst which took place in Dr. Crisp's office," said Judge Smoke, "and that profanity which the child had learned came largely from the mother."

The best interests of the child would be served by awarding custody to the father for a year, said the judge, or until another application was made by the mother. The mother, however, was to have reasonable access to the child.

Mrs. McCreery appealed this judgment and her appeal was upheld by the Supreme Court.

Her husband will be allowed reasonable access to the boy but she has the right to apply to the court to restrict this freedom. She may also apply in local court for maintenance in the event they cannot reach some other satisfactory agreement.

Allied Troops Wary As Advance Through Mine Field

By OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO, April 7. (AP)—Allied troops pushed warily today through minefields and booby traps in pursuit of Communists retreating deeper into North Korea. The United Nations advance was over central and western battle fronts pock-marked with suden death—mines, booby-trapped mortar shells and concealed pits designed to catch tanks. The Reds sent 40 Russian-made MIG jets flying over northwest Korea near the Manchurian border. They were jumped by 50 US F-84 Thunderjets in a wild dogfight above Sinuiju.

American pilots claimed two Red jets were damaged—one of them probably destroyed. All the Thunderjets returned safely to their bases.

All Above Border

U.N. ground forces were all north of Parallel 38 except at one point in the centre. Their main problem was consolidating the gains won with no opposition other than the traps.

Almost all across the front Hills had been cleared of Red Chinese and North Koreans.

The only hard fighting was in the area immediately north of Yongong and up the Hanggye-Inje road east of Chunchon. Stubborn Reds were dug in both places.

Before suddenly pulling back to the high ground north of the Hantan River the Communists sowed trails and roads with mines. Their fade-back was in the face of heavy Allied artillery that helped American troops clear five hills on the Hanggye-Inje road for slight advances.

Friday's action was light. U.S. Eighth Army headquarters claimed only 300 Communists killed or wounded and 37 prisoners taken.

Gap Held By Reds

U.N. troops were inside North Korea all the way from the Imjin River in the west to the Sea of Japan in the east except for the gap held by the stubborn Reds along the Hanggye-Inje road. American troops in that road sector still had not crossed 38 but were approaching the border.

The Chinese seemed determined to defend Yongchon, a road junction six miles inside North Korea. They threw up rugged tank defences which included deep craters and road blocks and blew the highway bridge just south of Yonchon.

On the Korean east coast strong Allied naval forces gave big-gun support to South Koreans advancing westward from Yangyang.

The naval guns continued their bombardment of Wonsan, Chongjin and Songjin, all far up the east coast.

U.S. Air Force planes took part Friday in 450 sorties against the Communist build-up areas.

Mountain Range Named After French Premier

OTTAWA, April 7 (CP). — Canada will have a permanent memento of the visit of President Vincent Auriol of France.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced last night that a range of the Kluane Mountains in the Yukon has been named for M. Auriol, first French President to visit Canada.

The newly-named mountains form part of the Kluane chain stretching across the southern Yukon. Towering to 7,580 feet above sea level, these snow-capped peaks overlook the Alaska highway to the north and, to the south, Skagway, famous port of entry to the Yukon in the days of the gold rush.

Only one other person has received a similar honor from Canada. Castle Mountain in the Rockies was renamed Mount Eisenhower on the occasion of the first visit of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to Canada in January, 1946.

The Canadian government's decision to name the mountains for M. Auriol was announced by Mr. St. Laurent at a state dinner in the Chateau Laurier Hotel. The dinner was closed to newspaper men, but Mr. St. Laurent's announcement was issued through his office.

In Quebec

M. Auriol, in Quebec today on another lap of his five-day official visit, went to the dinner directly from a special train that returned him here from Toronto where he spent half a day. He arrived in Canada Thursday.

The President was presented with an album, bound in scarlet leather, containing a photograph of the Auriol Mountains and a map of the region. The album bore the Canadian coat-of-arms.

Red Trawlers Seen In Channel

LONDON, April 7—(Reuters)—A fleet of Russian trawlers steamed by the white cliffs of Dover today—for the second time in a year—reported on their way to the Far East by way of the Mediterranean.

Observers on the southeast coast of Britain said they saw nine of the vessels in the Straits of Dover about eight miles off shore heading westwards in line ahead—Naval fashion.

Last time the Russians steamed through the Channel, last May, they touched off a guessing campaign in the British press as to reasons for the trip and probable destination.

They made headlines for several days, particularly as their trip coincided with the start of naval exercises by the Brussels treaty powers.

No Clash

But this year the trawlers are expected to be well into the Mediterranean before exercises of the Royal Navy's home fleet start in a few weeks.

Naval experts in London stepped in smartly today to discount any significance in the present movement of Russian trawlers.

They regarded the sailing as routine to avoid the iced regions of the Arctic. Winter conditions make the short northern route from the Baltic to Vladivostock, Russia's main submarine base in the Pacific difficult to pass.

Observers who watched the trawlers passing through the channel reported they seemed to be new vessels of the whaler type.

They also reported that there appeared to be some sort of platform at the stern, but Naval experts did not believe these could be used as gun mountings or for mine-laying purposes.

Plane Feared Down With 23 On Board

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7 — (AP)—A Southwest Airline plane missing since last night with 23 persons aboard is feared down in the area of Gaviota Pass, about midway between Santa Maria and Santa Barbara

The plane was last heard from two minutes after it cleared the Santa Maria airport for Santa Barbara. It had 300 gallons of gasoline, or enough for just over three hours' flight.

Boss Of Englishman's Castle Is His Wife, Census Finds

LONDON, April 7 (AP) — An Englishman's home may be his castle, but British census takers conceded today that an Englishman's wife may be its boss.

The question arose concerning the census forms distributed by the registrar-general's office. The government wanted them signed by "the head of the household."

Whom Do You Mean?

A census taker who delivered a form to the Hampstead home of Mrs. Ingwald Kraft was greeted with an icy stare when she read that one.

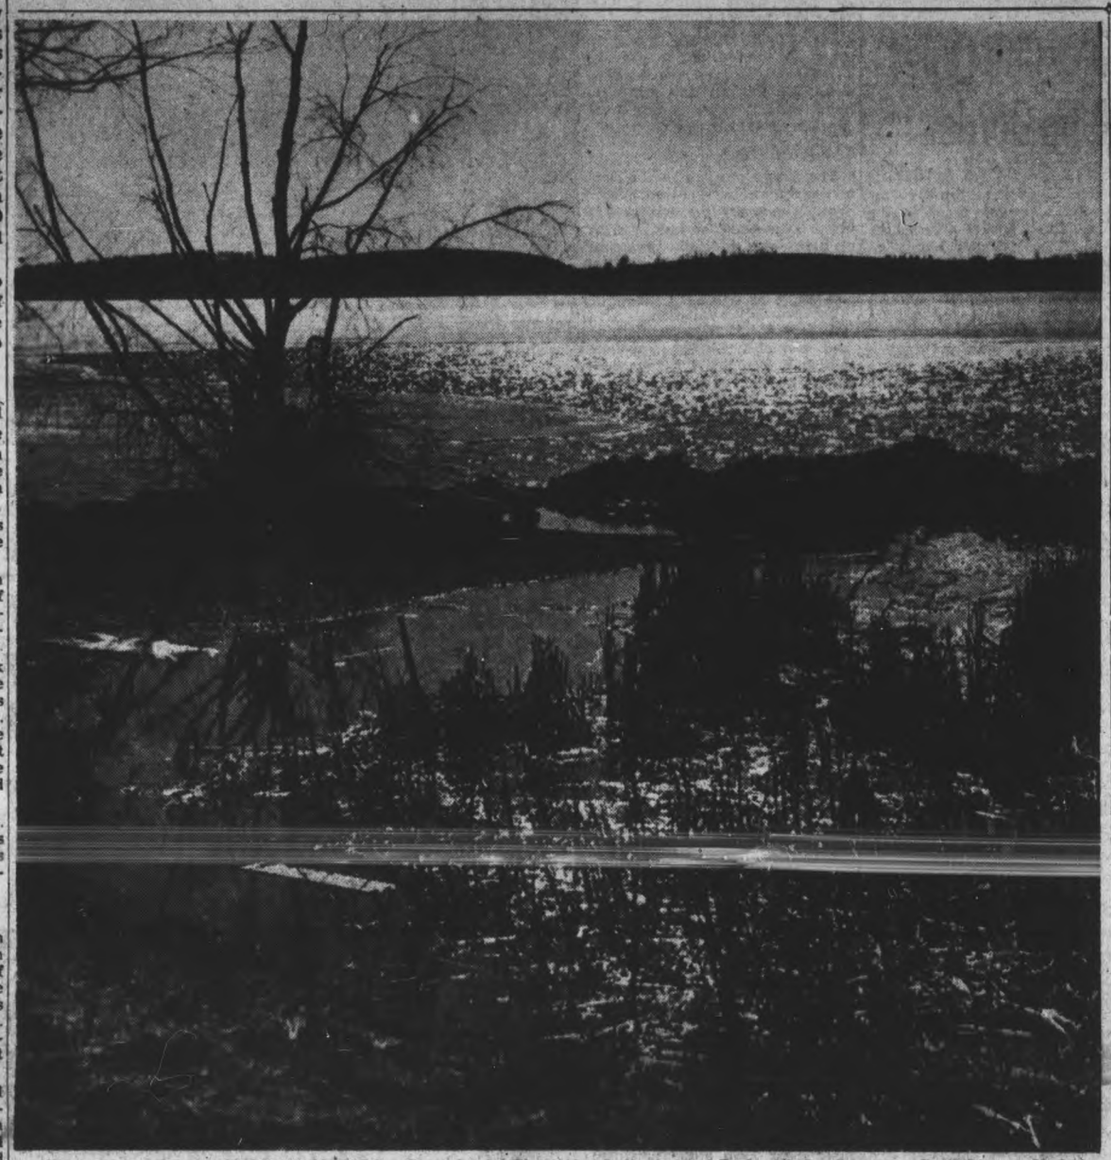
"Head of the household—just whom to do you mean?" she demanded.

The census taker said he was a married man himself and wasn't going to get mixed up in this. He would return next Monday, and, meanwhile, Mrs. Kraft ought to write to the registrar.

She did. She wanted to know, she told the registrar, why the government automatically regards a husband as head man in his home.

The registrar-general's office was as cautious as its census taker. It sent a carefully-worded reply saying it was sorry its census forms should be regarded as "reflecting adversely on the status of women."

Her Decision



"I need hardly assure you that no such reflection is intended," the letter said. "The registrar-general would not wish, even if it were possible for him to do so, to decide who should be regarded as the head of any particular household."

Mrs. Kraft said that was fine with her.

"I refuse to regard men as tinpot little gods," she told reporters. "My husband, who is an engineer, agrees."

And, she insisted, he is not henpecked.

Mr. Kraft will sign the census form with her—as "joints head of the household."

Quebec Paper Brought To Court

MONTREAL, April 7 (CP)—Le Devoir, Montrel French-language daily, was brought in Friday at a probe into alleged vice conditions here some 10 years ago.

Mr. Justice Francois Caron, presiding at the probe, heard a request from city lawyer Edouard Masson, asking that the newspaper be held in contempt of court and fined $3,000 for an article appearing on the probe.

Mr. Masson said Le Devoir recently carried an article "most outrageous in character" saying two city lawyers, including himself, were more interested in the defendants than in the affairs of the city.

Some 40 former and present police officers are named as defendants.

Masson said the article, over the byline of Gerard Filion, a director, also presumed the decision Mr. Justice Caron would render.

After listening to the arguments, Mr. Justice Caron said he would give the newspaper and director an opportunity to explain the matter Monday when the probe continues.

Cars Needed To Move Grain

OTTAWA, April 7. (CP)—Demands for action to crack Canada's boxcar shortage are piling up on the Government's doorstep. Proposals came yesterday from within and outside Parliament as the car scarcity continued to impede the movement of grain and other commodities. In the Commons, Hazen Argue CCF—Assiniboia) called on the Government to appoint a transport controller and to consider putting an embargo on boxcar movements to the United States to force the return of Canadian-owned cars returning too slowly from US railroads. Earlier this week the Saskatchewan Legislature had asked for a controller. Yesterday the Canadian Federation of Agriculture asked for some Government action to get cars to move western wheat.

Transport department officials yesterday said the government has set up a committee, with the wheat board and railways represented, to find means of getting cars to the west.

Needed For Stock

Mr. Argue said millions of bushels of grain could not be moved in the west for lack of rolling stock. This not only affected the west but eastern Canada as well, since the grain was needed for feeding livestock.

His request came during a brief discussion last night on annual estimates of the agriculture department.

Earlier, the House gave first reading to a government bill to change the terms of federal aid to marginal gold-mining companies. The assistance, based on a complex formula hinged to production costs, would amount to between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000 for this year. Under an earlier formula, this year's aid

Bees In Poles Or Bats In Belfry

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP) —The rural electrification administration admittedly is puzzled. But not as much as are some bears.

Riley Fulmer, manager of the Central Electric Co-operative at Clearfield, Pa., wrote the agency the co-op had to replace six poles in the same area in each of the last several years because bears had torn them so badly they were unsafe.

No one seems to know exactly why. But Fulmer believes maybe the animals hear a humming caused by wind blowing against the power lines and think bees are inside the poles.

Millions Of Hours Work Wasted To Build Ice Ship

LONDON, April 7. (Reuters)—Winnipeg-born Sir Charles Goodeve, 47, one of Britain's top wartime researchers, said today that "some millions of man-hours of Allied effort" were wasted on an "absurd" scheme to develop a huge aircraft carrier made of ice. The project was recalled the other day by Earl Mountbatten, who said the material was tested by Winston Churchill in his bathtub. Later Mountbatten demonstrated its toughness by firing revolver bullets at it at an Allied conference.

Goodeve, deputy controller for research and development with the British admiralty at the time, said the scheme—known by the code name of "Habbakkuk"—was to build an aircraft carrier of ice, big enough to take a large part of the RAF to an unprotected part of the French coast to cover allied landings.

"Its size was to be 5,00,000 to 10,000,000 tons," he said in a letter to The Times, "and of a draught of about 125 feet. It was to be externally insulated and fitted with a refrigerating plant . . . and also would be self-propelled."

Used Wood Pulp

Ice by itself wasn't strong enough to stand even an Atlantic swell, he said, but "unfortunately it was found that the strength could be increased 20 times by incorporating in the water, before it was frozen, a high concentration of the wood pulp that is used for making newsprint." This material became known as pykerete.

Judge Orders Fund Examined

TORONTO, April 7 (CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, CCF Opposition Leader in the Ontario Legislature, said in an interview yesterday that Judge Ian Macdonnell has issued an order directing Armand Racine, public trustee for Ontario, to investigate operations of the United Emergency Fund for Britain.

The order is the first made under the new Charities Accounting Act passed by the Ontario Legislature this week and given royal asset Thursday.

Mr. Jolliffe said in the legislature last week that the fund, which closed down several months ago, was reported to have collected $593,000 and sent $800 worth of food parcels to Britain. Former officials of the fund disputed the figures.

Ottawa Regulations Expire New Bunswick Last To Adopt Provincial Plan

PEI Municipalities Allowed To Enter Rent Control Field; Ontario Holds Controls As Now Exist Under Federal Law

By The Canadian Press

All 10 Canadian provinces will maintain some form of control over rents when Federal regulations are allowed to expire April 30. Plans for coast-to-coast control on a provincial basis were completed Friday when the New Brunswick government introduced a bill to provide for freezing of rents from April 30 to July 1, and for municipal control after July 1. New Brunswick municipalities will not be forced to control rents under the legislation. The Government believes they are in the best position to know whether controls are needed and will act accordingly. If no municipality acts before July 1, rent control will disappear altogether in the province.

The N.B. legislation is similar to what is being done in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. P.E.I., now preparing for an election, has authorized municipalities to enter the field, and a similar bill is under discussion in Nova Scotia.

Arbitrate In Quebec

Quebec has passed legislation providing for arbitration of rents which cannot be settled by agreement between landlord and tenant. Ontario plans to take over federal regulations as they are, with a legislature committee to consider whether any changes are necessary.

Newfoundland has had its own rent regulations since before it became part of Canada and Saskatchewan took over rent control from the federal government April 1, 1950.

Legislation on the books in Alberta will take effect April 30, and Manitoba and British Columbia have announced forthcoming control legislation.

The New Brunswick annonucement was made as provincial political activity was waning across Canada. Five of the 10 legislatures have ended their 1951 sessions.

In Edmonton, the Alberta house, due to prorogue today, approved a last-minute measure which will require compulsory safety inspection of all motor vehicles from July 1.

In Halifax, Premier Macdonald criticized a Progressive Conservative advertisement which said the Liberal government could find $1,000,000 for a liquor warehouse but couldn't get money for necessary highway improvement.

Premier Macdonald described the advertisement as a "deliberate attempt to mislead the people." It conveyed the impression that the liquor warehouse money had been spent when it hadn't been borrowed yet, he said.

Ballon Up 26.2 Miles

VIENNA, April 7 (Reuters)—A United States air force weather testing balloon carrying a radio sending set yesterday went up to 138,800 feet—26.2 miles—matching the world's record. The balloon was sent up from an American base near here.

Nickel Coin Wins Grand National Odds At 40 to 1

AINTREE, England, April 7 (Reuters)—Nickel Coin, a game nine-year-old mare, today won the world-famous Grant National after a thrill-packed race in which only a handful of the 36 runners made all the 30 jumps.

Royal Tan was second in the gruelling 4½-mile race, which was run under good weather conditions after early snows and hail.

A total of 36 horses started but Nickel Coin and Royal Tan were the only ones to complete the course without mishap.

Derrinstown which fell but was remounted, was placed third.

The winner was a 40-to-1 shot and Royal Tan, 22 to 1. The price on Derrinstown was 66 to 1.

Arctic Gold, owned by John Hay (Jock) Whitney, of New York, started as the 8-to-1 favorite but was one of the 34 horses to fall.

Nickel Coin is owned by J. Royle, and was ridden by J. Bullock. Nickel Coin won by six lengths over Royal Tan. Derrinstown was a distant third.

Shagreen, bred and trained in Ireland, and Freebooter, also popular choices, fell in the early stages of the race.

Expert Inspects Jet Plane Crash

LONDON, Ont., April 7 (CP)—The head of the RCAF's accident investigation board, Group Capt. F. R. (Pete) West, arrived in London last night to attend personally the investigation into the crash of Canada's top jet fighter, the Avro CF-100.

The twin-engined jet, which was being groomed for a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight in May, plunged into a swamp near here Thursday, killing its crew of two.

The local probe is one of five going on in Eastern Canada in an attempt to find causes for crashes of fighter craft in the last two weeks.

In Ottawa, defence officials announced that the crash has wiped out plans for the Atlantic flight which might have brought to Canada the record for trans-ocean flights. The plane which was to have made the trip now is a litter of wreckage a few miles outside London.

US Morals Said Crumbling Everyone Has Own Solution

By JOHN TRACY

NEW YORK, April 7 (CP)—Americans reading newspapers filled with reports of crime, scandal and corruption have come up against the questions of what has happened to public morality and what can be done about it.

Half a dozen observers of the United States scene this week gave them the answers and suggested remedies ranging from a higher moral tone in top government levels to a change in newspaper policy.

Numerous Stories

Within a fortnight, newspapers have carried stories about a visa racket in a U.S. consulate, arrests in a college basketball betting scandal, a hunt for a corrupt police official and the sentencing of four spies for giving Russia their country's atomic secrets.

In Washington, Senator William Fulbright, head of a committee inquiring into influence in government - authorized loans, spoke to Congress of "moral blindness" in public life.

Most authorities give the American people a clean bill of moral health but suggest that those in public life pull up their ethics.

People Shocked

"The degree of shock . . . . with which some of these revelations have been received is ample evidence that the condition does not reflect the basic temper of this people . . . . " The New York Times said in an editorial. "It is, we think, eminently fair to call upon our national government to give us some leadership at this point and to set us an illuminating example."

The New York Herald Tribune said the government should "insist that at the highest level a respect for plain honesty . . . . prevail." With an easy tolerance or willful blindness at the top, it said editorially, the standards below can hardly be expected to remain high.

Court Convicts Seller Of Sweepstake Tickets

On the eve of the runnng of the Grand National, Samuel Plain, alias John Flannigan, of Wallaceburg, was on Friday arrested in Lindsay and convicted of unlawfully selling sweepstakes tickets.

Plain, who was carrying a list of 287 ticket-selling agents in cities from Vancouver to Quebec, paid $309.50 in fines and costs.

Provincial Corporal John Cronin of the OPP anti-gambling squad, testified he found 14 ticket books in Plain's pockets. Thirteen of the books were empty of tickets.

A statement Plain gave to police was ruled inadmissible in court because neither officer connected with the case had signed the statement as a witness.

It was Plain's third conviction, two previously being registered in similar offences in Chatham. He came to Lindsay about a year ago and apparently has been watched closely by the provincial police.

Pats Poised After Advance To 38th Parallel

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, Korea, April 7 (CP)—Canadian troops in Korea were poised south of the 38th parallel today, while other elements of the 27th commonwealth brigade fought north of the old political dividing line between North and South Korea.

The Patricias led the brigade's push to within a few miles of the parallel, then patrolled the area while Australians and other members of the brigade moved past them into North Korea.

The Canadians met little Communist resistance in their push through the rugged terrain. The battalion scaled five series of ridges and mountains culminating on a majestic snow-capped mountain dominating the approach to it.

Censored

The operation occurred during a security-tight phase of the United Nations campaign when correspondents were not permitted to indicate precisely how close forward troops were to the parallel.

All through the operation the Patricias were the farthest forward in their sector, and when the task was completed they commanded high ground just four miles south of the imaginary boundary.

Their advance contributed seven map miles, but it amounted to more than twice the distance overland. The Canadians made their way up 70-and 80-degree rock faces.

The only part of the Canadian advance which was opposed involved a slight brush with the enemy by the company commanded by Maj. Jack George of Edmonton.

2 Youths Killed Car Hits Truck

OAKVILLE, Ont., April 7—(CP)—Two youhtful Brantford residents were killed and three injured early today when an automobile in which they were travelling to Toronto crashed into the rear of a parked truck on the Queen Elizabeth way at Sheridan, just west of here.

Killed were Donna Harrison, 16 (Cowan St.) and Louis Young, 19.

Injured were Gerald Rowan, 17, (5 Usher St.) who suffered severe shock, broken right leg and broken right arm; Darlene Hunt, 16, (189 Elgin St.), shock and multiple bruises; and Leo Marion, (188 Murray St.) shock and bruises.

Police said the truck was driven by Elmer Gowan, 30, of Freeman, Ont., who escaped injury.

Gowan told police his truck engine had started to heat up and he stopped the vehicle on the shoulder of the highway to let it cool.

The crash spun the car around four times It stopped 100 feet from the point of impact and came to rest facing the direction from which it had come.

The crash occurred shortly after 3 a.m.

One of the injured said the group set out from Brantford for Hamilton "to look for some excitement." Then, unable to find the fun they sought in Hamilton, they headed for Toronto.

Labor MP Demands MacArthur Dismissed

LONDON, April 7—(Reuters)—Michael Foot, Labor member of parliament and one of the party's leading intellectuals, today demanded the dismissal of Gen. MacArthur as United Nations' supreme commander.

"Has not the time come for us to state that British troops will only be allowed to serve under a U.N. commander who will not betray the confidence and defy the authority of that body?" he asked in a letter to the Times.

Here, surely, was a situation which called for the plainest response by the British government, he added.

51 Aussie Reds Seek Election

MELBOURNE, April 7 (Reuters).—The Australian Communist party is running 51 candidates in the approaching federal elections—elections being fought on the issue of outlawing the Communist party.

Nominations closed yesterday. Polling is set for April 28, to pick an entirely-new slate for both the lower house and the upper house.

Outgoing Prime Minister Robert Menzies called for the dissolution which brought the election because his coalition (Liberal-Country) government was hamstrung by a powerful opposition Labor majority in the upper house.

Latest available figures show there are 291 candidates for the 123 seats in the House of Representatives and 111 candidates for the 60 Senate seats—10 for each of the six Australian states.

Nickels Of Steel Circulate Soon

OTTAWA, April 7 — (CP) — Canada is going to quit making nickels out of nickel to save 60 tons a year of the shiny, strategic metal for defence production.

Prime Minister St. Laurent disclosed in the Commons yesterday that after July 1 the Royal Canadian Mint will resume the wartime practice of making five-cent pieces out of steel in a chromium finish. An order-in-council authorizing the change was passed April 4.

The July 1 date is when the mint is expected to run out of nickel for making the pure-nickel five-cent pieces now minted. And chances are it won't be able to get any more. All of Canada's nickel production, now running at more than 100,000 tons a year, will be needed by more-vital industries.

Silver Unchanged

All Canada's other coinage except coppers are made of 80 per cent silver and 20 per cent copper, and won't be affected

Canada has made her nickels of nickel since 1922, except in 1942-43 when copper and zinc were used. This year she issued a five-cent piece commemorating the nickel industry this year. This coin probably will be a casualty of the nickel shortage.

Millions of them already have been issued, but the Mint officials said if no more nickel can be obtained after July 1, their mint-ing will be stopped. It wouldn't mean, one official said, to make a special-commemorating coin out of the thing but nickel.

The commemorative coin has an embossed replica of a nickel refinery on one side and the usual head of the King on the other. Canada's ordinary five-cent coin carries a large "V" and a torch of freedom on its reverse side. These are the coins that will be made of chromium-finished steel after July 1.

Palestine Quiet Along Border

TEL AVIV, Israel, April 7 — (Reuters).—Official reports today said all was quiet in the Syrian-Israeli border area where Israeli planes dropped bombs on Thursday on Syrian army outposts, in retaliation for the shooting of seven Israeli policemen.

Egypt yesterday asked Britain the United States and France to stop "Israeli aggression" against Syria.

Menachem Beigin, leader of the extremist Israeli Freedom movement, formerly the terrorist Irgun Zvai Leumi, said today that Syria's "aggression is the outcome of the Israeli government's appeasement policy."

Speaking at the annual convention of the movement in Nathaniya, Beigin charged the United Nations truce supervision board with being a "disturbing element" which prevented improvement of relations between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

His demand that the activity of United Nations observers in Israel be stopped immediately was endorsed by the convention.

RED CARPET—Toronto laid out the red carpet for French President Auriol when he visited the city briefly while in Canada on a state visit. He is shown in an open car, left, with Lieut.-Gov. Ray Lawson of Ontario, on his way to Queen's Park, where a 21-gun salute greeted him.

Eastwood Tender Accepted To Build Norwood School

HAVELOCK, April 7 (ENS)—The tender of $313,335 submitted by the Eastwood Construction Company of Peterborough for the new high school to be erected for the Norwood area has been accepted at a meeting of the High School Board subject to the approval of the Department of Education, Toronto, and the Ontario Municipal Board. When the bid has been given this approval, the council in the municipality of Norwood, where the school will be erected, will approach the Ontario Municipal Board for permission to sell debentures.

The architect, H. H. Roberts, was present and said he felt the tender accepted by the board was in line with the increased cost in labor and building materials and that he had found in some districts that costs have increased $3 per square foot compared with a year ago.

The other tends submitted were: George Hardy Company, Leaside, $355,364; S. R. McCrory Construction Company, Belleville, $318,953.60; Bradford Horshall Company, Port Hope, $349,315.

A communication was read from C. H. Brown for the Deputy Minister of Education giving information as to re-engaging an unqualified teacher. In the event of an unqualified teacher is on the staff, the board has to advertise that position before May 15 and if no applications are made for the position within a reasonable time the board must make an application to the Department of Education for permission to re-employ the teacher concerned.

Principal S. Breckon reported that there was an enrolment of 113 in the Norwood High School with an average attendance 89 per cent for March. Principal J. H. Caskey gave the enrolment of Havelock High School as 72 with an average attendance of 91.3 per cent. Colds, flu, measles, etc. accounted for the absenteeism for March.

The auditor, R. A. Dean, presented the auditor's report for 1950 and made some very complimentary remarks about the secretary's books. The manner in which the information had been connected with the entries had made the audit an easy matter.

Accounts totalling approximately $3,500 were passed.

Yugoslavia Recalls Envoy From Hungarian Capital

BELGRADE, April 7. (AP)—Signs of increasing tension between the Russian-led Cominform countries and Premier Tito's government developed last night. Yugoslavia formally accused Romania of "dangerous" acts of aggression and recalled her top envoy in Hungary.

(From Prague came word that Bulgaria has asked Yugoslavia to recall the Yugoslav envoy from Sofia, Bulgarian capital, and has protested expulsion of the Bulgarian charge d'affaires in Belgrade. Bulgaria has accused Yugoslav secret police of committing "provocations." Against her representatives.)

Belgrade radio said the foreign ministry had sent a note to Romania "protesting the increasing number of border incidents" on the joint frontier. The note said a total of 61 "incidents" had taken place on the Yugoslav-Romanian border between Dec. 7, 1950, and Feb. 22, 1951.

Later the government announced it had recalled its charge d'affaires in Budapest, Vilko Denovki.

Recall of the envoy stemmed from a fight on a Belgrade stree Saturday night involving Hungarian diplomat Hrabec, Bulgarian deputy military attache Ivan Ivanov, a Yugoslav cab driver, and two unidentified passengers. Since then, Hrabec, suffering from head injuries, returned to Hungary.

Czech Envoys To Move Home

PRAGUE, April 7 (AP). — Communist Czechoslovakia's ambassadors to Washington, London and Paris are to be given new jobs here at home, a source close to all three said yesterday

It is believed the shift may have to do with a widespread shake-up in the foreign ministry which has been going on since its former head, Dr. Vlado Clementis, was arrested and charged with spying.

The three are Dr. Vladimir Outrata, ambassador to the United States since June, 1948; Dr. Rudolf Bystricky, ambassador to Britain since May, 1949, and Dr. Adolf Hoffmeister, ambassador to France since March, 1948.

The source said Outrata is to teach international relations in the school of economic and political science here starting next fall; Bystricky will be given a post in some ministry yet to be decided; Hoffmeister, a writer and caricaturist, is expected to resume his artistic career.

Their successors have not yet been chosen, the source said.

Well Prepared

EDMONTON (CP) — Western army command officials say bulldozers, ambulances, cranes, amphibious vehicles and trucks are readily available uner a stand-by operational plan in case of spring floods in Western Canada. The plans were drawn up after the big Fraser Valley flood of 1948.

Thomson Says Will Cut Gas Tax

KITCHENER, April 7 (CP)—Walter C. Thomson, Ontario Liberal party leader, told a Liberal rally last night that his party will reduce the gasoline tax if returned to power in the next provincial election.

Mr. Thomson also promised the farmers tax-free gas. The present rebate system with its costly accounting will be ended, he added.

The Liberal leader said that liquor profits will be used to buy milk for Ontario children and rapped the government for ex-

"They criticized us in 1943 for spending $92,000,000. They stand condemned now for spending $250,000,000 in 1950," he said.

He denied a rumor that J. G. Brown of Kitchener, member of the Legislature for Waterloo North, would resign to allow him (Thomson) to enter the Ontario House.

"I don't want Jack Brown to give up his seat for me," Mr. Thomson said. "I want him with me in the government to run a department. I will enter the Legislature when I am ready."

would have been some $3,000,000 less.

Opposition members criticized the new aid as "inadequate" asking that Canadian gold producers be enabled to get at least part of the benefits of the current premium price for gold on the world market. The government now buys gold at $35 (U.S. funds) per fine ounce.

Mines Minister Prudham said the government hopes the gold bill will help the mines to meet continuing high costs of production and consequently assist northern communities which derive their livelihood from the mines.

Assistance

He discussed the vital place of the industry in Canada's economic picture and reviewed the assistance program since it first was introduced in 1948. It is being continued because of representations by the industry.

Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) suggested the industry was in for a "very great disappointment." A fundamental problem was that it was squeezed between high production costs and a selling price for its product which was fixed by the government and "tied up" through international agreements.

On the present basis, the legislation was "stop-gap and temporary."

Freighters Sail To Load Ore, Start Season

CLEVELAND, O., April 7 (AP) —Giant ore carriers steamed north today toward Lake Superior to load the first of 90,000,000 tons of iron ore the American mills will need this year.

Even with a start half a month earlier than last year, moving the 90,000,000 tons the Defence Transportation Office says is needed will keep 265 vessels in the ore fleets operating at brisk pace.

Last season only 78,205,000 tons were brought to down-lake ports, and stock piles at furnaces are lower than a year ago.

Fifteen of the carriers left last night and today from Lake Erie ports and were due to enter Marquette, Mich., and Two Harbors, Minn., Sunday.

15 More

Another 15 vessels will leave tonight. Monday the Lake Carriers' Association ice committee will decide whether the remainder of the fleet can embark.

The icebreaker Mackinaw reported yesterday afternoon that the first contingent of carriers should have little difficulty navigating the St. Mary's River from Lake Huron into Lake Superior.

The Mackinaw entered Whitefish Bay late yesterday and was finding the going tough on the way to Michipicoten, on the Canadian side of the international boundary, through Lake Superior.

Today the Mackinaw was to reach Marquette, and by tomorrow break the way for the carriers into Two Harbors, near the west tip of Lake Superior. Today's passage to Marquette was expected to be a fairly easy one, the Mackinaw officers said.

From the Michigan iron-ore port of Escanaba, located in Green Bay off the west side of Lake Michigan, the first cargo of ore cleared yesterday in the interlake freighter Seelwood.

U.S. Memory Expert Forgets Appointments

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., April 7—(AP)—The well-known memory expert, Dr. Franz Polgar, must have forgotten something.

Two Broward county organizations charged in a lawsuit that they lost a lot of money when Dr. Polgar failed to show up for lectures here and in Pompano Beach.

A $3,100 lapse of memory, they called it.

Dr. Polgar, a Hungarian-born hypnotist who performs feats of memory, was given until April 19 to recall why he did not fulfill the alleged speaking contracts.

Hunted Bishop Dies As Police At Door

ATHENS, April 7 (AP)—Germanos Varicopoulos, 84, a bishop of the banned old-calendar sect of the Greek church, died yesterday in a small clinic near here while police guarded the doors, preparing to arrest him.

The bishop had been hiding in a seaside community near Athens when he suffered a stroke. He was taken to the clinic and police were notified.

The Greek government ban on the old-calendar sect has resulted in the exiling of its archbishop and the arrest of more than 20 of its priests. Its dogma is the same as the Greek Orthodox, but it observes church holidays by the old Julian calendar.

Sedate Kingston Bows To Inroads Of Modernity

By R. J. ELLIS
Kingston Whig-Standard Staff Reporter

KINGSTON, April 7—(CP)—Any city is entitled to its idiosyncracies, its foibles and its fancies.

Kingston, it seems, is no exception.

This pictuesque, storied citadel of Upper Canada—proud, aloof, aristocratic if you like—thrives on tradition and to be brutally frank, its superiority.

Now—slowly, hesitantly—it is shedding the mildew of the past. The relentless clamor of industry grows louder every day. Strange languages are heard in the streets, the cafes and beverage rooms. French becomes more common every day.

The once tiny trading post that came into being in July, 1673, now is reaching out hungrily for the living space and industry it needs to survive and progress.

Staid, native Kingstonians laugh at the suggestion that industry will ever usurp the glamor and prestige of old Fort Henry—that formidable and forbidding bastion of the war of 1812 that never saw a battle.

But today industry hums on the city's fringes. There the Aluminum Company of Canada hammers out an endless stream of jetplane parts; shapes and moulds metal plate for submarines, destroyers and corvettes.

Canadian Industries Limited has doubled the capacity of its nylon plant. The Canadian Shipbuilding Company and the Canadian Locomotive Company — Diesel engine manufacturers—are hard at work.

Annexation Battle

Kingston wants to bring those industries under its wing. City council is fighting for it and the chances are it will win out sooner or later. An industrial assessment last year of $3,562,745 out of a total of $35,759,225 isn't big enough. That's why the city is battling to annex 10,000 acres surrounding municipalities where big industries are located.

The annexation fight is still unsettled. As it stands now Kingston may add some 5,000 acres and another 6,000 population to bolster its present total of 32,928.

The city's present 3,000-odd acres now are bulging at the seams. There's no more space for homes and less for industry.

Despite pressing modern problems of industry and space, the glamor of the past still has its attractions. Some 100,000 eager free-spending visitors from the United States come each summer to crowd within Fort Henry's polished and unscarred stone walls and gaze at the colorfully-uniformed soldiers of a bygone day.

People Cold

An additional 50,000 pass through the city each year. They see Queen's University with its impressive buildings. For many it is the gateway to Frontenac County's lakes and streams. For others, it is a pause before visiting the Thousand Islands.

What do tourists think of Kingstonians? →

They complain that the people are cold and unfriendly.

If Kingstonians are like that they present one of the strangest contrasts in modern living. Probably nowhere else in Canada does wealth and poverty live side by side in such apparent harmony. It is not uncommon to see a $50,000 mansion standing beside what might be regarded as a shack. But good neighborliness prevails.

Understandable Reserve

Actually Kingstonians aren't cold. They're not unfriendly. But it does take time to know them. Second, third, even fourth generation families have an understandable reticence and reserve that can't be overcome on casual acquaintance.

But when these "cold" people finally do make friends it's for keeps and it means something.

One visitor said the other day: "It's all military here. Where's the soldiers?"

And that's another peculiarity. Here in one of Canada's major army training centres, soldiers are not often seen, except on pay days. They and their families live in the big military establishments at Barriefield and Vimy camp.

Cadets Train

At the Royal Military College—a counterpart of Sandhurst in England and West Point in the United States — cadets from all parts of Canada train tirelessly. Here also are the Canadian Army Staff College, and the National Defence College.

Nine of the 10 Kingstonians could tell off hand that the RMC was founded in 1876; that Queen's University was established by royal charter of Queen Victoria Oct. 16, 1841; that this was the birthplace of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister.

A symbol of the gradual break with tradition may be found in the limestone which gave Kingston the name "Limestone City."

Almost limitless deposits in this area provided the material in the 19th century to build formidable redoubts—a version of the modern pillbox—to protect the town from an invasion from the south that never came. It was used in many buildings, notably the city hall once intended for Canada's parliament buildings.

This durable stone is no longer quarred, because of the high cost of labor and production. While it lies idle, Kingston imports a softer variety of limestone from Queenston in the Niagara peninsula.

LIMESTONE CITY—This is an aerial view of Princess Street, main street of Kingston. The downtown section of the Limestone City is shown looking west from near the waterfront.

FAMOUS SON—Famous son of Kingston, was Sir John A. Macdonald, first Canadian prime minister. His statue has a place of honor at the entrance to City Park. Sir John grew up and was educated in Kingston and practised law in the city before entering politics. He represented the riding of Kingston in the House.

Beetle Faints From Fright As Naturalists On Prowl

Written For The Canadian Press
By PERCY GHENT

"What is so rare as a day in June?" asked the poet Lowell. Nothing that we can think of at the moment, unless it be April in the Canadian woodlands. And for naturalists, more or less awake to the wonders around them, an April day is a thing of rare beauty and wonder.

They greet the trilliums, violets, spring beauties and other blossoms on the woodland floor like the old friends they are. They even know many of the bugs and beetles by their first names and peer among the mosses and lichens to identify their species. Toads, that like chameleons, have their color influenced by their immediate surroundings, are closely watched to study that influence.

There's an artful beetle in such panic when great fingers stir the crisp brown oak leaves of last year's shedding, that it "plays dead." No so artful, actually. Beneath its lowly shape throbs a highly emotional heart, or a reasonable facsmile thereof, and the beetle "faints" from fright with all the facility of a Victorian damsel. Even grubs, bugs, and wriggling worms have fascinating biographies when you study them.

Fringing the woodland streams are countless hosts of marsh marigolds. Jack-in-the-pulpit is growing in spring vigor to preach his wordless sermons.

There's Music

And there's music. Vesper, chipping and song sparrows are soloists, and the white-throat sparrow is so glad to be back in the northland again that over and over he sings, "Sweet, Sweet, Canada, Canada, Canada!" A lone ruffed grouse is giving a performance on the drums. Gay warblers of many hues tell of the hosts that will come in May blossomtime.

You can wander enchanted in April woods, see wonder after spring wonder until the nighthawks circle aloft and signal the time to go home.

"Make me over, mother April, when the sap begins to stir," wrote Bliss Carman, and the maple sap is running free these days.

No one knows that better than the bird with the red cap and yellow belly, the sapsucker. That's the bird who taps at beech, basswood and maple trees in a systematic way, pitting them with holes that look like a musical score. A solid citizen popuplar with other woodland dwellers is the yellow-bellied sapsucker. When he starts the sap running with his excavations, chipmunks and hummingbirds lose no time in reporting for refreshment.

B.C. May Close Down Two Separate Schools

MAILLARDVILLE, B.C., April 7 (CP)—A round-table conference of provincial and municipal authorities has been proposed concerning a separate school problem here involving the transfer of 840 students to public schools.

The conference, proposed Thursday at a meeting of Coquitlam municipal council, would discuss the closing of two Roman Catholic schools Monday in this New Westminster suburb.

The schools were closed in protest against the "government's failure" to provide financial assistance to parochial schools.

Carry Strategic Weapon In New Pen For Census

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, April 7 — (CP) — Canada's army of census-takers will be carrying a strategic "weapon" when it goes on the march next June.

Specially designed for this, the world's most modern census, the weapon on which the success of the whole census campaign is based is to all outward appearances no more than an ordinary-looking, black plastic pen.

And what, may you ask, is so strategic about a pen? Millions of them are in use every day in homes, offices, schools and factories the world over.

Well, this, we hasten to add, is no common pen. It is loaded with a capsule of special, cloggy black ink, so brewed that unlike other inks it can conduct electricity.

Need Electricity

This is important. For without this electricity-conducting ink the whole lightning-speed census system falls apart. The ink is the lifeblood on which the new intricate and electronically-controlled statistical machines feed.

Here's why:

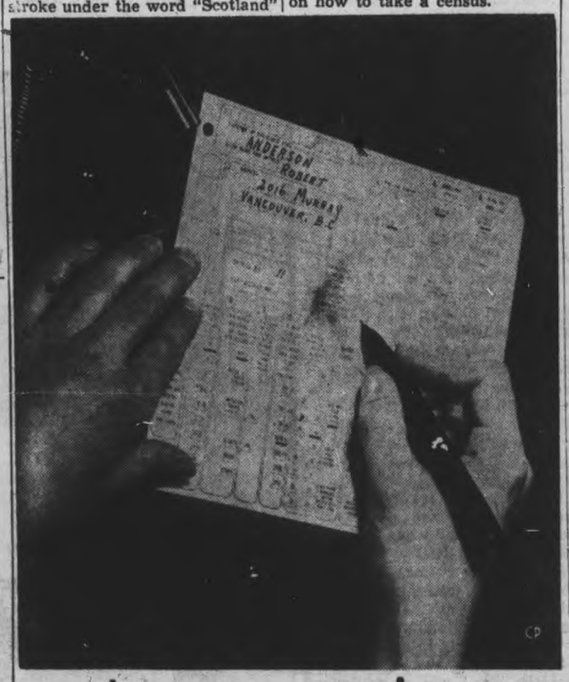
The old system of writing census-taking answers on a line of a big form the size of a newspaper page has been scrapped. Each and every Canadian will have a card of his own. It is bout one-eighth the size of the big form.

The Strokes Count

The pen comes into play when the census-taker marks in certain tiny spaces allotted to them the various answers you give. For example, if you tell him that your birthplace is Scotland, a mere stroke under the word "Scotland" appearing on the card is all that is needed.

If you say salary is $2,500 a year, another strike under the figures "2,500-2,999" on the card is sufficient. The "mark-system" applies to all other pertinent statistical facts.

These marks are picked up by electric "brushes" in electronic machines located at five regional census offices in Canada.



Quicker than you can say "Jack Robinson," the answers are transmitted by the machine to punch cards. The holes in the cards correspond to the answers in the questionnaires.

Old Way

When the last census was taken in 1941, the data had to be transferred from the big forms which contained information of 50 persons on each side of the sheet to punch cards by hand-operated machines. It was a comparatively slow process. As a result, months and years went by before the census information could be put to public use. Information from the new census is expected to be ready in six months.

Besides the special pen and the new-type cards, the censustaker will be equipped with various cards. His loose-leaf binder will contain cards covering the blind and deaf, questions on housing and cards to cover a survey of business establishments. If he's covering the rural areas, the censustaker will carry additional forms covering farm life.

But no matter what roads he travels, he'll have with him the "bible" of the censustaker, the Census Manual, chockful of hints on how to take a census.

STRATEGIC WEAPON—Specially developed for use in Canada's 1951 census, to be held in May, is this pen which uses ink which can conduct electricity. Census cards are filled out on the spot with the ink. The cards are placed in electronic sorting machines and the information on the cards is transferred by electric brushes to punch-cards for filing and recording.

There are now six schools in Ontario for work with cerebral palsied. Woodeden is the only resident school in Canada.

British People Apathetic About Civil Defence Work

By GLENN WILLIAMS

LONDON, April 7 —(AP)—The air-raid sirens of Britain are kept well oiled, ready to shriek warnings of atom bombers any minute the cold war turns hot.

All over the country, board fences around the bone-picked wreckage of the last war's bomb blasts glare with a red-inked poster question: "What are you doing about civil defence?"

Although these are times of tension, with shooting wars in Malaya, Indo-China and Korea, most Britons answer that question with a silent, "Who, me?"

The people of the country are far less ready for another air war than are the warning sirens.

Local and national officials have been crying for civil defence recruits ever since the corps was revived 15 months ago. About 16,000,000 people are eligible to join. Only a few more than 100,000 have done so.

Apathy has not kept the country from pumping fresh life into the heart of its civil defence organization.

Train Instructors

Three unique schools, complete with battered houses made realistic by actual blasts of explosives, train instructors to teach the techniques of civil defence against atomic bombs to local volunteers.

This training set-up began functioning three years before the Second World War, getting Britain ready to withstand a blitz.

Out of its fears Britain built a corps that saved thousands of lives and held in check the ravages of fire bombs.

The people, frightened, hopped to it in those days. They thought war was coming. Now they are willing to postpone the day of preparation.

People who might volunteer to conquer high explosives and fire bombs fear atomic radiation. They don't want to stick their necks out for front-line jobs of rescue and first aid work.

There also is that "veteran" feeling among many. More than 2,000,000 were in civil defence forces during the blitz; millions of others survived it. Many apparently think: "I've already been through it. I don't need any more training."

Price Controls

The record new high cost of living as revealed by the index figure for February, 179.7, is less disconcerting than the sudden climb of 4.5 points in the one month. Prices are not on the march; they are in a headlong flight. The new cost-of-living figures will undoubtedly increase the demand for over-all price (and wage) controls. We believe, and we have so stated several times in recent months, that full controls such as Canada had in war-time are neither desirable nor workable now. The economic pot is now boiling—and boiling over. What is needed, and desirable, is not a lid clamped down tightly over it, but to turn down the fire. Put first things first; the cause of the over-boiling is the heat under the pot. The steam and over-flow (the high prices) are the result.

* * *

How to reduce the heat? That is a question for experts, and it is for that reason that on Friday we berated the government's economic advisers and called on Parliament for strong action. The Government has been developing an anti-inflationary policy (the tightening of credit is an example) but it has been doing it too slowly. Ordinary businessmen and housewives of course can do a great deal to reduce the heat; by limiting their buying, by refusing to pay higher prices, by not stock-piling in pantry and warehouse, and—in business—by not demanding prices as high or higher than the market will stand. Government policies can encourage Canadians to cultivate anti-inflationary habits. Tuesday's budget may give such encouragement. If the Government shows that it is making a real effort to reduce its ordinary expenses, and has budgetary policies which will convince people that saving, not spending, is worthwhile, the heat may be reduced.

* * *

Why not clamp a lid on the pot while at the same time turning the heat down? The reason that this would be ineffective—to continue our analogy—is that the stew in the pot is too hot. It is at 212 degress F., and steaming like Hell. Tight controls would be blown off—by management working against price controls, by organized labour fighting wage controls. This has been shown in the United States. New stiff American controls had to be relaxed, and the weaker ones are not having much effect. The pot will cool more quickly if the heat is turned down and the lid is off, not on.

* * *

It is hazardous to make kitchen analogies about such a complicated economic situation; it is an over-simplification. Nevertheless, the comparison is not completely invalid. American consumers' buying resistance in the last fortnight did more to halt prices and cool the pot than the control czars have been able to do.

* * *

Full price and wage controls cannot operate successfully in Canada unless they are in working operation in the U.S.A., because so much of our industry is dependent on American imports and prices. Further, if a cumbersome, stilting system of controls were established now, would people put up with them for a generation, and would they work that long, if at all? We think not. The conditions into which this country has been plunged are not temporary. Curative treatment of the causes, not stop-gap control of the effects, is needed.

One Good Meal In Canada

Canadian food has a reputation for being solid but stolid. The meal which President Auriol of France served up to his sixty-five guests at the French Embassy in Ottawa on Thursday was princely and a gourmet's delight. It was a dinner served in Ottawa, composed mainly of Canadian ingredients, and cooked by a Toronto chef. That one splendid meal may stand as a peak in a desert of hash, but it is proof that a good dinner can be had in Canada under certain conditions. We have not seen the menu, but ingredients of the dinner included Canadian veal subtly garnished, ducklings covered with goose liver and jellied dressing, a dessert cream engulfing fresh strawberries, and fifty kinds of French pastries. Five wines were served with the courses, and ten different kinds of Cognac were available for palate-cleansing afterwards. The gold plate, the sterling and the crystal gleamed, and the service was impeccable.

As we have said, the meal was proof that under certain conditions, a good meal is possible in Canada. A French chef, vintage wines, old brandy, rich settings and some money are helpful, if not absolutely essential. It may be objected that this glittering example of cuisine and feast was French, not Canadian. True, but it must be acknowledged that it was made-in-Canada. We point out, by way of invidious comparison, that last autumn when Queen Juliana of The Netherlands gave a state dinner in London the entire meal was prepared in Holland and flown over to England, where London chefs had no hand in it. It is a tribute to Canada that the head of the nation justly most renowned for its food should chose to dine his guests on a meal actually prepared in Canada.

Bernard Shaw's Reformed Alphabet

The late Bernard Shaw's fortune, after payment of necessary taxes and duties, is estimated at $1,101,700. This is a staggering sum for an author to have amassed; it is not unusual for an author to make a good living, and to spend his money as he gets it, but for an author to live luxuriously, with a flat in London and a country house, a Rolls-Royce and a staff of five servants in addition to his secretary, and to leave over a million dollars, is a miracle. It is even more a miracle when we consider that Shaw did not write best-sellers, and that his plays made few concessions to popular notions of entertainment. We know also that he gave away a great deal of money during his lifetime. Judged by any reasonable standard, Shaw was a rich man, and this is encouraging, for he was also one of the greatest writers in the history of English literature.

The comment has been made many times since this news became public that Shaw did remarkably well for a socialist who consistently advocated equality of income. Shaw's socialism, however, has to be taken with a grain of salt—like most socialism. He did not live in a socialist state, except during the last ten years or so of his life, when he complained bitterly about taxes. It would have been fruitless for him to attempt to put socialism into effect on a limited scale with his own money. Like another great socialist, Leon Blum, he loved the luxury, the privacy and the amenities which only a bourgeois state can provide. He was, after all, no more a hypocrite than the millions of professing Christians who resolutely decline to sell all that they have and give to the poor.

Shaw left the residue of his estate, in excess of a million dollars, for the furtherance of a scheme which had long been dear to his heart—the popularizing of a phonetic alphabet. He pressed the claims of such an alphabet in his play Pygmalion, and he never deserted it. Here are some of his remarks about the particular 40-letter alphabet which he preferred:

"The number of letters in our Johnsonese alfabet minus x, c and q is 23. The following consonants are missing: sh, zh, wh, th dh, ng. Also missing are the vowels and diphthongs: aw, ah, a: et, it, ot, ut, oot, yoot and the neutral second vowel in color, labor, honor, etc.

"A quite phonetic British alfabet is impossible because the vowels of British speakers differ as their fingerprints do; but the 40 sounds listed above will make them as intelligible to one another in writing as they now are in speech. Thus, though Oxford graduates and London costermongers pronounce son and sun as sun and Ireland as Awland, they understand one another in conversation.

"In Johnsonese the missing letters are indicated by using two or three letters for a single sound. For instance, 'though' has six letters for two sounds. A 40-letter alfabet providing one unambiguous symbol for each sound would save manual labor at the rate of 25 per cent. per minute (131,400 per annum). Multiply this figure by the millions at every moment busy writing English somewhere in the world, and the total saving is so prodigious that the utmost cost of a change is negligible.

"Children, who now have to master the multiplication and tense tables, could learn a 40-letter alfabet easily. Johnsonese is so full of inconsistencies that the few who can spell it do so not by sound of the word but by the look of it."

There is nothing unworkable about Shaw's scheme, but we think that it will be a failure, nevertheless. It is logical, but that is not in itself a recommendation; in matters of logic mankind has often chosen to be illogical, and there is deep truth in Professor Freud's belief that we use language as much to conceal our meaning as to reveal it. The modern English alphabet, and modern English spelling are the result of long growth. Strange though it seems to those who have not studied the matter, there are historical reasons for all our funny spellings and maddening inconsistencies of pronunciation. The English language is great because it has refused to submit to rules; it grabs words recklessly from half a dozen languages, and it makes up new words when they are wanted. This illogicality makes it hard to learn, hard to spell, and hard to write; but it also makes English a superbly varied and expressive language. A logical phonetic alphabet might succeed and it might—as Shaw maintained—save hundreds of hours, miles of paper and fonts of type. But we don't expect to see it happen. English has defied regularizers for several centuries, and we do not think that it will tamely submit to Mr. Shaw and his million dollars. And we admit that we are secretly glad that English is so intractable; in a language, as a woman, complete logic and predictability are repulsive attributes.

Diary of Impetuous Animals

by
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Thought that it would be pleasant to take a country walk this afternoon. In wintertime I get very little fresh air, and while I am not a health zealot I sometimes weary of my accustomed element of hot, stale air, heavily fraught with pipe-smoke. So I drove a few miles into the country and walked up a side road. I found plenty of air there, of such freshness as I have rarely experienced in my life. It blew up under my overcoat and numbed my vital areas. It attacked my face with tiny knives. It rushed up my sleeves and formed cyclone centres in my armpits. Slush mounted over the tops of my rubbers and made swamps inside my shoes. I had some idea that I might find pussywillows on my walk, but all the pussywillows had been sucked back into their buds, and were nowhere to be seen. After fifteen minutes of tempestuous walking I took fright, and ran back to my car. No more fresh air for me until May.

MONDAY: Read an article in a woman's magazine today called "How to Keep Your Husband From Dying Of Heart Failure". It was a sensible, well-written piece, pointing out that women are far less prone to heart injuries than men, and that women therefore should take on any heavy physical work that has to be done around a house, such as moving the furnace from one side of the cellar to another, or putting the car up on blocks for the winter. It included many anecdotes of poor, overdriven men who had been literally pushed into the Great Void by women who were afraid of such trifling tasks as carrying barrels of apples upstairs, or changing a tire on a truck. This strengthens a belief which I have long cherished, that in a few centuries women will be the larger, stronger sex, admired for their biceps and superfluous hair, and that men will be their toys and domestic comforters, exciting tenderness in the female breast by their small feet, pretty soft hands, and general helplessness. I do not think I have a heart, for I have never been able to locate my pulse, or any other symptom of a circulatory system, but I am willing to share any of the benefits of male delicacy.

TUESDAY: There is great rejoicing in some parts of Ontario because the provincial government has decided to give free schoolbooks to children, but I am not among the merry-makers. I am a writer of books myself, and any move which inculcates in children the idea that books are things which you get for nothing excites my implacable enmity. There are too many free books already, in public libraries and other institutions which are primarily designed to rob authors of their livelihood. A pox on the memory of Andrew Carnegie and his misplaced benevolence! There are in Canada, by actual count, 528 people who buy books for their own use; an author may count on these people buying a copy of any book he writes. There are 6,417,333 people who are on friendly terms with the 528, and they all borrow their copies of new books, read them, and then write to the author, pointing out typographical errors, plagiarisms from Holy Writ, faulty economics, and other blemishes. If the Ontario Government is going to teach children that books drop from heaven, or are supplied from the public purse, like wheat subsidies, the profession of letters in Canada will drop below that of the nightsoil removers.

WEDNESDAY: Held a small conversazione at the Towers this evening, and when the first guests arrived, a large dog came through the door with them. I gave it an oblique glance, and complimented the guests on its beauty. They denied any knowledge of it, and said that they assumed that it must be my dog. When I had finished explaining my attitude on the whole Dog Problem to them, we set to work to drive the beast forth. It had improved its time by tracking mud all over the house, shedding hair on the furniture, and frightening the wits out of the domestic staff, and it was reluctant to go. However one guest, a gentleman of impressive stature and circumference, sat on it, while the rest of us tied its paws with baling wire, and at last we were able to fling it out into the night. It rushed in again, however, when the next group of guests came to the door. Again we roped and tied it, and heaved it into the darkness. And again it returned with a third group of guests. This time we dug a hole and buried it, with weights on its feet. But the dog was plainly the ghost of Harry Houdini, and it was soon back again, blowing its nose on the windows, and howling to come in and have a drink. It is some time since I met such a persistent animal.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: A small child begged me this evening to tell her about Adam and Eve, which I did. I then scored a great success by asking her a Bible riddle which was a favourite of my childhood: "What eight men in the Bible milked a bear?" The answer, to be found in Genesis 22: 23, is Huz, Buz, Kemuel, Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph and Bethuel, the eight sons of Abraham's brother Nahor, by his wife Milcah; the Scriptures read—"these eight did Milcah bear to Nahor, Abraham's brother". I am full of hallowed jocosity of this sort.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: On Wednesday it was a dog; today it was a cat. Am I the victim of a sending of animals? There are periods in one's life when one seems to meet nothing but men with wooden legs, or people with wigs, or people with cleft palates; such floutings of the laws of probability are called "sendings", by psychic people like myself; they have some sinister and other-worldly meaning, though I have never been able to discover what it is. But today, while the rain descended in torrents, a white cat appeared on the window sill of my dining room, and mewled piteously. I am somewhat more kindly disposed toward cats than I am toward dogs, but when I suggested that it come in for a saucer of cream I was outvoted. The cat made me nervous, however, and when I moved into the Great Reception Hall of Marchbanks Towers for the black coffee and rare old brandy which I have every day after lunch, I was disturbed to find that the cat had moved also, and was wringing its paws and weeping piteously directly in my line of vision. I could hardly get down my third tumbler of Napoleon '69, I was so rattled, and I did not escape from the reproachful cat until I went to work.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: To the movies, to see Charlie Chaplin and Marie Dressler in "Tilly's Punctured Romance", which they made in 1913. In my younger days I was an ardent follower of Charlie, but as I watched this relic from the Old Red Sandstone Period of the cinematic art, I realized that time had bathed the humour of another day in a golden but untruthful light. It was the most restless film I have seen in years. Nobody stood up if he could possibly fall down. Nobody fell down without at once leaping to his feet in order to fall down again. Nobody entered a door without slapping somebody else in the face with it. Food was never eaten, it existed only to be thrown. Liquid was not taken into the mouth in order to be swallowed, but only that it might be squirted into somebody else's face. The usual method of attracting a lady's attention was to kick her; she invariably responded with a blow. The life of man in the comedies of the silent films was solitary, poor, nasty, brutish and short. And viewed from this distance it does not appear to have been especially funny, at that.

Korea Seen From Peking: by Bip Pares

In the world-wide cold war Korea is the only area of open hostilities between Communist forces and those of the free world.

Seen from Peking, the fighting front is connected to China only by tenuous land communications, and there the Fourth Field Army with North Korean forces, perhaps some 400,000 strong, are retreating before 275,000 United Nations troops. Their supply lines in North Korea are under constant air and naval bombardment.

But Korea is dangerously near the province of Manchuria, upon whose industrial wealth the economic future of China depends. Manchuria has easier access to the Soviet Far East than to China proper, and already at Changchun there is a joint Sino-Soviet staff H.Q. where 1,500,000 Chinese ground forces, including the Third Field Army are receiving equipment and training from Russian instructors before entering Korea.

According to recent reports, China's regular army will be increased from 2,000,000 to 4,500,000 men and her territorial militia, now 4,000,000 strong, is to receive university recruits for training in naval and air services.

But all these forces require equipment, and this, with technical instruction, is obtainable only from Russia and Russian-controlled Manchuria. Besides her commitments in the northeast, China requires to reserve forces for such possible issues as a counter-revolution in South China, a conflict with Nationalist forces in Formosa, and the Tibetan campaign.

In the area mapped above, China possesses superiority in manpower; Russia controls the arsenals, land communications in the north, and is developing a submarine fleet (for which she desires the use of the Korea Strait between the Amur River shipyards and the warm-water naval base at Port Arthur); while the United Nations control the sea and air from bases in Japan, the Ryukyu Islands, Hong Kong and the Philippines.

Letters To The Editor

BIG 10-YEAR-OLD ON BUS

Sir: After reading letter signed "Passenger on the Bus," I realized she was possibly speaking of my child who was bullied by the Byersville bus driver Sunday afternoon. When does a child know she should pay adult fare? The conclusion that a child's height should determine the cost of fare on a bus is ridiculous. A child of three years old takes up as much seating capacity as a child of thirteen.

My child is ten years old and big for her age and because of that was humiliated and upset by the bus driver into paying 10 cents for her ride.

Many mothers are objecting to this unfair charge, as in a family it is expensive transportation. The bus company is responsible for the increased fare but the bus driver does not need to go to such lengths to enforce his orders.

I would appreciate letters from mothers regarding this matter.

MOTHER OF CHILD

ALWAYS DELIGHTED

Sir: Having been living in Peterborough some eight years, I have always delighted in reading your Bible Message, and I hope you have had sufficient evidence to encourage you to continue to print it for all scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness. That the man of God may be perfect throughly furnished unto all good works, II Timothy, 3:16.

Yours sincerely,
THOMAS OWEN.

PRAISES PETERBOROUGH COURTESY

Sir: I would like to offer a personal word of appreciation for the fine courtesy of the city police force with regard to funeral processions passing through our city.

The matter of directing traffic, giving the right of way to funeral directors in the short journey through our streets is an act of dignity and honour which must strongly appeal to the citizens of Peterborough and district.

One is reminded of the words of Gladstone when he said:

"Show me the manner in which a nation cares for its dead, and I will measure with mathematical exactness the tender mercies of its people, their respect for the laws of the land; and their loyalty to high ideals."

Yours sincerely,
FRED W. CRAIK,
Minister,
St. James United Church.

ENLISTMENT FOR MANCHURIA

Sir: Full scale war is about to be started in Manchuria—and this being what Russia does not want—will mean the beginning of World War III.

It is expected, and was expected, so is no surprise—but while fine youth are dying out there, to save civilization, and all it stands for—voluntary enlistment has been nil, in comparison to population of this country—and will not improve until the motion before the house, put there by all veteran organizations in Canada, is put to effect—viz—general mobilization of Canada's manpower.

Every home represented by a veteran, has something to be proud of—or should have—anything they have, was not bought too cheap—while there are others, who have had position, comfort, home etc., and got it easy, not having had to fight for it One wonders if such appreciates all they got for nothing, as far as sacrifices go—and here we are right now, entering the stages, where every man, will be needed—and given his chance to earn the right to such comforts, he has had so long at the expense of others. Someone had to make sacrifices. I know of several (who were always communistically inclined) never had the uniform on—yet have fine homes and jobs—while many veterans whistle for the same chance to make an honest living—and are putting up with what they can get—whether it suits them or not. It seems that many don't mind being called a ZOMBIE—a BOMB has to drop right on their doorstep before putting on the uniform of the country that has been good to them. Yes, make no mistake, World War III is right around the corner. So let Canada have total mobilization, and be ready.

It would do a lot of young people good to visit any military hospital and see the veterans there. These men ask no quarter, no sympathy—in fact, all they ask, is a chance to LIVE—and the worst mistake anyone can make is to go into a ward and start sympathizing. They would be ordered out immediately. There are sightless, legless, armless men there, brave, courageous—with a smile on their faces. Yes, that's the picture one would see—and yet all these men ask now is that someone take their places OVER THERE. Any day now, our young men will be called, and not asked to join the services—for when Manchuria is invaded—then that is the cue for Russia to fight, and World War III will be on.

Yours truly,
H. GILBERT.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her. Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath day.

The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering? And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day?

And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him. (Luke 13: 11-17.)

"If you let him talk you into drinking all the water off his farm for a shilling, your chances of becoming Chief Scout are pretty thin."

Progress of Peterborough: LXV

Village Development In 70's Pioneer Leaders Die Off

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Anstruther township: Frank Elmhurst, son of Richard Elmhurst (an Otonabee pioneer), settled in 1870 on lot 36, con. 10, and before long was taking out 1½ million feet of lumber annually. Captain Golborne, who came into Burleigh 1862, moved to Anstruther 10 years later and built a gristmill; he was also a leader in the Agricultural Society. Capt. Thomas Bridgewater of the British Army settled on 260 acres in 1877, lots 38-39, con. 13, and began a stock farm. Charles Booth, born in Australia, spent 20 years at Lakefield, Bowmanville and Peterborough before settling on lot 36, con. 13, in 1879 as Divisional Clerk for North Peterborough.

At Apsley village, in Anstruther, Robert McCauley from Burleigh built the Wellington Hotel 1871, but sold it the next year and started a Temperance House. Arthur McIlmoyle, born in Smith, took over the Wellington Hotel 1872 and also ran a blacksmith shop. Lt. Peyton Shewen of the British Army visited Apsley on a tour with his brother 1871, and resigned his commission to remain; in 1875 he married the daughter of Thomas Eastland, and ran the general store and post office for him (Eastland also had a store in Lakefield). Mr. Shewen also served on the township council. Jos. Hawley from Percy township came to Apsley 1877 and started a carpenter shop, branching out five years later into the undertaking business, blacksmithing and wagon-making (the last two enterprises subsequetly taken over by J. Lindsay). In 1875 Bishop Bethune appointed Rev. Philip Harding to the widespread Apsley Anglican Mission; he completed the building of St. George's Anglican Church that year and a rectory nearby. By 1880 the village had about 40 people.

Presbyterian and Methodist missions in the Apsley-Lasswade-Clydesdale-Paudash area were conducted by lay and student ministers who held services in schools, homes, camps and halls, backed up by visits once or twice yearly by ordained ministers from Warsaw, Lakefield and Peterborough. Several log mission churches were also built in this area, whose remains can still be seen. Rev. Dan O'Connell, Douro parish priest 1865-1889, also went north to the settlements and camps regularly.

GOOD-NATURE

Nothing is rarer than true good nature; they who are reputed to have it are generally only pliant or weak.

—LA ROCHEFOUCAULD, Maxims, 1665

Young's Point had the sawmill of C. and W. J. Young, Pat Young's postoffice, two hotels run by Dan Costello and Jas. Kearney, also Pope's general store and Lanin's blacksmith shop. By 1880 there were about 150 people. Lakefield had a sawmill, 2 planing mills, a flour mill, a woollen mill, 2 boat works, a wagon factory, 5 hotels, 5 general stores, etc. Robert Casement, postmaster since 1847, died in 1875 and was succeeded by his nephew Wm. H. Casement, who served until recently; he was also a general merchant and telegraph agent. In 1878 Sparham Sheldrake, a 27-year-old Englishman opened Grove Preparatory School for "the sons of gentlemen"; this school in 72 years has become world-famous. By 1880, Lakefield's population was over 1,000.

Norwood in 1870 built a new brick town hall and jail costing $3,000. The same year a new stone Roman Catholic Church was opened, served by Rev. John Quirk of Hastings. John Finlay, born in Dummer 1836, started a wagon factory 1870 which was burned down 1877 with loss $25,000; however, he built a larger factory employing 16 men in making all kinds of vehicles, increasing to 30 workers by 1880. The village was incorporated in 1877, and by 1881 had 853 people in 152 families.

Hastings received a blow in 1872 when W. J. Whithead, due to delay in completing the Grand Junction railway from Belleville, moved his cotton mill to Cornwall, where it subsequently developed into a unit of the Canadian Cottons combine. H. M. Fowlds was postmaster from 1872 on after his father's death. The village was incorporated in 1874 under Reeve Tim Coughlan, the oldest resident, and welcomed Governor-General Lord Dufferin the same year, as noted. In 1878 the GJR finally reached the village, giving it a rail outlet to Belleville. John Howard, born in Australia 1835, came to Hastings 1859, was head of the militia company by 1874, and started teh Hastings "Star" weekly paper in 1878; he was also an undertaker and carriage-maker. By 1881 Hastings had 692 people in 118 families.

Mrs. Susanna Moodie (now in Toronto) in an 1871 preface remarked shrewdly: "The rough has become smooth, the crooked has become straight, the forests have been converted into fruitful fields, the rude log cabin of the woodsman has been replaced by the handsome well-appointed homestead, and large populous cities have pushed the small clapboarded village into the shade . . . While the sons of poor gentlemen have generally lost caste and sunk into useless sots, the children of these honest tillers of the soil have steadily risen to the higest class, and have given to Canada some of her best and wisest legislators . . ."

An interesting comparison can be made of those (often born on district farms) who worked steadily and quietly raising crops and families, dying after 50 years of toil, with others born in the same circumstances who wandered around the world before settling down. James Fowler, who settled on 100 acres in Smith 1821, died there in 1876 with 660 acres and eight children. Philip Fitzpatrick who came to Dummer 1831 and Jos. Jory who came in 1832 were both still farming there over 50 years later, having raised 11 and eight children respectively. William Fowler settled in North Monaghan 1819 and farmed until his death 1878, having 12 children. William Foster came to North Monaghan 1832 and farmed until his death in 1881, raising nine children. John Grady who came as a boy with the 1825 emigration, settling in Asphodel, moved to Otonabee 1830 and farmed for over 50 years, having nine children. Walter Scott farmed in Asphodel from 1820 to his death in 1871, when he owned 1,200 acres. Robert Humphries, who settled in Asphodel on 75 acres in 1822, at his death in 1879 owned 1,275 acres.

Rolling Stones

On the other hand, consider the following "rolling stones": Edward Sanderson, born Ireland 1821, to Smith township 1824 with parents, 1862 to Burleigh, 1864-65 fought in US Civil War, 1865 settled down for more than 20 years on Burleigh Road. James Harvey, born in Smith 1826, to Australia mining 1852, to New Zealand farming 1865, to Australia again 1877, to Smith township farming 1878 on. Robert Tully, born in North Monaghan 1829, farmed until his father's death 1870, then five years in Peterborough, to California 1874, back to Peterborough 1877 in grocery business, and 1880 settled on a Douro farm. Hugh Beckett, born Asphodel 1830 of a pioneer family, farmed there until 1859, farmed in Percy township 1859-69, spent 1868-70 in California, farmed in Asphodel 1870-73, ran a Norwood hotel 1873-82, and back to Asphodel farming thereafter; after his marriage in 1852, he also raised eight children. Robert Hamilton, born in Ireland 1824, educated in Peterborough 1833-44, worked for Hudsons Bay Co. in Arctic and West 1844-76, 1870-76 on Northwest Council, 1876 retired to Peterborough.

Among town and district leaders dying in this decade were the following: 1871: Walter Scott, Asphodel pioneer; S. J. Carver, Peterborough postmaster; Daniel McDonald, town strong man, "a victim of his own strength" after lifting 1600 pounds; 1872: Thomas Fortye, Peterborough customs officer; Henry Fowlds, Hastings industrialist; 1873: Lt. Charles Rubidge, Otonabee pioneer and county registrar; 1875: Marcello Mowry, Ashburnham pioneer foundryman; Robert Casement, Lakefield pioneer postmaster; Walter Baptie, Peterborough pioneer blacksmith; James Henthorn, Peterborough merchant; Walter Sheridan, county treasurer; 1876: W. A. Scott and Charles Perry, Peterborough lumbermen and industrialists; 1877: Thomas White, Peterborough revenue collector; Rev. Mark Burnham, noted clergyman and landowner; Richard E. Birdsall, Asphodel farmer and surveyor; 1878: Rev. J. M. Roger, pioneer Presbyterian minister; S. S. Kelly, Bridgenorth industrialist; William Lundy, Peterborough merchant; 1879: Robert Humphries, Asphodel pioneer.

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

Dr. Johnson On Women

NATURE has given women so much power that the law has very wisely given them little.

* * * *

A WOMAN'S PREACHING is like a dog's walking on his hinder legs. It is not done well; but you are surprised to find it done at all.

* * * *

WOMEN COMMONLY EAT more sparingly, and are less curious in the choice of meat; but if once you find a woman gluttonous, expect from her very little virtue.

* * * *

WOMEN HAVE A PERPETUAL ENVY of our vices; they are less vicious than we, not from choice, but because we restrict them.

BOSWELL'S LIFE OF JOHNSON

A friend of mine laughingly accused me this week of not knowing a smelt if I saw one. Is that so? I'll tell you this, Mac.

A few years ago I lived at the gateway to the Gaspe country on the Lower St. Lawrence River. Each spring at this time, small urchins with basket-laden hand wagons used to make the rounds of every house in our town. They would rap on doorways and politely enquire, "Les peches, m'dam'?" and hold out 11-quart baskets of small silvery fish for inspection. Standard price for the full basket measure was "dix centimes"—ten cents. We had several delicious meals of them at our home.

There was also a farmer who sold us "les oeufs." We had to stop buying from him in spring for a while because les oeufs were very fishy. The reason was plain.

While the run of smelt is on—they call them caplan—each narrow seignorial farm that runs to the shore of the river has its area of fish pound seine nets staked out in the tide flats. And when the tide recedes, farmers and their numerous sons drive out in their high-wheeled Norman carts and shovel them full of caplan. They are spread on the light sandy field soil for fertilizer. It was no problem for mama to provide meals for her large family on their numerous meatless days, or for the barnyard fowl to gorge themselves. This was the cause, then, of our "fishy" eggs. One ancient raconteur told me, with his tongue in his cheek, that even the "potats" tasted of fish in the fall.

* * * *

Getting closer to home on this spring smelt business, the run has started at the mouth of streams on Lake Ontario in Northumberland. The village of Grafton, always a mecca with its Shelter Valley Creek, drew 40 fishermen for a considerable distance around, on Thursday night. They had good luck, about 50 fish apiece, or so, and garageman Roy Goody says that the run should last from two to three weeks, at night. Asked if fishermen brought him any business, he admitted that he was doing a roaring business selling flashlight batteries and pulling cars out of the mud. Get going, smelters, and try your luck at the above spot and also, Cobourg's Factory Creek and Gages, between Cobourg and Port Hope. Successful dipping.

Half a Century of Carp

As soon as the lakes are clear of ice, complaints will be heard again about the devilfish of the Kawarthas, the carp. Aside from Lands and Forests men, no movements of sportsmen have done anything in the district to attack this menace en masse, although it has been talked about for years. Carp in the Kawarthas have been damned in the press for half a century. Here is an excerpt from the Evening Examiner of 1910:

Some few years ago carp were unknown to most people along the line of the Trent Canal. Today one can find this fish in any of the streams from Kirkfield to Rice Lake. Their destroying effect on other fish will soon be felt, and the various lakes and rivers adjacent to Peterborough will be seriously affected.

These carp have come down from Lake Simcoe. As to how they came to that lake in the first place, the writer does not know. It may be that they were placed there intentionally, with the idea that they were a good fish for that body of water. The fact remains, however, that with the opening of the Trent Canal, from Lake Simcoe to Balsam Lake, these fish travelled over to Kirkfield, slowly but gradually got locked over the height of land and were soon down the canal and can now be found in all of these lakes and rivers to Hastings.

The carp is a most destructive fish and is bound to kill off 'lunge, bass and other fish that afford such good sport to the anglers of this district.

The destruction that has come to fish, frogs and rice will soon be seen all the way from Balsam Lake to Trenton. The carp is gradually taking possession of our waters and a serious state of affairs confronts us.

Opening of the trout fishing season is only 21 days away. Fish plantings of their species in Peterborough County in 1950 were 10,000 speckles, 7,000 lakers and 1,000 Kamloops, all of them yearlings. Haliburton leads in the lake trout class with 60,000 fingerlings planted and Northumberland with the largest number of speckled trout plantings, 45,000.

Was surprised to run smack-dab into Tom (South Beach) Lawlor on the street this week. He is just back from Florida, making a health comeback from a long illness last fall and winter. We talked, among other things, about resort operating costs. Said Tom, "It costs me more these days to feed my help than it did to feed guests a few years ago."

'Tis Spring

I roosted on the span of the swing bridge of the Chemong Causway on Thursday afternoon. A stiff west wind had cleared a large area of ice for some distance north and south along the east shore. Dark grey patches of rotted ice dissolved with a pleasant tinkling sound. A red buoy bobbed free for the first time in months and a muskrat, in sheer exuberance, cavorted around it. Two gulls perched on a broken span of the old floating bridge and watched the water hopefully. Dead cattails rustled in the wind like dry corn with some of the ragged tufts capped by whistling red-winged blackbirds. Glare from the ice fields from Fife's Bay to Curve Lake point made my eyes ache. My companion wagered that the lake would be ice-free in a couple of days. It seemed a sure bet. SPRING HAS DEFINITELY ARRIVED.

They're All From Omemee—Rural Ontario Champions

Not only did the Omemee Black Hawks co-operate successfully on the ice surface this year but they co-operated fairly well financially, something rare among sporting teams in Peterborough and district.

With some cash left over from the 1949-50 season and support by the home town fans, the Hawks were able to become Ontario Rural Hockey Association Intermediate "A" champions without going in the red. But higher expenses this year, such as the bus trip to Woodstock in the finals costing $195, cut the bank balance below last year's final tally.

Without a sponsor, the fans and players paid the team's way through the league games and playoffs.

Just as everything stops for tea at 4 in England, everything stopped for hockey in Omemee during the ORHA finals with Oxford Centre. The hometown fans travelled to Woodstock for the opening game and weren't disappointed. On Lindsay's artificial ice the Hawks copped the championship with smooth - passing hockey before a large backing from Omemee with the second straight win over the Centre squad.

100% Omemee

Although their occupations vary from bank tellers, salesmen, factory employees to school boys, the players boast one thing in common: they're all from Omemee. They didn't need any imported players to win the crown.

Their previous experience in hockey varies more than their occupations. Some players such as Jack Deyell, Floyd and Tom Parsons, and Bill Fisher have seen action with senior hockey teams especially the Peterborough Petes. Others such as Bill "Wimp" Parker and Orland Crawford have performed locally with junior clubs, Lindsay in particular. The remainder at some time or other have played junior and intermediate hockey for various teams.

A few players on the team are just climbing the hockey ladder. Among these are Don Crawford, Dom and Hubert Fox, and Orland Crawford. These four players are of junior age but played a large part in the team's progress to the championship.

Off the ice the team has several stars who don't play hockey. Wilson Ellis this year handled most of the team's business and was given the titles, general business manager and assistant team manager. Vincent Cornwall, first aid man, was Johnny-on-the-spot with help for the injured, who luckily this year were few. Last but not least is the stick boy, "Inky" Robinson.

On the ice the team was managed by playing-coach Art Jamieson. The championship speaks for his success in this department.

Holding the fort between the pipes in league games and in the playoffs with Cannington was Bill Fisher. Then pneumonia carried him away from the team into bed and Bruce Mitchell, 25-year-old goalie from Brooklin, was called in as a replacement. Mitchell will take Fisher's place for the remainder of the season, doctor's orders keeping Fisher off the ice.

Not satisfied with the Intermediate "A" championship the Omemee Black Hawks are seeking other honors. They're looking forward to a challenge series with the ORHA Intermediate "B" champions, likely Cambray, and then another challenge series with the ORHA senior champions, probably Breslau.—D.G.

Havelock Incorporated 1892; Old Minutes

By W. M. PLATT, (Havelock Correspondent).

The following glimpse of municipal affairs in the county of Peterborough for 1892, is taken from a copy of the minutes of the proceedings of the county council for that year, which Reeve E. W. Seeney came across among his books, and the parts selected mainly relate to this district.

The year 1892 is of particular interest to the residents of Havelock as the village was incorporated that year and looking back 59 years shows a marked contrast between then and now.

The minutes show that bylaw No. 676 incorporating the village, was passed on June 18, 1892, while bylaw No. 666 to take the census of the proposed village of Havelock was passed four days prior to that and showed that the boundaries specified for the incorporation of the village, included over 750 inhabitants. George H. Whitton, butcher and Arthur J. Copp, CPR brakesman both of the township of Belmont were the census-takers. The hall of the public school was named as the place for holding the first municipal election with William Mathison as the returning officer.

Representing the townships of Belmont and Methuen in 1892 were Alex McAuley as reeve, and J. L. Aunger as deputy-reeve. Mr. McAuley was elected reeve of Havelock at its first election in January 1893.

Another bylaw was passed to abandon the Burnt Mill bridge, which stated that hereafter (June 18, 1892) this bridge in the township of Belmont shall not be under the jurisdiction of the corporation of the county of Peterborough, and that all bylaws heretofore passed assuming such a bridge are hereby repealed. The bridge had been reported in unsafe condition for travel at a meeting of the road and bridge committee held previously.

A bylaw was also passed licencing, regulating and governing hawkers and pedlars in the county, the sum to be paid for such licences was set as follows:

Every person hawking or peddling on foot, $10; with one-horse vehicle or otherwise not on foot, $30; with two horse vehicle, $50.

The fine for persons offending against any provision of the bylaw was not less than $5 and not more than $50 exclusive of costs.

Permission was also granted to the Belmont and Methuen council to establish a road between the ninth and 10th concession of Belmont.

Townships' Population 2,339

The statement from the assessment rolls of 1891 which was the schedule for the purpose of striking the county rates for 1892 presented some interesting data. The statistics for the townships of Belmont and Methuen showed the number of ratepayers were 709; population, 2,339; resident acres, 71,546; non-resident acres, 4,896; acres assessed, 76,442; value of resident lands $258,321; value of non-resident lands $5,713. Total value of real property, $264,034; value of personal property, $2,400; total taxable property, $266,434; the number of cattle, 2,128; number of sheep, 849; hogs 698; and horses 695. The total equalized value for the township was $421,795.

The population for the county was 22,569 with a total assessment of $8,415,205. The estimate for the 1892 levy was $19,998.30, Belmont and Methuen's share for this being $790.86 with the school rate at $292.

Only four municipalities were listed in the taxable income column. They were Ashburnham, $3,000; Norwood, $1,500; Asphodel, $100; and Otonabee, $2,500.

On January 30, on motion by John Burnham of Ashburnham and W. H. Casement of Lakefield and in accordance with the request of the deputation from the council of the Town of Peterborough, a committee was appointed to meet the Peterborough council to consider building a House of Refuge.

Only Crime Poverty

Warden J. Forster, reeve of the township of Monaghan in his speech to the county council at the session the following June said that the Grand Jury for the April court of assize stated in their presentment that they found in the jail some prisoners whose only crime was poverty and helplessness or old age and suggested that a House of Refuge be provided for this class of the community.

The matter was left for further consideration.

A new steel bridge was built at Crowe River at a total cost of $1,889.69.

On September 27, 1892, the Hon. George Airey Kirkpatrick, LLD, QC, Lieut.-Governor of the Province of Ontario visited Peterborough to open the Central Agricultural Exhibition. The address of welcome was presented to him and Mrs. Kirkpatrick by Warden Joseph Forster on behalf of the county council.

The personnel of the county council for 1892 were: John Burnham, Ashburnham; W. H. Casement, Lakefield; John Finlay, Norwood; James Moore, reeve and John Fitzpatrick, deputy reeve, Asphodel; A. McAuley, reeve and J. S. Aunger, deputy reeve, Belmont and Methuen; James Robb, reeve and E. Hawthorne, deputy reeve of Dummer; John Moloney, reeve, and Robert Allen, deputy reeve, of Douro; C. O'Connor of Ennismore; Charles Coben of Galway; R. Shaw of Harvey; Joseph Forster of Monaghan; William Anderson, reeve, D. Nelson, 1st deputy reeve, Thomas Johnston, 2nd deputy reeve of Otonabee; M. Sanderson, reeve and W. McIlmoyle deputy reeve of Smith.

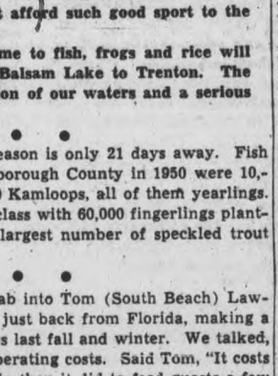
Plan Home Garden, Prepare Soil Early

By HENRY PREE (NEA Service)

In many areas of the country, it is still too early for much garden activity. But because of the lack of frost, preparation of the soil in the vegetable garden can be considered.

However, no digging should be attempted unless a lump of soil breaks up easily when squeezed in the hand. Soil which sticks in a ball when squeezed is too wet to be spaded.



The wise gardener plans his garden before he does any digging. Planning not only insures a maximum of fresh vegetables over a long season, but it also tells you the amount of seed and the number of plants to purchase.

Requirement number one is to plan a garden just large enough to meet the family needs and which can be maintained at a minimum of effort.

It will take approximately eight hours a week to care for a garden of 1000 square feet. A plot of 50 x 25 feet contains about 25 tons of soil. Proper spading would take about eight hours of the gardener's time and another hour or two of raking before it is ready for planting.

The home gardener usually has little choice of location and soil for his garden. However, if the location is sunny and away from roots of trees and shrubs he can improve his soil so that a satisfactory garden will result.

Since [illegible] is necessary for success, all low spots should be filled in. Level or slightly sloping ground is preferred, but gardens can be grown on hillsides by following the contour of the ground.

Don't spade up soil until it is dry enough to crumble under pressure of your fingers.

The size of the garden depends on how much land you have available and how much care you can give it. Once you know the size, you can make your plan on paper to scale. But do not guess at it. Take as accurate measurements as you can.

The next step is to decide on the vegetables, choosing only those which appeal to your family, yield the most for the space they take up, and which grow best in your neighborhood.

Annual vegetables are easier to grow and require less attention than the perennials, such as asparagus and rhubarb.

Gardening is fun, if you do not make it a chore. Start with a small plot which you know you can keep in good condition. Then increase it later if you find you can handle a larger area.

Gardening Questions

Q.—How well will plants grow in vermiculite?

A.—It's okay to start plants in vermiculite. However, it is completely lacking in plant food, so be sure to feed the seedlings after the first leaves appear. Water the flats twice a month with a mixture of one level teaspoonful of complete plant food in one quart of water, thoroughly shaken up.

Q.—Many of my house plants, especially the coleus and gardenia, are infested with little white lice resembling mildew. What must I do?

A.—The pests undoubtedly are mealy bugs, which multiply rapidly. Eliminate them by placing the plants in the sink and spraying the insects with a solution of ½ teaspoon of Black Leaf 40 to a pint of slightly soapy lukewarm water. Repeat every two weeks to [illegible] control.

Gehrmann Beats Wilt In Montreal New Records Set

MONTREAL, April 7 (CP). — Some 4,500 Montreal track fans today are convinced of the superiority of Don Gehrmann over Fred Wilt in the mile run, feature event in last night's Canadian Legion annual indoor track meet.

Gehrmann, running for the University of Wisconsin, ran away in the final lap to take the event from Wilt, of New York and add to his conquests this season over the New Yorker.

Gehrmann ran the distance in 4:12.4, bettering the previous mark of 4:16.6 held by the American flying parson, Gil Dodds.

In third place was Stewart Ray of the New York Athletic Club.

Ray started off fast, Gehrmann and Wilt sticking together. Gehrmann held off until the final lap before making his move. He shot in front with three-quarters of a lap to go and finished four yards ahead of Wilt.

Records Set

Both the Canadian and Provincial marks of 4:26.4 and 4:30.4, were shattered in the eastern Canada title event by Bill Parnell of Vancouver, running for Washington State University. His time was 4:19.7.

In second place was John Alexander of Montreal while third was John Joe Barry of Villa Nova College, Philadelphia.

In the 500-yard open event, Herb McKinley of Jamaica came home first, keeping the race in hand all the way.

Don McEwen of Ottawa and University of Michigan broke the Canadian indoor record in the two-mile run, lapping his field for a mark of 9:08.2.

McEwen wasn't even extended, moving in front of the field at the start and holding his advantage to the finish. The Canadian open record was 9:14.6.

Pats In Korea To Hear Hockey Broadcasts

OTTAWA, April 7 (CP). — Canada's servicemen in the Far East are going to hear streamlined broadcasts of some of the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs.

Defence headquarters said Friday that Foster Hewitt, sports broadcaster who broadcasts games involving Toronto Maple Leafs, now is preparing streamlined, half-hour editions for the Canadian forces in the Far East. The broadcast is recorded on tape after each game.

The tape recording is then transmitted to Ottawa where it is re-recorded by the CBC and then flown by the RCAF 426 Squadron planes from Tacoma, Wash., to Tokyo where it is broadcast over the armed forces radio network.

In Toronto, Hewitt said he is handling the streamlined broadcasts of both home and away games of the Toronto-Boston series without pay. He is including brief summaries of the Montreal-Detroit playoffs in his broadcasts.

Lloyd Grose, efficient secretary-treasurer of the Petes' senior ball club, says the annual meeting will be some night next week. He, Manager Ed Whitehill and others have been busy meantime checking on new players, and they still seek a pitcher among several others. Dan Brown left to go pro and big Bud Harrison moved to Oshawa, where he'll be a valuable asset to the Merchants. Eddie Murphy is home for a few weeks from the Maritimes and will help get the club lined up and into spring training. Lloyd and Cy Whatley are taking in the OBA annual in London this weekend. If the weather stays mild, the diamond prospects may start workouts in a few weeks.

The outlaw COBL expect teams this year from Belleville, Batawa, Brockville, Trenton, Picton, Kingston and possibly a couple of N.Y. State teams from over the border. The loop officials — and it hasn't been much of a setup since Oshawa and Peterborough pulled out two years ago to go in the Toronto Viaduct League — have decided not to affiliate with the OBA. Rumor hath it that the OBA takes a dim view of this and will discuss it today at the annual meeting. It may outlaw all COBL players and ask other Ontario amateur bodies — hockey, football, basketball, and so on — to do likewise. Such things have happened before. But that's not our headache.

PCVS Cagers Still In

Final basketball tournament of the season goes on here today in the large Collegiate gymnasium. Four teams are in the OABA midget playoffs. A semi-final at three this aft between Toronto Adam Becks and PCVS, the other semi-final following at 4.30 between St. Kitts and London St. Mary's Finalists clash at eight there in the evening, all being sudden-death games. Maybe a prelim consolation at seven betwixt the runners-up. These are the pick of the midget cagers in the province and they should dish up some keen competition. YW junior girls have a final series next week to end up the hoop season in these parts.

It'll be another month or so before the financial statement of Civic Arena for the past season will be presented. But the puck season is over, and the arena shortly will be ready for any summer-time use deemed suitable. While it isn't a Memorial Centre by a long way, the rink does fill a big need here, and it was in great demand every day and night since hockey started back in October. Receipts for the winter a year ago amounted to almost $46,000 with the total expenditure nearly $32,000. The arena commission turned over $10,000 to the city council, a nice return for the year. It will be interesting to see what the arena took in this past puck season — and we believe the gates were down — and what the balance is. Manager Walt Smillie and his staff handled things well, as far as we could see.

Stanley Cuppers At It

Speaking of hockey, two Stanley Cup semi-final games go tonight and most fan afound here will be tuned in to the Bruins-Leafs' fray at Toronto. Red Sullivan will be with the Bruins. The Smythe squad leads the best-of-seven two games to one, the other one ending in a tie. The Leafs could win tonight and end it in Boston on Sunday, but one never knows. A Montreal rumor is that Joe Primeau may resign at the end of the season as he doesn't care for the robust style Toronto plays with the okay of Conny Smythe. Detroit Red Wings, trailing three games to two, have to hustle in Montreal tonight or they've had it. Seventh game will be back in Detroit, if Wings should even it up this evening.

Ontario Athletic Commission has been asked to supply a special referee for the return team pro mat bout between Whipper Billy Watson and Pat Flanagan here Tuesday night against Tommy O'Toole and Fred Atkins. Quite a rhubarb resulted last time when Referee Bert Maxwell got himself knocked groggy and came to in time to count Watson out after the Whip had O'Toole ready for the fall—Atkins interfering to aid his villainous sidekick. Anyway, that's the word today, another ref will handle the four, or attempt to, in another sizzling tag match. Timothy Geohagen is tackling Big Ben Morgan (whiskers and all) in the semi-windup, while Sonny Kurgis faces Pierre LaSalle in the prelim. Sounds like a right lively grapple card.

Coboconk Wins Cup In Annual Tournament

LINDSAY, April 7.—Defeating Red Rock and Cameron, Coboconk won the Graham Cup in the annual tournament here.

Led by Dave Caester with two goals, Coboconk blanked Cameron 6-0, in the first game of the night and came from behind to edge Red Rock, 2-1, in overtime in the final to take the trophy.

Glen Junkin's goal and veteran Mel Junkin's goaltending kept the Rock club in front until the late minutes when Norm Faulkner shot the equalizer.

Caester, who accepted the silverware from the donor, Bunk Graham, on behalf of his team, scored the winning goal for Cobby after three minutes of play. Hugh Johnston fired the only goal as Red Rock gained the final event with a 1-0 win over Rosedale.

Baseball Clinics Planned For Ont. Teams

LONDON, Ont., April 7 (CP)—Delegates attending the 34th annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association learned Friday the community programs of the education department has undertaken to promote province wide baseball clinics for coaches, players and umpires.

Barry Lowes, representing the community programs branch, speaking before members of the minor executive and delegates from minor associations and leagues, said the purpose of the clinics was to raise the standards of baseball coaching and umpiring in the province.

15 Requests

To date, 15 requests for clinics have been received by his department Mr. Lowes said.

The program community programs branch undertakes to pay the instructors and half of their travelling expenses while the communities paid the other half of the travelling expenses and costs of boarding the instructors.

S. H. Armstrong of Toronto, chairman of the minor association of the OBA, presided at the afternoon sessions while senior and intermediate representatives met in the morning.

Today's general session will discuss constitution amendments.

Must Sign

One amendment that came in for a great deal of discussion Friday by the minor group was under the "certificate tax."

The amendment as proposed would be changed to read that "players in all series must sign OBA certificates. A charge of 50 cents is made for all senior to pee wee certificates inclusive, which is a charge made against the treasury of the individual leagues and no player is eligible until payment for certificate has been made to the treasurer of his league."

Delegates finally voted to change the amendment to read that only senior, intermediate and junior players would be subject to the tax. The original and altered amendments will be discussed in general business session, today.

Parking Tickets Irk Commission

When the Utilities Commissioners have their own board room in their own offices down at Aylmer and Dalhousie Sts., they won't have to worry about parking tickets. Thereby will they be the odd buck in pocket.

Not that they were complaining at their meeting the other afternoon about the vigilance of police who keep an eye on the parking meters, but they were wondering whether they, too, could get some stickers to put on their cars for immunity while they were in session.

Fred Hills isn't concerned about a concession of that kind. He walks only a block and a half when he is at the Utilities office in the city hall. But, Gordon Matthews, George Macdonald and manager Ross L. Dobbin come by car which they pull up at some convenient parking space.

However, it is a rare occasion when business can be wound up in an hour, and after that first sixty minutes they are into a period of liability for a dollar ticket. After all, cars at the curb look much alike to the police, and if the meter is calling for another nickel "or fraction thereof" that calls for a ticket.

How are the police to know Commission is in the neighborhood engaged in pubic business? Or whose car offends?

So, it was hinted to Mr. Dobbin that he might sound out the authorities about a form of consideration for meeting days that would suspend, briefly, the parking penalty, and let the Commissions go about their public light, water and as affairs without having to think about overstaying their time, at a price.

A fledgling professional, Robert (Skee) Riegel, gave the greats of golf a lesson on the greens Friday to wrest a one-stroke lead at the halfway point of the Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga.

He fired a four-under-par 68 over the 6,900-yard layout for a 36-hole total of 141.

The first day pace-setter, little George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa., fell out of his opening 68 with a 74 that left him tied for second place with U.S. open champion Ben Hogan and young Lew Worsham, the 1947 open titlist, at 142.

Hogan, who has never won a Masters, used 37 putts but still came home with a creditable 36-36—72. Worsham also was erratic on the greens but managed to nail up a 35-36—71, matching his first-round effort.

State Premier John G. B. McDonald, cancelled a conference of political leaders Tuesday that would have discussed a suggestion that Melbourne, Australia, forgo the 1956 Olympic games.

McDonald announced Thursday that Victoria State political leaders would meet to discuss dropping the games. The suggestion was described Friday in some quarters as "a policy of despair."

"Australia's amateur athletics are not going to allow their Olympic birthright to be sold by any politicians' messing and pottering," said Kent Hughes, a member of parliament and W. Uren, Victorian Olympic Council chairman in a joint statement.

Hamilton Mormons, spearheaded by Doug Shepherd, hook-shot artist from Mesa, Ariz., Friday night ran Saint John Marcus Majors ragged in the four quarter to rack up a 61-50 victory in the opening game of the Dominion intermediate basketball semi-finals at Saint John, N. B.

Mormons trailed by a single point—39-38—at the end of the third quarter, but the Majors, weakened by the foul-out loss of playing-coach Ralph Fitzpatrick, were no match for their better-conditioned opponents in the final stages.

Welterweight champion Johnny Bratton of Chicago signed Friday for a non-title 10-round scrap at Detroit April 18 against Don Williams of Worcester, Mass.

Ross Riemms of Toronto Friday defeated Lionel Doyner of Montreal in 32 moves in the first of a six-game match for the Canadian junior chess championship at Montreal. Winner will represent Canada at the first international junior championships in England next June.

Terry Moore, a substitute's sub turned out to be a surprise package Friday night as he scored a split 10-round decision over Chuck Hunter of Cleveland in the main bout at St. Nicholas Arena, New York. The Baltimore youngster weighed 159¼ to Hunter's 161½.

Called in on 24-hour notice to fill in after Dick Wagner and Ray Barnes were forced out, the 21-year-old understudy made an impressive New York debut.

Fighting out of a crouch, he piled up a big lead through the first seven rounds with short punches at short range. He was effective with a left hook to the head and body.

Irish Swamp Grand National Running Today

By BEN PHLEGAR.

AINTREE, England, April 7—(AP). — Aintree and nearby Liverpool today looked like New York on St. Patrick's day—full of Irishmen.

The Irish and thousands of other steeplechasing addicts from all parts of the world had invaded the two cities for the 105th running today of the Grand National. (Post time 10:15 a.m. EST).

There were plenty of Irish angles to this race.

The favorite was Shagreen, bred and trained in Ireland and backed down to 17 to 2 by a late flood of Irish money.

The second choice was Arctic Gold at 9 to 1, another product of Irish breeding, although now under the American ownership of Jock Whitney. His jockey was Irish Tim Molony.

Last Year's Winner

The third choice was last year's winner Freebooter, a half-brother to an Irish plow horse and ridden by Jimmy Power, a true son of Old Erin. The odds on Freebooter were 100 to 9.

A broad Irish streak extended right down through the joint fourth choices, Roimon and Cloncarrig.

Although bred and owned in England, Roimon was scheduled to have Irish Martin Molony, Tim's brother, as his jockey, providing Molony's injuries from a fall early this week permitted him to ride. Cloncarrig, whose odds fell from 22 to 1 to 100 to 8 this week, has often raced in Ireland.

The Emerald Isle also is represented by Royal Tan and Derrinstown, two less-fancied choices.

Sweepstake

And last, but not least, as far as thousands of Americans and Canadians are concerned, the Grand National is the basis for the Irish Sweepstakes drawing.

Light showers during the night softened the course and more showers were forecast for midday.

Leafs, Bruins Tangle, Toronto Leads

TORONTO, April 7 (CP). — That old question about what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object will be answered in part tonight when Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs resume their Stanley Cup semi-final series.

Perhaps Bruins, who had the third highest goal production in the National Hockey League's regular season, don't really deserve the "irresistible force" tag. But the Maple Leafs, top defensive team in the loop, come close to the "immovable object" class.

Leafs, who hold a 2-1 edge in games in their best-of-seven series (one game was tied), have been drawing heavily on their defensive strength—and it has been paying off.

Allow Four Goals

Toronto has allowed Bruins only four goals in as many games. Leaf output has been seven—and three of those counters have been by defencemen.

Bashing Bill Barilko, coming into his own with the rough play the teams have produced in the series so far, has counted twice. The other was by Fernie Flaman, former Bruin.

Lynn Patrick, Bruin coach, is counting on a rested squad—the teams played last at Boston on Tuesday when Leafs won 3-1—and some new faces to pull his club even with the favored Leafs.

Reserves

Four players from Hershey Bears, Boston's farm club in the American Hockey League, worked out with the Bruins here yesterday. They are goalie Jim (Red) Henry and forwards George Sullivan, Jack McIntyre and Silvio Bettio.

Patrick said he hasn't decided which of the four will be used. At his disposal also are Bill Davidson and Barton Bradley, recalled from Tulsa Oilers of the United States League.

Maple Leafs, scheduled to return today from their training base at St. Catharines, Ont., will present the same squad which turned in two victories in Boston this week.

Boom-Boom Calls Shot Canadiens Need One More

By W. R. WHEATLEY.

MONTREAL, April 7 (CP). — The boom-boom called his shot, and to all intents and purposes put Montreal Canadiens within a single game of the Stanley Cup hockey final.

It was two hours before game time in Detroit, with the Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens locked two-all in this best-of-seven series.

"I score tonight," announced Le Gros Boom-Boom with all the aplomb and cocksureness of a Dizzy Dean.

Winning Goal

So it turned out that Bernard Geoffrion, 19-year-old pick-up junior for Montreal Canadiens, blasted in the winning goal and sent Canadiens on to a 5-2 victory over the favored Red Wings.

Now it's up to Canadiens to waylay the home-town jinx and win tonight on Montreal ice to settle the series. If the jinx holds, the clubs will play the deciding game in Detroit Tuesday, the winner to meet either Toronto or Boston in the final.

Canadiens faced up to tonight's game with the confidence of winners. Coach Dick Irvin predicted last night that his pepped-up players would end the series. Coach Tommy Ivan of the Wings was just as confident that his club with a bad game out of the way, could come back and tie the series.

Same Train

The teams travelled to Montreal on the same train. The Detroit car was just ahead of the Montreal pullman.

There wasn't a semblance of fraternizing. At the five-minute stops, the Detroit players paraded the station platform in a group.

The Montrealers flitted about and raced to nearby stores for soft drinks.

The clubs ate in groups in the diner. Ted Lindsay of the Wings, sporting a swollen black eye, marched to a far-end table with Gerry Pronovost, but talked affably with anyone who dropped by.

Ducks Unlimited Flying High—President

DES MOINES, April 7 (AP).—Ducks unlimited, waterfowl conservation organization, have over $341,000 for breeding-ground restoration purposes this year, retiring president Harvey L. Sorensen told trustees today.

His report disclosed that in 13 years of field work, the organization has built more than 300 meeting and breeding projects for waterfowl on the Canadian prairies.

He noted an increasing interest in it in both U.S and Canada, reflected, he said, by broader newspaper coverage of its work on both sides of the border.

Montreal Lineup For Tickets

MONTREAL, April 7 (CP). — They take their hockey seriously in Montreal.

At 1 a.m. EST, more than 300 persons were lined up inside the Forum to be sure of tickets for tonight's Stanley Cup semi-final between Detroit and the home-town Canadiens.

In the lobby itself, another group of some 100 persons, including a number of women, were whiling the time away seated on newspapers spread on the floor.

The earliest of the early birds was Amedee Dallaire who, despite a taped-up rib, arrived to take up his post at 5:30 p.m. last night.

Next came R. Collette, a family group of three—Mr. and Mrs. Wilbrod Lenderman and a daughter—and Paul-Emile Emond.

The box office for the "first come first served" tickets opens at 10 a.m. Game time is 8:30 p.m. Canadiens lead the best-of-seven series 3-2.

Soo Wins 4-2 Over Mercurys

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 7 (CP).—Hitting for goals in the first and third periods, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds Friday night took a commanding two-game lead in their best-of-five playoff series with Owen Sound Mercurys dumping the visitors 4-2.

The teams meet Monday in Owen Sound in the third game of the Ontario Hockey Association A playoffs. The fourth and fifth games are scheduled for Owen Sound, if necessary.

More than 6,000 fans saw Hounds score their second successive win—the largest crowd to ever witness a game here.

Both Terry Biocchi and Walter Zuke hit for Sault goals in the opening session for a 2-1 lead. Following a scoreless second frame, Hounds came back with two more tallies against two by Mercurys.

Bernard MacIver and Billy Visinski were the other Greyhound marksmen while Tommy Burlington and Grant had Owen Sound counters, it was another costly triumph for the Greyhounds, however.

They picked up their fourth injury of the series, forward Billy Visinski leaving the ice late in the third period with an injured arm. He's expected to miss the third game.

Park Street Alliance Church Plans Missionary Convention

The Rev. Lauren R. Carner, India, and Mrs. B. H. Alexander, Central China, will be guest speakers during next week when the Park Street Alliance Church will hold its annual missionary convention from April 8 to 15.

Mr. Carner spent his boyhood in India and after his college education in America returned there. At their station in Berar, Mr. and Mrs. Carner were responsible for the evangelization of 400,000 tribesmen living in over 500 villages and towns and for teaching a community of 1,000 Christians in 125 villages scattered over an area of 1,000 square miles.

In this work he was assisted by 20 Indian preachers and travelled thousands of miles on foot, horseback, bullock cart, ex-army jeeps, bus and train.

Outside of his parish Mr. Carner was called to special ministries in spiritual life conferences, particularly for young people, and in evangelistic meetings for non-Christians, under the auspices of eight different denominations.

Mrs. Alexander is a veteran missionary who has gone through the many changes and upheavals in Central China during her missionary career which began in 1905.

In 1911 she was engaged in missionary work during the Boxer revolution which dethroned the Manchus. Again in 1927 she witnessed the hindering influence of Communism. Finally in 1937 she was still a missionary when the war with Japan began.

Language And Writings Of East Full Of Symbols

By WILLIAM E. GILROY. D.D.

Suppose an intelligent person, who had never read the stories of beginnings in the early chapters of Genesis, should come across a reference to a "tree of the knowledge of good and evil" and an account of a serpent speaking, would he, not in the very nature of the writing realize that the writer was speaking in a symbolic, rather than in a literal way?

One thing about the Bible that many people forget is that it is an Eastern book. The daily language and literature of the East has always been full of figures and symbols very different from much of our prosaic, Western liberalism. figures of speech and symbols to

The prophets frequently used illustrate and express truth. The parables of Jesus were true to life and revealing in the truth concerning God and man that Jesus sought to impart, but they did not depend upon the incidents described having actually happened.

It was "a certain man," who went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and it might have been any man so far as the truth and the teaching were concerned. The parables are stories and teachings for today, and not just stories of something that happened long ago. Their significance is not as historic incidents but as spiritual tales, or parables, with universality of application.

The great teacher under whom I studied these things years ago interpreted the symbolism of the early Genesis stories in his own way.

He suggested that the creation of woman from man's side meant that she was to be his equal and helpmate; not from his head that she should lord it over him, nor from his foot that he should dominate her. This interpretation is in harmony with the high esteem in which women were held among the Jews and in contrast with their inferior position among many other peoples.

I have never forgotten an incident in the classroom one day. When for most of the lecture period Chancellor Burwash had been proceeding with his poetic interpretation along this line, a student in the back of the room suddenly spoke up. "Do you think, Dr. Burwash," he said, "that Adam was put to sleep so he wouldn't feel any pain when the rib was taken away?"

I don't know whether the student had been asleep or not. But Dr. Burwash, a serious saint not often seen to smile, threw himself back in his chair, with a loud laugh. When he recovered himself, he said in solemn, singing tone, which I can hear to this day: "O, you bald Occidental, you do not understand the beautiful poetry of the Hebrew mind." The student, a diminutive fellow, was thereafter known as "the little rib"—but that's neither here nor there.

The story of the beginning of sin symbolizes the subtle and easy temptation of those made in the image and likeness of God; the essence of sin in disobedience to divine command; the knowledge of good and evil as the result of the fall, and the emergence of man into moral struggle and moral responsibility.

More 'Phones In Offing For Citizens

Underground Cables Will Widen Service But Not Until 1952

Peterborough citizens are going to have more phones for their use as a result of new underground cables being laid on south Park St. and south Aylmer St. and later this year out Weller St. and north on Reid St., but they are going to have to wait until the early fall of 1952 for them, Peterborough Bell Telephone manager, E. G. Baker said today.

The reason basically is that so far it has been easier to get cable underground and strung along poles than it has been to obtain terminals. Terminals is the name given to the complicated switch boxes installed in the telephone building on Hunter St. for each telephone in operation in Peterborough and the immediate district which the city serves.

Mr. Baker checked with his headquarters in Toronto to get the latest estimate and unless something happens to defer the time of arrival of the 2,000 terminals that are expected, they should get here for installation in the early fall.

Extending Feeder Lines

However in the meantime E. A. Sayers, field engineer for the district, is preparing for the time when the terminals are here. He is busy extending the main feeder lines, consisting of underground conduits and buried cables which carry a large number of telephone lines in three-inch pipes under the ground to points from which the lines branch along streets and from there into individual houses.

Each telephone used has a pair of wires leading from it to the Hunter St. office where it is connected up through the terminals with all the other city phones on the automatic dial system.

Work in the south end has been almost completed. Working crews are cleaning up after the job on Aylmer St. and Park St. work is in an advanced stage.

Underground tile conduit has been laid along Aylmer St from Townsend St. south to Romaine St. Buried cable is being laid along Park St. from Romaine St. south to Lansdowne St. These new cables will reinforce the phone system along Park St. south of Lansdowne and along Monaghan Rd. south of Lansdowne St.

There is already buried cable

PCVS Band and Choral Club Entertain Capacity Audience

The venture of the Board of Education four years ago into the cultural field of music at the Collegiate Institute and Vocation School paid off again Friday night with an entertaining concert to a capacity crowd in a school auditorium.

This diversion from scholastic affairs began with the organization of a student band, open to boys and girls, under the direction of Albert Croasdale. Since then it has reached out into vocalism with surprising and highly rewarding results. Furthermore, there was a double trio of girls singing "Skip To My Lou", injecting an element of comedy suggesting further possibilities of resource.

The girls' choral club is a beautiful instrument as directed by Melvin J. Curtis. It comprises sixty-three finely blended voices fused to the elimination of any individual. Tone timbre was delightful, and harmony and clarity were impressive qualities. The ensemble voice of this choir is doubtless an asset of the school beyond the anticipations of its trustees.

Mr. Curtis conducted with assurance, and evoked delicate effects of shading and nuance investing familiar things such as Ketelby's "In a Persian Market", and the melodic "Rendezvous" by Aletter, with charming freshness of color.

The program, in two sections, vocal and instrumental, was opened by W. B. Gordon of the Board of Education, who welcomed the large audience, and thanked the people for their interest in the school and the musical activities of the students.

Heard In Two Groups

The girls' choral club was heard in two groups, the first in four selections: Austria by Haydn; In A Persian Market; Rendezvous and Morning by Oley Speaks, whose death last year was mentioned by Mr. Curtis. The second group consisted of "Homing" by Teresa del Riego; The Vilet by Scarlatti, unaccompanied, and another favorite of lighter vein "Dry Bones."

In white waists and dark skirts, and under soft pink lighting, the girls looked lovely as the curtains were furled for the opening number, and that impression remained throughout their splendid singing.

Of his mixed choir, a smaller group including seven boys, Mr. Curtis said they had taken up singing last fall during their noon hours for the delight of it. Their numbers were a Fred Waring arrangement of the hymn "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty", two spirituals, Little David Play On Your Harp, and I Ain't Gonna Grieve No More; and Cape Cod Chantey.

Their singing was a pleasing feature as was the harmonizing of the PCVS Barber Shop Boys in Coney Island Baby, After Dark and Tell Me Why.

This part of the program included a duet "I'll See You Again", one of Noel Coward's Songs, by Miss Lorna Stewart and Mr. Vyrtle Sisson; a vocal solo "My Hero" from the Chocolate Soldier by Miss Phyllis Hart; and comedy double trio singing "Skip To My Lou", Anne Gordon, Anne Grant, Catharine Waterman, Mary Lou Waterman, Dorothy Watkins and Barbara Woodcock.

The audience would have liked more from that group. They provided an interlude of fun that was surprisingly good.

The little girl with the blue ribbon in her hair had only a moment's opportunity, but she registered for a big laugh from the audience.

Mr. Croasdale's band of 1951 deserves more mention than it seems to be getting in the shadow of the girls' choir. On their own account they played an attractive program featured by the overture "Spirit of Youth" by Sordillo, which they have prepared for the Kiwanis festival of music, and presented with confidence and verve.

Their harmony was outstanding in Handel's Largo, and three popular numbers, "Jealousy", "Vienna Dreams and Tea For Two

Dunsford Woman Slugged With Piece Of Pipe; Boy Charged With Assault

Day-long Search Leads Provincials To Barn Where Woman Slugged; Hired Hand, 16, Found Hiding In Haymow

LINDSAY, April 7.—Norman McLaren, 16, was charged with assault Friday in Lindsay after an alleged attack with a piece of piping on a Dunsford area housewife, causing actual bodily harm. Dunsford is 10 miles northeast of Lindsay. Mrs. Ted Brien, RR 6, Lindsay, told police that on Wednesday afternoon about 3:30 the 16-year-old boy, who works on the Brien farm on Highway 36 near Snug Harbor turn, asked her to look at a cow behind the barn. He told her the cow was sick.

At that time Mr. Brien was at a neighboring farm and Mrs. Brien went to the barn with the boy to find that the cow was not sick.

Trying to explain to herself why the boy had tricked her, Mrs. Brien said she was struck suddenly from behind with a piece of piping. Fortunately at the time she was wearing a woollen scarf about her head and the blow slightly split her scalp. She was able to return to the farmhouse where she 'phoned her daughter.

Mr. Brien returned home and with the police a search was begun.

Tracks In Mud

Tracks in the mud led from the barn in the direction of nearby Snug Harbour. They were followed by Provincial Constable W. G. Milton until the marks disappeared in a sod field.

Throughout Wednesday night the search was continued in the Snug Harbor cottage area but there was no sign of the boy. The provincial police continued the search Thursday when Frank Thurston, Mr. Brien's brother-in-law, joined the party. The search led to the haymow in the Brien barn and there McLaren was found at 5 p.m.

After being charged in Lindsay police court Friday with assault causing actual bodily harm against Mrs. Brien, McLaren's case was remanded a week by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

Labor Men Fear Excise Tax Levied On Beer

The executive of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) are worried about the immediate future of beer, which they describe as "the workingman's drink."

A letter has been sent to Gordon K. Fraser, MP, asking him to vote against any excise tax on beer. There have been official hints that there will be a boost in the tax when the budget is brought down Tuesday. And the labor council is dead against it.

"Higher prices for beer will mean that the working man will not be able to buy as much beer," say the executive. "In turn, this means reduced sales of beer and fewer jobs in the brewery industry."

Because of this they are asking Mr. Fraser to vote against such a tax should it be proposed.

Beer, they say, is a "temperate drink" and "a universal workingman's beverage." And the price should be held at a reasonable level to fit the workingman's purse.

Cut Out Sale by Keg

The executive is also worried lest draught beer be unobtainable except through licence holders (hotel owners).

Local 327, International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers (CCL), claim there is a direct attempt by hotel owners to blackball "a small independent brewery" (in Kitchener) which is outside the "combine."

This independent brewery is at present selling kegs of draught beer.

Villain of the piece in the eyes of the labor council is Canadian Breweries (O'Keefe's, Carling's, Brading's and British-American).

"The Canadian Breweries Ltd., in a letter dated December 4, 1950, to all Ontario Licence holders (i.e. hotel owners) stated that draught beer should be handled only by hotels and that the small kegs of beer recently marketed for home consumption be discontinued," said the executive in a statement to the Examiner.

Tender Accepted To Wreck House

The tender of Clifford J. Deck, Park Hill Rd. East, for $500 for the wrecking of the brick house on the Hughes property on Monaghan Road has been accepted by accommodation committee of the Board of Education. Seven tenders in all were received and the committee accepted the highest bid. Mr. Deck has a month to wreck the house and plans to commence work on Monday.

J. A. Mason, Third Ave. put in the highest bid for the barn and was awarded the wrecking of it for $100 while the bid of Maxwell Ramsay, Monaghan Road of $60 for the fence was accepted.

Child Psychologist

Says Behaviour Learned, Not Inherited

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

"Behavior is learned not inherited." This statement was made by Mrs. Harold Johnston, director of the Institute of Child Study, Department of Pyschology, University of Toronto, in an interview with the Examiner.

A charming and interesting person plus a fascinating subject made this interview with Mrs. Johnston a refreshing and instructive experience. She was in the city lecturing at a three-day lay leaders' course in Family Relations.

The prevalent idea that bad behavior in a child can be traced to his parents or some other ancestral black sheep, Mrs. Johnston emphatically denied.

"We at the Institute of Child Study are convinced that environment alone is responsible for a child's behavior," she contended. "Environment directs behavior and learning; heredity sets the limit for learning."

Authority on Child Psychology

Seated comfortably in her hotel room and chatting informally made it difficult to realize that this woman, relaxed and yet so obviously full of energy and good humor, was one of the foremost authorities on child psychology in the country.

Mrs. Johnston seemed far from being impressed with her position or the fact that she has been connected for 25 years with the only Institute of Child Study in Canada. She received both her Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees at the University of Toronto before entering this department.

But there could be no denying that she was fascinated with her work and there was an unquestionable mischievous twinkle in her eyes when she was presented with the question, "What is the latest theory at the U of T about free expression in children?"

"You mean the theory that children should be allowed to express themselves in anyway the spirit moved them such as yelling or smashing furniture etc.," she asked.

"Yes."

"We believe that in order to have freedom the individual must be restricted in order that they may live with each other.

"In other words this theory is not sanctioned by the Institute.

"No. Society demands that some requirements must be met therefore children must be taught restrictions in this regard just as they must be taught good physical habits."

Outlines Work

Mrs. Johnston went on to enthusiastically outline the work carried out at the institute.

The children attending the institute are divided into age groups —the youngest are two and the eldest, five. Only normal children are enrolled.

"The Institute makes available to people working with children results of intensive study in this field," she explained.

At this point, the conversation turned to the lay leaders' course in Family Relations that Mrs. Johnston conducted this week.

"In the four years that this course has been conducted in various centres in Ontario including Peterborough an increasing interest has been shown," she remarked. "The first year there were four courses given with 28 groups participating and this year there have been 22 courses given with 115 groups participating."

"What is the aim of these courses?"

"The title of the course completely answers that question. They are lay leaders' courses. Lecturers are sent out from the Institute to train representatives from groups so that they may take this knowledge back to their groups. In this way the whole community can benefit from one lay leaders' course."

Mrs. Johnston explained that these courses have been conducted by the Adult Education, Community Programs Section of the Ontario Department of Education for the past four years. Courses included the following topics, Discipline, Pre-School Child, School Age, Adolescence and this year's course in Family Relations.

Lives on Farm

Peterborough women who were fortunate to have the opportunity to take this year's course studied such topics as "The Family in History," "Trends in Family Relationships," "Parent-Child Relationships in a Democracy,' and "Democracy in a Family."

A demanding lecture schedule at the Institute plus these lay leaders' courses would seem a full time job for the average women, but not Mrs. Johnston. She still has time to enjoy her 94 acre farm home at Scarboro Junction. She was president of the Scarboro Branch of the Canadian Red Cross during the war years and a member of the University of Toronto Women's Club.

In addition she has two sons of whom she is justifiably proud. Harry is at Donat King's College, Cambridge, England and Robert has recently been appointed junior resident physician at the new Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

"I also like to play golf," Mrs. Johnston concluded.

Air Cadet Week Marks League's 10th Birthday

OTTAWA, April 7 — The Air Cadet League of Canada will celebrate its 16th anniversary during National Air Cadet Week, April 15 to 22 it was announced today by League President H. L. Garner. It was in April 1941, that the League was granted a Dominion Charter authorizing it to operate as a non-profit corporation in the fields of aviation and youth training.

During Air Cadet Week more than 22 squadrons across Canada will mark the tenth anniversary by holding church parades, open houses, "wings parades" and other special activities to which the public will be invited. The League's civilian committees at both local and provincial levels will also conduct their annual campaign for public support.

Need Air Cadet Training

"Our Air Cadet Week appeal will stress the importance of the League's program in view of today's world situation," said Mr. Garner. "It is our firm belief that now, more than ever before, our young men need the advantages of Air Cadet training."

Referring to the outstanding record of the League over the past ten years, Mr. Garner said: "Through week-by-week squadron training and by means of valuable incentive awards, more than 65,000 young Air Cadets have been able to lay the foundation for future careers. They have also become better Canadians in the process," he added.

The president called upon "all public-spirited Canadians" to support the League in the current 50 per cent expansion campaign which will boost the number of Air Cadets under training to 22,500 across Canada. This will bring Air Cadet strength more nearly in line with that of the expanded RCAF.

The architect has discarded frills of any kind in its design, relying solely on fine proportion and harmonious colour for its pleasing effect. Many Types Of Linoleum Available For Modern Home

When we think of material things, we are very apt to think of them in terms of those we've seen and had experience with in the past. Linoleum recalls for many of us a linoleum mat, no more representative of today's product than the old wood stove. In order that you may know of the various types now being made, the following description will indicate for you the variety available when you plan to decorate with linoleum.

Plain coloured linoleum is called just that unless it is particularly thick and then it is called battleship linoleum.

Marboleum, a second type, has a marble effect which is produced by adding the colouring pigments at specific stages of mixing.

Marble tile inlaid linoleum is distngushed from moulded by the fact that the divisions between the various colours are clean cut and do not mix or blend.

Moulded inlaid linoleum may be a dozen colours or more in a single pattern which goes right down to the burlap base.

Printed inoleum is the last of the important types. The patterns on printed linoleum are applied to the surface by blocks carved by hand from specially prepared sheets of wood. A different block for each colour transfers the patterns into the linoleum.

Beyond these differences in types there is a difference in the gauge of thicknss of linoleum which has a great deal to do with determining the price.

Intelligent buying of linoleum involves two steps—first, decide what type of linoleum you want, and then buy the product of a reputable manufacturer through an establishe dealer. In deciding the type you want, consider the use to which it will be put. This decision should take into consideration the thickness, as well as appearance of the linoleum you are considering.

Although linoleum is very simple to care for, it is important to its long life that it be cared for properly. When you want to clean anything, the first thing you think of is soap. But soap and linoleum do not get on together. Neither do scrubbing and linoleum.

For the most part, linoleum should be cleaned with a damp mop, and that is all the cleaning it needs. If the floor becomes very soiled, and soap must be used, mild soap flakes in a weak solution should be applied gently with a mop. Be sure to rinse and dry the floor thoroughly. Always wax immediately after cleaning.

Before inlaid linoleum floors are used they should be given at least two thin coats of good liquid wax which should be allowed to dry before they are polished. When the floors start to show signs of unevenness or dullness, the linoleum should be rewaxed—wax can be applied in places showing signs of dullness due to concentrated traffic and floor will again look even and uniform. Self polishing waxes are not recommended.

Opened Office 30 Years Ago

Gordon Monkman opened a small office in the Barrie building in Peterborough 30 years ago to establish the only Canadian connection with an English wool importing and exporting company that will commemorate the 50th anniversary of its inception this month. The name of this firm is the G. Whitaker and Co. Ltd.

This Peterborough office remains still the only Canadian connection with this English company.

The Peterborough office was opened for the purpose of establishing connections in Canada both for the sale of wools from the primary producing centres of the empire as well as for the purchase, distribution and exportation of Canadian wool.

The company was organized by George Whitaker of Bradford, England, in 1901. Since that time its operations have expanded to take in Canada, United States, New Zealand, Australia, South Africa, India and Pakistan.

PORT COLBORNE, April 7 — (CP)—The Colonial Steamships Upper Lakes fleet, most of which are wintering at Buffalo, begin fitting out Friday and sail in two or three days. Most of the companies' canal boats are tied up in Port Colborne, with others at Port Weller, Thorold and Buffalo.

First Ships Leave Ports For Superior

CLEVELAND, April 7—(AP)—Fifteen iron-ore vessels shoved off Friday night and early today from Lake Erie ports, heading for Lake Superior.

They are the first contingent of United States vessels to be dispatched there this season. They hope to enter Marquette, Mich., and Two Harbors, Minn., Sunday to take on ore.

This was announced by the ice committee of the Lake Carriers' Association, which gave the go-ahead after a meeting Friday to study the latest reports from the lake.

Tonight, the committee announced, 15 more vessels will leave for Superior. Another committee meeting will be held Monday to decide whether the regular ore-shipping season can begin in earnest.

The ore shippers have a big job ahead. The Defence Tronsportation Office has said that 90,000,000 tons of iron ore will have to be moved this year to meet steel requirements. Last year's tonnage was 78,205,000.

Three Canadian freighters—the Algocen, the Algosoo, and the Algoway — already have passed through or are nearing the Soo, gateway to Lake Superior. They are taking coal to Michipitocten, Ont.

Farmers To Get More For Secondary Milk

TORONTO, April 7 (CP)—Roy Lick, secretary of the Ontario Milk Producers' League, announced Friday night higher prices will be paid for secondary shipments of milk.

Producers will receive $3.20 per hundredweight for milk to be processed for home consumption and $3.10 for export milk.

League directors also asked for revision of production costs for milk that is to be bottled and distributed.

In the Toronto market, whole milk now brings $4.20 a cwt. Economic investigation last year by the league indicated cost of production ranged above $4.70.

James C. Weaver, of Owen Sound, league president, said local producer groups negotiating for higher milk prices would be supported by the league.

Earned Under $100 a Year As Employee Belfast Firm

Herbert J. Jamison, Gordon Ave., celebrated on Friday his 30th anniversary as an employee of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. He has been manager of the Peterborough store for 19 years, longer than any other branch manager in the company's 22 Ontario stores.

Mr. Jamison has been in Canada for all of those 30 years. He came to Canada from his native Belfast, Ireland, in 1921 and promptly joined the sales staff of the T. Eaton Co.

His previous experience was serving five years as an apprentice with a large Belfast firm. Today, reviewing the salaries paid hired help, he shakes his head as he thinks of his total earnings during that five year period. They amounted to £100.

Before coming to Peterborough in 1933 he was in charge of stores in Picton and North Bay.

Always community-minded, he has been a director of the Chamber of Commerce and the Peterborough Fair Board, a member of the Business Men's Association, the Sales and Ad Club. He is past president of the Lions Club.

He also served on the public relations committee for all victory loans, community loans, and community chest drives.

His hobbies are hunting, fishing and boating. His summer home is on Stony Lake.

When he first came to the city it had a population of 22,000, but within the next 30 years he expects to see it hit the 50,000-mark. Business opportunities here are tops, he says.

Friday he received personal congratulations from John David Eaton, president of the company, and good wishes from the directors. One of the most appreciated gifts was a bouquet of flowers from the Peterborough staff.

For Parents Only

Every Child Wants Garden

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Can I have a garden, one of my very own?"

How many parents hear their child making this request with the arrival of spring! What happens in your home when your son or daughter asks for a garden? Have you thought of the value of gardening in terms of character growth?

A little child who has never gardened with his father or mother has missed a lot of fun—that is, if his parents enjoy children as well as gardens. Tiny tots love to run errands and watch adults at work. There are many little tasks such as carrying the basket with the packages of seeds or fetching a ball of string, or watering a thirsty plant, that a two or three year old is eager to do. As soon as a child is old enough to start kindergarten, if he has helped in the gardening activities and wants to have his own little garden, he is big enough to begin the important work of sowing seeds and caring for plants.

It is good fun to look over the pages of a seed catalogue. The first year when a child has his own garden it is well to limit his choice to two or three vegetables and one or two flowers. They should be types which are easily grown. He can draw his own plan on paper, and learn how far apart rows should be placed and the best way to arrange his garden.

Some one has said that there is no more optimistic book than a seed catalogue. A child planning his own vegetables and flowers is sure that everything he plants will be a great success. Even if he should have bad luck, he will have a good time working at his garden.

A parent needs to give his child enough, but not too much help and supervision in preparing the soil and marking the rows. It is better to let him go ahead wherever possible, and learn some lessons from his own mistakes. A child is very impatient to see his first green shoots appearing. Lettuce and radishes grow so quickly that they are a good choice.

The small gardener will be sensitive to criticism, but he will redouble his efforts when praised. The dinner his lettuce or carrots or beets make an appearance on the table, is indeed a "high occasion." Every member of the family should be glad to share in appreciation of the results of work well done.

A little child shows such wholehearted enjoyment over gardening pleasures. Just watch him rake with vigorous strokes the old leaves from the garden patch! See a small girl sitting motionless as she gazes at a flower opening, or smelling the flower's perfume, or touching the soft petals!

There are many lessons a child can learn in gardening—patience to wait after the seed is planted for the seedlings to grow, carefulness in measuring rows, perseverance in finishing up on the weeding of one section of his garden. Every gardener must fight pests. The young gardener discovers that he is sometimes disappointed in his "crop" and must take his failures cheerfully.

A good parent realizes that the growth of the small gardener is even more important than the vegetables or flowers which are produced. He is convinced that the cost in time and energy on the parent's part is well worth the results in the child's character.

A genuine enthusiasm for growing things is a hobby which increases with the passing years. A boy or girl cannot acquire a gardening hobby too early. Gardens minister to a love of beauty and speak to man's spirit. The little child says, "The yellow daffodil is God's telephone." The poet truly claims "One is nearer God's heart in a garden than anywhere else on earth." (Dorothy Frances Gurney)

Canadian Papers Mourn La Prensa

By The Canadian Press

The suppression of La Prensa, the great Argentine newspaper, by the dictatorial Peron government was mourned in several Canadian cities Friday.

Flags on the buildings of newspapers in Winnipeg and Vancouver flew at half staff, other newspapers carried editorials on the Argentine government-seizure of La Prenza, and a Toronto radio station, CKEY, mentioned the fate of the newspaper on broadcasts throughout the day.

In Winnipeg, the flag of the Free Press building was at half staff and the newspaper carried a black-bordered box on the front page headed: "Free Press mourns La Prensa."

The Toronto Men's Press Club was draped with black ribbons on the front door

The Sudbury Star ran a front-page editorial headed: "Freedom Dies," surrounded by a black border, and a similar editorial was carried Thursday in the Victoria Times.

Leprosy Patient Sent To New Brunswick

WINDSOR, April 7 (CP)—The leprosy case, discovered three weeks ago, was transferred Thursday to a leprosarium at Tracadie, N.B., in an RCAF plane.

The Department of National Health and Welfare made arrangements to transport him.

The 25-year-old man, whose name was not disclosed, has been in Canada since May 1950. He has been in hospital since his disease was discovered.

Customs Increase

WINDSOR, April 7 (CP) — Customs and excise revenue for the ports of Windsor and Walkerville in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1951, reached an all-time high of $106,268,462.73, according to figures released Friday by Harold Beardmore, collector of customs and excise.

The previous high of $76,215,398.95, was set for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1950.

Singer Dies

TORONTO, April 7 — (CP) — Frances World, 84, well-known in Canada as a singer 35 years ago, died Friday. At 17, she sang at the opening of the University Ave. armories in Toronto. Later as a member of the World-LaDell concert tour, Miss World travelled across Canada, singing frequently in isolated rural and mining communities.

Dieppe Raid Vital Crerar Tells Legion

LONDON, Ont., April 7 (CP)—The contribution made by Canadians to the success of World War Two in the Dieppe raid cannot be over-estimated and this country must ever be proud of this achievement, General H D. G. Crear, former commander of the First Canadian Army, said Friday night.

General Crerar, honorary president of the Canadian Legion, spoke at the Vimy Day banquet here of the Vimy Legion branch.

"When the Allies landed on the Normandy beaches for the gigantic invasion of occupied Europe, the methods and techniques bought and paid for in Canadian blood at Dieppe made that operation possible," Gen. Crerar said.

Boost Employment

PETIT DE GRAT, N.S. (CP)—A cold storage plant which is expected to provide year-round employment for a large number of local workers will be erected here this summer. The plant will be operated by Booth Fisheries.

Unemployment Down In March

OTTAWA, April 7 (CP) — The number of Canadians seeking employment at National Employment Service offices declined by 3,300 during the first three weeks of March, the labor department announced Friday.

Those registered at March 22 totalled 293,400 compared with 424,100 a year ago. Job vacancies rose to 39,900 from 37,700.

In Ontario the improvement was general with a drop of 5,600 in the number of persons registered. Largest declines were among carpenters, painters, taxi and truck drivers, metal workers and general unskilled labor.

Generosity Costs $50

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 7 (CP)—Edmund Turcotte, 19, said in court Friday that 5,000 American cigarettes he had smuggled into Canada were intended for distribution to members of his family and relatives in Petawawa. He pleaded guilty to violating the Customs Act and was fined $50

Credit Unions To Feel Restriction Effects

TORONTO, April 7 — (CP) — Ontario credit unions may notice the effects of government restrictions on instalment-buying in the next four months, J. M. Best, president of the Ontario Credit Union League, told the annual meeting Friday.

"Since a great many Credit Union Loans are made for the purpose of instalment buying, the demand will probably be cut considerably from now on," he said.

Representatives of 184 credit unions—slightly less than half those in Ontario—rejects a resolution to transfer the assets and liabilities of their central credit department to the year-old Ontario Co-operative Credit Socley.

Resist Pressure

STRATFORD, April 7 (CP)—Perth county councillors divided Friday on the margarine question. Council eventually approved a legislation committee report taking no action on a resolution from the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers' Association asking that all grants be withheld from institutions having any dealing with margarine.

Say Experience On Broadway Help For Oscar

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 7 (AP)—Notes and comments on the Hollywood scene:

This week Hollywood was still talking about the 1950 Academy Awards. And the conclusion many people reached was: "If you want an Oscar, do it on Broadway first."

This is no hard-and-fast rule, but it is certainly borne out by this year's returns. Judy Holliday won the palm for the role she played for three years on Broadway. Jose Ferrer got a lengthy break-in for his Cyrano film job by playing it on the stage, too. And Josephine Hull had four years on the stage to work into her role in Harvey.

Only George Sanders among the winning actors did not play a role he had created on the stage.

"The Thing"

It looks as though Hollywood has a new way to combat television — scare 'em into the theatres. This week Hollywood was given the first glimpse of "The Thing" (from another world).

It's a shocker in documentary style and harks back to the finest tradition of the early Dracula and Frankenstein efforts.

And that's not all. We'll soon be seeing the destruction of the world in a film called "When Worlds Collide." And now they're whipping up something called "The Day the Earth Stood Still," in which all heck will break loose.

I called on Dick Powell on the "One Never Knows" set this week and we discussed the low salaries being paid some of the newer stars.

"It's nothing new," he said. "When I was brought out here, Warners paid me $500 a week. I had been earning at least $1,000 in Pittsburgh.

"After they put me in 'Blessed Event,' they said they'd like to keep me on, but they could only pay me $300. I did '42nd Street' and 'Golddiggers of 1933' at that salary."

Needless to say, Mr. Powell is getting more than $300 a week today.

US Officials Condemn Canadian Stock Flood

NEW YORK, April 7—(AP)—The executive committee of the National Association of Securities Administrators condemned Friday "the unlawful offering and sale to citizens of the United States of certain types of so-called securities" from Canada.

It said that the offerings "principally from the Canadian province of Ontario" had reached such a volume " as to imperil and possibly disrupt the free relations and common interests of the peoples of Canada and the United States."

William C. King, president of the association and director of the securities division of the Virginia State Corporation Commission, said the securities were generally in oil, gold, uranium and other mining ventures located in Canada.

Luncheon Meeting Attendance 80 Of Art Association

An innovation in the form of the annual meeting of the Women's Art Association Friday brought the general meetings of this group to an outstanding finale.

Buffet luncheon was served in the YWCA Green Room with 80 ladies attending, making an almost complete membership representation. The tea was poured by past president Mrs. J. E. R. Munro.

Parties of four accommodated at the 20 small tables spent a most enjoyable luncheon hour together, then were highly entertained with a short program by some members of the Music Study Club.

Miss Mabel Clarry led the group in two French Canadien songs, Pledge the Canadian Maiden and Gay As The Rose. Mrs. G. W. Craw was at the piano and the singers were Mrs. James Goldie, Mrs. F. E. Hooper, Mrs. H. V. Dobson, Mrs. J. H. Matthews, Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. E. V. Morphet, Mrs. A. B. Burrows, Mrs. N. E. Crowe and Mrs. A. E. Barrie.

Two pleasing numbers, "Turkish Market" and "Spanish Dance" were then presented in piano duets by Mrs. W. R. Philp and Mrs. R. R. Baker.

Pleasure of the audience in each case was expressed by president Mrs. N. D. Seaton who was wearing a very lovely corsage of Talisman roses sent to her by the members as a token of their appreciation of her leadership.

This luncheon was so enjoyed that it is quite likely to become an annual event Mrs. Seaton indicated.

"Discretion" Most Vital Says Madame

OTTAWA, April 7. (CP). — Madame Vincent Auriol, wife of the President of France, put a finger to her lips and whispered "discretion."

That's what she thinks the wife of a public figure must possess above everything else.

It was the first question asked at a half-hour interview. Some 40 newspaper women attended the conference held at the French Embassy in the second-floor sitting-room of Madame Hubert Guerin, wife of France's ambassador to Canada.

But in no time at all it had become a party with questions on everything from the interests of French women to what kind of dress Madame Auriol was wearing.

The dress was silk, hand-made and designed by Christian Dior. The pattern—in grey-blues, red and a touch of yellow—was enlarged butterfly wings.

Likes Big Hats

Through an interpreter Madame Auriol explained that she didn't bring 130 dresses as has been reported. Actually her wardrobe contains around 30—and a half-dozen hats. She likes large hats, she confessed. But they are difficult to pack.

Quick and vivacious, France's first lady has chestnut hair and distinguishing white locks at either temple, a ready smile and a humorous tilt to her mouth.

Madame Auriol's brown eyes twinkled as she fingered a pearl necklace and confessed to wondering what newspaper reporters and photographers would have done had they discovered her Wednesday night. A few minutes before the train left New York for Ottawa, she was eating lunch in a cafeteria.

As she sipped tea with lemon, Madame Auriol told the group that some "60 per cent" of the women of France have jobs—in industry or professions. This was particularly true in Paris.

Life was "difficult" for French women—even in small things. They didn't have cars or refrigerators as the women of Canada.

She thought that the possibility of a third war has been most uppermost in the minds of French women during recent months.

Madame Auriol laughed when asked about her painting, one of several hobbies.

She wanted it clearly understood that it's merely a hobby, nothing more. She doesn't consider herself an artist.

Madame Auriol is average height, and extremely young looking for her 55 years. She bears a striking resemblance to Mrs. George Drew.

Booklet Tells How To Cook Alone And Survive It

OTTAWA, April 7—The business girl who leaves home and sets up housekeeping alone or with another girl often finds difficulty in deciding how to shop and cook in small quantities. She runs into problems when she has to plan small meals, and it is all too easy to waste food. If her new home just sports a small kitchenette, she may run amuck in buying far more than she needs in utensils, pots, pans and gadgets.

"Meals for One or Two," a small booklet compiled by the Department of National Health and Welfare, which can be obtained from the local Department of Health, Water St., is a treasury of information for the girl (or bachelor) who is faced with the problem of cooking in small quantities. The booklet, which may be obtained free of charge upon request, starts out with "What the Well-dressed Kitchenette Contains" and gives a list of the things that are necessary—from the grill to the grater, from forks to frying pan. It even suggests ways of keeping food cool without ice.

The list of things to be kept on the wisely-stocked storage shelf looks small compared with grandma's sealer-filled cellar, but at least it contains enough to keep a hostess from losing face when an unexpected visitor drops in.

Advice on the foods to eat for health is offered in an attractive menu-for-the-week. How to shop for meat without having to ask the butcher if it should be boiled, fried, stewed or roasted is the theme of another section. How to cook various foods and how many servings may be obtained from each ounce or pound is information that should prove a boon and help many a young woman to cook for herself and survive it.

More 'Phones

on Monaghan Rd. from Romaine St. south to Lansdowne St. and on Lansdowne St. west from Monaghan Rd. to Erskine Ave.

On Park St. south of Lansdowne St., men are going to pick up the cable and string it along Utilities Commission poles being put on the west side of the street south to almost the Otonabee River.

How many phones are going to be eventually hooked up to these new cables? Well, the buried cable along Park St. carried 303 pairs of lines, which means 303 phones. In the Aylmer St. conduits there are 606 pairs of lines. The conduits are built in lengthwise sections with junction points at street intersections under the manhold covers so that new cables can be pulled through when there is a need for new phone lines.

In reinforcing cable being strung across Romaine St. there are 404 pairs of lines. A 404-pair cable is about the heaviest strung up on poles.

Lead to Branch Lines

These new heavy feeder cables are merely leading to branch lines alongs streets. The branch lines on posts, or aerial cable work, as the engineers refer to it, has been mostly done, especially in the new sub-division west of Monaghan Rd. south.

When work in the south end is done, the telephone men will move north to Weller St. A 606-pair buried cable is going to go from the office out Hunter St. to Reid St. and from there to the corner of Weller and Park Sts. and then out Weller to Monaghan Rd., still underground. At that corner it will connect up with existing buried cable on the west side of Monaghan Rd. up into Wallace Heights.

With that done, the crew will move to Reid St. Through the underground cable system, they will run out Hunter St. to Reid St. and up Reid St. with a 404-pair buried cable to the Chemong highway at the junction of Reid and Stewart Sts.

From that corner, they will string line in air out as far as the township road half way up the hill to the road which leads to the Ontario Provincial Police radio tower.

This cable will help relieve the load on the Chemong park, Bridgenorth buried cable which is served by the city office.

Another Big Project

The fourth major project will reinforce the underground system north on George St. to Parkhill Rd. and across to Water St. From that corner north on Water St., aerial line will be strung as far as the waterworks.

An aerial line will also be strung up Barnardo Ave. to serve that area. This last project might not be finished this year.

Besides these major projects there will be other minor projects. Western Heights, the new subdivision near the Western Ave., Toronto highway corner will be supplied.

One of the most noticeable effects of this work will be the disappearance of poles on Reid St. and Barnardo Ave. district. The poles will be moved to the rear of the lots instead of along the streets.

However, there is a big "if" to all these plans. And the if is cable. The cable situation is getting worse and worse, Mr. Sayer said. The reason is that the government is restricting the use of copper, which is the metal in all electric wire.

There is some work also planned in some of the six town offices in the Peterborough district. These are Omemee, Lakefield, Norwood, Havelock, Hastings and Campbellford.

In Havelock and Norwood, the telephone is working with the Hydro Electric Power Commission in a project which is installing all new electric equipment in those towns. One of the effects will be that telephone lines will be taken off poles on the main business blocks and put underground. In both these towns there are very few applications waiting for phones.

In Lakefield, the work is to fill in gaps in the system. Both Omemee and Hastings are in good shape and nothing will be done there. Work in Campbellford will be deferred to 1952, nothing will be done this year.

In these six towns and the districts surrounding them there are only 33 people waiting for phones. The Peterborough office has 597 people waiting for phones. Of these 485 are wanted by city people and 112 by rural residents. Of course these figures change from day to day as people move and the scene shifts a little.

One thing was sure, said Mr. Baker, Bell Telephone was in the phone business and they wanted to provide phones for just as many people as they can. But shortage of material is holding them back and they don't like it any more than do the people who have been unable to get a phone.

Interest in Arts Continues Through 46 Years

Secretary Mrs. H. L. Bamforth's report of the '50-'51 season of the Peterborough Women's Art Association, presented at the annual meeting Friday afternoon, covered its 46th successive year. That it continues to show keen interest in the arts and to broaden its cultural aspects is a fine record of achievement.

Treasurer Mrs. H. R. Sills gave an accounting of the financial situation at close of this season. She was thanked for her careful work and then tribute was paid to former treasurer Mrs. L. M. Brooks who was in charge of the money for a number of years.

A detailed report was given by corresponding secretary Mrs. H. L. Barns.

Arts and Crafts Guild activities of this year were reported by Mrs. L. Martin who said four handicraft meetings were held at Dixon House and four others at members' homes. Miss M. Lees reported the Art Study Club held seven meetings at which members studied Primitive and Modern Sculpture.

The report of the Literary Study Club, prepared by Miss Ila Giles, said the study of 19th century English literature had been continued the past season. George Bernard Shaw's work has been chosen for study next year. Mrs. O. J. Frisken reported for the Home Arts Group which had a good winter season with average attendance of 17 at the meetings which followed the pre-appointed schedule.

In Mrs. Charles Allen's report for the Music Study Club she said members had studied the classic period, oratorio, opera and great composers. They had also presented programs for the Christmas musicale and luncheon meeting.

Report of the nominating committee was given by Mrs. H. R. Scott.

Mrs. N. D. Seaton, president for the past six years, was re-elected. Comment on the sacrifice of personal affairs by Mrs. Seaton in fulfilling this position was made and she was given a unanimous vote of thanks.

Vice-presidents Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. W. G. Ovens and Mrs. F. E. Hooper were also re-elected, and Mrs. John Harper of Toronto is again to be the honorary president.

Secretaries are Mrs. H. L. Bamforth, Mrs. R. J. Bolton and Mrs. O. C. Simmers, and the treasurers, Mrs. H. R. Sills, Mrs. R. G. Maniece and Mrs. B. L. Barns.

Members' representatives are Mrs. Jas. Turnbull, Mrs. Jas. Matthews, and Mrs. R. V. Kenny. Archivist is Mrs. Ford Turner, exhibition Mrs. R. R. Baker and pianist Mrs. G. N. Moncrief.

It was asked that suggestions for the '51-'52 program to be given any member of the executive.

Wife Needs Husband's Help To Make Marriage Success

Making marriage a success is a job that the average husband wishes off on his wife. That is why so many marriages go blooey because it is a contract too big for any woman to handle without help. It takes teamwork to do it. No woman alone and unaided can pull off the stunt of a happy marriage. She has to have a husband to help her.

Dorothy Dix

Yet it is the custom of husbands to duck all responsibility for the outcome of their marriages beyond supporting them. After a man has paid the bills he feels that he has done his full duty and he passes the buck to his wife. He washes his hands of the whole matrimonial business, sits back and expects her to make a blooming success of it.

If she doesn't, he lays the whole blame on her. If they don't prosper, it is the wife's fault. If they don't get along together, she is the trouble-maker. If marriage doesn't come up to his expectation and he regrets his bargain, she was the one who lured him into it. If the atmosphere of their home is dull and discouraging, she is the Mrs. Gloom who depresses things. He even lays the blame of his philandering on her because she let herself get old and fat and has lost her complexion and her figure.

The Old Alibi

"The woman thou gavest me, SHE did it," has been the alibi of every husband from Adam down to the present day when things went wrong domestically and a marriage went on the rocks. Husband is always the innocent victim. Wife always leads the home-wrecking crew and husband is never responsible for the tragedy that has happened.

Apparently it does not occur to men that the way their marriages turn out depends far more upon themselves than it does upon their wives. They are, in reality, the responsible party, being as a general thing older than the girls they marry, with more worldly knowledge and experience and being besides clothed with the authority that being the legal head of the house gives them. Hence, if they are willing to take the time and the trouble, they can set the pattern of their marital life, and they can develop their wives pretty much into being whatever they wish them to be.

But few men have the patience and the wisdom to do this. They prefer to trust their marriages to luck. They are not willing to work for results. They don't even attempt to train their wives along the lines they want them to follow. Then they wonder why they went bankrupt in a business that they trusted to chance.

Consider the things that men want most in marriage. First, the love of their wives. They want their wies to be affectionate, demonstrative, admiring, flattering, just as they were during the days of courtship, and to keep themselves looking glamorous.

They're Not Lovers

But do they keep their wives lovers by being lovers themselves? You can't play Juliet without a responsive Romeo. A woman can't put much passion into kissing a man who turns the back of his ear to her and whose return kiss is as flabby as a cold pancake. Nor can she feel much enthusiasm about dolling herself up for a husband who never notices what she has on and who treats her as if she were a part of the household furniture. Yet thousands of husbands who complain of their wives have let the fire of love go out in their wives' hearts because they never stoked it.

Men want their wives to be companions to them, but they never read with them; they never pal up with them; they never make confidantes of them; they never take them out in the evening unless they are gadgered into doing it; they never even talk at home unless company comes in. Half the husbands live in one world and their wives in another, and they bore each other because they know so little of each other's real interests that they have nothing to talk about.

Men want their wives to be thrifty, but instead of teaching them how to live on a budget and spend wisely, all that they do is to raise a row when the bills come in, and as the wife thinks that she had as well be hanged for a sheep as a lamb, she buys extravagantly.

A man wants his wife to be a good cook. Easy enough for him to secure himself delectable food if he will only take an interest in planning menus and discussing sauces, and if he will celebrate her triumphs instead of berating her because she can't make pies like mother used to make, and gobbling down a dinner she has spent hours in preparing without even noticing it.

Men want a cheerful, happy home, but how can it be happy unless the husband contributes part of the joy? No woman can smile enough for two, nor lift the gloom in a house that harbors a grouch. So, gentlemen, if you wish your marriages to be be successes, you must get busy on the job yourselves.

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: Would you please send me a calorie chart? I read your column and enjoy it.

Some while ago I noticed you advised some one to use hot milk in making escalloped potatoes to prevent curdling. Some years ago I discovered if I made a thin white sauce, and pour some over each few layers instead of milk and flour, that it made a very smooth and delicious escallope. Also you can use ⅓ water in this instead of all milk. I thought you might find this a useful hint to pass on to your readers.

Mrs. T. H. G.

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWER: It is useful, and thank you. I have sent the calorie chart.

✣ ✣ ✣

QUESTION: Would you please advise me on pie dough. My recipe is 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon G. sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ lb. lard and milk to make dough stick. I put it in refrigerator to chill and I can't roll it out, it all breaks. I forgot to say I wrap it tight in wax paper.

When I make a pie or tarts I have to put the pastry in tart tins or in pie dish and chill it them put it in oven. But I think this seems to dry the pastry. I have a friend who uses the same recipe as I do and she leaves her pastry in refrigerator for a week or 2 weeks before she uses it. Could you advise me what my trouble is.

Would you also enclose a low calorie list. I have seen in paper where you have sent them. Thanking you. (Mrs.) W. J. W.

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWER: I have sent the calorie chart. Good pastry that may be stored in the refrigerator is a cinch—especially for anyone with the accurate habits that you have.

✣ ✣ ✣

Plain Pastry

(This may be used at once or stored in air-tight tin in refrigerator and used within one week.)

Three cups sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup (one-half pound) best quality vegetable shortening or lard, ½ cup ice cold water. Sift together flour and salt into mixing bowl. Remove one-half cup of mixture. Cut lard or shortening into small pieces and add it to the flour in bowl. Blend together with finger tips or two knives or pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse oatmeal. Add the ice water to the reserved ⅓ cup flour until it is a paste, then drop this paste over the surface of the flour-lard mixture. Mix it in with a fork. Pastry will still appear somewhat crumbly. Tip it out onto large piece of wax paper and wrap it up in it. Wrap in tea towel and put in tin canister, or open-mouthed glass jar with tight cover. Chill. Roll out pieces from this as required. Bake pastry in very hot oven to begin with. I like to start a pie at 475 deg. Fahr. and reduce heat to 400 or 375 to finish it.

✣ ✣ ✣

QUESTION: Would you please be so kind as to send me one of the calorie charts.

I read your column and enjoy it very much. Would you please print some easy everyday dessert recipes? Mrs. L. S.

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWER: I have sent the calorie chart.

I hope the selections I have made for simple desserts please you. Please keep your eye on the column for more of same.

✣ ✣ ✣

Delicate Cornstarch Pudding

Four cups whole milk, 5 tablespoons sugar, 3 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Scald 3½ cups of the milk in top of double boiler. Mix together the sugar, cornstarch and salt and add the remaining ½ cup milk to them to make a smooth paste. Stir this into the hot milk until smooth and thick. Cover. Cook 20 minutes over boiling water, stirring occasionally. Beat the yolks and pour a little of the cooked mixture over them, stirring, then stir the egg yolk mixture into the hot cornstarch mixture and cook for 2 minutes longer. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Then beat the leftover egg whites with 1 tablespoon sugar and when pudding is somewhat cooler fold them into it. Pour into stemmed glasses to chill.

To vary this serve topped with fresh fruit or nuts or cooked fruit. OR serve over strips of stale cake, when it would be much like a trifle. Chopped dates may be added to the mixture before it is first cooked.

✣ ✣ ✣

Easy Rhubarb Pudding

Three slices white bread—fresh or stale, 1 cup diced rhubarb (or apples), ⅓ cup brown sugar, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 egg, ¼ cup sugar, 1 cup whole milk. Cut the bread in ½-inch cubes. Place half of them in a buttered baking dish. Add the rhubarb and sprinkle it with the sugar and nutmeg. Top with remaining bread cubes and dot with the butter. Beat the egg and add the sugar and milk to it. Pour this over contents of baking dish. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes or until custard is set. This is good hot or cold with cream or whole milk.

Obituary

MRS. WALTER FISHER

A lifetime resident of Peterborough, Mrs. Mary Ann Fisher, died today in hospital following a short illness. She lived formerly on the site of the new City Hall Square, Water St., and latterly with her daughter in South Monaghan township, Mrs. Frank Buckham. Mrs. Fisher was born in that township, daughter of the late Andrew Finnie and Jane Chambers. Her husband, predeceased her in 1943.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Frank Buckham (Lillian) of South Monaghan, and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Dawson of Bailieboro and Mrs. James Finnie of St. Mary's. There are four grandchildren W. C. Buckham of Millbrook, Miss Mary Buckham of Toronto, John of Sudbury and Harold of South Monaghan.

Mrs. Fisher was a member of George Street United Church, an active worker of its women's Auxiliary and life member of the Women's Missionary Society.

Funeral will be held on Monday from the Comstock Funeral Home to George Street United Church for service at 3:30 p.m. The casket will be taken to the church at 1:30 p.m. The Rev. A. A. Mathews will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

PCVS Band

were marked by a nice sense of rhythm.

The band opened with "Stout Hearted Man" by Romberg, and the favorite "The Man I Love" by Gershwin. The Frans Lehar waltz "Gold and Silver", Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Lead Kindly Light", The Parade of the Tin Soldiers and In A Monastery Garden showed the capabilities of the band.

Its brass is outstanding, and the reeds were effective in their assignment.

Annual graduations from the band must be a problem to Mr. Croasdale, but in spite of that handicap at the beginning of the academic year, the PCVS bands since their inception have demonstrated the soundness of the Board of Education's original hope and purpose of affording musical training to responsive students.

The present members are:

C Flute—Melville Barns.

Oboe—Terry Whyte.

Clarinets—Roger Ingall, Don Curtis, Robert Ross, Harvey McFadyen, Beverley Richardson, Martin Thompson, Alan Doleman.

Saxophones—Joyce Beals, Jack Veenman.

Prices Climb On Stock Market After Nine Weeks

By BILL DANIELS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Prices turned quietly upward on stock markets this week. It was the best display of strength in nine weeks and prices generally were back to their levels of four weeks ago.

Trading, however, now has completed seven weeks of slow dealings. Investors still remain hesitant to establish a stand and several sessions during the week had new lows in volume.

The inactivity indicated this: whether the bull market, which came to halt six weeks ago, is going to continue again—or whether it has come to a permanent stop—is in no way decided.

Go Easy

Brokers were still recommending, as they have for some time, careful selecting of stocks and a go-easy policy. Of course there were those who claimed that the spring slump is now over and brighter days are ahead. There were the bears who said the market looked vulnerable and would soon go lower.

But the majority of observers seemed of the opinion that the present sluggishness of the market will continue for a while yet and cautious trading is the best thing to do.

In New York The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.50 for the week at $94.30. Stock prices there ended last week by easing slowly on Saturday.

Wednesday Rally

New York prices fell off Monday and Tuesday and then rallied Wednesday in the routine way they've been doing for the last few months. One thing not routine, though, was the late strength in railroads.

Leadership by rails both on the upside and the downside has been a feature in New York for the last two months. When they took command, everybody followed. Thursday the entire market shot ahead with rails in the forefront in one of the best advances of the year.

But yesterday, while rails faltered and made one of the poorest showings of any major group, the rest of the market gathered strength and extended Wednesday's gains.

Industrials Show

On Canadian markets industrials held the limelight. They attracted most of the investors' attention and led the price trend. Mining issues were mostly dormant and slightly ahead, except for golds which drifted slightly downward to about their lowest average of the year.

On Monday Canadian prices eased in extremely quiet trading. Then Tuesday a tingle of support appeared and they were about evenly balanced. The mixed and narrow trend carried into Wednesday's session but towards the close there were signs of increased buying. Prices jumped upward at the opening bell Thursday and continued advancing throughout all that day and through all of yesterday.

Strongest single group on Canadian markets was the paper section. From Friday the Montreal average for papers was up 27.15 at 773.16. Industrials added 4.2 at 218, banks eased 0.23 at 30.25, utilities were off 0.4 at 88.4, combined were up 2.6 at 174.8 and golds declined 1.04 at 65.68.

The Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials up 6.38 at 326.90, golds down 1.60 at 8.33, base metals up 1.92 at 178.18 and Western Oils up 1.21 at 106.93.

Farmer Shoots Bull, May Face Charges

KINGSTON, April 7 (CP) —A bull-shooting episode may result in charges against a Wolfe Island farmer, police said Friday.

A purebred Holstein bull, valued at $500 and owned by N. J. Docteur, wandered onto the property of a neighbor who opened fire with a shotgun when it

Given 20 Days Knife Slashing

WINDSOR, April 7 (CP)—Barney O'Connor was found guilty Friday of the slashing attack on union official Sam Kain last Feb. 17.

Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan acquitted Tony Rainone, Helen Coper and Judy Parent on similar charges.

O'Connor was sentenced to 20 days.

The face of Kain, an official of Local 195 United Automobile Workers (CIO) was disfigured in a fight outside a suburban tavern.

O'Connor's record of seven convictions, dating back to 1945, was read into the court record. The list included other assault cases.

Morris Kaim, who appeared for O'Connor said "undoubtedly Kain will be suing O'Connor in civil court. I submit it is proper for the court to consider that O'Connor will be the target in a civil suit.

Magistrate MacMillan said he considered this when he fixed the 20-day penalty.

Special Leave

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, April 7 — (CP). — The Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent was greeted by a crew member Friday when she arrived with the destroyer Micmas on a spring training cruise. Mohammed Sheriff Shah, a Trinidad-born pilot serving on Canada's capital ship, received special leave to fly from the decks of the Maggie yesterday to see his parents.

Bakeries Charged

CALGARY, April 7 (CP). — Presentation of Crown evidence ended Friday in the trial of six Western baking concerns. The companies are charged with conspiracy to prevent or lessen trade between 1933 and 1950. The Crown's presentation lasted more than 13 weeks. Submission of evidence starts Monday.

Poultry Plan

REGINA, April 7 — (CP). — The possibility of establishing a national poultry marketing plan was studied Friday at a meeting sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. Representatives of farm organizations in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia met to co-ordinate proposed provincial plans.

Freighters To Lakes

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)— The defence transport administration Friday announced plans for sending three large cargo vessels from the Atlantic coast to the Great Lakes, via the Mississippi river.

The ships are badly needed on the lakes to swell the iron-ore fleet, so that steel mills can be kept going full blast.

U.S., Reds Clash Over Armament

PARIS, April 7 (AP)—United States delegate Philip Jessup and Russia's Andrei Gromyko conducted a no-decision argument Friday over the lessons to be drawn from the League of Nation's long tussle with armament issues.

"It was just a lot of lip," a western spokesman said in referring to the 24th session of the big four deputy foreign ministers. "They are going to meet again at 10.90 a.m. tomorrow."

The spokesman said Jessup took up a declaration by Gromyko Wednesday that the League of Nations had always approached the question of "the level of armament" by the principle of "reduction of armament." The Russians want the big four to take that approach.

The American said the Russian's declaration was wrong, that the league's approach was through the level of arms. He sought, accordingly, to convince Gromyko that the arms level should come first on the foreign ministers' agenda.

"Gromqko saw he was hooked," the spokesman said, "so he switched arguments."

No Troops Stationed In Manchuria—Moscow

LONDON, April 7 (AP)—Russia said Friday night there are no Soviet troops in Manchuria.

The Moscow radio said the official news agency Tass was authorized to deny reports in the American press that Soviet troops are being concentrated in Manchuria. These reports, Tass said, are "invented and slanderous."

Eight Candidates

CHARLOTTETOWN, April 7—(CP). — Eight more candidates —two Liberals and six Progressive Conservatives—were nominated Friday to contest seats in the provincial general election scheduled for April 26. The Progressive Conservative Party held three conventions Froday, making a total of 20 candidates now in the field.

Two Townships Find County Levy Increased

Though county estimates for the year are $30,328 less than last year, two municipalities have found their levy raised. Both are northern townships that have had a stricter assessment during the past year.

The biggest jump is in Galway-Cavendish where the levy is $2,662 instead of $1,641, an increase of $1,021.

Burleigh-Anstruther will have to pay $58 more to the county clerk and treasurer. In 1950 its share of the $210,512 estimates was $2,009. This year the money required for county purposes is $180,183 and Burleigh - Anstruther's share is $2,068.

Mill Rate 14.24

The equalized assessment has risen from $11,093,493 in 1950 to $12,300,477 in 1951. But the mill rate has dropped 4.24 mills to 14.24.

Much of the increase is from old property re-evaluated, and, particularly in the northern townships, from new assessment. A substantial amount was picked up through previously unlisted summer properties.

Here is a summary of the estimates:

Hospital grants $23,508.15, 1.911 mills; roads $67,258.98, six mills; bridges $6,150.24, .5 mills; Civic Hospital debenture $10,051.99, .817 mills; Chemong causeway $7,464.50, .606 mills; and general $56,470.32, 4.59 mills. The addition of $9,279.10 for education (not calculated on the mill rate) brings the budget total to $180,183.28, with the 14.424 mill rate.

Following are the individual levies on the municipalities for the years 1950 and 1951.

Municipality.	1950 Total	1951 Total

WILDLIFE WEEK—Next week, April 8-14, has been set aside as Canada's National Wildlife Week, to emphasize the necessity for conservation of the Dominion's wildlife resources. Postmarks on mail from 11 principal cities will carry the slogan: "Conserve Canada's Wildlife." The observance in large part is in memory of the late Jack Miner, famous naturalist.

Organize Wildlife Week As Tribute To Jack Miner

OTTAWA, April 7 (CP)—Take a good look at the cancellation stamp on the letters you receive next week.

It carries a message which the Resources Department, and no doubt every other animal and bird in this country, hopes will be engraved permanently in the minds and hearts of all Canadians.

The message is "Conserve Canada's Wildlife." You'll hear a lot about it next week, April 8-14, from the pulpit, over the air waves, in schools, theatres, clubs and social gatherings all over Canada.

The occasion is National Wildlife Week, a period of time set aside to pay homage to the late Jack Miner, famed conservationist, and to the animals that he loved.

The Post Office Department, this year, has decided to lend a hand in bringing home the message of conservation to Canadians. Every letter originating in 11 major cities, from Vancouver to St. John's, Nfld., will for the first time bear the cancellation stamp, "Conserve Canadian Wildlife."

Special Appeal

A special appeal, to guard against the depletion of the creatures that roam through the woods, is made by Dr. H. F. Lewis, chief of the Resources Department Wildlife Service.

Picture, he says in an interview, a world made up of city streets alone.

"We might possibly survive by producing what we needed to eat in scientific farms on building tops, but sportsmen could no longer hunt and mankind would be deprived, not only of this recreation, but of all the beauty of the natural world.

"The grace and vigor of wild animals would be gone, the majestic flights of migrating fowl would vanish from our skies . . . It is only when we think of what life would be like without these gifts of nature that it is possible to realize to the full extent how necessary it is to start, no, to see that we do not lost them."

And what is the situation today in the wildlife world while Canadians mark national wildlife week, 1951?

Among our best known animals the beaver and the muskrat, have taken on a new lease of life. In Quebec's James Bay-Abitibi preserves, under scientific management, the beaver has been brought from virtual depletion to a planned crop of 20,000 in 1951.

Thriving also are the canny coyote and brer wolf. Deer are plentiful, says the resources department. The annual take in Nova Scotia alone is more than 30,000.

But reports are not so good in other quarters. Large herds of migratory caribou still roam the barren lands of the northwest territories, but they have vanished from some of their natural haunts. This has made it tougher for Eskimos to get skins and food.

The gamey woodcock has not fully recovered from heavy losses in the severe winter of 1940, and while all shore birds have been protected for years, their increase is slow.

The whooping crane is faring worst of all. Only 32 of Canada's rarest birds are alive in this country.

Rookie Cop Charged With Theft Of Cars

TORONTO, April 7 (CP) — Frederick Street, 22, a rookie constable on the Toronto police force, was arrested last night on two charges of car theft. Later, Kenneth Trimble, 21, also was charged.

Street was suspended from the force and held on $2,000 bail.

After weeks of investigation, detectives traced improperly registered license plates and recovered one of the cars, stolen from a parking lot last month, in front of the house in which the two men lived.

Appeal Court Upholds Mentally Ill Finding

TORONTO, April 7 (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal Friday decided against reversing an order declaring a former Guelph area mining engineer mentally incompetent.

The engineer, Douglas Guy H. Wright, formerly of Georgetown, had sought to upset an order issued last Dec. 8 by Mr. Justice K. H. Barlow of the Ontario Supreme Court. Wright claimed he was unaware the order existed until he was released from a Guelph sanitorium March 10.

The appeal court found that there was "no error in the proceedings or in the making of the order." It suggested the man could be certified sane on final release from the institution, in a manner similar to the one by which he was declared mentally incompetent.

Full-Time Service Theme Of WMS Meet

OMEMEE, April 7 —(ENS)— The April meeting of the United Church WMS was held at the home of Mrs. H. Deyell. The opening hymn was followed by scripture reading by Mrs. Deyell and prayer by Mrs. S. Moyer.

The theme, "Recruiting for full-time service in the Church," was developed by Mrs. Moyer, assisted by group two members—Mrs. G. Overholt, Mrs. R. Clifford, Mrs. A. Rutherford, Mrs. H. Deyell, and Mrs. C. R. Vaughan. Since full time service is especially applicable to the younger church groups it was decided that the WMS president, Mrs. H. Graham, contact the president of YPU to consider arranging a joint meeting at which the Lindsay Presbyterial candidate secretary, Mrs. F. Reed, of Seabright, would be guest speaker.

Mrs. T. Pogue, Mrs. A. Weir, Mrs. W. Weir and Mrs. L. Casey sang a quartette, "He Lives"

Correspondence included thank-you messages from Mrs. C. G. Shaw and from Miss C. Connell. Also a letter from Miss Mary Haig of Japan, who is one of the society's missionaries, for special prayer.

The annual WMS Sunday evening service and Easter thankoffering was announced for Sunday, April 8. Mrs. R. Brooks and Mrs. S. Northey were appointed ushers.
